Resolution of Respect.

The following resolution of respect was offered:

By Senators Seawell, Slater, and Sharkey:

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Senate:

With sincere regret, particularly to those of us enjoying his friendship for many years, has come the word of the passing of former Senator Ernest Birdsall at his home in Auburn. We feel that the death of this scholar, statesman for more than the passing tribute of a sigh.

Ernest Birdsall was a member of this Senate for a number of years. He served at a time when some of the greatest legislative and political legislation has been written into the statutes of this State. He was conspicuous then, by reason of his unswerving loyalty to purpose and his desire to enrich and ennoble life so that conditions generally might be constructively improved. He was honest and straightforward, kind and sympathetic. It was a pleasure to have known Senator Birdsall. So that there may be imperishably written into the records of this Senate, its appreciation of his efficient public service; therefore be it

Resolved, by the Senate of the State of California: That now, in this resolution, express an appreciation of our friend and former colleague and request the Secretary of the Senate to forward a copy of this memorial to the bereaved family, that the same be inscribed in the Journal of this day; and be it further

Resolved, That when this Senate adjourns this day, it does so out of respect to the memory of the late Ernest Birdsall.

Resolution read, and on motion of Senators Slater, Seawell, and Sharkey, adopted unanimously by a rising vote.

Senate Bill No. 40—An act to provide for the levy and collection of a tax upon the incomes of individuals, estates and trusts, and to provide for the disposition of the revenues therefrom

Consideration of Committee Amendments.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Revenue and Taxation, the following amendments to Senate Bill No. 40 were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1, line 2, of the title of the printed bill, after "trusts," strike out the word "and".

Amendment No. 2.

On page 1, line 3, of the title of the printed bill, strike out the period and add the following: ", to make an appropriation for the administrative costs, and to provide that this act shall take effect immediately."

Amendment No. 3.

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out lines 1 to 14, both inclusive, and strike out all the remainder of said bill, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"SECTION 1. For the purposes of this act and unless otherwise required by the context:

1. The word "board" means the State Board of Equalization.
2. The word "taxpayer" includes any individual or fiduciary subject to the tax imposed by this act.

3. The word "fiduciary" means person or persons, trustee, executor, administrator, conservator, or any person, whether individual or corporate, acting in any fiduciary capacity for any person, estate or trust.

4. The word "person" includes individuals, fiduciaries, partnerships and corporations.

5. The word "corporation" includes joint stock companies or associations and insurance companies.

6. The words "taxable year" mean the calendar year or the fiscal year ending during such calendar year, upon the basis of which the net income is computed under this act. "Taxable year" includes, in the case of a return made for a fractional part of a year under the provisions of this act or under regulations prescribed by the State Board of Equalization, the period for which such return is made.

7. The words "fiscal year" mean an accounting period of twelve months ending on the last day of any month other than December.

8. The words "paid or incurred" and "paid-or-incurred" shall be construed according to the method of accounting upon the basis of which the net income is computed under this act.

9. The word "resident" includes every natural person domiciled in the State of California and every other natural person who maintains a permanent place of abode within this State or spends in the aggregate more than seven months of the taxable year within this State. The word "nonresident" includes every natural person other than a resident.

10. The words "foreign country" mean any jurisdiction other than one embraced within the United States. The words "United States" when used in a geographical sense, include the State, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii, the District of Columbia and the possessions of the United States.

11. The words "trade or business" include the performance of the functions of a public office.

SEC. 2. There shall be levied, collected and paid for each taxable year upon all the net income of every resident of this State and upon the net income of every nonresident which is derived from sources within this State, taxes in the following amounts and at the following rates upon the amount of net income in excess of credits against net income provided in section 7:

Upon a taxable net income not in excess of one thousand dollars, two per centum of such taxable net income.

Twenty dollars upon taxable net incomes of one thousand dollars; and upon taxable net incomes in excess of one thousand dollars and not in excess of two thousand dollars, three per centum in addition of such excess.

Fifty dollars upon taxable net incomes of two thousand dollars; and upon taxable net income in excess of two thousand dollars and not in excess of three thousand dollars, four per centum in addition of such excess.

Ninety dollars upon taxable net incomes of three thousand dollars; and upon taxable net incomes in excess of three thousand dollars and not in excess of four thousand dollars, five per centum in addition of such excess.

One hundred forty dollars upon taxable net incomes of four thousand dollars; and upon taxable net incomes in excess of four thousand dollars and not in excess of five thousand dollars, six per centum in addition of such excess.

Two hundred dollars upon taxable net incomes of five thousand dollars; and upon taxable net incomes in excess of five thousand dollars and not in excess of six thousand dollars, seven per centum in addition of such excess.

Two hundred seventy dollars upon taxable net incomes of six thousand dollars; and upon taxable net incomes in excess of six thousand dollars and not in excess of seven thousand dollars, eight per centum in addition of such excess.

Three hundred fifty dollars upon taxable net incomes of seven thousand dollars; and upon taxable net incomes in excess of seven thousand dollars and not in excess of eight thousand dollars, nine per centum in addition of such excess.

Four hundred forty dollars upon taxable net incomes of eight thousand dollars; and upon taxable net incomes in excess of eight thousand dollars and not in excess of nine thousand dollars, ten per centum in addition of such excess.

Five hundred forty dollars upon taxable net incomes of nine thousand dollars; and upon taxable net incomes in excess of nine thousand dollars and not in excess of twelve thousand dollars, twelve per centum in addition of such excess.

Nine hundred dollars upon taxable net incomes of twelve thousand dollars; and upon taxable net incomes in excess of twelve thousand dollars and not in excess of fifteen thousand dollars, fourteen per centum in addition of such excess.

One thousand three hundred twenty dollars upon taxable net incomes of fifteen thousand dollars; and upon taxable net incomes in excess of fifteen thousand dollars and not in excess of twenty thousand dollars, sixteen per centum in addition of such excess.

Two thousand one hundred twenty dollars upon taxable net incomes of twenty thousand dollars; and upon taxable net incomes in excess of twenty thousand dollars and not in excess of thirty thousand dollars, eighteen per centum in addition of such excess.

Three thousand nine hundred twenty dollars upon taxable net incomes of thirty thousand dollars; and upon taxable net incomes in excess of thirty thousand dollars and not in excess of fifty thousand dollars, twenty per centum in addition of such excess.

Seven thousand nine hundred twenty dollars upon taxable net incomes of fifty thousand dollars; and upon taxable net incomes in excess of fifty thousand dollars and not in excess of one hundred thousand dollars, twenty-two per centum in addition of such excess.

Eighteen thousand nine hundred twenty dollars upon taxable net incomes of one hundred thousand dollars; and upon taxable net incomes in excess of one hundred thousand dollars and not in excess of two hundred thousand dollars, twenty-three per centum in addition of such excess.

Forty-one thousand nine hundred twenty dollars upon taxable net incomes of two hundred thousand dollars; and upon taxable net incomes in excess of two hundred thousand dollars and not in excess of five hundred thousand dollars, twenty-four per centum in addition of such excess.

One hundred thirteen thousand nine hundred twenty dollars upon taxable net incomes of five hundred thousand dollars; and upon taxable net incomes in excess of five hundred thousand dollars, twenty-five per centum of such excess.

SEC. 3. The words "net income" mean the gross income computed under section 4 of this act less the deductions allowed by section 5 of this act.

SEC. 4. (a) Gross income includes gains, profits, and income derived from salaries, wages, or compensation for personal service, of whatever kind and in whatever form paid, or from professions, vocations, trades, businesses, commerce, or sales, or dealings in property, whether real or personal, growing out of the ownership or use of or interest in such property; also from interest, rent, dividends, securities, or the transaction of any business carried on for gain or profit, or gains or profits and income derived from any source whatever.

(b) The following items shall not be included in gross income and shall be exempt from taxation under this act:

(1) Items excluded from gross income under subdivisions (1), (2), (3), (5), and (6) of subsection (b) of section 22 of the Federal Revenue Act of 1934, which subdivisions are hereby referred to and incorporated with the same force and effect as though fully set forth herein.

(2) Income which this State is prohibited from taxing under the Constitution or laws of the United States of America or under the Constitution of this State.

(c) Whenever in the opinion of the board the use of inventories is necessary in order clearly to determine the income of any taxpayer, inventories shall be taken by such taxpayer upon such basis as the board may prescribe as conforming as nearly as may be to the best accounting practice in the trade or business and as most clearly reflecting the income.

(d) In the case of a sale or other disposition of property, the gain or loss shall be computed as provided in sections 111, 112 and 113 of said Revenue Act of 1934 which sections are hereby referred to and incorporated with the same force and effect as though fully set forth herein; provided, however, that for the purposes of estimate (but not the basis for depletion) shall be revised and the allowance under this subsection for subsequent taxable years shall be based upon such revised estimate. In the case of leases the deductions shall be equitably apportioned between the lessor and the lessee. In the case of property held by one person for life with remainder to another person, the deduction shall be computed as if the life tenant were the absolute owner of the property and shall be allowed to the life tenant. In the case of property held in trust the allowable deduction shall be apportioned between the income beneficiaries and the trustee in accordance with the pertinent provisions of the instrument creating the trust, or, in the absence of such provisions, on the basis of the trust income allocable to each. The percentage of depletion allowable under this subsection shall be computed in accordance with the provisions of subdivisions (3) and (4) of subsection (b) of section 114 of said Revenue Act of 1934 which subdivisions and the sections of said Revenue Act referred to therein are hereby referred to and incorporated with the same force and effect as though fully set forth herein.

(1) The basis upon which depletion, exhaustion, wear and tear, and obsolescence are to be allowed in respect of any property shall be as provided in section 114 of said Revenue Act of 1934 which section and all sections of said Revenue Act referred to therein are hereby referred to and incorporated with the same force and effect as though fully set forth herein; provided, however, that the word "commissioner" in said sections shall be deemed to mean "board" and the words "with the approval of the secretary" shall be deemed omitted.

(2) In the case of an individual, contributions or gifts made within the taxable year to or for the use of:

(1) The United States, any State, Territory or any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, for exclusively public purposes;

(2) A corporation, or trust, or community chest, fund, or foundation, organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual, and no substantial part of the activities of which is carrying on propaganda, or otherwise attempting to influence legislation;

(3) The special fund for vocational rehabilitation authorized by section 12 of the World War Veterans' Act, 1924;

(4) Posts or organizations of war veterans, or auxiliary units or societies of any such posts or organizations, if such posts, organizations, units, or societies are organized in the United States or any of its possessions, and if no part of their net earnings inures to the benefit of any private shareholder, or individual; or to an amount which in all the above cases combined does not exceed fifteen per centum of the taxpayer's net income as computed without the benefit of this subsection. Such contributions or gifts shall be allowed as deductions only if verified under rules and regulations prescribed by the board. In the case of an individual if in the taxable year and in each of the ten preceding taxable years the amount of the above contributions or gifts plus the amount of income, war profits, or excess profits taxes paid during such year in respect of preceding taxable years, exceeds ninety per centum of the taxpayer's net income for each such year, as computed without the benefit of this subsection then the fifteen per centum limit imposed herein shall not be applicable. In the case of a taxpayer other than a resident the deductions under this subsection shall be allowed only as to contributions or gifts made to corporations or associations incorporated by or organized under the laws of this State or to the vocational rehabilitation fund above mentioned or to this State or any political subdivision thereof for exclusively public purposes.

(k) In the case of any taxpayer the deductions permitted by subsection (a) of section 23 of said Revenue Act of 1934 and referred to and incorporated by subsection (a) of this section of this act, shall not be allowed if, and to the extent that they are connected with the production of income not taxable under this act, and proper apportionment and allocation of such deductions with respect to taxable and nontaxable income shall be determined under rules and regulations to be prescribed by the board.

(l) In the case of a taxpayer other than a resident the deductions allowed by this section shall unless otherwise provided in this section be allowed only if and to the extent that they are connected with the income arising from sources within this State and taxable under this act to a nonresident taxpayer, and the proper apportionment and allocation of the deductions with respect to sources of income within and without the State shall be determined under rules and regulations to be prescribed by the board.

Sec. 6. In computing net income no deduction shall in any case be allowed in respect of items referred to in subsections (a) and (b) of section 24 of said Revenue

Act of 1934 which subsections are hereby referred to and incorporated with the same force and effect as though fully set forth herein.

(a) The obligor of a covenant shall not be deemed a debtor for the payment of the tax imposed by this act, or the net tax paid pursuant to the tax covenant clause, nor shall such tax be included in the gross income of the obligee.

SEC. 7. There shall be allowed for the purpose of the tax on income provided the following credits against net income:

(a) In the case of a single person, a personal exemption of one thousand dollars, or in the case of his being a husband or a married person living with his wife or wife, a personal exemption of two thousand one hundred dollars.

A husband and wife living together shall receive but one personal exemption. The amount of such personal exemption shall be the thousand one hundred dollars. If such husband and wife make separate returns the personal exemption shall be taken by either or divided between them.

(b) Four hundred dollars for each person, other than husband or wife dependent upon and receiving his food supports from the taxpayer if such dependent person is under eighteen years of age or is incapable of self-support because of mental or physical defectiveness.

(c) If the status of the taxpayer, as so far as it affects the personal exemption or credit for dependents, changes during the taxable year, the personal exemption and credit shall be apportioned under rules and regulations prescribed by the board in accordance with the number of months before and after such change. For the purpose of such apportionment a fractional part of a month shall be disregarded unless it amounts to more than half a month in which case it shall be counted as a month.

SEC. 8. The net income shall be computed upon the basis of the taxpayer's annual accounting period (which may or may not vary as the case may be) in accordance with the method of accounting regularly employed in keeping the books of such taxpayer, but if no such method of accounting has been so employed or if the method employed does not clearly reflect the income, the computation shall be made in accordance with such method as the board of the State may elect to reflect the income. If the taxpayer's annual accounting period is other than a fiscal year as defined in section 1 or if the taxpayer has no annual accounting period or does not keep books, the net income shall be computed on the basis of the calendar year.

SEC. 9. The amount of all items of gross income shall be included in the gross income for the taxable year in which received by the taxpayer, income earned the methods of accounting permitted under section 8 of this act may, with reasonable care to be properly accounted for as of a different period. In the case of the death of the taxpayer there shall be included in computing net income for the taxable period in which falls the date of his death, amounts accrued up to the date of his death if not otherwise properly includable in respect of such period.

SEC. 10. The deductions and credits allowable for income tax shall be taken for the taxable year in which 'paid or accrued' or paid or incurred, depending upon the method of accounting upon the basis of which the net income is computed, unless in order clearly to reflect the income the deductions or credits should be taken as of a different period. In the case of the death of a taxpayer there shall be allowed as deductions and credits for the taxable period in which falls the date of his death, amounts accrued up to the date of his death if not otherwise properly allowable in respect of such period or a prior period.

SEC. 11. (a) Under regulations prescribed by the board a person who regularly sells or otherwise disposes of personal property on the installment plan may return as income therefrom in any taxable year that proportion of the installment payments actually received in that year which the gross profit realized or to be realized where payment is completed, bears to the total contract price.

(b) In the case (1) of a casual sale or other casual disposition of personal property (other than property of a kind which would properly be included in the inventory of the taxpayer if on hand at the close of the taxable year), for a price exceeding one thousand dollars, or (2) of a sale or other disposition of real property, if in either case the initial payments do not exceed thirty per centum of the selling price, the income may, under regulations prescribed by the board be returned on the basis and in the manner prescribed by this section. As used in this section the term 'initial payment' means the payments received in cash or property other than evidence of indebtedness of the purchaser during the taxable period in which the sale or other disposition is made.

(c) If a taxpayer entitled to the benefits of subsection (a) of this section elects for any taxable year to report his net income on the installment basis, then in computing his income for the year of change or any subsequent year, amounts actually received during any such year on account of sales or other dispositions of property made in any prior year shall not be excluded.

(d) If any installment obligation is satisfied at other than its face value or distributed, transmitted, sold or otherwise disposed of, gain or loss shall result to the extent of the difference between the basis of the obligation and (1) in the case of satisfaction at other than fair value of the property realized, or (2) in case of a distribution, transmission, or disposition otherwise than by sale or exchange—the fair market value of the obligation at the time of such distribution, transmission or disposition. Any gain or loss so resulting shall be considered as resulting from the sale or exchange of the property in respect of which the installment obligation was received. The basis of the obligation shall be the excess of the face value of the obligation over an amount equal to the income which would be returnable were the obligation satisfied in full. This subsection shall not apply to the transmission at death of installment obligations if there is filed with the board, at such time as it may by regulation prescribe, a bond in such amount and with such sureties as it may deem necessary, conditioned upon the return as income, by the person receiving any payment on such obligations, of the same proportion of such payment as would be returnable as income by the decedent if he had lived and had received such payment.

SEC. 12. In any case of two or more organizations, trades or businesses (whether or not incorporated, whether or not organized in this State, and whether or not affiliated) owned or controlled directly or indirectly by the same interests, the board is authorized to distribute, apportion, or allocate gross income or deductions between or among such organizations, trades, or businesses, if said board determines that such distribution, apportionment, or allocation is necessary in order to prevent evasion of taxes or clearly to reflect the income of any such organization, trades, or businesses.

SEC. 13. If a taxpayer changes his accounting period from fiscal year to calendar year, from calendar year to fiscal year, or from one fiscal year to another, the net income shall, with the approval of the board, be computed on the basis of such new accounting period subject to the provisions of section 14 of this act.

SEC. 14. (a) If a taxpayer, with the approval of the board, changes the basis of computing net income from fiscal year to calendar year a separate return shall be made for the period between the close of the last fiscal year for which return was made and the following December 31st. If the change is from calendar year to the fiscal year, a separate return shall be made for the period between the close of the last calendar year for which return was made and the date designated as the close of the fiscal year. If the change is from one fiscal year to another fiscal year a separate return shall be made for the period between the close of the former fiscal year and the date designated as the close of the new fiscal year.

(b) Where a separate return is made under subsection (a) of this section on account of a change in the accounting period, and in all other cases where separate return is required or permitted, by regulations prescribed by the board, to be made for a fractional part of a year, then the income shall be computed on the basis of the period for which separate return is made.

(c) If a separate return is made under subsection (a) of this section, on account of a change in the accounting period, the net income, computed on the basis of the period for which separate return is made, shall be placed on an annual basis by multiplying the amount thereof by twelve and dividing by the number of months included in the period for which the separate return is made. The tax shall be such part of the tax computed on such annual basis as the number of months in such period is of twelve months.

(d) The board shall by regulations prescribe the method of applying the provisions of subsections (b) and (c) (relating to computing income on the basis of a short period and placing such income on an annual basis) to cases where the taxpayer makes a separate return under subsection (a) on account of a change in the accounting period, and it appears that for the period for which the return is so made he has received.

(e) In the case of a return made for a fractional part of a year, except a return made under subsection (a), on account of a change in the accounting period, the personal exemption and the credit for dependents shall be reduced respectively to amounts which bear the same ratio to the full credits provided as the number of months in the period for which return is made bears to twelve months.

SEC. 15. The taxes imposed by this act shall apply to the income of estates or of any kind of property held in trust including the income referred to in subdivisions (1), (2), (3) and (4) of subsection (a) of section 161 of said Revenue Act of 1934 which subdivisions are hereby referred to and incorporated with the same force and effect as though fully set forth herein.

The tax shall be computed upon the net income of the estate or trust, and shall be paid by the fiduciary except as provided in sections 166 and 167 of said Revenue Act of 1934 which are hereby referred to and incorporated with the same force and effect as though fully set forth herein.

For the purposes of this section the word "settlor" shall mean and include every creator of a trust and every decedent and where in this section the settlor is spoken of as a resident or a nonresident the same shall be taken to include a decedent who upon his or her death is a resident or a nonresident as the case may be.

The taxable income of the estate is to be that taxable the following:

(1) The income from real property that has been owned by the decedent from the date of his death.

(2) The income from business property with a value of less than

(3) The income from real property and business property located outside the State and the income from business property with a value within the State in the taxable year.

(4) Where the beneficiary and the fiduciary and the settlor are all residents of the State.

(5) Where the beneficiary and the fiduciary are residents of the State regardless of the residence of the settlor.

(6) Where the beneficiary and the settlor are residents of the State regardless of the residence of the fiduciary.

(7) Where the beneficiary is a resident of the State regardless of the residence of the settlor and the fiduciary.

(8) Where the settlor is a resident of the State regardless of the residence of the beneficiary and the fiduciary.

(9) Where the settlor is a resident of the State regardless of the residence of the beneficiary and the fiduciary.

(10) Where the beneficiary and the settlor are residents of the State regardless of the residence of the fiduciary.

Where the beneficiary of the estate is a resident of the State regardless of the residence of the settlor and the fiduciary, the income of the estate is to be that taxable the income from real property that has been owned by the decedent from the date of his death, the income from business property with a value of less than $10,000, the income from real property and business property located outside the State and the income from business property with a value within the State in the taxable year.

Sec. 19. A trust created by an individual as a part of a small business, partnership or profit-sharing plan for the exclusive benefit of some or all of his employees, to which contributions are made by such employees or members, or both, for the purpose of distributing to such employees the earnings and principal of the fund accumulated by the trust in accordance with such plan, shall not be taxable under section 15 of this act, but the amount actually distributed or made available to any distributee shall be taxable to him in the year in which so distributed or made available to the extent that it exceeds the amounts paid in by him.

SEC. 20. Trusts referred to in section 166 of said Revenue Act of 1934 shall be taxable in the manner provided in said section 166 which is hereby referred to and incorporated with the same force and effect as though fully set forth herein.

SEC. 21. Trusts referred to in section 167 of said Revenue Act of 1934 shall be taxable in the manner provided in said section 167 which is hereby referred to and incorporated with the same force and effect as though fully set forth herein.

SEC. 22. Individuals carrying on business in partnership shall be liable for income tax only in their individual capacity and there shall be included in computing the net income of each partner his distributive share, whether distributed or not, of the net income of the partnership for the taxable year. The net income of the partnership shall be computed in the same manner and on the same basis as in the case of an individual.

SEC. 23. Every partnership shall make a return for each taxable year stating specifically the items of its gross income and the deductions allowed by this title, and shall include in the return the names and addresses of the individuals who would be entitled to share in the net income if distributed and the amount of the distributive share of each individual. The return shall be sworn to by any one of the partners.

If the taxable year of a partner is different from that of the partnership, the distributive share of the net income of the partner for his taxable year shall be based upon the net income of the partnership for any taxable year of the partnership (whether beginning on, before, or after January 1, 1934) ending within the taxable year of the partner.

SEC. 24. Every person taxable under this act, having a net income during the taxable year of one thousand dollars or over, if single, or if married and not living with husband or wife, or having a net income for the taxable year of two thousand five hundred dollars or over, if married and living with husband or wife; or having a gross income during the taxable year of five thousand dollars or over, regardless of the amount of his net income; shall make a return under oath, stating specifically the items of his gross income and the deductions and exemptions allowed by this act.

If a husband and wife living together have an aggregate net income of the taxable year of two thousand five hundred dollars or over or an aggregate gross income of five thousand dollars or over, each shall make such a return unless the income of each is included in a single joint return in which case the tax shall be computed on the aggregate income.

SEC. 25. If the taxpayer is unable to make his own return, the return shall be made by a duly authorized agent or by the guardian or other person charged with the care of the person or property of such taxpayer.

SEC. 26. (a) Every fiduciary (except a receiver appointed by authority of law in possession of part only of the property of an individual) shall make under oath a return for and of the following individuals, estates, or trusts for which he acts, stating specifically the items of gross income thereof and the deductions and credits allowed by this act.

(1) Every individual having a net income for the taxable year of one thousand dollars or over, if single, or if married and not living with husband or wife;

(2) Every individual having a net income for the taxable year of two thousand five hundred dollars or over if married and living with husband or wife;

(3) Every individual having a gross income for the taxable year of five thousand dollars or over, regardless of the amount of his net income;

(4) Every estate or trust the net income of which for the taxable year is five thousand dollars or over, regardless of the amount of the net income.

(b) Under such regulations as the board may prescribe a return made by one of two or more joint fiduciaries and filed in the office of the board shall be sufficient compliance with the above requirement. Such fiduciary shall make oath (1) that he has sufficient knowledge of the affairs of the individual estate or trust for which the return is made, to enable him to make the return, and (2) that the return is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, true and correct.

(c) Any fiduciary required to make a return under this act shall be subject to all the provisions of law which apply to individuals.

SEC. 27. Every individual, partnership, corporation, joint stock company or association or insurance company, being a resident or having a place of business in this State, in whatever capacity acting, including lessees or mortgagors or real or personal property fiduciaries, employers and all officers and employees of the State or of any political subdivision of the State, having the control, receipt, custody, disposal or payment of interest (other than interest coupons payable to bearer), rent, salaries, wages, premiums, annuities, compensations, remunerations, emoluments or other fixed or determinable annual or periodical gains, profits and income, amounting to one thousand dollars or over, paid or payable during any year to any taxpayer, shall make complete return thereof under oath, to the board, under such regulations and in such form and manner and to such extent as may be prescribed by it.

The board whenever it deems it necessary to insure compliance with the provisions of this act, may under rules and regulations prescribed by it, require any individual, partnership, corporation, joint stock company or association of individuals, company, including lessors or mortgagees and owners of the State or of any political subdivision of the State having control, receipt, custody, disposal or payment of interest (other than interest coupons payable to bearer), rent, salaries, wages, premiums, annuities, compensation, retirement benefits or other such or determinable annual or periodical gains, profits and income paid or payable to any taxpayer, to deduct and withhold the tax due from such taxpayer and make return thereof and pay the tax to the board.

SEC. 28. Returns shall be in such form as the board may from time to time prescribe and shall be filed with the board, at its main office or at any branch office which it may establish, by each person taxable hereunder. Within two months and fifteen days after the close of his taxable year. In case of absence, absence of other disability, or whenever in its judgment good cause exists, the board may allow further time not exceeding ninety days for filing returns. There shall be annexed to the return the affidavit of affirmation of the taxpayer, swearing to the truth of the statements contained therein as true. The board shall cause to be prepared blank forms for the said returns and shall require them to be furnished throughout the State and to be furnished upon application, but failure to furnish or furnish the form shall not relieve any taxpayer from the obligation of making any return being required.

SEC. 29. If the board shall be of the opinion that any taxpayer has failed to file a return, or to include in a return that either actually or through mistake, items of taxable income, it may require from such taxpayer a return of his supplemental return, under oath, in such form as it shall prescribe, of all the items of income which the taxpayer received during the year for which the return is made, whether or not taxable under the provisions of this act. If from a supplementary return or otherwise, the board finds that any items of income, taxable under this act, have been omitted from the original return it may require the same to be disclosed to it, under oath of the taxpayer, and to be added to the original return. Such supplementary return and the correction of the original return shall not release the taxpayer from any of the penalties to which he may be liable under the provisions of this act. The board may proceed under the provisions of section 32 of this act whether or not it requires a return or a supplementary return under this section.

SEC. 30. One-half the amount of the tax disclosed by the return shall be due and payable on or before the fifteenth day of the third month following the close of the taxable year, and the balance of the tax shall be due and payable on or before the fifteenth day of the ninth month following the close of the taxable year.

If the board shall allow an extension of time for filing any return hereunder, there shall be a corresponding extension of time for the payment of the tax. Payment of the amount of tax disclosed by such return, but there shall be added to the amount remitted with such tax interest thereon at the rate of one-half of one per cent per month or each fraction of a month from and after the date when the tax would otherwise have been due and payable.

The tax may be paid with unregistered check payable to the State Treasurer, during such time and under such regulations as the board shall prescribe, but if a check so received is not paid by the bank on which it is drawn, the taxpayer by whom such check is tendered shall remain liable for the payment of the tax and for all legal penalties, the same as if such check had not been received.

SEC. 31. As soon as practicable after the return is filed, the board shall examine it and compute the tax, and the amount so computed by the board shall be the tax. If the tax found due shall be greater than the amount theretofore paid, the excess shall be paid to the board within thirty days after notice of the amount shall be mailed by the board.

If the return is made in good faith and the understatement of the tax is not due to any fault of the taxpayer, there shall be no penalty or additional tax added because of such understatement, but interest shall be added to the amount of the deficiency at the rate of one per cent for each month or fraction of a month.

If the understatement is due to negligence on the part of the taxpayer, but without intent to defraud, there shall be added to the amount of the deficiency five per cent thereof, and in addition, interest at the rate of one per cent per month or fraction of a month.

If the understatement is fraudulent, with intent to evade the tax, the tax on the additional income discovered to be taxable shall be increased by fifty per cent and an additional one per cent per month or fraction of a month shall be added.

The interest provided for in this section shall in all cases be computed from the date the tax was originally due to the date of payment.

If the amount of tax found due as computed shall be less than the amount theretofore paid, the excess shall be credited on any taxes then due from the taxpayer under this act, and the board shall certify to the State Board of Control the balance thereof and if approved by that board the same shall be refunded to the taxpayer.

SEC. 32. If the board discovers from the examination of the return or otherwise that the income of any taxpayer, or any portion thereof, has not been assessed, it may, at any time within three years after the time when the return was due, assess the same and give notice to the taxpayer of such assessment, and such taxpayer shall thereupon have an opportunity, within sixty days, to confer with the board as to the proposed assessment. The limitation of three years to the assessment of such tax or additional tax shall not apply to the assessment of additional taxes upon fraudulent returns. After the expiration of sixty days from such notification the board shall assess the income of such taxpayer or any portion thereof which it believes has not theretofore been assessed and shall give notice to the taxpayer so assessed, of the amount of the tax and interest and penalties if any, and the amount thereof shall be due and payable within thirty days from the date of such notice. The provisions of this act with respect to revision and appeal shall apply to a tax so assessed. No additional tax amounting to less than one dollar shall be assessed.

SEC. 33. At any time within three years after the delinquency of any tax, or any installment thereof, the Controller of the State may bring an action in a court of competent jurisdiction in the county of Sacramento in the name of the people of the State of California to collect the amount delinquent, together with penalties, and such action shall be tried in the county of Sacramento unless the court, with the consent of the Attorney General, order a change of place of trial. The Attorney General must prosecute such action, and the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, relating to service of summons, pleadings, proofs, trials, and appeals are applicable to the proceedings, herein provided for. In such action a writ of attachment may be issued, and no bond or affidavit previous to the issuing of said attachment is required. In such action a certificate by the board showing the delinquency shall be prima facie evidence of the levy of the tax of the delinquency and of compliance by the board with all the provisions of this act in relation to the computation and levy of the tax.

At any time within which an action can be brought to collect any delinquent tax as provided in the preceding paragraph, the Controller may collect the tax, together with penalties and interest, in the following manner: The Controller shall seize any property, real, or personal owned by the taxpayer against whom the tax is assessed, and thereafter sell at public auction such property so seized, or a sufficient portion thereof, to pay the tax due hereunder, together with any interest, and any penalty or penalties imposed thereby for such delinquency, and any and all costs that may have been incurred on account of such seizure and sale. Notice of such intended sale and the time and place thereof shall be given to such delinquent taxpayer and to all persons appearing of record to have an interest in such property, in writing at least ten days before the date set for such sale by enclosing such notice in an envelope addressed to said taxpayer at its last known place of business in this State if any, and, in the case of any person appearing of record to have an interest in such property, addressed to such person at the last known place of residence if any, and depositing the same in the United States Mail, postage prepaid, and by publication for at least ten days before the date set for such sale in a newspaper of general circulation published in the county or city and county in which the property seized is to be sold; provided, however, that if there be no newspaper of general circulation in such county or city and county, then by the posting of such notice in three public places in such county or city and county for said ten-day period. The said notice shall contain a description of the property to be sold, together with a statement of the amount of taxes, interest, penalties and costs, the name of the taxpayer, and the further statement that, unless such taxes, interest, penalties and costs are paid on or before the time fixed in said notice for such sale, said property, or so much thereof as may be necessary, will be sold in accordance with law and said notice.

At any such sale, the property shall be sold by said Controller or his duly authorized agent in accordance with law and said notice, and the Controller shall deliver to the purchaser a bill of sale for the personal property, and a deed for any real property so sold, and such bill of sale or deed shall vest title in the purchaser. The unsold portion of any property so seized may be left at the place of sale at the risk of said taxpayer. If, upon any such sale, the moneys so received shall exceed the amount of all taxes, interest, penalties and costs, due the State from such taxpayer, any such excess shall be returned to the taxpayer and a receipt therefor obtained; provided, however, that if any person having an interest in or lien upon the property has filed with the Controller prior to any such sale notice of such interest or lien the Controller shall withhold any such excess pending the determination of the rights of the respective parties thereto by a court of competent jurisdiction. If, for any reason, the receipt of such taxpayer shall not be available, the Controller shall deposit such excess moneys with the State Treasurer, as trustee for such owner, subject to the order of such taxpayer, or its successor through reorganization, merger, or consolidation, or its stockholders upon dissolution.

It is expressly provided that the foregoing remedies of the State shall be cumulative and that no action taken by the Controller shall be or be construed to be an election on the part of the State or any of its officers to pursue any remedy hereunder to the exclusion of any other remedy for which provision is made in this act.

SEC. 34. At any time after the computation of the tax by the board, the board may record in the recorder's office of any county a notice of lien specifying the amount of the tax and the name of the taxpayer liable for the same. From the time of filing any such notice the amount of the tax assessed in such notice together with any penalties for delinquency in the payment thereof, together with interest, shall have the force and effect of a judgment and against the taxpayer named in such notice of lien. Such lien may be released by being paid in full in the office of the county recorder of records at least twenty days after the expiration of the time interest and penalties on such amount are the basis of penalties imposed in case of payment thereof, but no such release shall be deemed a waiver of any tax, interest or penalty typed or assessed against the said land and payable on its income and and payable by such taxpayer.

SEC. 35. Upon notice of the board and upon payment in writing to a fiduciary entity, such fiduciary shall assume the payment, interest, income and penalties of the taxpayer in respect of any tax imposed by this act, through an assignment specifically provided and except that no such shall be required from the owner of the taxpayer), until notice is given that the payment and interest are complete.

Notice under this section shall become a judgment with interest and penalties prescribed by the board. No time interest or a judgment shall be entered in the probate court unless and except as provided in the board and except that all taxes imposed by the provisions of this act upon the taxpayer, which taxes become payable, have been paid, and that all taxes which were assessed and are assessed on bond, deposit or other form. The certificate of the board and the receipt for the amount of the tax, interest, assessed shall be evidence as to the payment of the tax, to the extent of such certificate.

For the purpose of facilitating the settlement and distribution of estates and for fiduciaries, the board, with the approval of the Attorney General, may so amend the State agree upon the amount of such tax that the tax shall be paid in full, such fiduciaries upon the payment of the tax and interest and penalties, with such agreement shall be the satisfaction of the taxes in payment of the agreement.

SEC. 36. If any taxpayer, or his agent, or his representative, or his attorney, shall fail to file a return of income, or pay the tax assessed by this act, or under the provisions of this act, but shall voluntarily file a return of income and pay the tax due, within sixty days from the date of the assessment of the tax, an additional amount equal to five per cent of the tax assessed, but such additional amount shall in no case be less than one dollar an additional one per cent for each month or fraction of a month during which the tax remains unpaid.

If any taxpayer fails voluntarily to file a return of income, or pay the tax due, if any is due within sixty days of the date of payment of the tax, the assessment of the tax shall be increased by twenty per cent, and the taxpayer shall be further increased by one per cent for each month or fraction of a month from the time the tax was originally due to the date of payment.

Any person who wilfully fails to file a return, or to pay the tax due, or to render, sign or verify any return, or to supply any information required by or under the provisions of this act, shall be liable to a penalty of not more than one thousand dollars, to be assessed by the Attorney General in the name of the people by action in any court of competent jurisdiction.

Any person or any officer or employee of any corporation, or partner or employee or any partnership, who wilfully fails to render, sign or verify any return, or to supply any information required by or under the provisions of this act, shall be liable to a penalty of not more than one thousand dollars, to be assessed by the Attorney General in the name of the people, by action in any court of competent jurisdiction, and shall also be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall, upon conviction, be fined not to exceed one thousand dollars or be imprisoned not to exceed one year or both, at the discretion of the court.

The Attorney General shall have the power with the consent of the board to compromise any penalty for which he is authorized to bring action under this section. The penalties provided by such section shall be additional to all other penalties in this act provided.

The certificate of the board to the effect that a tax has not been paid, that a return has not been filed or that information has not been supplied as required by or under the provisions of this act, shall be prima facie evidence that such tax has not been paid, that such return has not been filed or that such information has not been supplied.

If any taxpayer, who has failed to file a return or has filed an incorrect or insufficient return and has been notified by the board of his delinquency, fails to neglects within twenty days after such notice to file a proper return, or files a fraudulent return, the board shall determine the amount of such taxpayer's return to its best information and belief and assess the same at one and one-half the amount so determined.

SEC. 37. A taxpayer after paying the tax assessed against him under this act may apply to the board for revision of the tax assessed against him, at any time within three years from the time or the filing of the return or from the date of the notice of the assessment of any additional tax. The board shall grant a hearing thereon and if, upon such hearing, it shall determine that the tax is excessive or incorrect, it shall resettle the same according to the law and the facts and adjust the computation of tax accordingly. The board shall notify the taxpayer of its determination and shall certify to the State Board of Control the amount if any collected in excess of what was legally due, from whom it was collected, or by whom paid and if approved by that board the same shall be credited to any taxes then due from the taxpayer under this act and the balance shall be refunded to the taxpayer.

Interest shall be allowed and paid upon any overpayment of any tax, if the overpayment was not made because of an error or mistake on the part of the taxpayer, at the rate of six per centum per annum as follows: (1) In the case of credit, from the date of the overpayment to the date of the allowance of the credit. Any interest allowed on any credit shall first be credited on any taxes due from the taxpayer under this act; (2) In the case of a refund, from the date of the overpayment to a date preceding the date of the refund warrant by not more than thirty days, such date to be determined by the board.

Any refund or any portion thereof which is erroneously made, and any credit or any portion thereof which is erroneously allowed, may be recovered, together with interest at the rate of six per centum per annum from the date the refund was made or the credit allowed, in an action brought by the Controller of the State in a court of competent jurisdiction in the county of Sacramento in the name of the people of the State of California, and such actions shall be tried in the county of Sacramento unless the court with the consent of the Attorney General order a change of place of trial. The Attorney General must prosecute such action, and the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, relating to service of summons, pleadings, proofs, trials, and appeals are applicable to the proceedings herein provided for.

In the event that a tax has been illegally levied against a taxpayer the board shall certify such fact to the State Board of Control and said board shall authorize the cancellations of the tax upon the records of the board.

If the taxpayer has failed, without good cause, to file a return within the time prescribed by law, or has filed a fraudulent return or, having filed an incorrect return, has failed, after notice, to file a proper return, the board shall not reduce the tax below one and one-half the amount for which the taxpayer is found to be properly assessed.

Sec. 38. The determination of the board upon any application made by a taxpayer for revision of any tax, may be reviewed in any court of competent jurisdiction by a complaint filed by the taxpayer against the board in the county of Sacramento, within sixty days after the notice by the board of its determination, given as provided in section 32 of this act. Thereupon, appropriate proceedings shall be had and the relief, if any, to which the taxpayer may be found entitled may be granted and any taxes, interest or penalties paid, found by the court to be in excess of those legally assessed shall be ordered refunded to the taxpayer, with interest from time of payment.

Sec. 39. The board for the purpose of ascertaining the correctness of any return or for the purpose of making an estimate of the taxable income of any taxpayer, shall have power to examine or cause to be examined by any agent or representative designated by it for that purpose, any books, papers, records or memoranda, bearing upon the matters required to be included in the return, and may require the attendance of the taxpayer or of any other person having knowledge in the premises, and may take testimony and require proof material for its information, with power to administer oath to such person or persons.

Sec. 40. It shall be unlawful for any member of the board or the State Controller or any person having an administrative duty under this act to divulge any information concerning the business affairs of persons reporting hereunder; provided, however, that the Governor may authorize examination of such returns by other State officers, in which event the information obtained shall not be made public; provided further, that such returns may be examined, with the consent of the Governor, by tax officers of another State or the Federal Government, if a reciprocal arrangement exists.

Sec. 41. The board may from time to time make such rules and regulations, not inconsistent with this act, as it may deem necessary to enforce its provisions.

Sec. 42. All moneys and remittances received by the board in pursuance of the provisions of this act shall be transmitted daily to the State Treasurer, and copies of the schedules covering such transmittals shall be furnished at the same time to the State Controller.

All moneys and remittances so received and so transmitted shall be deposited, after clearance of remittances, in the State treasury and credited to the "Income tax fund," which fund is hereby created. Moneys in said fund shall upon the order of the State Controller, be transferred into the general fund of the State, or drawn therefrom for the purpose of refunding to taxpayers hereunder.

For expenditure by the board in carrying out the provisions of this act there is hereby appropriated a sum of money equal to one hundred thousand dollars and three per cent, or so much thereof as may be necessary, of all other moneys deposited in the income tax fund, and one hundred thousand dollars being payable out of moneys in the general fund not otherwise appropriated, the balance of the moneys hereby appropriated being payable out of the income tax fund; provided, that, out of such three per cent of undivided moneys deposited in the income tax fund and on or before June 30, 1937, the sum of one hundred thousand dollars shall be retained in the income tax fund. For convenience to the Comptroller in carrying out the provisions of this act there is hereby appropriated out of the income tax fund the sum of twenty thousand dollars to be used, if and as may be necessary, and for appropriation by the State Treasurer in carrying out the provisions of this act there is hereby appropriated out of the income tax fund the sum of ten thousand dollars to be used, if and as may be necessary. The balance of the moneys in the income tax fund shall, upon order of the Senate Committee be drawn therefrom for the purpose of making biennial payments or be transferred to the general fund of the State.

Sec. 43. If the board find that a taxpayer has neglected to appear before this State or to remove his property therefrom, or to conceal himself or his property therein, or to do any other act tending to obstruct the process of his personal liability in paying delinquent property taxes, or to obstruct the process of his personal liability in paying delinquent property taxes, or to obstruct the process of his personal liability in paying delinquent property taxes, the board shall declare the taxable parcel for such delinquency immediately forfeited and shall cause notice of such finding and declaration to be given to the taxpayer together with a demand for payment of the tax due the State. The taxpayer having so declared forfeited out of the tax due the State the amount of such tax as is equal to such delinquency, or such the same otherwise provided by law, the filing the return and paying the tax due, and such other acts shall constitute compliance immediately due and payable. In any proceeding to enforce payment of taxes made due and payable by reason of the provisions of this section the finding of the board, made as herein provided, whether made after notice to the taxpayer or not, shall be for all purposes conclusive evidence of the taxpayer's delinquency.

Sec. 44. It shall be unlawful for any person to refuse or neglect, directly or indirectly to pay or attempt to have the amount of such tax declared by such taxpayer under the provisions of this act. Any such refusal or neglect shall be null and void and shall not be enforced, or give rise to any claim.

Sec. 45. This act shall be known as the "Personal Income Tax Act of 1935."

Sec. 46. If any section, subsection, clause, sentence or phrase of this act which is reasonably susceptible of being amended or revised by this act is by any person held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the remaining portions of this act. The Legislature hereby declares that it would have passed the remaining portions of this act irrespective of the fact that any such clause, subsection, clause, sentence or phrase of this act be declared unconstitutional.

Sec. 47. This act, inasmuch as it provides for a tax levy for the usual current expenses of the State shall under the provisions of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution, take effect immediately.

The taxes imposed by this act shall apply to the net income of persons taxable hereunder received or accrued on and after January 1, 1935.

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, and re-referred to Committee on Revenue and Taxation.

"SEC. 8. A new section to be numbered 3900a is hereby added to the Political Code, to read as follows:

3900a. When any license tax imposed by the Motor Vehicle Fuel License Tax Act, approved May 30, 1923 (being Chapter 267 of the Statutes of the forty-fifth session of the Legislature of this State), as amended, which tax accrued and became payable prior to January 1, 1935, remains unpaid, such delinquent license tax may be made payable in installments, and the collection thereof postponed accordingly, by the filing with the State Controller prior to January 1, 1936, of a written instrument (hereinafter referred to as an "obligation") executed by such distributor, (hereinafter referred to as "original distributor"), or by the trustee in bankruptcy of such distributor, or a receiver of such distributor appointed by any court of this State or the United States, or by another distributor or a broker, duly licensed as such distributor or broker under said act, who has succeeded to the ownership of all or any of the property used in the distribution of motor vehicle fuel in respect to which such delinquent license tax accrued, and undertaking to make payment of the amount of all delinquent motor vehicle fuel license taxes becoming payable prior to January 1, 1935, by the original distributor, and of all penalties accrued thereon by reason of the nonpayment thereof as provided in said act, in equal monthly installments not exceeding one hundred eighty dollars in all and payable on or before the first day of the calendar month next after the filing of said obligation and of each month thereafter until full payment of said delinquent taxes and penalties, together with interest on each such monthly installment from January 1, 1935, to, and payable at, the time of payment of such installment, at the rate of four per cent per annum for a period of ten years after filing of the obligation and at the rate of seven per cent per annum thereafter, provided any distributor executing said obligation shall not then be delinquent in the payment of any license tax imposed by said act and becoming due and payable on or subsequent to January 1, 1935; and provided further, that if default shall be made in the payment of any monthly installment, or the interest thereon, provided for in said obligation, and such default shall constitute for a period of ninety days, or if default shall be made in the payment of any license tax imposed by said act and becoming due and payable by any distributor executing said obligation, subsequent to the filing thereof, the State Controller shall proceed to collect all installments provided for in said obligation and then unpaid, whether due or not due, with interest thereon at the rate aforesaid from January 1, 1935, to the date of such collection, in any manner provided in said act in respect to other license taxes becoming delinquent thereunder, and the total amount so to be collected by reason of default as aforesaid shall be a lien upon all property of any distributor executing the obligation hereinbefore provided for, with the same force and effect as if said amount had accrued as a license tax upon motor vehicle fuel distributed in the month preceding such default under the terms and provisions of said act, but nothing herein contained shall be construed or shall operate to release any property from any lien created by said act for or in respect to any license tax the collection of which is postponed or authorized to be postponed hereunder, and in the event of default as hereinbefore stated the remedies herein provided shall be cumulative and in addition to any other remedies which may be provided by law for the collection of such delinquent license tax. Whenever used in this section, unless the context otherwise indicates, the word "tax" shall include any penalties, interest, or both accruing or accrued in respect thereto, and the word "distributor" shall include any receiver, or trustee in bankruptcy, executing the obligation herein provided for."

providing for the registration of retailers, providing for the levying, assessing, collecting, paying and disposing of such tax, making an appropriation for the administration thereof, prescribing penalties for violations of the provisions hereof and providing that this act shall take effect immediately.

Bill read second time, ordered to engrossment, and on file for third reading.

Senate Bill No. 42—An act to amend sections 4 and 5 of the Bond and Corporation Franchise Tax Act, relating to taxes of banks, corporations, and public service companies, including the rates thereof, and the extension thereof to companies other than insurance companies specified in Section 11 of Article XIII of the Constitution of this State.

Consideration of Committee Amendments.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Revenue and Taxation, the following amendments to Senate Bill No. 42 were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1, line 1, of the title of the printed bill, after the word "4," insert "4a".

Amendment No. 2.

On page 1, line 1, of the title of the printed bill, strike out the word "4," and insert in lieu thereof the word "4a".

Amendment No. 3.

On page 1, line 6, of the printed bill, strike out the period, and add the following: ", and to provide that this act shall take effect immediately."

Amendment No. 4.

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out lines 1 to 24, both inclusive, and strike out all of pages 2 and 3, of said bill, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

SEC. 4. (1) Every financial corporation doing business within the limits of this State, taxable under the provisions of section 16 of Article XIII of the Constitution of this State, shall annually pay to the State for the privilege of exercising its corporate franchise within this State a tax according to or measured by its net income, to be computed in the manner hereinafter provided, upon the basis of its net income for the next preceding fiscal or calendar year or the rate provided for in section 4a hereof.

(2) Each such financial corporation shall be entitled to an offset against said franchise tax, in the manner hereinafter provided, in the amount of taxes paid upon its personal property to any county, city and county, city, town or other political subdivision of the State; provided, however, that the tax on such financial corporation after the allowance of offset shall not be less than three and one-fourth per centum of its net income for the preceding fiscal or calendar year or less than twenty-five dollars.

(3) With the exception of financial corporations, every corporation doing business within the limits of this State and not expressly exempted from taxation by the provisions of the Constitution of this State or by this act, shall annually pay to the State, for the privilege of exercising its corporate franchise within this State, a tax according to or measured by its net income, to be computed, in the manner hereinafter provided, at the rate of eleven and one-fourth per centum upon the basis of its net income for the next preceding fiscal or calendar year. In any event, each such corporation shall pay annually to the State for the said privilege a minimum tax of twenty-five dollars.

(4) Any corporation organized to hold the stock or bonds of any other corporation or corporations, and not trading in such stock or bonds or other securities bought and engaging in no other activities than the receipt and disbursement of dividends from such stock or interest from such bonds, shall not be considered a corporation doing business in this State for the purposes of this act.

(5) Every corporation not otherwise taxed in pursuance of this section, and not expressly exempted by the provisions of this act or the Constitution of this State shall pay annually to the State a tax of twenty-five dollars.

(6) In any event any corporation organized for religious, charitable, social, scientific, educational, recreational, literary, fraternal or civic purposes if its organization or activities are not designed for, or result in no financial or pecuniary gain or profit to the stockholders or members thereof, shall not be taxed under this act.

(7) Taxes under this section and under sections 1 and 2 of this act shall accrue on the first day of the "taxable year," as defined in section 11 hereof.

(8) The provisions of this subsection, together with all other provisions of this act shall apply, in the case of banks or corporations reporting on a calendar year basis, to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1934. Provided however, that the tax for taxable years beginning prior to January 1, 1935, and ending during the calendar year 1935, shall be adjusted in accordance with the provisions of subdivision (d) of section 12 of this act. Any tax, for a taxable year specified in this subsection, in addition to that disclosed by the return, made necessary solely by amendments to this act, shall be due and payable within ten days from the date of notice and demand from the commissioner, or on or before the fifteenth day of the ninth month following the close of the income year, as defined in section 11 of this act, whichever is later. If not so paid, interest shall be added thereto pursuant to the provisions of subdivision (c) of section 24 of this act. Such tax shall not be considered a deficiency assessment within the meaning of section 25 of this act.

Whenever any tax is paid under this act, and by reason of amendments to this act, such payment exceeds the amount properly payable, such excess shall be refunded or credited to the bank or corporation, as provided in section 27 of this act.

SEC. 2. Section 4a of said act is hereby amended to read as follows:

SEC. 4a. The rate of tax on National banking associations and other banks and financial corporations mentioned in sections 1, 2 and 4 of this act shall be a percentage equal to the percentage of the total amount of net income, allocable to this State, of every corporation taxable under subdivision (3) of section 4 of this act, for the next preceding calendar year or fiscal years ended during such calendar year, required to be paid to this State as franchise taxes according to or measured by such net income, and required to be paid to this State or its political subdivisions as personal property taxes during the preceding calendar year or fiscal years ended in such calendar year. The percentage of the net income of every corporation taxable under subdivision (3) of section 4 of this act, required to be paid to this State or its political subdivisions in personal property taxes shall be determined by ascertaining the ratio which the total amount of such personal property taxes, less eleven and one-fourth per cent thereof, bears to the total amount of net income of such corporations, allocable to California, increased by the amount of such personal property taxes; provided, however, that if any such corporation sustains a net loss allocable to California the personal property taxes required to be paid by such corporation to this State or its political subdivisions during the preceding calendar year or fiscal years ended during such calendar year shall be considered for the purpose of determining such ratio only to the extent which such personal property taxes exceed such net loss allocable to California.

The commissioner, after public hearing and opportunity given to examine the data on which his determination is based, shall determine not later than the thirty-first day of December of each year the average percentage of net income above specified, and shall forthwith mail notice of his determination and the amount of tax payable on the basis of such determination to all banks and financial corporations affected thereby, but such determination shall not be considered a deficiency assessment within the meaning of section 25 hereof.

If it be judicially determined that the rate of tax on any bank or corporation is higher than is authorized by law such bank or corporation shall be relieved of liability for any tax imposed by this act only to the extent of the excess beyond that legally authorized.

SEC. 3. Section 23 of said act is hereby amended to read as follows:

SEC. 23. On or before the fifteenth day of the third month following the close of the income year, as defined in section 11 hereof, there shall be due and payable, from every National banking association, every other bank, and every financial corporation, of the classes mentioned in sections 1, 2, and 4 of this act, as a first installment of the tax on such banks and financial corporations, a percentage of their net income as disclosed by the return, which is equal to that percentage of the net income of corporations of the classes referred to in subdivision (3) of section 4 of this act, which is required to be paid to the State as a franchise tax according to or measured by net income, except that the first installment of the tax on financial corporations shall not be less than the minimum of twenty-five dollars.

On or before the fifteenth day following the mailing of notice of the commissioner's determination of the average percentage of net income of corporations of the classes referred to in subdivision (3) of section 4 of this act, required to be paid to the State or its political subdivisions in franchise and personal property taxes as provided in section 4a of this act, or on or before the fifteenth day of the ninth month following the close of the income year as defined in section 11 hereof, whichever is later, there shall be due and payable from every such banking association, bank, and financial corporation, as a second installment of the tax on such banks and financial corporations, a percentage of their net income as disclosed by the return which is equal to the percentage of the net income of corporations of the classes referred to in subdivision (3) of section 4 of this act required to be paid to the State or its political subdivisions as personal property taxes as determined by the commissioner.

In the case of corporations of the classes referred to in subsection (d) of section 4 of this act, one-half the amount of tax assessed by the taxing agent on and payable as a first installment of the tax on such corporations, can be before the fifteenth day of the third month following the close of the taxable year, as defined in section 11 hereof. The balance of the tax shall be due and payable in a second installment, on or before the fifteenth day of the sixth month following the close of the income year. A tax imposed by this act on any corporation assessed may be paid at the election of the taxpayer, prior to the date assessed for the purposes.

Where an extension of time for filing returns has been granted by the commissioner under the provisions of section 15 of this act, the first installment shall be paid prior to the expiration of such extension.

If the first installment of the tax is not paid on or before the date then, by the due date as extended by the commissioner, it shall be delinquent and a penalty of fifteen per centum added thereto. If the second installment is not paid on the date it is due and payable, it shall be delinquent and a penalty of five per centum added thereto. At the time of the delinquency of the second installment an additional penalty of five per centum shall be added to the first installment before said installment has theretofore been paid.

All taxes and interest imposed under this act must be paid to the commissioner at Sacramento in the form of remittances payable to the Treasurer of the State of California, and he shall transmit said payments daily to the State Treasurer.

All moneys received by the State Treasurer shall be deposited by him in a separate fund in the State treasury, to be designated the fund and accounting fund for tax fund, and moneys in said fund shall upon the order of the State Treasurer be transferred into the general fund of the State, or upon themselves for the purpose of refunding to taxpayers hereunder.

SEC. 4. If any section, subsection, clause, sentence or phrase of this act shall be reasonably separable from the remaining portions of this act so far as content held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the remaining portions of this act. The Legislature hereby declares that it would have passed the remaining portions of this act irrespective of the fact that any such section, subsection, clause, sentence or phrase of this act be declared unconstitutional.

SEC. 5. This act, inasmuch as it provides for tax liens for the usual current expenses of the State, shall, under the provisions of section 4 of Article IV of the Constitution, take effect immediately.

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, and referred to Committee on Revenue and Taxation.

Senate Bill No. 783—An act to provide for the levy and collection of a tax upon the incomes of individuals, estates and trusts, to provide for the disposition of the revenues therefrom, to make an appropriation for the administration hereof, and to provide that this act shall take effect immediately.

In any case in which it is ascertained as a result of continuous or of discontinuous work that the recoverable units are greater or less than the prior estimate thereof, then such prior estimate shall not be the basis for depletion, when it is revised and the allowance under this subsection for subsequent taxable years shall be based upon such revised estimate. In the case of leases the deductions shall be equitably apportioned between the lessee and the owner. In the case of payment, held by one person for life with remainder to another person, the deduction shall be computed as if the life tenant were the absolute owner of the property and shall be allowed to the life tenant. In the case of property held in trust the allowable depletion shall be apportioned between the income beneficiaries and the trustee in conformity with the pertinent provisions of the instrument creating the trust, or, in the absence of such provisions, on the basis of the trust income distributable to each. The percentage of depletion allowable under this subsection shall be computed in accordance with the provisions of subdivisions (3) and (4) of subsection (b) of section 114 of said Revenue Act of 1924 which subdivisions and the sections of said Revenue Act referred to therein are hereby referred to and incorporated with the same force and effect as though fully set forth herein."

(i) The basis upon which depletion, exhaustion, wear and tear, and obsolescence are to be allowed in respect of any property shall be as provided in section 114 of said Revenue Act of 1924 which section and all sections of said Revenue Act referred to therein are hereby referred to and incorporated with the same force and effect as though fully set forth herein, provided, however, that the word "commissioner" in said sections shall be deemed to mean "State board" and the words "with the approval of the secretary" shall be deemed omitted."

The taxable income of the estate or trust shall include the following:

(1) The income from real property and tangible personal property located and from business transacted in this State.

(2) The income from intangible property with a situs in this State.

(3) The income from real property and tangible personal property located outside this State and the income from intangible property with a situs outside this State in the following cases:

(a) Where the beneficiary and the fiduciary and the settlor are all residents of this State.

(b) Where the beneficiary and the fiduciary are residents of this State regardless of the residence of the settlor.

(c) Where the beneficiary and the settlor are residents of this State regardless of the residence of the fiduciary.

(d) Where the beneficiary is a resident of this State regardless of the residence of the fiduciary and the settlor.

(e) Where the fiduciary is a resident of this State regardless of the residence of the beneficiary and the settlor.

(f) Where the settlor is a resident of this State regardless of the residence of the beneficiary and the fiduciary.

(g) Where the fiduciary and the settlor are residents of this State regardless of the residence of the beneficiary.

Where the taxability of income under this section depends on the residence of the fiduciary and there are two or more fiduciaries for the estate or trust, the income taxable under this section shall be apportioned according to the number of fiduciaries resident in this State, such apportionment being determined according to rules and regulations prescribed by the State board.

Where the taxability of income under this section depends on the residence of the beneficiary and there are two or more beneficiaries for the estate or trust, the income taxable under this section shall be apportioned according to the number of beneficiaries resident in this State, such apportionment being determined according to rules and regulations prescribed by the State board."

(a) There shall be allowed as a deduction (in lieu of the deductions authorized by subdivision (c) of section 6 of this act) any part of the gross income, without limitation, which pursuant to the terms of the will or deed creating the trust, is during the taxable year paid or permanently set aside for the purposes and in the manner specified in subdivision (i) of section 6, or is to be used exclusively for religious, charitable, literary, scientific, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, or for the establishment, acquisition, maintenance or operation of a public cemetery not for profit.

(b) There shall be allowed as an additional deduction in computing the net income of the estate or trust, the amount of income of the estate or trust for its taxable year which is distributed currently by the fiduciary to the beneficiaries, and the amount of income collected by a guardian of an infant which is to be held or distributed as the court may direct; but the amount so allowed as a deduction shall be included in computing the net income of the beneficiaries whether distributed or not. Any amount allowed as a deduction under this paragraph shall not be allowed as a deduction under paragraph (c) of this section in the same or any succeeding taxable year. In the case of the income of a beneficiary not a resident derived through such an estate or trust, such income shall be taxable only to the extent provided in subdivision (f) of section 5 of this act.

(c) In the case of income received by estates of deceased persons during the period of administration or settlement of the estate, and in the case of income which, in the discretion of the fiduciary, may be either distributed to the beneficiary or accumulated, there shall be allowed as an additional deduction in computing the net income of the estate or trust the amount of income of the estate or trust for its taxable year, which is properly paid or credited during such year to any legatee, heir, or beneficiary, but the amount so allowed as a deduction shall be included in computing the net income of the legatee, heir, or beneficiary. In such cases the income of the legatee, heir, or beneficiary not a resident shall be taxable only to the extent provided in subdivision (f) of section 5 of this act."

Amendment No. 3.

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out lines 1 to 17, inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"SECTION 1. Sections 590, 590.1, 590.11, 590.12 and 590.13 are hereby added to the Vehicle Code to read as follows:

590. Warning Signals to be Carried and Used by Stopped Vehicles. Every motor vehicle used for the carriage of passengers for hire or any motor truck or commercial motor vehicle, operated on any highway outside the corporate limits of any city or town, shall be equipped with and at all times carry at least three flares, or electric lanterns or other electric signals, and at least three red flags. No person operating such a vehicle shall stop the same on the traveled portion of any highway outside of the corporate limits of any city or town, except when complying with traffic requirements, unless the provisions of section 590.1 and 590.11 are complied with. This section applies to vehicles which by accident or otherwise are disabled on a highway.

590.1. Manner of Displaying Warning Signals. The driver of any vehicle described in section 590, which is stopped, shall cause lighted warning signals to be displayed in a prominent position above the surface of the highway at a distance of approximately one hundred feet in advance of such vehicle and a similar distance to the rear of such vehicle. A third warning signal shall be placed on the roadway side of such vehicle. All warning signals shall be visible for a distance of at least five hundred feet.

590.11. Construction and Time of Use of Warning Signals. The warning signals referred to in section 590.1 shall be constructed and used as follows:

(a) Between one-half hour after sunset and one-half hour before sunrise, or when the weather conditions are such as to produce low visibility, the warning signals displayed shall be either:

(1) A brilliant flare capable of continuously burning, without appreciable diminution of light produced, for a period of at least twelve hours.

(2) Red electric lanterns or other electric signals capable of meeting the light requirements for flares.

(3) Red reflectors, or electric devices, shall be used by motor vehicles or motor trucks which are transporting inflammables, in lieu of flares, as the third warning signal on the roadway side of such vehicle.

(b) Between one-half hour before sunrise and one-half hour after sunset, when visibility permits, the warning signals shall be red flags.

590.12. Testing of Warning Signals by Department. Every flare, lantern, signal, reflector, or flag shall be of a type approved by the department. The department shall test all such warning devices and publish lists of those devices which have been approved as adequate for the purposes intended.

590.13. Construction of Certain Sections Re Warning Devices. Sections 590, 590.1, and 590.11 are in addition to the provisions of this chapter relating to vehicles stopped upon a highway and are not intended to supersede such provisions."

Amendment No. 3.

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out lines 1 to 6, inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"SECTION 1. Sections 676.5, 676.51, 676.52, 676.53, 676.54 and 676.55 are hereby added to the Vehicle Code to read as follows:

676.5. Safety Glass Required. On and after October 1, 1935, except as otherwise provided in section 676.52, it is unlawful to operate on any public highway in this State, any motor vehicle registered in this State, which has been manufactured or assembled on or after October 1, 1935, unless such motor vehicle is equipped with safety glass wherever glass is used in partitions, doors, windows, or windshields.

676.51. Safety Glass Defined. The term "safety glass," as used in this code, means glass so treated or combined with other materials as to reduce, in comparison with ordinary sheet glass or plate glass the likelihood of injury to persons by objects from external sources or by glass when the glass is cracked or broken.

676.52. When Safety Glass Not Required. The provisions of section 676.5 do not apply to any motor vehicle other than a motor truck of less than eight passenger seating capacity which is not used for carrying passengers for hire, or to any truck used by a farmer principally for transporting farm products, equipment or materials to or from his farm, if such motor vehicle is used, has been registered previously in another State by the owner while the owner was a bona fide resident of the said other State.

676.53. Department to Approve Glass. The department shall prepare and maintain a list of the approved types of glass, containing its composition, specifications, tests and requirements for safety glass as defined in section 676.51, and shall not register any motor vehicle subject to the provisions of section 676.5 unless such motor vehicle is equipped with such approved type of safety glass.

676.54. Statement Re Glass Required on Transfer of Vehicle. Every application for original registration or transfer of registration shall be accompanied by an affidavit of the transferor of the vehicle reciting the type or brand used on the partitions, doors, windows and windshields thereof, together with the fact the vehicle was manufactured or assembled.

676.55. Penalties for Violations. The owner or operator of any motor vehicle which is operated in violation of the provisions of section 676.5 is guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of twenty five dollars or by imprisonment for ten days or both. In case of the violation of the provisions of section 676.5 by any common carrier under the jurisdiction of the Railroad Commission, the violation of public convenience and necessity caused by such carrier shall be treated as, in the discretion of the Railroad Commission, warranted upon the provisions of section 676.5 are complied with.

Communication.

The following communication was received, read, ordered printed in the Journal, and referred to Committee on Finance:

S. F. No. 879—Resolution No. 16.

A Joint Resolution—Memorializing the President and Congress of the United States to amend the Federal law so as to permit the States to tax National banks upon a fair and equitable basis and requesting the States to join in a similar memorial.

WHEREAS, The several States are prohibited from taxing the property (income or shares of National banks except in the precise method prescribed by Congress (Section 5219 R. S. U. S.); and

WHEREAS, From 1866 to 1923 the only method by which Congress authorized the States to tax National banks was to tax upon their shares and during such period such shares were taxed by the States at the property rate, upon the entire basis as the property of the farmer, merchant, manufacturer and home owner, thereby securing equality of the burden of taxation among all property owners; and

WHEREAS, Said Federal statute provided that the rate of such tax should not exceed the rate imposed by the State upon other business property in the hands of individual citizens of the States invested in notes, bonds and other evidences of debt (money and credits) coming into competition with the business of banking; and

WHEREAS, Beginning in 1921 and continuing down to the present time there have been rendered various decisions of the United States Supreme Court and other Federal and State courts, construing the above limitation, the effect of which decisions has been to practically destroy the power of the States to tax the shares of National banks, it being manifestly impossible to classify such investments into those competing and those not competing with the business of National banks. It is also clearly evident that there is no similarity or relationship between shares in a National bank which have a right to share in the profits of a going business arising from the income from all the deposits in the bank as well as the capital invested in shares, and also to share in the income received from other activities of such bank and a debt evidenced by a note or bond, the income from which is limited to the interest provided therein. It is absurd to claim that for purposes of taxation such wholly different types of property should be treated precisely alike; and

WHEREAS, Although the Federal act in form permits States to tax the net income of banks or to levy a tax measured by or according to such net income, such method is entirely and wholly unjust, inequitable and inadequate. Because, first, when such method is used by a State it is in lieu of all other forms of taxation. Second, any such bank is entirely tax free unless it makes a net profit, whereas all other persons, owners of property, must pay a tax whether they make a profit or loss. This places the National banks in a privileged class and exempts them from paying any share of the public burdens during the period when they do not make a net profit, thus shifting their share of the tax burden upon other property owners. Third, in all the States where the net income, or measured by net income methods have been used, the shrinkage in taxes collected from banks have ranged from 66 2/3 per cent to 90 per cent, as compared to former tax collections under the share tax plan; and

WHEREAS, Because of the decisions of courts holding void taxes upon the shares of National banks the whole matter of taxing banks, both National and State, has been thrown into great confusion, many of the States have been persuaded to abandon the share method of taxing banks and have either adopted low millage rates of from three to five mills on the dollar of value of such stock, or have adopted the income tax, or measured by income tax methods, with the result that in the past ten years the total tax of National banks have been reduced from $79,376,000 in 1922 to $48,080,000 in 1932, notwithstanding the fact that during such period the total capital and surplus of such banks increased from $2,356,427,000 to $2,828,408,000, and thus during a period when taxes have increased upon all other forms of property and for all other persons, banks have secured reductions; and

WHEREAS, In March, 1927, the Supreme Court of the United States held bank taxes in Minnesota to the amount of approximately $1,200,000 void because the rate was higher than the rate on moneys and credits and the Legislature at once established the Minnesota Bank Tax Commission for the purpose of obtaining such an amendment to the Federal law as would permit this and other States to tax bank stock upon its value as other property is taxed; said commission has in all practicable ways endeavored to secure such amendment by enlisting the cooperation of all other States and other taxing officials, by appearing before committees of the Senate and House of Representatives of Congress of the United States, by attending National tax conferences by correspondence with tax officials of all other States and by conferences with them and otherwise; and

WHEREAS, Through the efforts of the said commission and the tax officials of other States bills have been introduced at every session of Congress providing for the necessary amendments to said Federal act, and by reason of the lobby maintained by the American Bankers Association, all efforts to obtain such legislation have been unsuccessful; however, in June, 1934, the Banking and Currency Committee of the House of Representatives reported favorably upon a bill introduced by Mr. Steagall, chairman of said committee, which bill would grant to the States all the relief required. Said report is an unanswerable argument in favor of restoring to the States the power to tax bank shares upon an equitable basis, the same as they were taxed for nearly 60 years; and

WHEREAS, Bills identical with the so-called Steagall Bill have been introduced and are now pending in the Congress of the United States, and it is of the utmost importance that all of the States join in the effort to secure the passage thereof; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota. That the Congress of the United States, the President of the United States, are hereby respectfully and earnestly urged to so amend section 5219 R.S.U.S., that the States may tax the shares of National banks upon the ad valorem basis with no other limitation thereof except that the rate be not greater than the rate imposed upon the shares of State banks; be it further

Resolved. That all the States of the United States are hereby earnestly urged and requested to adopt resolutions similar to this resolution memorializing Congress and the President of the United States to pass such legislation and to cooperate with the State of Minnesota for the purpose of securing the enactment of such legislation until the same is secured; be it further

Resolved. That the Secretary of State of Minnesota is authorized and requested to send copies of this resolution to the President of the United States, Vice President of the United States, Speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States, and to each member of the House of Representatives from the State of Minnesota, also to send a duly authenticated copy hereof to the Presiding Officer of each house of the Legislature of all the States in the Union, and to the chairman of the Tax Committee of each house thereof.

HJALMAR PETERSEN, President of the Senate.

GEORGE W. JOHNSON, Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Passed the Senate the fourth day of March, 1935.

G. H. SPAETH, Secretary of the Senate.

Passed the House of Representatives the seventh day of March, 1935.

JOHN I. LEVIN, Chief Clerk, House of Representatives.

FLOYD B. OLSON, Governor of the State of Minnesota.

MIKE HOLM, Secretary of State.

Amendment No. 3.

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out all of line 1, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"SECTION 1. A new section is hereby added to the School Code to be known as section 6.223, and to read as follows:

6.223. The governing board of any school district shall have power to, and may in its discretion, dispose of personal property belonging to the district for the purpose of replacement by providing in the notice calling for bids for furnishing new materials, articles or supplies that each bidder shall agree in his bid to purchase said property being replaced and to remove the same from the school grounds and to state in his bid the amount which he will deduct from the price bid for furnishing new materials, articles or supplies as the purchase price for said personal property being purchased from the district and the board shall let the contract to the bidder whose net bid is the lowest, after deducting the amount bid for the purchase of said property, provided said bidder is a responsible person.

SEC. 2. A new section is hereby added to the School Code to be known as section 6.224, and to read as follows:

6.224. The governing board of any school district shall have power to, and may in its discretion, when calling for bids and letting contracts for repairing, altering, adding to or reconstruction of existing school buildings, require each bidder for the erection and completion of said work to agree in his bid to purchase and to remove from the school grounds all old materials required by the specifications to be removed from said school building or buildings and not needed in the execution of the contract proposed to be let and to state in his bid the amount which he will deduct from the price bid for the work as the purchase price of said old materials, and the board shall let said contract to the bidder whose net bid is the lowest after deducting the amount bid for the purchase of said old materials, provided said bidder is a responsible person.

SEC. 3. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution and shall, therefore, go into immediate effect.

The facts constituting the necessity are as follows: The Legislature of the State of California has enacted Chapter 59 of the Statutes of 1933, relating to the safety of construction of public school buildings which has resulted in the condemning and closing of many structurally unsafe school buildings in the State of California. Until school buildings can be erected, constructed and reconstructed in accordance with the above mentioned act, a large number of school children and teachers are being housed in temporary shacks or are attending school part time only, which endangers the health and safety of such school children and teachers of the State of California. Where buildings must be altered or reconstructed, large amounts of materials must be removed which are not suitable for reuse. Under sections 6.220 and 6.221 of the School Code property which a school district desires to dispose of for the purposes of replacement can only be disposed of by selling the same for cash to the highest bidder. These proposed sections will allow a school district to call for bids for the reconstruction of school buildings and require the contractor to deduct from the price he bids for the work, the amount which he will allow for old material salvaged from the building. This will accomplish three purposes: first, secure the removal of old material with the least possible damage to the material and to the building; second, net the district the largest return for this salvaged material and third provide for the speedy removal of material not needed in the reconstruction of the building from school premises.

The proposed sections of this bill will therefore result in the replacement of condemned and closed school buildings and result in a large saving of money to school districts at a time when the taxes of school districts in the State of California are severely taxed by unusual demands.

It is therefore necessary that the purposes of this act become effective at once in order that the health and safety of school children and teaching of the State of California be protected."

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, and re-referred to Committee on Education.

Senate Bill No. 332—An act to amend section 1 of an act entitled "An act relating to the doing of public work by day's labor or Green account, except emergency and maintenance work and work costing less than ten thousand dollars, requiring the State Highway Engineer, State Engineer, the State Architect, county engineers, county supervisors, city and county engineers, county highway engineers, road commissioners, city engineers, commissioners of public works, superintendents of streets, harbor engineers, flood control engineers and the engineers of any reclamation, irrigation or other districts, political subdivisions or agencies of the State directing, supervising or superintending such work, or in charge of the engineering for or in connection therewith, to keep the costs, prepare and file plans, specifications and estimates of cost, and, upon completion, prepare and file certificates of cost thereof, and providing for the keeping of such plans, specifications and certificates as public records," approved June 21, 1929, and adding a new section thereto to be numbered 3, providing a penalty for violation of any of the provisions of said act, relating to public officers and employees subject to the provisions hereof.

Bill read third time.

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 2. This act is hereby declared to be an urgent measure within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution, necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety, and shall take effect immediately. The facts constituting such necessity are as follows:

All of the districts which have been formed in this State by the consolidation of irrigation districts have taken proceedings for the refunding of bonded indebtedness for which they are liable and have applied to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, an agency of the United States, for loans to enable them to refinance said indebtedness. On account of the depression prevailing throughout the State for more than four years and still prevailing, it is impossible for such districts to meet the amounts due and to become due by the terms of said outstanding bonds, and if said districts are not enabled to refinance speedily and are compelled to pay the assessments required by the terms of said outstanding bonds, many landowners therein will be unable to pay such assessments, and will lose their lands and great masses will suffer in such districts, and the ability of such districts to operate their works for the distribution of water will be impaired and the revenues of other governmental agencies will be reduced. In the course of such refunding operations, questions have arisen as to the sufficiency of certain acts and proceedings for the consolidation of such districts, and it is necessary that such acts and proceedings be validated forthwith in order that such refinancing may be speedily effected.

Urgency clause read.

The question being on the adoption of the urgency clause.

The roll was called, and the urgency clause adopted by the following vote:

AYES—Senators Biggar, Crittenden, Deuel, Difant, Edwards, Fletcher, Garrison, Hays, Keough, Knowland, McGill, McCormack, McGovern, McGowan, Metzger, Mixer, Olson, Parkman, Perry, Pierovich, Rich, Schottky, Seollan, Seawell, Sharkey, Slater, Snyder, Stow, Swing, Wagy, Williams, and Young—31.

FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK BOARD.
WASHINGTON, March 21, 1935.

Mr. J. A. Beek,
*Secretary of the Senate, Senate Chamber,
Sacramento, California.*

MY DEAR MR. SECRETARY: Herewith certified copy of a recent resolution of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. This resolution was adopted pursuant to frequent inquiries from legislative offices as to the desirability of such legislation. In a number of the States, bills for such legislation are pending and have not yet been enacted.

Would it be asking too much of you to request that you get this resolution in the hands of any committee which may be considering such a bill.

I realize that this may make it necessary for you to examine the file of pending bills, but the board is quite anxious that its views be known to the legislators, and I know of no other way to get the information before them.

If you find it possible to do this, we will all be highly appreciative.

Very truly yours,

JAMES R. FRAZIER, Assembly General Counsel

(Enclosure)

Be it Resolved by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board: That it is deemed expedient that legislation be enacted in all of the States to provide that all deposits made by any Federal Savings and Loan Association shall be insured by and under the supervision of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which shall be insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, and be held as property for trust funds of every kind and nature.

I hereby certify that the above is a true and correct copy of a resolution adopted by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board on March 4, 1935.

[SEAL]

R. L. NAGLE, Secretary

By Senator Rich:

Resolution.

WHEREAS, It has been publicly stated that various lobbyists and persons appearing in and about the Capitol are attempting to influence legislation by resorting to improper methods and means; and

WHEREAS, Many persons appearing before the various committees of this Senate have not complied with the rules of this Senate requiring such persons to register; and

WHEREAS, It is rumored that improper and illegal lobbying is being conducted and carried on at this session of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, It is the desire of the members of the Legislature to be freed from the baneful influences of such persons, if any there be, and the unfavorable criticisms that may result from such bills, if any there be; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That a Committee of Three be appointed by the President of the Senate, which committee shall have full power and authority to investigate and pass upon the credentials and qualifications of all persons appearing, or being, or desiring to appear or be, at or in the Senate Chamber, or at or in any committee room of the Senate for the purpose of advocating the adoption or defeat of any bill, measure or resolution introduced in, pending before, or being considered by the Senate, or any committee thereof, or for the purpose of soliciting the vote of any member of the Senate upon any such bill, measure or resolution, or upon any anticipated or proposed bill, measure or resolution, and said committee shall have power and authority to inquire into the source and purpose of any bill, measure or resolution; and be it further

Resolved, That said committee be and it is hereby authorized to investigate any and all charges heretofore or that may be hereafter made concerning any attempt to improperly influence legislation or to corrupt members of the Legislature; and be it further

Resolved, That said committee be, and it is, hereby authorized and empowered to do any and all things necessary to fully and completely carry out the intents and purposes of this resolution and to employ any help or assistance which it may deem necessary or proper, and said committee is hereby authorized and empowered to summon witnesses, require the production of persons, books, accounts, agreements, documents, records and papers of every kind to issue subpoenas and to take all necessary means to compel the attendance of witnesses and to procure testimony; and the members of said committee are and each of them is hereby authorized to administer oaths; and all the provisions of Article VIII of Chapter II, Title I, Part III of the Political Code of this State relative to the attendance and examination of witnesses before the Legislature and committees thereof, shall apply to the committee appointed under this resolution; and the Sergeant at Arms of the Senate is hereby authorized and directed to serve and read all subpoenas and orders or other process that may be issued by said committee when directed so to do by the chairman thereof.

Remarks.

The following remarks, offered by Senator Slater, referring to the Honorable Ray Benjamin, who was present in the Senate Chamber, were ordered printed in the Journal:

MR. PRESIDENT AND GENTLEMEN OF THE SENATE: It is a great pleasure to ask the privilege of the floor of the Senate today for a distinguished citizen of California, the Honorable Raymond Benjamin, who is visiting the State Capital. His visit is particularly interesting to me, as it recalls an incident of 25 years ago when I came here as a member of the California Legislature. The first bill I introduced provided for a small raise in the salary of the then Chief Deputy Attorney General, who happened to be Ray Benjamin. Before introducing the bill, I had sized up Mr. Benjamin, and my judgment then was that he appeared to be a young man of promise who would undoubtedly advance into higher planes of activity and possibly invade National Government, and consequently should be encouraged. You will agree, I am sure, in the distinctions that have come to Mr. Benjamin, my preview of 25 years ago was prophetic. We are glad to welcome our distinguished guest and old time friend. He has assured me his coming is in no sense political, but actuated by desire to again visit familiar scenes and particularly to greet friends of long standing.

METZGER, Chairman.

Report of Special Committee.

The following report of Special Committee on Investigation of Liquor Control was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

Report of Committee on Investigation of Liquor Control.

MR. PRESIDENT: Your Committee on Investigation of Liquor Control, appointed pursuant to Senate resolution of January 22, 1935, has had the subject of control and taxation of liquor under consideration and respectfully reports at this time with the recommendations of the committee contained in said report and in Senate Bill No. 919.

Pursuant to said resolution the chairman of the committee called the members of said committee for meetings to investigate in Los Angeles and in Sacramento. A total of 32 witnesses were called before the committee and written and oral testimony had from said witnesses. Witnesses representing both large and small brewery interests were heard.

The cost of manufacture of beer in breweries of varying capacity, some as low as 50,000 barrels annual production to others as high as 2,000,000 gallons annual production was ascertained. The cost of raw products as well as cost of labor and advertising was thoroughly considered and it was found that the cost of raw products used in the manufacture of said beverage is several times higher than the cost during the periods when former excise taxes were levied. The cost of labor likewise was found to be considerably higher than any cost heretofore experienced in this industry.

Your committee finds that considerable money is spent by the brewery interests as well as wholesale distributors in the matter of advertising and herewith we respectfully recommend that the Board of Equalization adopt such rules and regulations as will tend to curb extremely large expenditures in the matter of advertising and the exhibiting of signs.

Your committee was particularly concerned in the costs of manufacture to ascertain the possibility of securing the retail sale of beer by the glass at the price of 5 cents. Cost figures submitted conclusively point to the fact that there is very little likelihood of securing so low a retail price. The only hope in this regard seems to lie in a reduction in the Federal tax of $5 per barrel or in the complete curtailment of all costs of advertising and salesmanship.

We believe that it is advisable that excessive advertising be curtailed but it is recognized that a certain amount of advertising should be permitted in this industry as it is in all other legitimate industries.

The committee found that a number of abuses had crept into the beer industry soon after the repeal of the Wright Act and the Federal Statutes, which said abuses were the result of laxity on the part of enforcement officers in various communities. It is found that these abuses and rackets are fast disappearing and that with the lapse of a further period of time should be entirely corrected, provided the local enforcement authorities take seriously their duties.

Among the witnesses called your committee examined and had presented to it testimony from vintners of the State; representatives of both large and small wineries testified, as well as representatives of large and small growers of grapes. From the testimony presented this committee has come to the conclusion that unscrupulous persons have seriously endangered the California wine market in eastern States.

It was surprising to find that the poor wine dumped on the eastern market was actually the old wine that had spoiled in casks and stored too long in cellars, rather than the new wine which found disfavor in the East. Actually the new wines now being manufactured, provided they are not adulterated, nor cut, are a reputable and acceptable product.

The industry as a whole is so important to California and so interwoven in our agricultural problems that an undue burden placed upon it at this time would in fact work to the detriment of the State. We have come to the conclusion that growers must be afforded a satisfactory outlet and a fair return for their product to furnish purchasing power that they may do their proper part in State recovery. We have found that much wine is escaping taxation but we believe that with the proper regulation a reasonable tax and the standardization of wine, the industry will soon settle back into its proper channel where the vast benefits resulting therefrom will be realized.

The Board of Equalization has been doing excellent work in connection with the regulation and enforcement of both the wine and the beer industries but it has been laboring under a tremendous handicap. With a more suitable control act it is our belief that the Board of Equalization can do more effective work than it has in the past two years; therefore it is our recommendation that no change be made in establishing a new liquor authority but that the Board of Equalization retain this authority and control.

Our agricultural sections of the State would benefit greatly by the encouragement of the use of light wines and beer. The use of these liquors has suffered during the past 14 years in which we find a corresponding increase in the use of hard liquors. Whatever legislation tends to work for the reverse order we believe would be proper legislation for the State of California.

The wine bottling license of $10 per year now provided in our law is particularly vicious in that it invites the bottling and the adulteration of wines of standard manufacture. We find abuses are carried on under such permissive systems. The privilege of bottling wines should be primarily with the winery that produces them, and by reliable bottlers who operate under a sufficient bond to insure their integrity. Wine bottling licenses should not be given indiscriminately to retailers who buy wine in barrels, adulterate it and sell in any size packages the consumer may demand and at most any price that the consumer wishes to pay. There is no economic necessity for this kind of bottling.

The Constitution as amended provides for a beer license for strictly beer taverns dispensing beer exclusively, but there seems to be no excuse for a beer and wine license and another license for the sale of "hard liquor."

The issuance of the on-sale beer and wine license at $100 per year is a direct invitation to the so-called bootlegger to take out only this on-sale beer and wine license and then surreptitiously sell distilled spirits in addition to his beer and wine without having to pay the minimum of $250 for the on-sale distilled spirits license, and it would be manifestly unfair for the one who pays the $250 for the on-sale of distilled spirits and then collect from him an additional $100 for the on-sale of beer and wine.

With slight modifications, the present laws governing liquor in our State can be amended so as to work satisfactorily, not only in the interest of public morals but in the return of revenue in our present financial crisis.

Senate Bill No. 919 now before the Legislature, with certain changes, will control by proper and permissive zoning ordinances the sale of liquor in certain parts of communities where it would not be desirable. We refer, particularly, to the sale of liquor in the vicinity of schools, churches, and institutions.

In so far as the matter of revenue is concerned, we find that a reasonable excise tax on liquor by the gallon is proper. We are of the opinion that the present tax on beer and on wine can not be increased without working toward a decline in the volume of sales and the consumption of these two liquors. So-called "hard liquor" we find should be taxed 44 cents per proof gallon—such tax, however, in order to be effective must be applied at point of sale by the retailer in the form of stamps properly canceled and affixed to bottles. Such a method of collecting the tax will not only return to the State a considerable revenue, possibly from $7,000,000 to $10,000,000 annually, but will act as a police measure against the dispensing and selling of so-called "bootleg" or "moonshine" liquor.

One of the defects of our present laws is that no attempt has been made to synchronize definitions and regulations with the U. S. Internal Revenue Regulations concerning the sale of liquor.

The Senate Bill No. 919 can by certain changes be made to cover licensing and control to the satisfaction of the people at large and will help to simplify the duties of the Board of Equalization in the control feature, and also harmonize with the Federal regulations.

In so far as the local enforcement by local authorities is concerned, we are not of the opinion that the proper method is to permit communities to license liquor establishments. We believe it is a State function but in order to secure the proper cooperation from local authorities there is a certain amount of expense involved in this method that should be provided for. If instead of under the present system of allotting 60 per cent of the net returns from licenses after the expenses of the Board of Equalization are paid we allow 50 per cent of the gross returns of licenses to the various communities; then out of the 50 per cent balance the expenses of the board could be taken and the rest returned to the State. More enthusiastic support could be had from local enforcement authorities in this way.

We respectfully recommend, too, that this Legislature by an appropriate resolution memorialize Congress that there be a material reduction effected in the excise tax on beer and wine for it is to be remembered that the primary reason for this legislative committee's activities is to find ways and means to promote the sale of beer at 5 cents per glass.

After long and detailed hearings, it is the opinion of the members of the committee that beer can not be sold for 5 cents unless the Federal tax is reduced, and from our hearings we understand it is the intention of the brewery interests of America to work for reduction of Federal excise taxes. In the event they accomplish their desires it would be unwise to further increase the tax on beer at this time. However, if Congress does not reduce the tax, there will be an opportunity later to increase it in California to 3 or 4 or more cents per gallon.

Beer and wine are the beverages of the poor man, are temperate drinks, and we feel their sales should be stimulated rather than hampered.

We recommend a beer manufacturer's license of $500 for breweries producing 250,000 barrels and less, and $1,000 for breweries producing over 250,000 barrels annually, with the brewer being permitted to put out as many labels as he chooses. Since from the testimony given at the public hearing there appeared to be a slight difference in regard to the manufacture of different brands of beer, we believe that the brewer should not be penalized by a license for every label he might want to use in order for him to meet certain competition.

A graduated wine manufacturer's license according to quantity and capacity of the winery would allow the small manufacturer to find a market for his product. We, therefore, have set up in Senate Bill No. 919 a graduated scale of winery licenses ranging from $50 to $250, according to gallonage produced.

We have distinguished between a primary distiller's license in the sum of $1,000 and a brandy distiller's license in the sum of $250 for the reason that considerable brandy for fortification of wines is distilled in this State and an undue penalty upon such brandy distillers would reflect unfavorably upon the wines produced therefrom.

Considerable activity has been noted on the part of rectifiers, and the committee herewith recommends a license in the sum of $1,000 upon that particular line of business.

We recommend elimination of the retail off-sale beer and wine license in order that it may be combined with the retail off-sale hard liquor license with a fee of $150. A higher fee than this for the off-sale package business would be prohibitive in any small retail drug stores, grocery stores, and the like.

We further recommend an industrial alcohol user's license in the sum of $50.

The on-sale beer tavern license is used extensively by small merchants throughout the country and should not, in the opinion of the committee, be set at an extremely high figure. It is believed that $25 per year is the proper license to cover this particular trade.

On-sale alcoholic beverage license should include the sale of all alcoholic beverages including beer, wine, distilled spirits, and there should not be a separate license for beer and wine only. This is the provision that has led to so much trouble for the board, the cause of prolific license evasion, and the dispensing of much illegitimate liquor. This license should be fixed at $250.

In regard to the bottling license in addition to the recommended $500, the bottler should be required to furnish a bond for faithful and honest performance of their functions as bottlers. This is particularly necessary in the bottling of wine, and the bottler's license should not be given indiscriminately to people who have no regular facilities or plant for bottling operations.

We further believe in this set-up that retail off-sale licenses should not be issued to wholesalers and that wholesalers' licenses should not be issued to retailers. In other words, there should not be permitted a combination of the two operations, retailing and wholesaling. We believe that a retailer applying to the board for a license or a wholesaler applying to the board for a license should demonstrate to the satisfaction of the board that his principal function of business is either retailing or wholesaling and take his license accordingly.

Manufacturers' licenses should not require in addition bottling licenses, or a wholesaler's license.

The matter of standardization of wines should be imposed by act of this Legislature and this committee will in a supplemental report make its recommendations in the matter of standardization.

The recommendations herewith made and the additional excise taxes recommended by your committee should net some additional revenues in the neighborhood of from $7,000,000 to $10,000,000 for the general fund of the State of California.

Respectfully submitted,

A. L. PIEROVICH, Chairman.

Request for Permission to Introduce a Bill.

The following request for permission to introduce a bill was presented:

By Senator King:

SENATE CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, March 27, 1935.

MR. PRESIDENT: In accordance with the provisions of section 2, Article IV of the Constitution, I request permission to introduce a bill, the title of which is set forth below:

An act to amend section 21 of the "California Water Storage District Act," relating to property sold for delinquent assessments.
Respectfully submitted.

CHAS. KING.

Request referred to Committee on Rules

Consideration of Daily File.
Third Reading of Senate Bills.
Unanimous Consent.

Senator Stow asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent to consider Senate Bill No. 696 out of order.

Senate Bill No. 696—An act to add section 530a to the Penal Code, relating to false statements to procure relief, and declaring the urgency hereof.

Bill read third time.

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 2. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California and shall, therefore, take effect immediately.

The following is a statement of the facts constituting such necessity: Monies and relief covered by this act are now being disbursed by the State and the Federal Government for the purpose of relieving unemployment. In order that proper protection be extended to the recipients of this money and that it be not diverted from the purpose for which it is paid by the State or Federal Government, it is necessary that the protection afforded by this bill be immediately extended both to the governments paying out the money and the recipients thereof. It is therefore necessary that this act take effect immediately.

Urgency clause read.

The question being on the adoption of the urgency clause

The roll was called, and the urgency clause adopted by the following vote:

AYES—Senators Biggar, Crittenden, Duval, Edwards, Fletcher, Garrison, Gordon, Hays, Jespersen, Keough, King, Knowland, McColl, McCormack, McGovern, Methuenness, Metzger, Mixter, Olson, Parkman, Perry, Pierovich, Powers, Rich, Schatzky, Seollan, Seawell, Sharkey, Slater, Snyder, Stow, Swing, Wagy, and Young—34.

Senate Bill No. 854—An act to amend section 1261 of the Agricultural Code, relating to produce dealers.

Consideration of Committee Amendments.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Agriculture and Live Stock, the following amendments to Senate Bill No. 854 were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out the title, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"An act to amend sections 1261 and 1263 of the Agricultural Code, relating to produce dealers."

"1263. No person shall act as a commission merchant, dealer, broker or agent without having obtained a license as provided in this chapter. Every person, acting as a commission merchant, dealer, broker or agent as herein defined shall file an application with the director for a license to transact the business of commission merchant, dealer, broker, and or agent, and such application shall be accompanied by the license fee herein provided for each specified class of business. Separate applications shall be filed for each class of business.

Such application shall in each case state the class or classes of farm products applicant proposes to handle, the full name of the person applying for such license, and if the applicant be a firm, exchange, association or corporation, the full name of each member of the firm, or the names of the officers of the exchange, association or corporation shall be given in the application. Such application shall further state the principal business address of the applicant in the State of California and elsewhere and the name or names of the person or persons authorized to receive and accept service of summons and legal notices of all kinds for the applicant. Such applicant shall further satisfy the director of his or its character, responsibility and good faith in seeking to carry on the business stated in the application.

In addition to the general requirements applicable to all classes of applications as in this section set forth, the following requirements shall apply to the class of application noted:

(a) Commission merchants: Each application shall include a schedule of commissions and charges for services, and such designated commissions and charges shall not be changed or varied for the license period except by written contract between the parties.

(b) Agents: Each application shall include such information as the director may consider proper or necessary, and shall include the name and address of applicant, and the name and address of each commission merchant, dealer or broker represented or sought to be represented by said agent, and the written indorsement or nonindorsement of such commission merchant, dealer or broker.

The director shall thereupon issue to such applicant, a license enabling the applicant to conduct the business described in the application, at the place named in the application for a year from the date thereof or until the same shall have been revoked for cause. The director may also issue to each agent a card or cards, which shall bear the signature of said agent and his principal, separate cards being required for each principal. Any agent shall show said card or cards upon the request of any interested person.

Fraud or misrepresentation in making any application shall ipso facto work a revocation of any license granted thereunder. All copies of the possession of a license shall be at all times the property of the State of California and each licensee shall be entitled to the possession thereof only for the duration of said license.

For filing the applications herein described, each applicant must pay a fee as follows:

(a) Commission merchants: Twenty-five dollars for each year, provided that a person licensed as a slaughterer under the provisions of Article 3 of Chapter 1 of Division III of this code shall be entitled to be licensed as a commission merchant without payment of further fees.

(b) Dealers: Twenty-five dollars for each year; provided, that a person licensed as a slaughterer under the provisions of Article 3 of Chapter 1 of Division III of this code shall be entitled to be licensed as a dealer without payment of further fees.

(c) Brokers: Twenty-five dollars for each year.

(d) Agents: One dollar for each year.

Any person who shall have been licensed as a commission merchant shall, upon application, be licensed also as a dealer and as a broker as defined herein, without payment of further fees, and shall thereupon conform to the parts of this chapter regulating the business of a dealer and or broker. Any person who has applied for and received a license as a dealer or broker in the manner aforesaid upon payment of the fee herein set forth may apply for and secure a license as a commission merchant in addition to the license issued to him as such dealer or broker, without payment of further fee and upon further complying with those parts of this chapter regulating the licensing of a commission merchant."

Assembly Joint Resolution No. 45.

Relative to memorializing the President and the Congress to enact the required legislation for complete and adequate anti-aircraft equipment and personnel as defensive measures for the Pacific Coast.

WHEREAS, During recent times there has been a great deal of public interest and discussion in regard to the inadequacy of aircraft and personnel defense on the Pacific Coast; and

WHEREAS, As a result of such discussion and study on the part of representative organizations of the State of California, and military authorities, it seems clear that there is very apparent weakness in the anti-aircraft defense and personnel of the Pacific Coast; and

WHEREAS, Investigations made and information compiled by Joseph G. McComb Post No. 46 of the American Legion conclusively demonstrates the inadequacy of the anti-aircraft defense on the Pacific Coast; and

WHEREAS, California has only one anti-aircraft detachment with a complement of 24 officers and 323 men to cover and protect the entire length of the California coast line; and

WHEREAS, At some ports on the Pacific Coast there are only eight fixed anti-aircraft guns, and in other instances only two such guns; and

WHEREAS, The War Department of the United States has recommended that the minimum number of anti-aircraft units, in time of peace, should total 10 complete regiments; and

WHEREAS, Anti-aircraft equipment and personnel are essential as defense measures for the Pacific Coast and some areas of the military service which can not possibly be construed as creating self-purchasing business or industry, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly and Senate of the State of California, jointly: That the President and the Congress of the United States are respectfully urged to enact the legislation requested for complete anti-aircraft equipment and personnel on the Pacific Coast; and be it further

Resolved, That the Governor of the State of California is hereby requested to transmit copies of this resolution to the President and Vice President of the United States, to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and to each Senator and member of the House of Representatives from California in the Congress of the United States, and that each Senator and member from California are hereby respectfully urged to support such legislation.

This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety, within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution, and shall therefore take effect immediately. The facts constituting such urgency are as follows:

Hardship and destitution caused by unemployment in the State of California and the enforced idleness of hundreds of thousands of its citizens, able and willing to work in the production and exchange of necessities of life, is requiring the payment to them through State relief agencies of millions of dollars in weekly doles to prevent their actual starvation. Available funds for the purpose are rapidly diminishing. A large part of the population of the State is in a condition of despair and unrest, threatening the public peace. Unless steps are immediately taken as in this act provided to furnish unemployed citizens with the means of producing for themselves a decent standard of living, the social order of the State may be seriously disturbed, so this act should go into immediate effect."

Consideration of Committee Amendments.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Irrigation, the following amendments to Senate Bill No. 636 were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out the title, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"An act to validate all proceedings for the formation of improvement districts within irrigation districts and all assessments heretofore made in any such improvement districts, to validate all warrants heretofore issued or to be issued, payable from the assessments levied in such improvement districts; and authorizing and directing the collection of the assessments in such improvement districts sufficient to pay the principal and interest of said warrants; validating and confirming all acts and proceedings of the board of directors of any irrigation district in connection with the acquisition and creation of improvement districts within irrigation districts, and the acquisition, construction, operation, maintenance and repair of improvements therein."

Amendment No. 2.

On page 1, line 1, of the printed bill, after the "period", insert the following: "When in any irrigation district organized and existing under the laws of the State of California, proceedings have been taken for the purpose of organizing any improvement district under the provisions of the "Irrigation District Improvement Act," all acts and proceedings of the board of directors of such irrigation district conducting the proceedings for the formation of such district and all other acts and proceedings leading up to and including the formation of such districts, including the petition for such formation in the form and manner in which such petition was heretofore approved by such board of directors, and all other acts and proceedings relative to the levy of any assessment in such district and all warrants heretofore issued, or to be issued pursuant to such acts and proceedings in any such district heretofore organized are hereby legalized, confirmed and validated. The power of the board of directors of such irrigation district conducting such proceedings in any such improvement district to make, levy, and collect said assessment, and to issue warrants payable therefrom, is hereby ratified, confirmed, and approved; and said warrants are hereby declared to be and shall be in the form and manner in which the same have heretofore been issued, or are to be issued, if not now outstanding, the legal and valid obligations of and against such improvement district, payable from the proceeds of the assessment levied or to be levied therein; and all other acts and proceedings heretofore taken under the provisions of said "Irrigation District Improvement Act," or purporting to be taken under said act, are hereby legalized, confirmed and validated. No error or informality in any such proceedings heretofore taken under said "Irrigation District Improvement Act" shall in any wise invalidate the formation of any such improvement district, the levy of any assessment therein or the issuance of any warrants payable from such assessment or any other act or proceeding relative thereto, from and after the effective date of this act, all such proceedings and acts being hereby ratified, confirmed, approved and validated.

SEC. 2. For the purpose of paying the interest on any warrants issued by any irrigation district under the provision of said "Irrigation District Improvement Act" as the same becomes due, and the principal thereof, the assessors, treasurers, collectors, board of directors and other officers of the respective irrigation districts organized under the laws of this State in which such improvement districts shall have been organized or attempted to have been organized under said "Irrigation District Improvement Act," shall have the same powers and perform the same duties as are provided by said act for the assessment, levy and collection of the special assessments and the payment of the principal and interest of the warrants provided to be made and issued under the provisions of said act; and it shall be and hereby is made the duty of the board of directors of any irrigation district in which such improvement district shall have heretofore been organized or attempted to have been organized to levy and collect the special assessment heretofore made or to be made in such improvement district clearly sufficient to pay the principal and interest of the warrants issued or to be issued on account of such proceedings, and said boards of directors are hereby vested with power and jurisdiction to do all and singular the things herein and in said "Irrigation District Improvement Act" required to be done for the purpose of providing funds sufficient to pay the principal and interest of said warrants".

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, engrossment, and on file for third reading.

Senate Bill No. 112—An act to amend section 13 of the "Orange County Water District Act," approved June 14, 1933, relating to the organization of the board of directors of said district, the term of office of said directors and the establishing of an office for said board.

Consideration of Committee Amendments.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Irrigation, the following amendments to Senate Bill No. 112 were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out all of line 1 of the title after "amend", and all of lines 2, 3, 4, and 5 of the title, and insert in lieu thereof the following: "sections 2, 13 and 17 of the Orange County Water District Act, approved June 14, 1933, relating to powers and duties of the board of directors, the establishment of an office therefor and declaring and limiting their powers as to the district budget and the levy of assessments."

Amendment No. 2.

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out all of line 1 after "SECTION 1.", and all of lines 2 to 17, inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following: "Section 2 of the act cited in the title hereof is hereby amended to read as follows:

SEC. 2. The "Orange County water district" shall have power:

1. To have perpetual succession;
2. To sue and be sued, except as otherwise provided herein or by law, in all actions and proceedings in all courts and tribunals of competent jurisdiction;
3. To adopt a seal and alter it at pleasure;
4. To take by grant, purchase, gift, devise, or lease, to hold, use and enjoy, and to lease, convey or dispose of, real and personal property of every kind, within or without the district, necessary or convenient to the full exercise of its powers;
5. Within or outside of the district to construct, purchase, lease or otherwise acquire necessary waterworks and other works and machinery, canals, conduits, dams and reservoirs, and to purchase, lease or otherwise acquire waters, water rights, storage sites, spreading grounds, watersheds, lands, rights and privileges needed or necessary to replenish, supply, convey, store or reclaim water for irrigation, domestic, municipal or other useful purposes within and without, or for the control of flood or storm waters of said district, and the flood and storm waters of streams that have their source outside of said district, but which streams and the flood waters thereof, flow into said district, and the flood waters of other streams in which said district has acquired water or water rights, and to operate and maintain such water rights, waterworks, canals, conduits, dams, reservoirs, storage sites, spreading grounds, watersheds, works, machinery, lands, rights and privileges for the uses or purposes aforesaid for the common benefit of the district and of the inhabitants thereof;

6. To store water in surface and underground reservoirs within or outside of the district for the common benefit of the district; to conserve and reclaim water for present and future use within the district; to appropriate and acquire water and water rights, and import water into the district, and to conserve within or outside of the district, same for any useful purpose to the district; to commence, maintain, intervene in and compromise, in the name of the district, or otherwise, and to assume the costs and expenses of, any action or proceeding involving or affecting the ownership or use of waters or water rights within the district used or useful for any purpose of the district or of common benefit to any land situated therein, or involving the wasteful use of water therein; to commence, maintain, intervene in, defend and compromise and to assume the costs and expenses of any and all actions and proceedings now or hereafter begun, to prevent interference with or hindrance of the natural flow of any stream or surface or subterranean supply of waters used or useful for any purpose of the district or of common benefit to the lands within the district or to its inhabitants; to prevent unlawful exportation of water from said district; to prevent contamination, pollution or otherwise rendering unfit for beneficial use the surface or subsurface waters used in said district, and to commence, maintain and defend actions and proceedings to prevent any such interference with the aforesaid waters as may endanger or damage the inhabitants, lands, or use of water in the district; provided, however, that said board shall not have power to intervene or take part in, or to pay the costs or expenses of, actions or controversies between the owners of lands or water rights within the boundaries of the district and which do not involve taking water outside of or away from the district;

7. To control the flood and storm waters of said district, and the flood and storm waters of streams that have their source outside of said district, but which streams and the flood waters thereof, flow into said district, and to prevent any waste for beneficial and useful purposes within said district by separating, storing, retaining and causing said waters to percolate into the soil within or without said district, or to save or conserve in any manner all or any of such waters and protect from damage from such flood or storm waters, the harbors, waterways, piers, wharves, and property in said district;

8. To have and exercise the right of eminent domain, and in the exercise sanctioned by law for the condemnation of private property for public use, to take and convey necessary to the exercise of any of the powers granted by this act, except that the district shall not have the right of eminent domain as to water, water rights, reservoirs, pipe lines, water distributing systems, waterworks, or power plants, all or any of which are already devoted to beneficial use or to public use and located within the watershed of the Santa Ana River, and extending further from the exercise of the right of eminent domain by the district any property condemned and actually used for the scientific propagation and study of plant life. No language or provision of the Water District Act, or of this subdivision of said act, shall be construed or construed so as to limit or abridge the right of the district, or its board of directors, to exercise its right of eminent domain to condemn property in any place within the Santa Ana River watershed for spreading grounds, reservoirs and works necessary or convenient to be used in connection therewith, and lands for rights of ways upon and across and under which to construct pipe lines, conduits, tunnels and/or aqueducts necessary or convenient for any of the purposes of the district, provided the property sought to be condemned for said purposes is not already being used by other corporations, municipalities, districts or individuals for similar purposes. Subject to the express limitations heretofore set out, in any proceeding relative to the exercise of such right of eminent domain, the district shall have the same rights, powers and privileges as a municipal corporation.

9. The board of directors, subject to the limitations set forth in subdivision 8 of section 2 hereof, shall in addition to the other powers herein granted by this act, have the following rights and powers: To enter upon any land to make surveys and locate the necessary irrigation works and the line for canal or canals and the necessary branches for the same on any lands which may be deemed best for such location; to acquire by purchase, lease, contract, condemnation or other legal means, all lands and water and water rights and other property necessary for the construction, use, supply, maintenance, repair and improvement of said canal or canals and works, whether in this or in other States, including canals and works constructed and being constructed by private owners, lands for reservoirs for storage of necessary water, and all necessary appurtenances, and also where necessary or convenient to said end, and for said purposes and uses, to acquire and hold the stock of corporations, domestic or foreign, owning water or water rights, canals, waterworks, power plants, franchises, concessions or rights; to enter into and do any acts necessary or proper for the performance of any agreement with the United States, or any State, county, district of any kind, public or private corporation, association, firm or individual, or any number of them, for the joint acquisition, construction, leasing, ownership, disposition, use, management, maintenance, repair or operation of any rights, works or other property of a kind which might be lawfully acquired or owned by an irrigation district or a water district; to acquire the right to store water in any reservoirs, or to carry water through any canal, ditch or conduit not owned or controlled by the district; to grant to any owner or lessee the right to the use of any water or the right to store such water in any reservoir of the district, or to carry such water through any canal, ditch or conduit of the district; to enter into and do any acts necessary or proper for the performance of any agreement with any district of any kind, public or private corporation, association, firm or individual, or any number of them for the transfer or delivery to any such district, corporation, association, firm or individual of any water right or water pumped, stored, appropriated or otherwise acquired or secured for the use of the water district, or for the purpose of exchanging the same for other water, water right or water supply in exchange for water, water right or water supply to be delivered to said district by the other party to said agreement; to cooperate with and to act in conjunction with the State of California, or any of its engineers, officers, boards, commissions, departments or agencies, or with the government of the United States, or any of its engineers, officers, boards, commissions, departments, or agencies, or with any public or private corporation, in the construction of any work for the controlling of flood or storm waters of said district, or for the protection of property therein, or any of the channels, waterways, roads or highways in said district, or for the purpose of conserving said waters for beneficial use within said district, or in any other works, acts, or purposes provided for herein, and to adopt and carry out any definite plan or system of work for any such purpose.

10. To borrow money and incur indebtedness and to issue bonds or other evidences of such indebtedness; also to refund or retire the same or any indebtedness that may exist against the district or property thereof;

11. To cause assessments to be levied for the purpose of paying any obligation of the district or to accomplish any of the purposes of this act;

12. To make contracts, to employ labor and to do all acts necessary for the full exercise of the foregoing powers.

13. To carry on technical and other investigations of all kinds, make measurements, collect data, and make analysis, studies and inspections pertaining to water supply, water rights, control of floods and use of water, both within and without said district, and for this purpose said district shall have the right of access through its authorized representative to all properties within said district.

SEC. 2. Section 13 of the act cited in the title hereof is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 13. On the first Tuesday in March next following their election, the directors elected shall meet and organize as a board, elect a president and appoint a secretary, who shall each hold office during the pleasure of the board. Each director appointed or elected shall hold office until his successor is elected and has qualified. The term of office of directors is hereby fixed at four years, except as herein otherwise provided. The office of the board of directors shall be established by said board at some proper and convenient place within the county of Orange, but does not have to be established or maintained within the district. After the office is once established, it shall not be changed without giving notice thereof by posting in three public places within the district and by publishing a similar notice at least once a week for two weeks in some newspaper of general circulation published in said Orange County.

SEC. 3. Section 17 of the act cited in the title hereof is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 17. The board of directors, on or before the first meeting of the board of supervisors of said Orange County in August of each year, must furnish said board of supervisors and the auditor of said Orange County with an estimate in writing of the amount of money needed for the initiated or authorized purposes of the district for the current fiscal year. This amount, together with available moneys on hand, must be sufficient to provide the necessary funds to initiate, carry on and complete any of the powers, projects, and purposes for which this district is organized, and which the board of directors shall deem advisable to be initiated or authorized for the current fiscal year; to pay the estimated cost of maintenance, operation and repairs of works and projects of the district, the incidental expenses of the district, and the estimated amount necessary for the payment of the costs of any action or proceeding which may be taken or assumed by the district, including the cost of employment of attorneys and engineers; and if bonds have been voted by the district, said estimate shall include an amount sufficient to raise the interest and principal on the outstanding bonds accruing during the current fiscal year and to provide for a sinking fund from which to pay the principal of said bonds when due; and if said district shall have voted a special assessment as provided in section 35 hereof, said estimate shall also include the amount of any installment of said special assessment, to be levied during said year; provided, however, that if at the time of making said estimates the district shall not have voted a special assessment as provided in section 35 hereof, and said district shall not have voted bonds as in this act provided, then the amount of the assessment levied during any year for the raising of funds shall not exceed five cents for each one hundred dollars, or fraction thereof, of assessed valuation of assessable property in the district, according to the last assessment rolls of said Orange County; provided, further, that after the expiration of five (5) years next succeeding the date when this act becomes effective the amount of said assessment levied during any year shall not exceed two cents for each one hundred dollars, or fraction thereof, of assessable property in said district, according to the last assessment rolls of Orange County, unless at the time of the levy of each annual assessment as provided for in this act at least six members of the then board of directors of the district vote in favor of the levy of an assessment not exceeding five cents for each one hundred dollars, or fraction thereof, of assessable property in the district according to the last assessment rolls of said Orange County; provided further, if, in the opinion of the directors of the district, conditions shall arise during any year or years prior to the expiration of five years next succeeding the date when this act shall become effective, that shall necessitate the levying of an assessment exceeding the levy of five cents last hereinafore provided for, then upon the affirmative vote of at least six of the members of the then board of directors of the district, the district and its board of directors may levy in the manner in this act provided for, an assessment exceeding five cents but not exceeding ten cents for each one hundred dollars, or fraction thereof, of assessed valuation of assessable property in the district, according to the last assessment rolls of said Orange County."

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, and re-referred to Committee on Irrigation.

Senate Bill No. 399—An act relating to the liability of irrigation districts, their officers and employees.

Consideration of Committee Amendment.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Irrigation, the following amendment to Senate Bill No. 399 was read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1, line 1, of the printed bill, after the words, "Section 1", add the following: "No member of any board of directors of any irrigation district shall be liable for the negligent act or omission of any appointee or employee appointed or employed by him in his official capacity whether such appointment or employment was made singly or in conjunction with other members of such board, except when the member or members of such board making such appointment or employment knew or had actual notice that the person appointed or employed was inefficient or incompetent to perform or render the service for which he was appointed or employed or shall retain such inefficient or incompetent person after actual knowledge or notice of such inefficiency or incompetency.

SEC. 2. Whenever it is claimed that any person or property has been injured or damaged as a result of any dangerous or defective condition of any property owned or operated and under the control of any irrigation district or its officers or employees and or the negligence or carelessness of any officer or employee of an irrigation district, a verified claim for damages shall be presented in writing and filed with such officer or employee and the Secretary of said board within ninety days after such accident or injury has occurred. Such claim shall specify the name and address of the claimant, the date and place of the accident or injury or damage and the nature and extent of the injury or damages claimed. The foregoing shall be a condition precedent to the filing or maintaining of any action for said injury or damages.

SEC. 3. In any case where an officer of an irrigation district shall be held liable for any act or omission done or omitted in his official capacity and any judgment shall be rendered thereon, the district shall pay such judgment without obligation for repayment thereof by such officer.

SEC. 4. Nothing herein contained shall be construed as creating any liability or responsibility unless the same would have existed without the passage of this act."

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, and re-referred to Committee on Irrigation.

Senate Bill No. 345—An act to amend section 3480d of the Political Code, relating to crediting on calls of installment of assessments made by reclamation districts amounts of outstanding bonds exchanged in refunding proceedings or otherwise canceled, and to the redemption of property sold to reclamation districts for delinquent assessments and installments thereof, and to the sale by county treasurers of land sold for delinquent assessments and installments thereof, and containing a provision declaring this act to be an emergency measure, stating the facts constituting such emergency and providing this act shall take effect immediately.

Consideration of Committee Amendment.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Drainage, Swamp and Overflowed Lands, the following amendment to Senate Bill No. 345 was read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1, line 16, section 1, of the printed bill, strike out all of that portion of the section beginning with the words "then the county treasurer", down to and including the words "such installment so called," in line 33, and insert in lieu thereof the following: "then said call so made shall be deemed canceled and annulled to the extent not required, and upon the filing of a certified copy of resolutions adopted by the board of trustees of the district declaring such cancellation and annulment in the office of the county treasurer of the main county in which such district is located, as main county is defined in section 3480 of the Political Code, said treasurer shall make such entry or entries as shall be necessary in the records of his office to evidence the cancellation of such call; provided, however, that the cancellation and annulment of any such call or calls shall not be construed as in anywise reducing the assessment against any tract of land within the district; and provided further, that in the event any landowner shall have paid unto the county treasurer the whole, or any part of said call or calls so canceled and annulled, the county treasurer shall, upon demand of such landowner, refund to him the portion of the amount so paid in not so required or if no such demand shall be made, the county treasurer shall hold said portion of said amount as a credit to said landowner on future calls against his land under said assessment."

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, engrossment, and on file for third reading.

Third Reading of Assembly Bills.

Assembly Joint Resolution No. 7.

Relative to memorializing the President and Congress to favorably consider and submit to the States an amendment to the Constitution enabling Congress to grant Federal suffrage to residents of the District of Columbia.

WHEREAS, The District of Columbia with its half million people, is the only community in the United States which is denied representation in the National Government;

WHEREAS, The men and women residing in the District of Columbia have no voice in determining through a vote for President, Vice President, and spokesmen in Congress the policies of the Nation in which they live, either in war or in peace;

WHEREAS, The District of Columbia taxpayers must pay what they are assessed without opportunity to determine the nature of their taxes or the purposes for which the money is spent;

WHEREAS, It is a fundamental principle of our Republic that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed; be it therefore

Resolved, by the Assembly and the Senate of California, jointly, That the President and the Congress of the United States is hereby respectfully urged to set in motion the machinery for correcting this present un-American condition of the residents of the District of Columbia by submitting to the States for ratification the constitutional amendment enabling Congress to make it possible for residents of the District of Columbia to vote for President, Vice President, and Representatives of Congress; and be it further

Resolved, That the Governor of the State of California is hereby requested to transmit copies of this resolution to the President and Vice President of the United States, to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and to each Senator and member of the House of Representatives from California in the Congress of the United States, and that such Senators and members from California are hereby respectfully urged to support such legislation.

Resolution read.

The question being on the adoption of the resolution.

The roll was called, and Assembly Joint Resolution No. 7 adopted by the following vote:

AYES—Senators Biggar, Crittenden, Difani, Fletcher, Gordon, Jespersen, Keough, King, Knowland, McColl, McGovern, McGuinness, Metzger, Mixter, Olson, Parkman, Perry, Pierovich, Powers, Reindollar, Rich, Seawell, Sharkey, Slater, Snyder, Swing, Tickle, Waggy, and Young—29.

Assembly Bill No. 208—An act to prohibit until January 1, 1937, sales under certain chattel mortgages for default in the payment of the principal sum, to extend the statute of limitations upon such obligations, to make voidable at the instance of the owner any sale made in violation of the act, to prescribe the time within which an action to avoid such a sale may be brought, and to declare the urgency thereof, and to provide that this act take effect immediately.

Bill read third time.

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 4. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety, within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution, and shall therefore go into immediate effect.

The facts constituting the necessity are as follows: A severe economic depression exists throughout the State, rendering many of its citizens unable to pay the principal sum of their debts or to otherwise finance their loans. As a result thereof, through foreclosure actions, they are being deprived of their property. The provisions of the mortgage moratorium statute are being evaded by persons who in addition to the security afforded by real estate mortgages and deeds of trust on real estate, also take chattel mortgages to secure the same obligations. Consequently the evil sought to be corrected by statutes relating to mortgages on mortgages and deeds of trusts on real estate can not be completely effective unless the situation covered by this act is remedied.

Urgency clause read.

The question being on the adoption of the urgency clause.

The roll was called, and the urgency clause adopted by the following vote:

AYES—Senators Riggall, Crittenden, Difani, Fletcher, Garrison, Gordon, Haas, Jespersen, Keough, King, Knowland, McColl, McGovern, McGinness, Meyer, Olson, Parkman, Perry, Pierovich, Remdollar, Rich, Seawell, Sharkay, Slater, Stabler, Stow, Swing, Wagy, Williams, and Young—30.

NOES—None.

Consideration Postponed.

Further consideration of Assembly Bill No. 208 was postponed, on request of Senator Swing.

Assembly Bill No. 524—An act to amend sections 821 and 827 of the Agricultural Code, relating to apples; to declare the urgency hereof and to provide that this act take effect immediately.

Bill read third time.

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 3. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety, within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution, and shall therefore take effect immediately.

The facts constituting the necessity are as follows:

During the past several years the growers of Gravenstein apples in this State have experienced considerable difficulty in the profitable marketing of their crop. This was caused particularly in the foreign markets by competition from foreign countries as well as by competition from certain sections of the United States. From a careful study of the facts it has been very apparent that something must be done immediately, otherwise the Gravenstein apple industry will suffer materially. This act will place upon the markets a product far superior to that which has been offered during the past. It is imperative that the growers receive this protection for the coming season's crop which is harvested during normal years, starting the latter part of June and ending about the middle of August. If this law should not be passed as an urgency measure the growers will not receive any benefits until 1936.

Urgency clause read.

The question being on the adoption of the urgency clause.

The roll was called, and the urgency clause adopted by the following vote:

AYES—Senators Biggar, Crittenden, Difani, Fletcher, Garrison, Gordon, Hays, Hulse, Jespersen, Keough, King, Knowland, McColl, McGovern, McGuinness, Metzger, Mixer, Olson, Parkman, Pierovich, Powers, Reindollar, Rich, Seawell, Sharkey, Slater, Snyder, Stow, Swing, Wagy, Williams, and Young—32.

Consideration of Committee Amendments.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Oil Industries, the following amendments to Senate Bill No. 781 were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out all of line 1 of the title, and insert in lieu thereof the following: "An act to amend sections 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15 and 17, and to repeal section 14a of an act entitled "An act to prevent fraud or".

Amendment No. 2.

On page 1, line 3, of the printed bill, after "SECTION 1.", insert the following: "A. For the purposes of this act "gasoline" is defined to be any liquid petroleum product offered for sale, which conforms to the following specifications:

(a) It shall be free from water and suspended matter.

(b) A clean copper strip shall not show more than extremely slight discoloration when submerged in the gasoline for three (3) hours, at one hundred twenty-two degrees Fahrenheit, the test being conducted in accordance with the American Society for Testing Materials, Standard D 130-30, as published in "American Society for Testing Materials Standards," 1930.

(c) It shall distill, within the following limits, when tested in accordance with the American Society for Testing Materials, Standard D 86-30, as published in "American Society for Testing Materials Standards," 1930, using the low distillation thermometer:

(1) When ten per cent has been recovered in the receiver, the thermometer shall not read more than one hundred seventy-six degrees Fahrenheit, nor less than one hundred twenty-two degrees Fahrenheit; provided that, if the total distillation loss is less than four per cent, then for each per cent of difference between four per cent and the total distillation loss, the minimum temperature requirement of one hundred twenty-two degrees Fahrenheit, at which ten per cent is recovered, shall be lowered five and four-tenths degrees Fahrenheit.

(2) When fifty per cent has been recovered in the receiver, the thermometer shall not read more than two hundred eighty-four degrees Fahrenheit.

(3) When ninety per cent has been recovered in the receiver, the thermometer shall not read more than three hundred ninety-two degrees Fahrenheit.

(4) The end point shall not be higher than four hundred thirty-seven degrees Fahrenheit.

(5) At least ninety-five per cent shall be recovered as distillate in the receiver from the distillation.

B. The word "person", whenever used in this act, shall mean and include, but without limitation, any natural person, partnership, association, trustee, receiver, assignee for the benefit of creditors, or corporation, and any member, officer, agent or employee thereof.

SEC. 2. Section 2 of the act cited in the title hereof is hereby amended to read as follows:

SEC. 2. It shall be unlawful for any person to sell, offer for sale, or assist in the sale of or permit to be sold or offered for sale, or deliver or offer to deliver to any premises for the purpose of sale, any product as or purporting to be "gasoline," unless the same shall conform to the foregoing specifications.

SEC. 3. It shall be unlawful for any person to sell, offer for sale or assist in the sale of, or permit to be sold or offered for sale, or deliver or offer for delivery any gasoline, as hereinbefore in section 1 of this act defined, or any oil represented as lubricating or motor oil for internal combustion engines, at any place where petroleum products are kept or stored for sale, unless and until there shall be firmly attached to or painted upon each container, receptacle, pump, and inlet end of the fillpipe of each underground storage tank, from which or into which such gasoline or oil is drawn or poured out for sale or delivery, and so as to be plainly visible, a sign or label consisting of the word or words, in letters not less than one-half (1/2) of an inch in height, "gasoline," "lubricating oil" or "motor oil," as the case may be, together with the brand, trade-mark or trade name of such product;

If any such lubricating or motor oil so sold, or so offered for sale or delivery, has been previously used for the lubrication of internal combustion engines or any gearing or shafting attached to or connected thereto, or for any other lubricating purposes, and has been rerun, filtered, redistilled or reclaimed, each such sign or label shall bear the words in letters of Gothic type with a stroke of not less than nine-sixteenths inch in width, and not less than three (3) inches in height "Reclaimed used lubricating oil," or "Reclaimed used motor oil", as the case may be, in addition to the brand, trade-mark or trade name of such product; provided, however, that letters of Gothic type with a stroke of not less than three thirty-seconds inch and not less than one-half (1/2) inch in height shall be sufficient on all containers with a capacity of one gallon or less.

Provided, that in attaching such sign or label to the inlet end of the fillpipe of an underground storage tank, it shall consist of a tag or plate firmly attached or affixed to such fillpipe, at said end, so as to be plainly visible when filling same, but the letters thereon may be any convenient size; and

As to any bottles used for dispensing lubricating or motor oil, either unused or reclaimed, if such bottles are kept in baskets, stands or racks for holding same, it shall be sufficient to label each such basket, stand or rack in lieu of labeling the bottle itself, but no bottles containing reclaimed lubricating or motor oil shall be kept or commingled in any basket, stand or rack containing any bottles used to dispense unused lubricating or motor oils; and

If any gasoline shall have no brand, trade-mark or trade name, each such sign or label therefor shall consist of the words, in letters of Gothic type with a stroke of not less than nine-sixteenths inch in width, and not less than three (3) inches in height, "gasoline, no brand," and if any lubricating or motor oil shall have no brand, trade-mark or trade name, each such sign or label therefor shall consist of the words, in letters of Gothic type with a stroke of not less than nine-sixteenths inch in width, and not less than three (3) inches in height, "lubricating oil, no brand," "motor oil, no brand"; provided, however, that if such lubricating or motor oil shall be reclaimed oil, each such sign or label shall also include the words "Reclaimed used lubricating oil" or "Reclaimed used motor oil," as the case may be. And, provided further, that letters of Gothic type with a stroke of not less than three-thirtyseconds inch and not less than one-half (1/2) inch in height shall be sufficient on all containers with a capacity of one gallon or less. This provision as to size of letters shall not apply to signs or labels at the inlet end of any underground storage tank, which letters may be of any convenient size but must be plainly visible when filling such underground storage tank.

SEC. 4. Section 4 of the act cited in the title hereof is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 4. It shall be unlawful for any person to sell, offer for sale, or to cause or to permit to be sold or offered for sale, or deliver or offer for delivery, any petroleum product as a fuel for internal combustion engines at any place where petroleum products are kept or stored for sale, which does not conform to the requirements of section 1 of this act, unless and until there shall be firmly attached to or painted upon each container, receptacle, pump, and inlet end of the fillpipe of each underground storage tank, from which or into which such petroleum product is drawn or poured for sale or delivery, and so as to be plainly visible, a sign or label comprising the brand, trade-mark or trade name of such fuel, or the words "no brand," which words shall be in letters of Gothic type with a stroke of not less than three-sixteenths inch in width and not less than three (3) inches in height, on a white background, the words "not gasoline."

Such sign or label shall consist of a tag or plate firmly attached or affixed to the fillpipe at the end, so as to be plainly visible while filling same, but the letters thereon may be of any convenient size.

SEC. 5. Section 5 of the act cited in the title hereof is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 5. It shall be unlawful for any person to transport in any tank wagon or tank truck or trailer, for the purpose of sale, or for delivery to any place where petroleum products are kept or stored for sale, any petroleum products as a fuel for internal combustion engines, unless and until there shall be firmly attached to or affixed at each outlet faucet or valve of each such tank wagon, tank truck and trailer, a metal tag, plate or label, on which is displayed, in letters not less than one-half (1/2) inch in height, the name of the particular producer in the tank compartment of the tank wagon, tank truck or trailer with which such valve or faucet is connected; and the brand, trade-mark, or trade name of such product, or the words "no brand"; and if such product does not conform to the requirements of section 1 of this act, there shall also be displayed on a corresponding tag, plate, or label, in red letters not less than one (1) inch in height, the words "not gasoline."

SEC. 6. Section 8 of the act cited in the title hereof is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 8. It shall be unlawful for any person to sell, attempt to sell, offer for sale or assist in the sale of, any gasoline, distillate or other motor fuel, or lubricating or motor oil, for use in internal combustion engines, and wilfully and falsely represent such gasoline, distillate or other motor fuel or lubricating oil or motor oil to be the product of any manufacturer, refiner or producer other than the true manufacturer, refiner or producer thereof; and it shall be unlawful for any person, or any member of a firm or association, or any officer of a corporation, knowingly to permit any employee of such individual, firm, association or corporation, to sell, offer for sale or assist in the sale of, any gasoline, distillate or other motor fuel, or lubricating or motor oil, for use in internal combustion engines, and falsely represent such gasoline, distillate or other motor fuel or lubricating or motor oil to be the product of any manufacturer, refiner or producer, other than the true manufacturer, refiner or producer thereof.

Neither this section nor section 5 shall apply to any person who sells or offers for sale or transports under his own trade-mark, trade name or brand, the product of another manufacturer, refiner, or producer, if he has first obtained the written consent of such manufacturer, refiner or producer so to sell or transport such product, which written consent must specify the brand, trade-mark or trade name under which such product is to be sold.

SEC. 7. Section 9 of the act cited in the title hereof is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 9. It shall be unlawful for any person to deposit or deliver into any tank, pump, container or receptacle, or into any bottle or bottles kept in a basket, stand or rack, at any place where petroleum products are kept or stored for sale, any gasoline or other motor fuel, or any distillate, kerosene, lubricating or motor oil, other than that indicated by the brand, trade-mark or trade name displayed on such tank, pump, container, receptacle, bottle, basket, stand or rack, or the inlet end of the underground storage tank, except as provided in section 8 of this act.

SEC. 8. Section 10 of the act cited in the title hereof is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 10. It shall be unlawful for any person engaged in the business of selling at retail any gasoline or other motor fuel, or any distillate, or kerosene, or any lubricating or motor oil for internal combustion engines, to display any sign or other designating mark at or near the place of business of such person describing or designating a brand, trade-mark or trade name of a gasoline or other motor fuel, distillate, kerosene, or lubricating or motor oil for internal combustion engines, not actually sold or offered for sale or delivery at the place of business where such sign or other designating mark is displayed.

Sec. 11. It shall be unlawful for any person to advertise at any place where gasoline or other motor fuel or any distillate or kerosene or lubricating or motor oil for internal combustion engines, is sold or kept for sale, without also clearly and conspicuously showing on the same sign, board, placard or other place where such price is so advertised, the name of the particular product, the price of which is so advertised, and also the trade name or brand, if any, of the product so offered for sale, and if such product has no trade name or brand, then the words "no brand" shall be so displayed in connection with the designation of the product.

SEC. 10. Section 12 of the act cited in the title hereof is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 12. It shall be unlawful for any person to mix or adulterate any gasoline or other motor fuel, distillate, kerosene, or lubricating or motor oil, and to fraudulently sell or offer for sale or attempt to sell or assist in the sale of, any of the products resulting from such mixture or adulteration as the gasoline or other motor fuel, distillate, kerosene, or lubricating or motor oil, of a brand, trade-mark or trade name, maintained and in general use by the manufacturer, refiner, producer or marketer of either or both of the products so mixed or adulterated or by any other manufacturer, refiner, producer or marketer.

Sec. 13. It shall be unlawful for any person to place, store or keep, or cause or permit to be placed, stored or kept, for the purpose of sale, in any storage tank, underground or otherwise, container or receptacle, any petroleum product if such tank contains or has previously contained a different product, or the product of a different manufacturer, refiner, producer or marketer unless and until such tank, container or receptacle shall first have been emptied and relabeled in all respects in accordance with the provisions of this act.

Sec. 14.

(a) It shall be unlawful for any person to attach or connect, or to cause or permit to be attached or connected, any pump, container or other device, used for or in the drawing, pouring, or delivery of any petroleum product referred to in this act, and intended for sale, to or with any tank or receptacle containing any petroleum product or any liquid other than the one described on the label, tag or sign attached or affixed to such pump, container or other device.

(b) It shall be unlawful for any person in making any sale, to pump, draw, furnish, or deliver, or to cause or permit to be pumped, drawn, furnished or delivered, by means of, or through, any pump or other device, any product other than the one described on the label, tag or sign attached or affixed to such pump or other device.

SEC. 13. Section 15 of the act cited in the title hereof is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 15. The Division of Weights and Measures of the Department of Agriculture, and every person authorized by it, each county sealer and deputy county sealer, each city and county sealer and deputy thereof, and every sealer and deputy sealer of each incorporated city and town, in the State of California, and any person now or hereafter authorized or empowered by law to inspect the petroleum products in this act referred to, are hereby severally authorized and empowered to take such sample or samples as may be necessary of any petroleum or petroleum product kept or stored for the purpose of sale within the State of California. All such samples shall be taken in accordance with the American Society for Testing Materials Standard D 270-33, as published in "American Society for Testing Materials Standards on Petroleum Products and Lubricants," 1934.

It shall be unlawful for any person to refuse to permit any person authorized by this section to take such sample or samples, or to prevent or to attempt to prevent the taking of such sample or samples;

Provided, however, that if the owner or person in possession of such product shall at the time of said taking, demand payment for the commodity taken, then said person taking such sample shall pay therefor the reasonable market price thereof.

SEC. 14. Section 17 of the act cited in the title hereof is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 17. Any person who violates any of the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be punishable by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for a period of not more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment. Each such person shall be deemed guilty of a separate offense, for each day during any portion of which any violation of any provision of this act is committed, authorized or permitted by such person and shall be punishable therefor as provided in this act.

SEC. 15. Section 14a of the act cited in the title hereof is hereby repealed."

If the jury shall find the defendant guilty, or if the defendant pleads only not guilty by reason of insanity, then the question whether the defendant was sane or insane at the time the offense was committed shall be promptly tried, either before the same jury or before a new jury in the discretion of the court. In such trial the jury shall return a verdict either that the defendant was sane at the time the offense was committed or that he was insane at the time the offense was committed. If the verdict or finding be that the defendant was sane at the time the offense was committed the court shall sentence the defendant as provided by law. If the verdict or finding be that the defendant was insane at the time the offense was committed, the court unless it shall appear to the court that the defendant has fully recovered his sanity shall direct that the defendant be confined in the State Hospital for the Criminally Insane, or if there be no such State hospital, then that he be confined in some other State hospital for the insane; if, however, it shall appear to the court that the defendant has fully recovered his sanity such defendant shall be removed to the custody of the sheriff until his sanity shall have been finally determined in the manner prescribed by law. A defendant committed to a State hospital shall not be released from confinement unless and until the court which committed him, or the superior court of the county in which he is confined, shall, after notice and hearing, find and determine that his sanity has been restored. In the event such hearing is held in the county in which the defendant is confined, notice as ordered by the court shall be given to the district attorney of said county and also to the district attorney of the county from which said defendant was committed. Nothing in this section".

Amendment No. 1.

On page 2 of the printed bill, between lines 40 and 41, insert the following:

"SEC. 3. A new section is hereby added to the act cited in the title thereof, to read as follows:

Sec. 5a. Within ten days after adoption of such ordinance declaring that the use for park purposes of such land shall be discontinued and abandoned, or the adoption of the resolution of discontinuance of a minor portion of any such park, as provided in section 1 of this act, any property owner claiming damage to his property by reason of the discontinuance or abandonment of such park or portion thereof, whether as owner of abutting property or otherwise, shall file a claim in writing setting forth the nature and amount of such claim, and a failure to file and assert such claim shall operate as a waiver and constitute a bar to any action to recover for any such damage.

If any such claims are filed within the time specified, the legislative body of such municipal corporation shall appoint three appraisers to assess the damages, and for their services they shall receive such compensation as said legislative body shall fix. Said appraisers shall proceed with diligence to ascertain and determine the extent of damages which will result to the property of each claimant and shall file a written report of their findings with the city clerk. The city clerk shall thereupon give notice of such filing and fixing the time and place of the meeting at which said report will be considered by the legislative body of said municipal corporation. Said notice shall be published for at least two weeks prior to said meeting in a newspaper published in said city; and if there is no newspaper published in said city, then by posting said notice in three public places within said city for two weeks prior to said meeting. Said notice shall require all persons interested to show cause, if any, why such report should not be confirmed. At the time fixed for the hearing of said report, or at such other time as the hearing may be adjourned to, the legislative body of said municipal corporation shall pass upon said report, together with any objections that shall be made thereto, and may confirm, correct or modify the same.

Upon the adoption of said report, either as filed by the appraisers or as corrected and modified by said legislative body, warrants shall be drawn in favor of the various property owners to whom damages have been allowed in the amount specified in said report, said warrants to be payable out of any funds available for such purpose, or from any funds provided for such purpose by the owner of the lands for which such park property may be exchanged."

Senate Bill No. 225—An act to provide for the establishment, government, and maintenance of an institution or farm for the confinement, cure, care and rehabilitation of certain drug addicts and to provide for the admission and commitment of such addicts.

Consideration of Committee Amendment.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Prisons and Reformatories, the following amendment to Senate Bill No. 225 was read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1, line 1, of the printed bill, after the period, insert the following: "This act shall be known and may be cited as the State Narcotic Farm Act."

SEC. 2. As used in this act:

(a) "Recurrent narcotic addict" means a person who has previously been committed to the State Narcotic Hospital or to any other State hospital for treatment for habit forming narcotic addiction, or who, while addicted to the use of narcotics, has been confined in a county or city jail or State prison for a period of eight months or more, and who has subsequently recurred to the use of narcotics and is in fact a narcotic addict at the time of arrest.

(b) "Farm" means the State Narcotic Farm established by this act.

(c) "Director" means the Director of the State Department of Institutions.

(d) "County" includes "city and county."

SEC. 3. The director, with the approval of the State Board of Control, shall provide on the grounds of the State Narcotic Hospital an institutional unit to be used for the isolation, confinement, cure, care and rehabilitation of recurrent narcotic addicts. This institutional unit shall be known as the State Narcotic Farm, and shall be administered by the director as provided by law for State institutions.

SEC. 4. The director shall adopt rules and regulations, not inconsistent with the Constitution and laws of this State, for the government of the State Narcotic Farm, and for the conduct and discipline of the inmates of said farm, and may change such rules and regulations from time to time. Any person violating any such rule or regulation is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 5. The director shall appoint a superintendent who shall reside at the State Narcotic Farm and, subject to the direction of the director, shall have the charge, management, and control of said farm and of its property, and shall have charge, control, discipline and training of its inmates. The superintendent shall give a bond to the State, in such sum and with such sureties as will be satisfactory to the State Board of Control, for the faithful performance of his duty. The director shall with the approval of the Governor fix the salary of the superintendent.

SEC. 6. The inmates of the State Narcotic Farm shall be employed under such conditions and in such healthful work suitable to their physical condition as the director may direct.

The director may establish industries, plants, factories, or shops for the manufacture of articles, commodities, and supplies for the State government and for that purpose the director may purchase at current market prices such raw materials, articles, commodities or supplies as he considers necessary.

SEC. 7. Whenever it appears by affidavit to the satisfaction of a magistrate of a county that any person is a recurrent narcotic addict within the meaning of this act, such magistrate must issue and deliver to some peace officer for service, a warrant directing that such person be arrested and taken before a judge of the superior court for a hearing and examination on such charge. Such officer must thereupon arrest and detain such person until a hearing and examination can be had. At the time of the arrest, a copy of the affidavit and warrant of arrest must be personally delivered to such person. Such affidavit and warrant of arrest must be substantially in the form provided by section 2168 of the Political Code for the arrest of a person charged with insanity.

SEC. 8. The person charged must be taken before a judge of the superior court, to whom the affidavit and warrant of arrest must be delivered, to be filed with the clerk. The judge shall then inform the person charged of his rights to make a defense to such charge and to produce any witnesses in relation thereto.

SEC. 9. The judge shall by order fix such time and place for the hearing and examination in open court as will permit a reasonable opportunity for the production and examination of witnesses. The judge shall retain the defendant for physical examination and observation for a period of 60 hours under secret supervision to ascertain if he is addicted to the use of narcotic drugs. The order must be entered at length in the minute book of the court, or must be signed by the judge and filed, and a certified copy of the order must be served on the person charged. The judge may also order that the notice of the arrest of the person charged and of the hearing of the charge be served on such relatives of the person charged who are known to be residing in the county as the court considers necessary or proper.

SEC. 10. The judge may cause witnesses to be summoned and examined before him, and after a hearing and examination, if he believes the person charged is a recurrent narcotic addict, the court shall make an order that such person be confined in the State Narcotic Farm for an indeterminate period of not less than three years and until discharged as provided in this act.

SEC. 11. If the court finds that the person charged is not a recurrent narcotic addict, but is a "drug addict" as that term is defined in the Narcotic Rehabilitation Act, then the court shall proceed as provided in that act.

SEC. 12. At the hearing the court shall inquire into the financial condition of the person committed, and if the court finds such person able to do so, in whole or in part, a further order must be made requiring him to pay to the State, to the extent the court may consider just, the expenses of the proceedings in connection with the commitment of such person, expenses of his delivery to the State Narcotic Farm, and to pay to the State such sums as in the opinion of the court are proper, during such time as the person committed may remain in the farm.

SEC. 13. Except as otherwise provided in section 14, any person committed to the farm may after the expiration of three years be discharged by the superintendent, by and with the consent of the director, and subject to such terms and conditions as the director may establish in order to carry out the purposes of this act. No inmate shall be discharged unless and until the Medical Superintendent of the State Narcotic Hospital has certified that the inmate is no longer a drug addict as that term is defined in the Narcotic Rehabilitation Act.

SEC. 14. Any person who violates any of the terms and conditions of his discharge is guilty of a misdemeanor and is punishable by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than six months. If any such person has recurred to the use of narcotics he shall be returned to the State Narcotic Farm for an indeterminate period of not less than five years. At the end of that period he may again be discharged as provided in this act for a discharge in the first instance.

SEC. 15. No inmate must be discharged from the State Narcotic Farm without suitable clothing adapted to the season in which he is discharged; and, if it can not otherwise be obtained, the superintendent with the approval of the director shall furnish such clothing and also money, not exceeding twenty-five dollars, to defray the necessary expenses of such person until he can reach his relatives or friends, or find employment to earn a subsistence.

SEC. 16. Any addict who is charged with a felony at the time of his commitment to the State Narcotic Farm shall, after the period of commitment, or upon being discharged, be returned to the court to answer for the felony of which he was charged at the time of his commitment to the State Narcotic Farm.

SEC. 17. Witnesses at hearings for the commitment of recurrent narcotic addicts shall be entitled to receive the usual fees and expenses allowed by law in other cases in such courts. Any fees or traveling expenses payable to any witness in any proceeding for the commitment of a recurrent narcotic addict, and all expenses connected with the execution of any process under this act, which are not paid by the addict or any person charged with his support, shall be paid by the State Treasurer.

SEC. 18. It is the duty of the sheriff of any county wherein an order is made by any court committing any person under this act or returning such person to the court, or of any other person designated by said court, to execute the writ of commitment or order of return, and to receive as compensation therefor such fees as are now or may hereafter be provided by law for the transportation of prisoners to the State prison, and payable in the same manner.

SEC. 19. Any person not authorized by law, who brings into any buildings on the farm, or within the grounds thereof, any opium, morphine, cocaine, or other narcotic, or any intoxicating liquor of any kind whatever, except for medicinal or mechanical purposes, or any firearms, weapons or explosives of any kind, is guilty of a felony.

SEC. 20. If any person procures the escape of any inmate of the farm, or advises, connives at, aids or assists in such escape, or conceals any such inmate after such escape, such person is guilty of a misdemeanor, and is punishable by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than one year.

SEC. 21. Every inmate of the farm who escapes therefrom is punishable by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than one year, nor more than two years; and after completion of such imprisonment such escaped inmate shall be returned to the farm to complete his unfinished term.

Notwithstanding any provision of law heretofore enacted, a complaint, information or indictment for the violation of any provision of this section may be filed within three years of said violation.

SEC. 22. Anyone who shall knowingly contrive to have any person adjudged a recurrent narcotic addict under this act, unlawfully or improperly, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 23. Section 2185c of the Political Code, in so far as it applies to the commitment of drug addicts is superseded by the provisions of this act.

SEC. 24. The invalidity of any part of this act shall not be construed to affect the validity of any other part capable of having practical operation and effect without the invalid part."

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, and re-referred to Committee on Prisons and Reformatories.

Senate Bill No. 472—An act to amend the Insurance Code by amending Article 14 of Chapter 1 of Part 2 of Division 1 thereof, relating to proceedings against insolvent insurers.

Consideration of Committee Amendment.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Insurance, the following amendment to Senate Bill No. 472 was read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out all of lines 5 to 8, both inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"Article 14. Proceedings in Cases of Insolvency and Delinquency.

1010. The provisions of this article shall apply to all persons subject to examination by the commissioner, or purporting to do insurance business in this State, or in the process of organization with intent to do such business therein, or from whom the commissioner's certificate of authority is required for the transaction of business, or whose certificate of authority is revoked or suspended.

1011. Upon the filing by the commissioner with the superior court in the county in which is located the principal office of such person in this State, of a verified application showing any of the following conditions to exist:

(a) That such person has refused to submit its books, papers, accounts, or affairs to the reasonable inspection of the commissioner or his deputy or examiner.

(b) That such person has neglected or refused to observe an order of the commissioner to make good within the time prescribed by law any deficiency in its capital if it is a stock corporation, or in its reserve if it is a mutual insurer.

(c) That such person, without first obtaining the consent in writing of the commissioner, has transferred, or attempted to transfer, substantially its entire property or business or, without such consent, has entered into any transaction the effect of which is to merge, consolidate, or reinsure substantially its entire property or business in or with the property or business of any other person.

(d) That such person is found, after an examination, to be in such condition that its further transaction of business will be hazardous to its policyholders, or creditors, or to the public.

(e) That such person has violated its charter or any law of the State.

(f) That a certificate of authority of such person has been revoked under section 10711.

(g) That any officer of such person refuses to be examined under oath, touching its affairs.

(h) That any officer or attorney-in-fact of such person has embezzled, sequestered, or wrongfully diverted any of the assets of such person.

(i) That a person of the class embraced within Chapter 9, Part 2, Division 2 of this code does not comply with the requirements for the issuance, to it, of a certificate of authority, or that its certificate of authority has been revoked under section 10883, or that its liabilities exceed its assets, including assessment rights actually exercised;

Or, upon the filing, by the commissioner, of a verified application accompanied by a certified copy of the commissioner's last report of examination of any person to whom the provisions of this article apply showing such person to be insolvent within the meaning of Article 13, Chapter 1, Part 2, Division 1 of this code, said court shall issue its order vesting title to all of the assets of said person, where-soever situated, in the commissioner or his successors in office, in his official capacity as such, and directing the commissioner forthwith to take possession of all of its books, records, property, real and personal, and assets, and to conduct, as conservator, the business of said person, or so much thereof as to the commissioner may seem appropriate, and enjoining said person and its officers, directors, agents, servants and employees from the transaction of its business or disposition of its property until a further order of said court.

1012. Said order shall continue in force and effect until, on the application either of the commissioner or of such person, it shall, after a full hearing, appear to said court that the ground for said order directing the commissioner to take title and possession does not exist or has been removed and that said person can properly resume title and possession of its property and the conduct of its business.

1013. Whenever it appears to the commissioner that any of the conditions set forth in section 1011 exist or that irreparable loss and injury to the property and business of a person specified in section 1010 has occurred or may occur unless the commissioner so act immediately, the commissioner, without notice and before applying to the court for any order, forthwith shall take possession of the property, business, books, records and accounts of such person, and of the offices and premises occupied by it for the transaction of its business, and retain possession subject to the order of the court. Any person having possession of and refusing to deliver any of the books, records or assets of a person against whom a seizure order has been issued by the commissioner, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punishable by fine not exceeding $1,000 or imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both such fine and imprisonment.

1014. Whenever the commissioner makes any seizure as provided in section 1013, it shall, on the demand of the commissioner, be the duty of the sheriff of any county of this State, and of the police departments of any municipal corporation therein, to furnish him with such detainers, jailbonds or officers as may be necessary to assist the commissioner in making and enforcing any such seizure.

1015. Immediately after such seizure, the commissioner shall institute a proceeding as provided for in section 1011 and thereafter shall proceed in accordance with the provisions of this article.

1016. If at any time after the issuance of an order under section 1011 it shall appear to the commissioner that further efforts to proceed under said section would be futile, he may apply to the court for an order to liquidate and wind up the business of said person. Upon a full hearing of such application, the court may make an order directing the winding up and liquidation of the business of such person by the commissioner, as liquidator. The title to all property and assets of such person, vested in the commissioner under section 1011, shall remain in the commissioner, as liquidator, for the purpose of carrying out the order to liquidate and wind up the business of such person.

1017. If, his application for an order for the liquidation of a domestic corporation, or at any time thereafter, the commissioner may apply for and the court shall make, an order dissolving such corporation, and thereupon the commissioner, as liquidator, shall become the statutory successor thereof.

1018. The recording in the office of a county recorder of any county in the State of an order entered pursuant to section 1011, 1016 or 1017 shall impart the same notice that would be imparted by the recording of a deed, bill of sale or other evidence of title duly executed by such person.

1019. Upon the issuance of an order of liquidation under section 1016, the rights and liabilities of any such person and of creditors, policyholders, shareholders and members, and all other persons interested in its assets shall, unless otherwise directed by the court, be fixed as of the date of the entry of the order in the office of the clerk of the county wherein the application was made.

1020. Upon the issuance of an order either under section 1011 or 1016, the court shall issue such other injunctions or orders as may be deemed necessary to prevent any or all of the following occurrences:

- (a) Interference with the commissioner or the proceeding.
- (b) Waste of assets of such person.
- (c) The institution or prosecution of any actions or proceedings.
- (d) The obtaining of preferences, judgments, attachments, or other liens against such person or its assets.
- (e) The making of any levy against any such person or its assets.

1021. Upon the making of an order to liquidate the business of such person, the commissioner shall cause to be published notice to its policyholders, creditors, shareholders, and all other persons interested in its assets. Such notice shall require claimants to file their claims with the commissioner, together with proper proofs thereof, within six months after the date of first publication of such notice, in the manner specified in this article.

1022. Such notice shall be published in a newspaper of general circulation, published in the county in which the proceeding is pending, not less than once a week for four successive weeks. A copy of the notice, accompanied by an affidavit of due publication, including a statement of the date of first publication, shall be filed with the clerk of the court.

1023. A claim must set forth, under oath, on the form prescribed by the commissioner:

- (a) The particulars thereof, and the consideration therefor.
- (b) Whether said claim is secured or unsecured, and, if secured, the nature and amount of such security.
- (c) The payments, if any, made thereon.
- (d) That the sum claimed is justly owing from such person to the claimant.
- (e) That there is no offset to the claim.
- (f) Such other data or supporting documents as the commissioner requires.

1021. Upon the making of an order to liquidate the business of such person, the section 1021, it shall not be entitled to filing or allowance, and no action may be maintained thereon. In the liquidation, pursuant to the provisions of this article, of any domestic insurer which has issued policies insuring the lives of persons, the commissioner shall, within thirty days after the last day set for the filing of claims, make a list of the persons who have not filed proofs of claim with him and to whom, according to the books of said insurer, there are amounts owing under such policies, and he shall set opposite the name of each person the amount so owing to such person. Each person whose name shall appear upon said list shall be deemed to have duly filed, prior to the last day set for the filing of claims, a claim for the amount set opposite his name on said list.

1025. Claims founded upon unliquidated or undetermined demands must be filed within the time limit provided in this article for the filing of claims, but claims founded upon such demands shall not share in any distribution to creditors of a person proceeded against under section 1016 until such claims have been definitely determined, proved and allowed. Thereafter, such claims shall share ratably with other claims of the same class in all subsequent distributions.

An unliquidated or undetermined claim or demand within the meaning of this article shall be deemed to be any such claim or demand upon which a right of action has accrued at the date of the order of liquidation or accrues within the time limit provided in this article for the filing of claims, and upon which the liability has not been determined or the amount thereof liquidated; provided, however, that claims founded upon judicial surety bonds and undertakings securing unperfected obligations shall be deemed to be unliquidated and undetermined demands within the meaning of this section.

1026. Whenever any person has a cause of action against an insured and such cause is covered by a liability policy, such person, if the insurer is adjudged insolvent, may file a claim in the liquidation proceeding even if the claim is undetermined or unliquidated.

1027. A claim by a third party founded upon an insurance policy may be allowed by the liquidator without requiring such claim to be referred to judgment, provided it can be reasonably inferred from the proof presented that the claimant would be able to obtain a judgment upon his cause of action against the insured and that such judgment would represent a liability of the person in liquidation under the policy of insurance upon which such claim is founded.

In the event several claims founded upon one policy or bond are filed, and the aggregate amount of such claims exceeds the liability limit of said policy or bond, and one or more of such claims is unliquidated and undetermined, then all of such claims shall be deemed unliquidated and undetermined; provided, however, that should one or more of said claims become determined and proved within the time provided in this article, the liquidator, upon any distribution to creditors, shall impound the distribution percentage of the face amount of said claim or claims so determined and proved, not exceeding the policy or bond limit, and upon such claim or claims becoming liquidated as to amount, the liquidator shall release to such claimant the distribution percentage of the final liquidated value of such claims out of the funds so impounded.

1028. A judgment taken by default, or by collusion, against an insured shall not be considered as evidence, in the liquidation proceeding, either of the liability of such insured to such claimant upon such cause of action or of the amount of damages to which such claimant is entitled.

1029. A claim of a secured claimant shall not be allowed in a sum greater than the excess over the value of the security of the amount for which the claim would be allowable if unsecured, unless the claimant surrenders the security to the liquidator. Upon such surrender the claim may be allowed in the full amount for which it is valued.

1030. The value of the security to be credited upon such claim shall be determined by an appraiser appointed by the liquidator and approved by the court. Such claimant shall elect to accept the security or to release it to the liquidator.

1031. In all cases of mutual debts or mutual credits between the person in liquidation under section 1016 and any other person, such credits and debts shall be set off and the balance only shall be allowed or paid, but no set-off shall be allowed in favor of such other person where any of the following facts exist:

(a) The obligation of the person in liquidation to such other person does not entitle such other person claiming such set-off to share as a claimant in the assets of such person in liquidation.

(b) The obligation of the person in liquidation to such other person was purchased by, or transferred to, such other person with a view to its use as a set-off.

(c) The obligation of such other person to the person in liquidation is to pay an assessment levied against such other person or to pay a balance upon a subscription for shares of the capital stock of the person in liquidation.

1032. When a claim is rejected by the commissioner, written notice of rejection shall be given by mail, addressed to the claimant at the address set forth in his claim. Within thirty days after the mailing of the notice the claimant may apply to the court in which the liquidation proceeding is pending for an order to show cause why the claim should not be allowed.

1033. Claims allowed in a proceeding under this article shall be given preference in the following order:

1. Expense of administration; 2. Claims having preference by the laws of the United States and by the laws of this State; 3. All other claims.

1034. After the issuance of an order of liquidation under section 1016, any of the following transactions occurring within four months prior to the application for such order shall be voidable by the commissioner if such transaction has the effect of giving to or enabling any creditor of such person to obtain a preference over any other creditor of the same class, or a greater percentage of his debt than any other creditor of the same class:

(a) A transfer of property of such person.

(b) The creation of a lien on the property of such person.

(c) The suffering of a judgment against such person.

1035. In any proceeding under this article, the commissioner shall have the power to appoint and employ under his hand and official seal, special deputy commissioners, as his agents, and to employ such clerks and assistants and to give to each of them such power as may by him be deemed necessary. The compensation of special deputy commissioners, clerks and assistants appointed to carry out the provisions of this article, and all expenses of taking possession of, conserving, conducting, liquidating, disposing of or otherwise dealing with the business and property of such person under this article, shall be fixed by the commissioner, subject to the approval of the court, and shall be paid out of the assets of such person.

1036. The Attorney General shall have the power to appoint and employ such legal counsel as may by him be deemed necessary to assist the commissioner in the performance of his duties under this article. The compensation of such legal counsel shall be fixed by the Attorney General, subject to the approval of the court, and shall be paid out of the assets of the person against whom the commissioner has proceeded under this article.

1037. Upon taking possession of the property and business of any person in any proceeding under this article, the commissioner, exclusively and except as otherwise expressly provided by this article, either as conservator or liquidator:

(a) Shall have authority to collect all moneys due such person, and to do such other acts as are necessary or expedient to collect, conserve or protect its assets, property and business, and to carry on and conduct the business and affairs of such person or so much thereof as to him may seem appropriate.

(b) Shall collect all debts due and claims belonging to said person, and shall have the authority to sell, compound, compromise or assign, for the purpose of collection upon such terms and conditions as he deems best, any bad or doubtful debts. If a purchaser for any bad or doubtful debts can not be obtained and it appears improbable that recovery thereon can be had and that the costs of actions to enforce collection of the same would probably be lost, said court may direct either the abandonment thereof or that suits thereon need not be brought.

(c) Shall have authority to compound, compromise or in any other manner negotiate settlements of claims against such person upon such terms and conditions as he shall deem to be most advantageous to the estate of the person being administered or liquidated or otherwise dealt with under this article.

(d) Shall have authority without notice, to acquire, hypothecate, encumber, lease, improve, sell, transfer or otherwise dispose of or deal with, any real or personal property of any such person at its reasonable market value, or, in cases other than acquisition, sale or transfer on the basis of reasonable market value, upon such terms and conditions as he may deem proper; provided, however, that no transaction involving real or personal property shall be made where the market value of the property involved exceeds the sum of one thousand dollars without first obtaining permission of said court, and then only in accordance with such terms as said court may prescribe.

(e) May, for the purpose of executing and performing any of the powers and authority conferred upon him under this article, in the name of the person affected by the proceeding or in his own name, prosecute and defend any and all suits and other legal proceedings, and execute, acknowledge and deliver any and all deeds, assignments, releases and other instruments necessary and proper to effectuate any sale of any real or personal property or other transaction in connection with the administration, liquidation, or other disposition of the assets of the person affected by such proceeding; and any deed or other instrument executed pursuant to the authority hereby given shall be valid and effectual for all purposes as though the same had been executed by the person affected by any proceeding under this article or by its officers pursuant to the direction of its governing board or authority. In cases where any real property sold by the commissioner under this article is located in a county other than the county wherein the proceeding is pending, the commissioner shall cause a certified copy of the order of his appointment, or order authorizing or ratifying the sale, to be filed in the office of the county recorder of the county in which said property is located.

The enumeration, in this article, of the duties, powers and authority of the commissioner in proceedings under this article shall not be construed as a limitation upon the commissioner, nor shall it exclude in any manner his right to perform and to do such other acts not herein specifically enumerated, or otherwise provided for, which he may deem necessary or expedient for the accomplishment or in aid of the purpose of such proceedings.

1038. Any application under section 1011 or 1016 shall be served upon the person named in such application in the manner prescribed by law for personal service of summons or as provided by section 1039.

1039. In lieu of the service required by section 1038, service may, upon application to said court, be made in such manner as the court directs whenever it is satisfactorily shown by affidavit (a) in the case of a corporation, that the officers of the corporation upon whom service is required to be made as above provided have departed from the State or keep themselves concealed therein with intent to avoid the service, or, (b) in the case of a Lloyd's Association or insurance exchange, that the individual attorney in fact or the officers of the corporate attorney in fact can not be served because of such departure or concealment, or, (c) in the case of a natural person, that the natural person upon whom service is required to be made as above provided, has departed from the State or keeps himself concealed therein with intent to avoid the service.

1040. At any time after an order is made under section 1011 or 1016, the commissioner may remove the principal office of the person proceeded against to the City and County of San Francisco or to the city of Los Angeles. In event of such removal, the court wherein the proceeding was commenced shall, upon the application of the commissioner, direct its clerk to transmit all of the papers filed therein with such clerk to the clerk of the City and County of San Francisco or of the county of Los Angeles as the case may require. The proceeding shall thereafter be conducted in the same manner as though it had been commenced in the county to which it has been transferred.

1041. The commissioner shall be the custodian of all moneys collected by him or coming into his possession in the course of any proceeding under this article, but he may deposit such moneys, or any part thereof, in a bank approved by said court.

1042. The commissioner and a special deputy commissioner appointed pursuant to section 1035 shall have the power to subpoena witnesses and examine them under oath upon any subject relating to the affairs and business of any person affected by proceedings under this article. The penalties provided in Chapter II, Title III, Part IV of the Code of Civil Procedure shall apply to any witness who fails or refuses to appear in accordance with such subpoena, or to testify in connection therewith.

1043. In any proceeding under this article, the commissioner, as conservator or as liquidator, may, subject to the approval of said court, and subject to such liens as may be necessary, mutualize or reinsure the business of such person, or enter into rehabilitation agreements. Such rehabilitation or reinsurance agreements shall provide that, subsequent to the date thereof and for such period of time as the commissioner may determine, no investment or reinvestment of the assets of the person rehabilitated or reinsured shall be made without first obtaining the written approval of the commissioner.

Every party to such agreement, and every director, officer, agent and employee of such person, and every other person who knowingly in violation thereof directs or aids or assists in causing to be made an investment or reinvestment of any of said assets without first having obtained the written approval of the commissioner, or who makes such investment or reinvestment in nonconformity with the written approval of the commissioner then in effect authorizing such investment or reinvestment, is guilty of a public offense and shall be punished by imprisonment in the State prison not exceeding five years or in the county jail not exceeding two years, or by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

1044. In connection with a rehabilitation agreement under section 1043, which affects a life insurer, and in an agreement made for the reinsurance of the business of a life insurer under said section, there may be included in such rehabilitation or reinsurance agreement a provision for, and the commissioner shall have authority to impose and declare, a moratorium against the provisions of the life insurance policies therein involved calling for the making of loans on the security of such policies and for the payment of money upon the surrender of such policies, such moratorium to continue for such period and to such extent as may be directed by said court.

1045. If at any time after the issuance of an order under section 1011 affecting a life insurer issuing nonassessable policies on a reserve basis and organized with a capital stock evidenced by shares thereof it shall appear to the commissioner that the purposes of section 1011 can be best attained by the mutualization of such life insurer, the commissioner may formulate a plan for the mutualization of such insurer.

1046. Said mutualization plan shall include provisions for:

(a) The acquisition by such insurer of all outstanding shares of its capital stock at a price and upon terms and conditions to be fixed as hereinafter provided.

(b) The retirement of said shares of stock when acquired by such insurer.

(c) The amendment of the charter of such insurer so as to enable it to transact its business as a mutual insurer issuing nonassessable policies on a reserve basis.

(d) The manner in which and the time within which, after mutualization is effected, matured and maturing claims against such insurer shall be paid to the lawful holders thereof.

(e) The submission of said mutualization plan to the policyholders of such insurer under such procedure as shall be set forth in the plan or prescribed by said court, for their approval or rejection.

(f) Notice to the shareholders of such insurer, in such manner and at such time after the approval of said mutualization plan by said policyholders, as the court may direct.

1047. Said mutualization plan may include provisions:

(a) Imposing a moratorium against the provisions of the life insurance policies issued by such insurer and then in force calling for the making of loans on the security of such policies and for the payment of money upon the surrender of such policies, for a period and to an extent to be named in such provisions imposing such moratorium, and subject to extension change or prior termination only upon the written approval of the commissioner.

(b) Imposing liens upon policyholders of such insurer in respect of such policyholders' equities, but no lien shall be imposed in respect of such equities for the purpose, or which has the effect, of creating or making available for distribution to the shareholders of such insurer assets otherwise unavailable therefor or reflecting the intangible value of the business of such insurer commonly known as goodwill; nor shall the aggregate amount of such liens be greater than will be required, after making allowance for the effect of said mutualization plan and for costs and expenses to be incurred in connection with the execution thereof and with the conduct of such insurer's business under this article, to create a paid-in capital, as defined in section 36 (c) (1), exceeding by fifty thousand dollars the paid-in capital required to be maintained by such insurer.

(c) Regulating and adjusting the respective rights of holders of policies of different classes to participate in the profits or savings which may be made by such insurer when mutualized.

(d) Regulating the manner in which and the time at which the shareholders of such insurer shall be compensated for their proprietary interest, then existing, in the assets of such insurer other than goodwill.

(e) Regulating the manner in which the shareholders of such insurer shall be compensated for their proprietary interest in the goodwill, if then existing, of such insurer; provided, however, that no shareholder shall be compensated for his proprietary interest in such goodwill while any moratorium imposed under subdivision (a) of this section is in effect, nor while any lien imposed under subdivision (b) of this section exists, nor until all other indebtedness of such insurer existing at the time of mutualization has been fully paid and discharged or full provision made for its payment, nor otherwise than out of surplus earnings.

(f) Regulating such other matters as may, in the opinion of the commissioner, require regulation in the interest of expediency or otherwise.

1048. Upon formulation of said mutualization plan the commissioner shall submit the same to said court with his application for an order of said court directing the commissioner to submit said mutualization plan to the persons named in subdivisions (e) of section 1046, under such procedure as shall be set forth in the plan or prescribed by said court, for their approval or rejection, and the court shall issue such order.

1049. Each policyholder of such insurer shall be entitled to one vote, regardless of the amount for which, or the number of policies under which, he is insured. Such mutualization plan shall be deemed approved by the said policyholders if a majority of the policyholders voting for and against it shall have approved it, and shall be deemed rejected if a majority of the policyholders voting for and against it shall have rejected it. In the event that said plan of mutualization is rejected by the policyholders of such insurer, the commissioner shall certify the fact of such rejection to said court, whereupon he may proceed further as hereinbefore provided in this article.

1050. In the event that said plan of mutualization is approved by said policyholders, the commissioner shall certify to the said court the fact of such approval and the number of votes cast for and against such mutualization plan. Said court shall thereupon issue its order directing the commissioner to give notice, as provided in said mutualization plan or as the court may otherwise prescribe, to the shareholders of such insurer of the approval of said mutualization plan by said policyholders. Said order shall direct the commissioner to transmit to each such shareholder by mail addressed to his address as it appears upon the records of such insurer, a true copy of said order and of said mutualization plan approved by said policyholders, and shall fix a time, not less than thirty nor more than sixty days from the date of such order, within which any such shareholder may file with said court a petition for the disapproval of said mutualization plan or for its modification in such manner as shall be set forth in such petition, and within which any such shareholder and the commissioner may file with said court a petition for the appointment of one or more appraisers to appraise the value of the then outstanding shares of capital stock of such insurer.

1051. After the expiration of the time fixed in the order provided for in section 1050, and upon the filing of such petition, said court shall direct notice of a hearing of said petitions to be given to the commissioner and to such petitioners as are shareholders of such insurer. At such hearing, all petitions for the disapproval and all petitions for the modification of said mutualization plan shall be given precedence over all petitions for the appointment of one or more appraisers. Upon hearing of all such petitions for the disapproval and for the modification of said mutualization plan, said court shall either approve said mutualization plan or disapprove it or modify it in such manner and to such extent, not inconsistent with the provisions of this article, as to said court shall seem appropriate. In the event of the disapproval of said mutualization plan the court shall deny all petitions for the appointment of one or more appraisers. In the event of the approval or modification of said mutualization plan, the court shall, upon hearing of the petitions for the appointment of appraisers, appoint one or more appraisers, who shall appraise the then outstanding shares of the capital stock of such insurer, without regard to any appreciation or depreciation arising out of said mutualization plan as so approved or modified. Such appraisement shall fix the reasonable value of such shares of capital stock, including the goodwill, if any, of such insurer, and shall state the value, if any, assigned to such goodwill; and if the appraisers shall have found that such insurer has no goodwill, such finding shall be stated. Such appraisement, when confirmed by said court, shall be final and conclusive.

1052. Thereupon the commissioner shall:

(a) Pay to each of such shareholders or his assignee or nominee, upon surrender of the shares held by such shareholder, the value of said shares as ascertained; subject, however, to the restrictions of subdivisions (d) and (e) of section 1047, and subject, also, to the terms and conditions of the mutualization plan as approved or modified.

(b) Appoint, with the approval of the court, the requisite number of directors in whom shall thereafter be vested the control and management of the assets and business of such insurer until their successors shall have been elected and qualified.

(c) Transfer, upon the order of said court, to the appropriate officers appointed by such directors, the property, real and personal, and the books, records, accounts and papers of such insurer; provided, however, that the commissioner may retain, as a deposit, so much of such property as he deems necessary to defray additional costs and expenses incurred or to be incurred in connection with any proceeding under this article affecting such property or business.

1053. Immediately upon the appointment of the directors as provided in subdivision (b) of section 1052, the directors theretofore holding office shall cease to hold office, and all rights of the shareholders of such insurer to vote at any meeting of such insurer shall absolutely cease and such shareholders shall retain only such interest in such corporation or in the property or assets thereof as shall be provided in said mutualization plan, and such insurer shall thereupon be and become a mutual life insurer under such corporate name as may have been set forth in its charter, as amended, to be conducted not for profit, but solely for the mutual benefit, ratably, of all its policyholders, and shall, upon issuance of it by the commissioner of a certificate of authority, have power to issue nonassessable policies on a reserve basis subject to all provisions of law applicable to incorporated life insurers issuing nonassessable policies on a reserve basis, but shall be exempt from the provisions of Chapter 7, Part 2, Division 2 of this code.

1054. Such insurer, after mutualization, shall be a continuation of the original insurer, and such mutualization shall not affect existing suits, rights or contracts except as provided in said mutualization plan as approved. Such insurer, after mutualization, shall exercise all the rights and powers and perform all the duties conferred or imposed by law upon insurers writing the classes of insurance written by it, and to protect rights and contracts existing prior to mutualization, subject to the effect of said mutualization plan.

1056. All costs and expenses connected with proceedings for the mutualization of such insurer shall be paid by the commissioner out of the funds of such insurer, whether or not mutualized, subject to the approval of said court.

1057. In all proceedings under this article, the commissioner shall be deemed to be a trustee for the benefit of all creditors and other persons interested in the estate of the person against whom the proceedings are pending.

1058. In any proceeding pending under the provisions of this article, the court in which such proceeding is pending shall have jurisdiction to summarily hear and determine, in such proceeding, all actions or proceedings then pending or thereafter instituted by or against the person affected by a proceeding under this article.

1059. The commissioner, in the performance of any of his duties under this article, shall be deemed to be a public officer, acting in his official capacity on behalf of the State, and the provisions of section 4295 of the Political Code shall apply to him.

1060. The commissioner shall transmit to the Governor an annual report showing:

(a) The names of the persons proceeded against under this article.

(b) Whether such persons have resumed business or have been liquidated or have been mutualized.

(c) Such other facts as will acquaint the Governor, the policyholders, creditors, shareholders and the public with his proceedings under this article."

Senate Bill No. 908—An act to amend sections----- of the Insurance Code, to add new sections thereto, and to repeal certain sections thereof, relating to insurance principles, practice and matters incidental thereto.

Consideration of Committee Amendments.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Insurance the following amendments to Senate Bill No. 908 were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out lines 1 and 2 of the title and in line 3, strike out "thereof", and insert in lieu thereof the following: "An act to amend sections 286, 1072, 10200, and 10271 of the Insurance Code".

Amendment No. 2.

On page 1, line 1, of the printed bill, after the period insert the following: "Section 286 of the Insurance Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

286. An interest in property insured must exist when the insurance takes effect, and when the loss occurs, but need not exist in the meantime; an interest in the life or health of a person insured must exist when the insurance takes effect, but need not exist thereafter or when the loss occurs.

Sec. 2. Section 1072 of the Insurance Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

1072. The commissioner shall make an examination of the books of the insurer. If, upon such examination, he finds that the insurer has no outstanding liabilities to residents of this State and no unannulled policies in favor of the residents of this State, he shall cancel the insurer's certificates of authority. The commissioner may, in his discretion, waive any or all of the above requirements for canceling the certificate of authority of such insurer if, after such examination, he finds it to be in a solvent condition. All such examinations shall be at the expense of the insurer, and such expense shall be paid in advance.

Sec. 3. Section 10200 of the Insurance Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

10200. Any life insurer may issue life, disability, term, and endowment insurance on the group plan, with or without annuities, and with premium rates less than the usual rates for such insurance.

Sec. 4. Section 10271 of the Insurance Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

10271. Except as provided in section 10292, this chapter shall not apply to or in any way affect life insurance, endowment or annuity contracts or contracts supplemental thereto which contain no provisions relating to accident or health insurance except (a) such as provide additional benefits in case of death by accidental means and except (b) such as operate to safeguard such contracts against lapse, or to give a special surrender value, or special benefit, or an annuity, in the event that the insured or annuitant becomes totally and permanently disabled as defined by the contract or supplemental contract."

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, and re-referred to Committee on Insurance.

Senate Bill No. 895—An act to amend sections 10110 to 11524 of the Insurance Code, relating to life, disability, and life and disability insurance.

"SECTION 1. A new chapter, to be numbered Chapter 10a, comprising sections 11400 to 11407, inclusive, is hereby added to Part 2 of Division 2 of the Insurance Code, to read as follows:

Chapter 10a, Firemen's, Policemen's, or Peace Officers' Benefit and Relief Associations.

11400. Firemen's, policemen's or peace officers' benefit and relief associations now existing, or which may be formed hereafter, for the purpose of aiding their members or dependents of their members in case of sickness, accident, distress, or death, shall be subject to the provisions of this chapter. While such an association operates strictly in accordance with this chapter, it shall not be subject to any other provision of this code nor to any law of this State relating to insurance, whether now existing or hereafter enacted, except when expressly designated therein.

11401. Such an association shall not operate or do business in this State without a certificate of authority. The commissioner shall issue a certificate of authority to any such association unless he determines, after examination, that it does not comply with the provisions of this chapter.

11402. Such association may be incorporated or unincorporated, but if incorporated it shall neither issue nor be authorized to issue shares of stock.

11403. The membership of such association shall consist solely of the following or any combination thereof:

(a) Members of police departments of municipal or public corporations or districts.

(b) Members of fire departments of municipal or public corporations or districts.

(c) Peace or law enforcement officers who are regular and salaried officers or employees of the State or of a single county or other political subdivision or public or municipal corporation.

11404. Such association shall not pay, promise or agree to pay, either directly or indirectly, any consideration of any nature for the solicitation or procuring of members or applications for membership.

11405. The trustees, directors or governing body of such association, by whatever name their office is known or designated, shall be elected by the membership of the association.

11406. Moneys or property directly or indirectly contributed to such association by its members shall not be paid out as benefits to any persons other than its members, their dependents, or beneficiaries nominated in writing by them.

11407. Such association shall be supported mainly by contributions from its members, whether in the form of fees, dues, assessments, or otherwise, and by donations made to it from time to time."

Reconvened.

At three o'clock and thirty-five minutes p.m., the Senate reconvened. Lieutenant Governor George J. Hatfield, President of the Senate, in the chair.

Secretary Joseph A. Beek at the desk.

Consideration of Special Order—(Resumed).

Senate Bill No. 38—An act, to be known as the Rehabilitation Act, declaring the policy of the State of California in relieving hardship and destitution caused by unemployment to be one of rehabilitation by cooperative self-help, production for consumption and exchange of labor for surplus commodities; prescribing duties of State Relief Administrator hereunder; providing funds for administration of relief hereunder; directing cooperative activity by noncompetitive; fixing status of cooperative institutions and their members; fixing title to property hereunder; and declaring this act to be an urgency measure.

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 13. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety, within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution, and shall therefore take effect immediately. The facts constituting such urgency are as follows:

Hardship and destitution caused by unemployment in the State of California and the enforced idleness of hundreds of thousands of its citizens, able and willing to work in the production and exchange of necessities of life, is requiring the payment to them through State relief agencies of millions of dollars in weekly doles to prevent their actual starvation. Available funds for the purpose are rapidly diminishing. A large part of the population of the State is in a condition of despair and unrest, threatening the public peace. Unless steps are immediately taken as in this act provided to furnish unemployed citizens with the means of producing for themselves a decent standard of living, the social order of the State may be seriously disturbed, so this act should go into immediate effect.

Urgency clause read.

The question being on the adoption of the urgency clause.

The roll was called.

Call of the Senate.

Pending the announcement of the vote, Senator Olson moved a call of the Senate.

Motion carried.

The Secretary was directed to call the roll.

The roll was called, and the following answered to their names:

Senators Biggar, Crittenden, Denel, Difani, Duval, Edwards, Fletcher, Garrison, Hays, Hulse, Jespersen, Keough, King, Knowland, McColl, McCormack, McGovern, McGuinness, Metzger, Mixer, Olson, Parkman, Perry, Pierovich, Powers, Reindollar, Rich, Schottky, Scollan, Seawell, Slater, Snyder, Swing, Tickle, Wagy, Williams, and Young—37.

The Secretary announced the absentees.

Time, four o'clock and five minutes p.m.

The President of the Senate directed the Sergeant-at-Arms to close the doors.

The Sergeant-at-Arms having been furnished with the names of the absentees, was directed to bring them to the bar of the Senate.

Further Proceedings Under Call of the Senate Dispensed With.

At four o'clock and ten minutes p.m., further proceedings under the call of the Senate were dispensed with, on motion of Senator Olson.

The Secretary was directed to call the roll, on the adoption of the urgency clause, of the Senators who had not answered to their names.

The roll was called, and the urgency clause refused adoption by the following vote:

AYES—Senators Biggar, Fletcher, Garrison, Jespersen, Keough, McColl, McGovern, McGuinness, Metzger, Olson, Perry, Pierovich, Powers, Reindollar, Scollan, Seawell, Slater, Swing, and Williams—19.

NOES—Senators Crittenden, Denel, Difani, Duval, Edwards, Gordon, Hays, Hulse, King, Knowland, McCormack, Mixer, Parkman, Rich, Schottky, Snyder, Tickle, Wagy, and Young—19.

Point of Order.

Senator Rich raised the point of order that no further action could be taken upon Senate Bill No. 38 because of the refusal of the Senate to adopt the urgency clause to said bill, under Joint Rule No. 32 or precedent established thereby.

Decision on Point of Order.

The President announced his decision and declared the point of order well taken.

The President declared Senate Bill No. 38, refused passage, by precedent, with Joint Rule No. 32 as precedence therefor.

Assistant Secretary Carl Shipkey at the Desk.

Substitution of Proposed Amendment to Rule No. 70 of

Point of Order.

Concerning Ruling on Senate Bill No. 38.

Senator Olson raised the point of order that Joint Rules for the fifty-first session not having been adopted, the ruling by the President of the Senate concerning Senate Bill No. 38 on April 1, 1935, was in error, and that the ruling should be changed at this time.

Decision on Point of Order.

The President announced his decision, and declared the point of order not well taken: that his ruling on Senator Rich's point of order, made on April 1, 1935, was based on precedent rather than on the existence of a set of Joint Rules; that no appeal having been taken at the time of the ruling, and this being another legislative day, it was too late to change the ruling or to appeal therefrom.

Consideration of Special Order.

The hour having arrived for the consideration of Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 21 and Senate Bills Nos. 834, 835 and 836, heretofore set as a special order for eleven o'clock and thirty minutes a.m., the same were taken up for consideration.

Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 21.

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California, an amendment to the Constitution of said State by adding to Article X thereof, a new section to be numbered 7, relating to an institution for women.

Resolved by the Senate, the Assembly concurring. That the Legislature of the State of California at its regular session commencing on the seventh day of January, 1935, two-thirds of the members elected to each of the two houses of the said Legislature voting therefor, hereby proposes to the people of the State of California, that the Constitution of said State be amended by adding to Article X thereof a new section to be numbered 7, and to read as follows:

Sec. 7. The Legislature may provide for the establishment, government, charge and superintendence of an institution or institutions for females charged with or convicted of felonies. For this purpose, the Legislature may delegate the government, charge and superintendence of such institution to any public governmental agency, officers, or board, whether now existing or hereafter created by it. Such agency, officers, or board shall have such powers, perform such duties and exercise such functions in respect to other reformatory or penal matters respecting such female offenders as the Legislature may prescribe.

The Legislature may also provide for punishment, treatment, supervision, custody and care of such females in a manner and under circumstances different from men similarly convicted.

All existing statutes, purporting to create such institution or such agency, officer, or board, to so delegate such government, charge and superintendence, to so prescribe such powers, duties, or functions, or to so provide for such punishment, treatment or supervision are hereby ratified, validated and declared to be legally effective; but the Legislature may repeal, amend, or otherwise modify any such statutes.

Amendment read.

The question being on the adoption of the amendment.

The roll was called.

Call of the Senate.

Pending the announcement of the vote, Senator Wagy moved a call of the Senate.

Motion carried.

The Secretary was directed to call the roll.

The roll was called, and the following answered to their names:

Senators Biggar, Crittenden, Ducl, Edwards, Fletcher, Garrison, Gordon, Hays, Hulse, Jespersen, Keough, King, Knowland, McColl, McCormack, McGovern, McGuinness, Metzger, Mixer, Olson, Parkman, Perry, Pierovich, Powers, Reindollar, Rich, Schottky, Scollan, Seawell, Slater, Snyder, Stow, Swing, Wagy, Williams, and Young—36.

The Secretary announced the absentees.

Time, twelve o'clock and thirty minutes p.m.

Proceedings Under Call of the Senate.

Resolution.

The following resolution was offered:

By Senators Metzger, Crittenden, Pierovich, Powers, and Olson:

WHEREAS, On January 16, 1935, the Senate adopted a resolution relating to the investigation of stock yards; and

WHEREAS, The committee appointed pursuant to the provisions of said resolution served during the legislative recess in making a study of this subject; and

WHEREAS, The resolution as originally drawn provided for an appropriation from the contingent fund of the Senate in the sum of $1,000 which amount was reduced to $500 in the resolution as adopted; and

WHEREAS, The actual necessary expenses of the committee in making the investigation directed by the resolution exceeded the sum allocated in the amount of $358.47; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the sum of $358.47 be and the same is hereby appropriated from the contingent fund of the Senate for the purpose of meeting such expenses. The Controller is hereby directed to draw his warrant upon the contingent fund of the Senate for the said amount upon certification by the chairman of the committee, setting forth the various items of expense, and the Treasurer is directed to pay the same.

On page 1, line 1, of the printed bill, after "SECTION 1.", insert the following: "Section 3 of the Workmen's Compensation, Insurance and Safety Act of 1917, is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 3. The following terms as used in this act shall, unless a different meaning is plainly required by the context, be construed as follows:

(1) The term "commission" means the Industrial Accident Commission of the State of California as created under the provisions of Chapter 176 of the Laws of 1913.

(2) The term "commissioner" means one of the members of the commission.

(3) The term "compensation" means compensation under this act and includes every benefit of payment conferred by sections 6 to 31, inclusive, of this act upon an injured employee, or in the event of his death, upon his dependents, without regard to negligence.

(4) The term "injury," as used in this act, shall include any injury or disease arising out of the employment including injuries to artificial members. In case of aggravation of any disease existing prior to such injury, compensation shall be allowed only for such proportion of the disability due to the aggravation of such prior disease as may reasonably be attributed to the injury.

(5) The term "silicosis" means that form of pneumoconiosis caused by the inhalation of siliceous dust, other than the dust of asbestos.

(6) The term "asbestosis" means that form of pneumoconiosis caused by the inhalation of asbestos dust.

(7) The term "damages" means the recovery allowed in an action at law as contrasted with compensation under this act.

(8) The term "person" includes an individual, firm, voluntary association, or a public, quasi-public or private corporation.

(9) The term "insurance carrier" includes the State Compensation Insurance Fund and any private company, corporation, mutual association, reciprocal or inter-insurance exchange authorized under the laws of this State to insure employers against liability for compensation under this act and any employer to whom a certificate of consent to self-insure has been issued.

(10) Whenever in this act the singular is used, the plural shall be included; where the masculine gender is used, the feminine and neuter shall be included.

Sec. 2. A new section is hereby added to the Workmen's Compensation, Insurance and Safety Act of 1917, to be numbered 11.5 and to read as follows:

Sec. 11.5. When any proceeding for the collection of compensation under this act is based in whole or in part on silicosis or asbestosis contracted in the course of employment, the date of the injury, as that term is used in section 11 of this act, means the date of the incapacity of the employee to perform fully and continuously the usual duties of the occupation in which it is claimed such disease was contracted."

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, and re-referred to Committee on Insurance.

Sec. 9.4. Where liability, other than for death benefits, of an employer for compensation for disability under section 9 of this act is found to arise from silicosis or asbestosis, such liability is limited to the payment of indemnity and the furnishing of medical, surgical and hospital treatment, as defined by section 9 of this act, to a period not to exceed two hundred forty weeks from the date of injury.

Sec. 2. A new section is hereby added to said act to be numbered 9.5 and to read as follows:

Sec. 9.5. No person who has previously received compensation for disability due to pulmonary diseases in the total statutory amount, or in a lump sum on final adjudication or approval by the Industrial Accident Commission, shall again be eligible for compensation for disability due to any such disease. Except in cases pending before the Industrial Accident Commission on the date this section takes effect, no person who has not been a resident of the State of California for five years immediately preceding the date of injury shall be eligible for compensation for disability due to silicosis or asbestosis."

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, and re-referred to Committee on Insurance.

Senate Bill No. 493—An act to provide for the care and rehabilitation of person suffering from the effects of industrial injury and disease.

Consideration of Committee Amendments.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Insurance, the following amendments to Senate Bill No. 493 were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1, line 1, of the title of the printed bill, strike out "the care and rehabilitation of person", and insert in lieu thereof the following: "physical examinations of persons employed in certain industries."

Amendment No. 2.

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out all of line 2 of the title.

Amendment No. 3.

On page 1, line 1, of the printed bill, after "SECTION 1", insert the following: "No person not previously so employed shall engage in any industry declared by an order of the Industrial Accident Commission to be one in which there may be harmful exposure to dust, unless his physical fitness so to do has been determined by a physical examination within twelve months next preceding such engagement, as hereinafter provided. Any person not prohibited from engaging in such occupation and who has not been examined within twelve months next preceding such engagement shall be given opportunity to be so examined within thirty days after filing with the Industrial Accident Commission a written application for such examination, which application shall include a signed statement that it is for the purpose to engage in such an occupation. Any person examined shall be notified in writing, within ten days after his examination, whether or not he is found physically fit to engage in such occupation."

Where a person is found unfit and files with the Industrial Accident Commission, within fifteen days after such notification, a written request therefor, the finding of unfitness shall be reviewed by the Medical Board of Review, as hereinafter provided. The Medical Board of Review shall hold a hearing requested by such person and shall render to the Industrial Accident Commission a decision which shall be final, notice of which shall be sent to such person. There shall be issued to each person examined and found physically fit to engage in such occupation, a certificate of fitness which shall bear the signature of such person and the date of the examination, and which shall be executed under the direction of the chairman of the Industrial Accident Commission.

No further examination of the lungs shall be necessary as a condition precedent to such employment of a person to whom a certificate of fitness has been issued within the twelve months immediately preceding such issuance.

SEC. 2. Every person engaged in any industry declared by an order of the Industrial Accident Commission to be one in which there may be harmful exposure to dust, shall annually be examined under the direction of the Industrial Accident Commission to determine his physical fitness to continue in such occupation.

SEC. 3. Any person so examined and found unfit to continue in such occupation shall be so notified in writing. If a person so examined and found unfit files with the Industrial Accident Commission, within ten days after such notification, a written appeal from the finding, it shall be reviewed by the Medical Board of Review which shall hold a hearing if requested by such person and shall render to the Industrial Accident Commission a decision which shall be final. If the decision of the Medical Board of Review is contrary to the finding of the Industrial Accident Commission, the persons examined shall be so notified in writing. If the decision confirms the finding reviewed, or if a person found unfit fails to appeal, said board shall notify the Industrial Accident Commission in writing that such person has been found physically unfit to continue in any occupation hereinbefore described. Thereupon the Industrial Accident Commission shall so notify such person and his employer. A person found unfit may apply, not less than twelve months after such finding, for a reexamination, and any certificate of fitness after a reexamination shall bear the word "readmitted." Any person who continues in an occupation such as is mentioned in this act for more than thirty days after having received notice from the Industrial Accident Commission of physical unfitness to continue in such occupation, or who returns to such occupation except after readmission as hereinbefore provided, shall forfeit all rights to compensation for disability due to silicosis or asbestosis.

SEC. 4. No member or employee of the Industrial Accident Commission or of the Medical Board of Review, or any person participating in or having knowledge derived from said physical examinations, or any records in connection therewith, shall be subject to summons in connection with any proceeding involving the person examined, nor shall any such records be made public, except at a hearing as herein provided.

SEC. 5. Any person failing or refusing to submit to a physical examination as hereinbefore provided or failing or refusing to use a safety appliance furnished in accordance with an order of the Industrial Accident Commission, shall be reported to the Industrial Accident Commission by his employer in writing. If, after due notice and hearing the Industrial Accident Commission finds such failure or refusal a fact, then such person shall forfeit all rights to compensation for disability for silicosis or asbestosis."

The question being on the adoption of the report.

The roll was called in accordance with the provisions of section 2 of Article IV of the Constitution, and the report adopted by the following vote:

AYES—Senators Biggar, Deuel, Difani, Duval, Edwards, Fletcher, Garrison, Gordon, Hays, Jespersen, Keough, King, Knowland, McColl, McGovern, McGuinness, Metzger, Olson, Parkman, Reindollar, Rich, Schottky, Scollan, Slater, Snyder, Stow, Swing, Tickle, Waggy, Williams, and Young—31.

NOES—None.

Introduction, First Reading and Reference of Bills.

By Senator Schottky: Senate Bill No. 1078—An act to amend sections 1 and 2 of an act entitled "An act to require tax clearance by assessors and the State Controller as a prerequisite for the registration by the Motor Vehicle Department," approved May 15, 1933, relating to taxes on motor vehicles.

Bill read first time, and referred to Committee on Revenue and Taxation.

By Senator Metzger: Senate Joint Resolution No. 13—Relative to memorializing the President and the Congress of the United States to adopt legislation to adjust SERA relief wages to establish employment agencies with lists of those eligible to seek private employment and take from relief rolls those who fail to accept reasonable offers of private employment.

Referred to Committee on Federal Relations.

Communication.

The following communication, offered by Senator Slater, was received, and ordered printed in the Journal:

Senator Herbert W. Slater and Members of the Legislature.

Our public schools must make or mar the future of our Nation. On this subject I have written an appeal to your Legislature. Should my appeal reach publicity, I am hoping that you will be interested.

In substance, I have said that the greatest present need of our public schools is a textbook on citizenship.

A textbook on the science of citizenship has been left out of our public school curriculum. I would urge the Legislature to look the matter up.

There are infallible rules for safe citizenship. They are found in the Christian Bible, a book approved by our so-called Christian Nation.

We swear by our Bible to tell the truth while we make no provision for a knowledge of the Truth promising Peace on Earth and Good Will to Men.

Since our education becomes a part of us, should we not demand that a textbook upon citizenship be given an honorable place among the three R's.

Anything in the Bible pertaining to safe, sane citizenship should be woven into a textbook. Its foundation chapter would be the Ten Commandments. And since abbreviations are common, we would have our code known as T. T. C., the Ten Commandments supplemented by anything found in the Bible bearing on citizenship.

I hope my plea will receive honorable mention during the present legislative session.

Comment—Since abbreviations are now common, we will call it T. T. C., a code not to die by but to live by.

The thinking faculty is the crowning glory of the Creator's skill. Too bad it is not more generously used.

Yours very truly and hopefully,

SARAH E. LATIMER FINLEY,
3798 Harrison Street, Oakland, California.

Report of Standing Committee.

The following report of standing committee was received and read:

On Rules.

SENATE CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, April 3, 1935.

MR. PRESIDENT: Your Committee on Rules, to which was referred the motion of Senator McGovern to amend the rules as follows:

Amendment No. 1.

SEC. 4. Every person whose duty it is to register with the Sergeant-at-Arms, as herein provided, shall file with said Sergeant-at-Arms on or before each Tuesday hereafter, a full and complete written itemized statement and account, duly acknowledged before a notary public, showing fully all moneys and other evidences of value of every kind and description which may have been received by said person, or by any other person authorized to act for him, either directly or indirectly, during the previous week, from any source whatsoever, for or on account of his compensation, or for or on account of the compensation of any other person or persons, in whole or in part, for any services which he or which any of such persons shall have rendered or shall have agreed to render, or which any of them have been engaged to render, with respect to any pending or proposed legislation, of any kind, before this Legislature. Such written statements also shall include a full and complete itemized statement by such person, showing all expenditures of every kind and character by any of said persons, or by any of their servants, agents, employees, or by any person acting for any of them, during said previous week, which expenditures may have been intended or calculated to influence either directly or indirectly, any such legislation.

Has had the same under consideration, and respectfully reports the same back, and recommends that the same be not adopted.

Amendment to the Proposed Amendment.

Senator McGovern moved to amend the proposed Amendment No. 1 as follows:

Amendment to Proposed Amendment No. 1.

Add to the proposed amendment by Senator McGovern to Rule No. 70, the following language, after the period, following the word "legislation", at the end of the amendment: "Any person whose duty it is to file any instrument as herein provided for, who refuses, neglects or omits so to do, as herein set forth, shall forfeit his advocate's card and shall be thereafter prohibited from entering the Senate Chamber or the corridors adjacent thereto or any committee room of the Senate, and he shall be prohibited from appearing before or addressing any committee of the Senate, anything in these rules to the contrary notwithstanding."

Amendment to proposed Amendment No. 1 adopted.

Point of Order.

Senator Swing raised the point of order that, "The amendment to the amendment offered by Senator McGovern was out of order because a motion to amend the Standing Rules of the Senate requires notice on preceding legislative day."

Decision on Point of Order.

The President announced his decision and declared the point of order not well taken.

Proposed Amendment No. 1, as amended, referred to Committee on Rules for further consideration and report.

Senate Bill No. 452 ordered transmitted to the Assembly.

Re-reference of Senate Bill No. 636 Requested.

Senator Garrison requested that Senate Bill No. 636 be re-referred to Committee on Irrigation.

Communication.Referring to Senate Bill No. 636.

The following communication was received, read and ordered printed in the Journal:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL,
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, April 2, 1935.

Hon. Edgar W. Stow, Senate Chamber,
State Capitol, Sacramento, California.

Subject: Propriety of amendment of March 28, 1935, to Senate Bill No. 636.
Request: No. 3574.

DEAR SENATOR STOW: You have asked us whether in our opinion the amendment made by the Senate on March 28, 1935, to Senate Bill No. 636 was in conformity with the rules of the Senate.

In our opinion that amendment did not conform with Rule No. 41 of the Standing Rules of the Senate, adopted January 21, 1935. We base this opinion on a comparison of the wording of the title of the bill as introduced, with the title and body of the bill as amended.

According to its title, the subject of the bill as originally introduced was the purchase by the State of certificates of sale of property sold for delinquent assessments of irrigation districts.

According to the title of the bill as amended, and its body as well, its subject was the validation of proceedings in relation to improvement districts within irrigation districts.

Rule No. 41 of the Standing Rules of the Senate reads as follows:

"A substitute or amendment must relate to the same subject as the original bill, resolution or constitutional amendment under consideration."

We are unable to perceive that the subject of the bill as amended, as stated above, relates to the subject of the bill as originally introduced. It is true that both have to do with irrigation districts, and possibly a title for the original bill might have been drawn which would have been broad enough to include the amendments, but this certainly is not the case here, since instead of the general subject of irrigation districts, the original title was drawn to state the purchase of certificates of sale.

There is a Senate precedent which would seem peculiarly applicable here. In 1933, amendments were offered from the floor, directed to Senate Bill No. 1211, the sales tax, which would have added to the Sales Tax Bill provisions for a net income tax. A point of order was raised under Rule 41, and the President declared the point of order well taken (Senate Journal 1933, page 32599). Senate Standing Rule No. 41 of 1933 is the same as Senate Standing Rule No. 41 of 1935. In effect this must have meant that "sales tax" rather than merely "tax" was the subject.

In this connection it should be noted that the first sentence of the proposed Joint Rule No. 9 of the Senate and Assembly is identical with Standing Rule No. 41 of the Senate, but the rest of Rule No. 9 contains further matter imposing certain duties on the Legislative Counsel and making clear what would seem to be more or less implicit in Standing Rule No. 41; that is, that the subject, as expressed in the title, is what is referred to.

However, under a joint rule, an infraction of the rule could be invoked in either house, even though the infraction occurred in the other house. On the other hand, in the case of a house rule, we are of the opinion that a point of order under it could only be raised in the same house, since one house is not bound by the rules of the other.

Very truly yours,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel

Communication.

Referring to Senate Bill No. 636.

The following communication was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL.

SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, April 3, 1935.

Hon. J. C. Garrison, Senate Chamber,

State Capitol, Sacramento, California.

Subject: Senate Bill No. 636, as amended in Senate March 28, 1935.

DEAR SENATOR GARRISON: You recently submitted to us a draft of an act validating certain proceedings for the formation of improvement districts within irrigation districts and requested us to prepare this bill in the form of an amendment to Senate Bill No. 636, which was a skeleton bill introduced by yourself, the title of which stated it to be an act to provide for the purchase by the State of California, under certain conditions of certificates of sale of property sold for delinquent assessments of irrigation districts.

You amended Senate Bill No. 636 on March 28, 1935, to strike out the title of the bill as introduced and to insert the above referred to validating act which we had prepared in the form of amendments to Senate Bill No. 636.

In our opinion this amendment to Senate Bill No. 636 is in violation of Senate Standing Rule No. 41 and Joint Rule No. 9, both of which require that amendments to a bill to be germane to the object of the original bill.

The subject of the original bill as expressed in its title stated it to be an act providing for the purchase of certificates of sale of property sold for delinquent assessments of irrigation districts. In our opinion an amendment which provides for an act to validate proceedings for the formation of improvement districts within irrigation districts would not be germane to the subject of the original bill.

We call this to your attention for the reason that a point of order might be raised that the amendments to Senate Bill No. 636 of March 28, 1935, were in violation of the rules, and in our opinion such a point of order would be well taken.

Sincerely yours,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel,
By JNO. J. HAMLYN, JR., Chief Deputy.

President of the Senate in Reference to Senate Bill No. 636.

Senate Bill No. 636, introduced by Senator Garrison, having been called, Senator Garrison suggested that the bill might be subject to a point of order in that the amendment to the bill did not relate to the same subject as the original bill.

The President inspected the original bill and the amendment adopted, and stated that he believed the point of order, if urged, would be well taken.

Senator Garrison then requested the bill be re-referred to the committee, which order was made by the President.

Ruling.

The President then stated that for the guidance of the Senate, that irrespective of the adoption of the Joint Rules, as a matter of precedent, if a substitute bill or an amendment did not relate to the same subject as the original bill, he would rule that a point of order taken thereto be sustained. He further stated that as to skeleton bills introduced merely by title, he would require a strict relation of all amendments to the subject of the title.

Re-reference.

Senate Bill No. 636 re-referred to Committee on Irrigation by the President of the Senate's ruling.

Third Reading of Senate Bills—(Resumed).

Senate Bill No. 345—An act to amend section 3480d of the Political Code, relating to crediting on calls of installment of assessments made by reclamation districts amounts of outstanding bonds exchanged in refunding proceedings or otherwise canceled, and to the redemption of property sold to reclamation districts for delinquent assessments and installments thereof, and to the sale by county treasurers of land sold for delinquent assessments and installments thereof, and containing a provision declaring this act to be an emergency measure, stating the facts constituting such emergency and providing this act shall take effect immediately.

Bill read third time.

Urgency Clause.

Sec. 2. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure within the meaning of section 1, Article IV, of the Constitution of the State of California, and it is deemed necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace and safety that this law shall go into immediate effect.

The following is a statement of facts constituting such necessity: Due to the agricultural depression which has existed for the past several years, many landowners in reclamation districts in the State have been unable to meet their installments upon assessments with the result that their land has been sold to the district. The heavy penalties necessary to be paid as now provided by law, and which continually increase, make it impossible for the landowners to redeem their land and thousands of landowners are now threatened with the loss of their land. If the land is not redeemed and it is deeded to the district, it then becomes nonassessable for district purposes, and the burden becomes all the heavier on the other landowners in the district, causing more delinquency and loss. Many reclamation districts have proceeded and are proceeding to refund their outstanding bonds. In such proceedings such outstanding bonds have been and will be deposited and exchanged for later maturing bonds issued or to be issued by said districts or will be sold to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation or other agency of the government of the United States. Pursuant to law calls of installments of assessments have been made to meet the payment of such outstanding bonds exchanged and to be exchanged or otherwise canceled as provided by law. Said calls have become delinquent and have been and are being and will be enforced and collected in the manner provided by law. Owing to the said refunding proceedings heretofore had and now in process or which will hereafter be had, or through loans granted by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the collection and the enforcement of the payment of said calls has been, is and will be unnecessary for the reason that the payment of neither the principal nor interest of said maturities of said outstanding bonds for which said calls were levied to pay is not and will not be required. The Legislature hereby declares that the welfare of the State requires that the landowners in these districts be not unnecessarily dispossessed of their land, and that the land be redeemed so as to thenceforth bear its just proportion of taxation.

Urgency clause read.

The question being on the adoption of the urgency clause.

The roll was called, and the urgency clause adopted by the following vote:

Relative to memorializing the President and Congress to enact House Joint Resolution No. 143, introduced January 30, 1935, authorizing the awarding of Distinguished Service Medals to Tony Siminoff, Oliver F. Rominger, and Robert E. Beck, veterans of the Philippine Insurrection.

WHEREAS, Tony Siminoff, Oliver F. Rominger, and Robert E. Beck volunteered and served in the regular Army of the United States, and saw service in the same in the Philippine Insurrection; and

WHEREAS, Said Tony Siminoff, as member of Company K, Eighteenth Regiment United States Infantry; Oliver F. Rominger, as member of the band of the Eighteenth Regiment United States Infantry; and Robert E. Beck, as member of Company A, Eighteenth Regiment United States Infantry, at great risk to themselves and under fire of the enemy rendered first aid to Lieutenant F. C. Bello, member of Company F, Eighteenth Regiment United States Infantry, and carried him from the field of battle, and thus saved his life, so that he is now serving his country as a Major General in the United States Army; and

WHEREAS, Such brave and meritorious action on the part of said Tony Siminoff, Oliver F. Rominger, and Robert E. Beck, is deserving of award in commensuration thereof for such meritorious conduct in action involving an actual conflict with an enemy, said act taking place on February 12, 1899, during the action near Jaro, Philippine Islands; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly and the Senate of the State of California, jointly That the President and Congress of the United States be hereby respectfully urged to enact House Joint Resolution No. 143 awarding the Distinguished Service Medals to Tony Siminoff, Oliver F. Rominger, and Robert E. Beck, veterans of the Philippine Insurrection; and be it further

Resolved, That the Governor of the State of California is hereby requested to transmit copies of this resolution to the President and Vice President of the United States, to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and to each Senator and member of the House of Representatives from California in the Congress of the United States, and that such Senators and members from California are hereby respectfully urged to support such legislation, and that a copy of this resolution also be transmitted to the Secretary of War.

Relative to memorializing the President of the United States and Congress in connection with transpacific air mail service.

WHEREAS, Various aviation groups in the United States are actively engaged in a study of the need for and the requirements of a transpacific airplane service; and

WHEREAS, It appears that such a service soon will be established through the enterprise and pioneering spirit of the American aviation industry; and

WHEREAS, The success of such a worthwhile undertaking will depend to some extent upon Federal contracts for carrying mail to and from continental United States and other localities in and bordering upon the Pacific Ocean; and

WHEREAS, It is understood that the Post Office Department is at present considering the early establishment of an air mail service across the Pacific; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Assembly of the State of California, the Senate concurring, does herewith respectfully urge the President of the United States, the United States Senators and the members of the House of Representatives from California, to approve and recommend the establishment of such transpacific air mail service, together with such appropriations and other legislative action by the National Congress as may be necessary to accomplish the purposes herein set forth; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the President of the United States, the Vice President of the United States, Senators Johnson and McAdoo, and the members of the National House of Representatives from California.

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1, line 1 of the title of the printed bill, strike out "section 677 of", and insert in lieu thereof the following: "sections 677 and 689 of, and to add section 689.1 to,".

Amendment No. 2.

On page 1 of the printed bill, after line 12, add the following:

"SEC. 2. Section 689 of the Political Code is hereby amended to read as follows: 689. From any State department, officer, board or commission having any special fund in the State treasury made available by law for the use, support or maintenance of any part or all of the work and affairs of such department, office, board or commission, the Department of Finance may fix and collect:

(a) The pro rata share of the cost of insuring motor vehicles belonging to such department, officer, board or commission against liability for damages resulting from the negligent operation of motor vehicles and arising under the provisions of section 400 of the Vehicle Code, or, in the discretion of the director, an amount which he considers equivalent to such pro rata share, to be expended by him in accordance with law paying claims under section 400 of the Vehicle Code and paying for the investigation, adjustment, defense and administration of such claims;

(b) Rent for the use or occupancy of space in any building owned, managed or controlled by the State and used or occupied by such State department, officer, board or commission where such space is utilized in carrying out the work and affairs, or that portion of the work and affairs, of such department, officer, board or commission, for the carrying out of which said special fund was created;

(c) The actual cost of janitor and maintenance service rendered to such department, officer, board or commission to enable it to carry out the work and affairs, or that portion of its work and affairs, for the carrying out of which the special fund was created; and

(d) The pro rata cost of workmen's compensation insurance covering the officers and employees of such department, officer, board, or commission.

Sec. 3. A new section is hereby added to the Political Code to be numbered 689.1 and to read as follows:

689.1. The State Department of Finance may file a claim against any appropriations made from special funds for the support or maintenance of any part of all of the work and affairs of any State department, officer, board or commission for a pro rata share of the costs or services included in section 689 of this code, or included in section 695 of this code as added by Chapter 923 of the Statutes of 1933, when such department, officer, board, or commission refuses to pay for such costs of services, or for the pro rata share thereof, and the State Controller shall draw his warrant in accordance with law upon such claim in favor of the State Department of Finance.

All moneys received by the Department of Finance under the provisions hereof shall be accounted for and reported at the end of each month by said department to the State Controller. In the case of such moneys received by the department for services rendered or costs incurred under the provisions of section 689 of this code, such moneys shall be credited as an abatement of the expenses of said department and at the same time shall be remitted to the State treasury to become a part of any appropriation made available by law for the use or support of the department from out of which said appropriation or the then corresponding current appropriation the expenses incurred were paid. In the case of moneys received by the department for services rendered or materials furnished under the provisions of section 695 of this code as added by Chapter 923 of the Statutes of 1933, such moneys shall be credited to the general fund of the State and shall be remitted to the State treasury to become a part of the general fund."

Senate Bill No. 886—An act to add two new sections to the School Code to be numbered 6.223 and 6.224, relating to the sale of property of a school district, declaring the urgency thereof, and providing that this act shall take effect immediately.

Bill read third time.

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 3. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution and shall, therefore, go into immediate effect.

The facts constituting the necessity are as follows: The Legislature of the State of California has enacted Chapter 59 of the Statutes of 1933, relating to the safety of construction of public school buildings which has resulted in the condemning and closing of many structurally unsafe school buildings in the State of California. Until school buildings can be erected, constructed and reconstructed in accordance with the above mentioned act, a large number of school children and teachers are being housed in temporary shacks or are attending school part time only, which endangers the health and safety of such school children and teachers of the State of California. Where buildings must be altered or reconstructed, large amounts of materials must be removed which are not suitable for reuse. Under sections 6.220 and 6.221 of the School Code property which a school district desires to dispose of for the purposes of replacement can only be disposed of by selling the same for cash to the highest bidder. These proposed sections will allow a school district to call for bids for the reconstruction of school buildings and require the contractor to deduct from the price he bids for the work, the amount which he will allow for old material salvaged from the building. This will accomplish three purposes: first, secure the removal of old material with the least possible damage to the material and to the building; second, net the district the largest return for this salvaged material; and third, provide for the speedy removal of material not needed in the reconstruction of the building from school premises.

The proposed sections of this bill will facilitate speedy replacement of condemned and closed school buildings and result in a large saving of money to school districts at a time when the funds of school districts in the State of California are severely taxed by unusual demands.

It is therefore necessary that the provisions of this act become effective at once in order that the health and safety of school children and teachers of the State of California be protected.

Urgency clause read.

Communication.

The following communication was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

THE STATE OF COLORADO,
DEPARTMENT OF STATE, DENVER, March 28, 1935.

Hon. George J. Hatfield, Lieutenant Governor, Sacramento, California.

DEAR SIR: We are enclosing herewith a copy of Senate Joint Resolution No. 10 adopted by our State Legislature with the respectful request that a similar resolution be enacted by the Legislature of your State.

Respectfully yours,

JAMES H. CARR, Secretary of State.
W. E. ALEXANDER, Chief Clerk.

Colorado Senate Joint Resolution No. 10.

By Senators Affolter and Knous.

Be It Resolved by the Senate and the House of Representatives of the Thirtieth General Assembly of the State of Colorado, That:

1. There is hereby established the Colorado Commission on Interstate Cooperation, whose function it shall be to perfect the participation of this State in the Council of State Governments, for the purpose of establishing and maintaining governmental machinery to facilitate communication, negotiation, understanding and cooperation between the State of Colorado and the other States of the Union, both regionally and Nationally.

2. The said commission shall be composed of 15 members, namely:

The five members of the Committee on Interstate Cooperation of the Senate, President Talbot, Senators Knous, Affolter, Hill and Elliott, heretofore appointed by the American Legislators Association;

The five members of the Committee on Interstate Cooperation of the House of Representatives, Representatives Smith, England, Hallen, Constantine and Strain, heretofore appointed by the American Legislators Association;

Five officials of the State named by the Governor.

3. The commission shall report to the Governor and to the Legislature on the first day of each regular legislative session, and at such other times as it deems proper. The commission shall meet and select a chairman and a secretary. The members of the commission shall serve without compensation. Meetings shall be called at the request of the Governor and the chairman of said commission.

4. The said committees of the Senate and of the House of Representatives, hereby or heretofore established, shall be standing committees, and their members shall be designated as are the members of other standing committees. These committees shall function during the regular sessions of the Legislature, and also during the interim periods between such sessions; their members shall serve until their successors are designated; and they shall constitute the Colorado Councils of the American Legislators Association.

5. The Secretary of State of Colorado shall forthwith communicate the text of this measure to the Governor and to the Legislature of each of the other States of the Union, with the respectful request that each Legislature shall enact a measure similar to this resolution, thus establishing a similar commission with like duties and powers, and thus joining with this State in the common cause of reducing the burdens which are imposed upon our citizens by governmental confusion, competition and conflict.

RAY H. TALBOT, President of Senate.

M. J. WALSH, Secretary of Senate.

MOSES E. SMITH, Speaker of House of Representatives.

JOHN T. DOYLE, Chief Clerk.

Further Communication.

The following communication was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

SENATE OF THE STATE OF COLORADO,
DENVER, COLORADO, March 29, 1935.

Hon. J. A. Beek, Secretary of the Senate, Sacramento, California.

DEAR SIR: I have the honor to hand you herewith copy of Senate Joint Memorial No. 6 and request that you call the same to the attention of the members of the Senate.

Very truly yours,

M. J. WALSH, Secretary of Senate,
State of Colorado.

Colorado Senate Joint Memorial No. 6.

By Senators Hotchkiss and Headlee.

WHEREAS, During the present depression, the original cost of live stock and grain products is greatly in excess of the price now realized by the sale of the same, and that by reason thereof farmers are unable to pay their bills and debts, and each year find themselves further behind with their debts and obligations, and if the above situation continues for any additional length of time, the farmers will lose their homes and all; and

WHEREAS, During the time farmers are operating at a loss they can not be purchasers of other manufactured products and such industries will, in turn, fail for lack of business; and that all business of every kind and nature will be affected by this injustice to agriculture; and

WHEREAS, It follows that every kind of business located in the agricultural communities must rise or fail with the farmers, and that the important, and absolutely essential industry of agriculture can not be stricken down without causing disaster to the country as a whole; and

WHEREAS, The placing of an embargo on the products mentioned would stabilize the prices thereof and bring such prices more in harmony with the production costs, together with a fair margin of profit, and bring the farmers out of the dire and distressing depression which now affects them, now therefore: Be it

Resolved by the Thirtieth General Assembly of the State of Colorado: That we respectfully petition the Congress of the United States to pass laws and provide rules and regulations to place an embargo on flax, wheat, hogs, cattle and sheep, and upon pork, beef and mutton products, until such time as the prices of said grains, live stock and meat products shall cover the cost of production, and we further petition that the law now permitting wheat to be milled in bond be repealed; be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the President of the United States, to both houses of the Congress of the United States and to each member thereof from this State, to the Secretary of Agriculture, and to each house of the Legislative Assembly of those States whose Legislatures are now in session.

RAY H. TALBOT, President of Senate.

M. J. WALSH, Secretary of Senate.

MOSES E. SMITH, Speaker of House.

Third Reading of Senate Bills.

Senate Bill No. 314—An act to amend sections 3817b, 3817d, 3817f, 3817g and 3817h of, and to add sections 3817c3 and 3817i2 to, the Political Code, relating to taxation, including tax delinquencies, tax penalties and costs, tax redemption for tax sales and declaring the urgency thereof, to take effect immediately.

Bill read third time.

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 9. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety, within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution, and shall therefore go into immediate effect. The facts constituting the necessity are as follows: Due to the widespread depression, many taxpayers have been unable to pay their taxes, or to redeem their property from sale to the State for delinquency. By permitting redemption without penalties, and payment of delinquent taxes, interest and penalties by installments many taxpayers will be enabled to redeem their property and restore the same to the tax rolls, or to protect their business and pay taxes which otherwise would be lost, thereby adding revenue for the operation and maintenance of government.

Urgency clause read.

The question being on the adoption of the urgency clause.

The roll was called, and the urgency clause adopted by the following vote:

AYES—Senators Biggar, Crittenden, Deuel, Fletcher, Garrison, Gordon, Hulse, Jespersen, Keough, King, McCormack, McGovern, McGuinness, Metzger, Mixer, Olson, Parkman, Perry, Pierovich, Reindollar, Rich, Scollan, Seawell, Slater, Snyder, Stow, Swing, Tickle, Wagy, Williams, and Young—31.

Second Reading of Senate Bills.

Senate Bill No. 495—An act to provide for the regulation of the flow of water over the Copco Dam in order to insure a sufficient amount of water to preserve fish life.

Consideration of Committee Amendments.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Fish and Game, the following amendments to Senate Bill No. 495 were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out the title, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"An act to add section 484.6 to the Fish and Game Code, relating to the regulation of the flow of water from natural or artificial bodies of water."

Amendment No. 2.

On page 1, line 1, of the printed bill, after "Section 1," insert the following: "Section 484.6 is hereby added to the Fish and Game Code to read as follows:

484.6. No person owning or controlling any natural or artificial body of water into which public waters flow, and which furnishes the water supply in whole or in part to any stream in district 14 containing fish, shall divert or lessen the amount of water flowing from the natural or artificial body of water into such stream to an extent detrimental to the fish therein. Such person shall not increase or accelerate the flow or supply of water from the natural or artificial body of water to an extent where such increase exceeds the normal high water mark of such stream. The Legislature hereby declares that increase or acceleration by artificial means of the flow of water in such stream, whereby the normal high water mark thereof is exceeded is detrimental to fish life."

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, and re-referred to Committee on Fish and Game.

Senate Bill No. 174—An act to amend section 730 of the Fish and Game Code, relating to fish.

Senate Bill No. 228—An act to amend sections 1.01 to 15.17, inclusive, of the Building and Loan Association Act, relating to building and loan associations.

Consideration of Committee Amendments.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Building and Loan Associations, the following amendments to Senate Bill No. 228 were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1, line 1 of the title of the printed bill, strike out "amend sections 1.01 to 15.17, inclusive, of", and insert in lieu thereof the following: "add section 6.09 to".

Amendment No. 2.

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out lines 1 and 2, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"SECTION 1. A new section is hereby added to the act cited in the title hereof, to read as follows:

Sec. 6.09. Any person indebted to any building and loan association doing business in the State of California may repay said indebtedness, or any part thereof, both as to principal and interest, by surrendering to such building and loan association to which it may be indebted investment certificates fully or partially paid, or pass books issued by any such building and loan association representing payments upon any investment certificates. Upon the surrender of any such investment certificate or pass book to such building and loan association, the latter shall credit upon the indebtedness of the person so surrendering the same the full amount shown by such investment certificate or pass book to have been paid to or deposited with such building and loan association, plus interest at the rate agreed by such building and loan association to be paid at the time such payments were made by the person to whom any such investment certificate or pass book was issued from the time of the last interest payment made prior to the surrender of such investment certificate or pass book up to the time of the surrender thereof.

Where any building and loan association doing business in the State of California shall take steps to foreclose any mortgage or any deed of trust held by it, the owner of the property covered by such mortgage or deed of trust may tender investment certificates or pass books representing payments on investment certificates, and upon that being done, such property owner shall be credited such amount as such investment certificate or pass book shall show to have been paid in to or deposited with such building and loan association, plus interest at the rate agreed by such building and loan association to be paid at the time such payments were made, from the date of the last interest payment to the time of such tender. If any such foreclosure shall involve a mortgage as contradistinguished from a deed of trust, then and in that event any person having the right to redeem from said sale may tender investment certificates or pass books showing payments upon investment certificates, and upon the surrender thereof, shall receive a credit for redemption purposes in the amount shown to have been paid in to any such building and loan association by any such investment certificate or pass book, plus interest at the rate agreed by such building and loan association to be paid at the time such payments were made by the person to whom such certificates or pass books were issued, from the time of the last interest payments to the time of such surrender.

Where there shall be any moratorium in force and effect as relating to the foreclosure of mortgages or deeds of trust, tender of investment certificates or pass books showing payment upon investment certificates may be made at any time while such moratorium shall remain in force and effect, and upon such tender, the building and loan association having issued any such investment certificate or pass book shall credit upon the indebtedness due from any person surrendering such investment certificate or pass book the amount which shall have been paid in to or deposited with such building and loan association, together with interest at the rate agreed upon by said building and loan association to be paid at the time such payments were made to such building and loan association by the person to whom such certificate or pass book was issued, from the date of the last interest payment up to the time of such tender and surrender.

If any building and loan association shall have become financially embarrassed and by reason thereof been reorganized, and in the plan of any such reorganization, investment certificates paid in whole or in part, or pass books showing payments on investment certificates shall have been turned in and surrendered to such building and loan association coincident to or after such reorganization and new certificates or pass books issued in accordance with any such reorganization, then and in that event any person being indebted to any such building and loan association by reason of any indebtedness incurred prior to any such reorganization, may surrender to such reorganized building and loan association any such certificates or pass books issued, upon the surrender of the original certificates or pass books, and shall upon the surrender of such new certificates or pass books, receive a credit upon any such indebtedness in the amount that shall have been paid in or deposited to such building and loan association prior to reorganization, as shown by any investment certificate or pass book originally issued, together with interest at the rate originally agreed by such building and loan association to be paid at the time such payments were made by the person to whom such investment certificate or pass book was originally issued from the date of the last payment of interest to the time of such tender."

Senate Bill No. 353—An act to establish legislative standards in relation to the rehabilitation of agriculture and the regulation of producers, packers, distributors, shippers, marketers, handlers, processors and others dealing in agricultural, viticultural and horticultural products and of any competing commodity or product thereof; to recognize, make effective and provide for the enforcement in this State of marketing agreements and licenses issued or prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture of the United States under the National Agricultural Adjustment Act, being Public Act No. 10 of the Seventy-third Congress of the United States; to provide for the issuance, administration and enforcement of State marketing agreements and State licenses in connection therewith; to prescribe the powers, duties and jurisdiction of the State Director of Agriculture in relation thereto; to provide that said State and Federal marketing agreements and licenses shall be and establish standards of fair competition in this State; to suspend all antitrust and unfair competition laws of this State in conflict herewith and therewith; to prescribe remedies, rights, duties and penalties with respect to violations hereof and thereof; to provide ways, means and moneys for the administration and enforcement of said State and Federal marketing agreements and licenses; to declare the existence of a State and National agricultural emergency and the urgency of this act and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Bill read third time.

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 21. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution and shall therefore go into immediate effect. A statement of the facts constituting such necessity is as follows:

The economic conditions of agricultural producers throughout the State are such as to require immediate relief if their purchasing power and taxpaying ability are to continue and their morale and standard of living are not to be undermined. Such relief can be afforded only by the orderly production and marketing of agricultural products and the coordination of State control of production and marketing with Federal control, each of which supplements the other and makes the same effective.

Urgency clause read.

Bill read third time.

Urgency Clause.

Sec. 2. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution and will therefore take effect immediately. The facts constituting the necessity are that large sums of money owing the State of California in taxes is not being collected on account of tax evasions and unchecked shipments of taxable merchandise and that unless immediate investigation and action is undertaken, the State will lose large sums of money due it for taxes. The danger mentioned will be avoided if act goes into immediate effect.

Reports of Special Committee.

Majority and Minority Reports.

The following reports of special committee were received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

Report of Special Committee Heretofore Appointed to Investigate Lobbying.

To the Honorable George J. Hatfield, President of the Senate, and to the Senate of the State of California.

Pursuant to the authority conferred by Senate resolution adopted March 26, 1935, directing the investigation of certain charges made against Nathan J. Elliott on the twenty-fifth day of March, 1935, before the Senate Committee on Motor Vehicles, which charges involved alleged unethical conduct of said Elliott in regard to legislation now pending before this Senate and with respect to certain influence which it was charged said Elliott claimed to have and could exert over certain members of the Assembly, your committee met in open session in the Senate Judiciary Room on March 27th, 28th and 29th of the year 1935 for the purpose of hearing testimony and taking evidence concerning such charges in the matters involved therein. Such investigation was limited and restricted to the specific charges hereinbefore referred to and did not extend to nor involve the merits of the bill being discussed at the time such charges were made. At the place and times above stated all available material witnesses were called and examined, the witnesses testifying, and the substance of their testimony is as follows:

By BENJAMIN FRANK MORRIS: I reside at Oakland, am in the draying business, am interested in all motor truck legislation pending at the present time and am interested in having the trucking industry regulated. I participated in the formation of an organization known as The Truck Owners Association of California and am its president. It is a voluntary association. Prior to the convening of the present Legislature, a number of conferences were held by others interested in trucking and freight hauling for the purpose of drafting a bill regulating the truck industry. Such bill was to be presented to this session of the Legislature. I met Mr. Elliott during conferences concerning such matters. Mr. Elliott participated in the drafting of the bill now pending in the Senate. On the fifth day of January, 1935, at the Jonathan Club, Los Angeles, when a number of others, including Mr. Elliott, were present, at which time and place the question of truck legislation and the manner of handling and presenting same to the Legislature was discussed. Previous to this time there had been a dispute as to whether the trucking industry should be put under the Railroad Commission or under the Motor Vehicle Department. Mr. Elliott favored the latter. The rest of us favored the Railroad Commission. At the Jonathan Club meeting some one in the room told Mr. Elliott that we had mapped out a plan whereby the two associations (the northern group and the southern group) had agreed that Mr. Dave Shearer would represent the southern group and that I would represent the northern group at the session of the Legislature. Mr. Elliott would not agree with that. He said he was going to Sacramento to represent the truck industry or there would be no representation. Mr. Elliott talked considerably and I don't remember all he said. I remember that he did say, "I hold in the palm of my hand the southern delegation in the Assembly, and I can pass any bill or kill any bill," or words to that effect. At such time he estimated that, to put through the truck legislation that we favored, approximately $33,000 would be required. He said he had certain obligations that had to be met, that he was having certain men come up here—that he was going to have from 10 to 12 men at Sacramento to do the job and they would have to be paid. And there were certain railroad fares to be paid to get them here and their expenses would run pretty heavy, and he would need that much money to carry on the fight. * * *

Q. But did he say in substance or in words to that effect, that he intended to give to any legislator any money or anything of value?

A. I didn't hear him say that.

No money was given to Mr. Elliott, either directly or indirectly. My organization raised $3,900, of which we have now used $2,900 in connection with such legislation. I don't contact any members of the Legislature. Dave Shearer does all the contacting. He represents the southern group. At the Jonathan Club meeting, when Mr. Elliott was discussing the truck legislation, he said it would require $33,000 to do the job. We were in favor of the legislation—what is known as Senate Bill No. 329 or the State Chamber of Commerce Bill—then it was only in a fifth or sixth draft, you see. We were out for that legislation and that is what we were trying to support, and he said he could kill or pass this legislation and that he needed this money to do the job, and he said he was going to have 10 or 12 men here on the job to do it.

Q. You understood then the job was either the passing or defeating of this legislation now embodied in Senator Hays' bill?

A. That is right, Senator.

Q. And that money, you stated, so far as anything was said there, was to be used in the employment of 10 or 12 assistants?

A. Well, I don't know what they would be called—he said 10 or 12 men.

W. P. DWYER testified in substance as follows: I am President of the River Lines and am interested in the truck legislation because it will increase the freight rate. My company has not contributed any money either for or against any truck legislation. I was one of the committee to help draft the law now pending before the Legislature. Mr. Elliott also participated. When we were discussing the bill he stated that the organization which he represented had 4700 truck-owning members and that he could use his organization to either pass or kill any legislation; that to pass the pending bill would require about $33,000. That he would have to hold meetings of his association—public meetings—that he had a number of very able speakers besides himself who would address these public meetings and take care of the situation and in order to do so he proposed to publish in his paper two bills—one the law of this committee, and the other a bill that he was going to introduce which had one of the things in the bill of the committee except that he changed the power from regulation by the Railroad Commission to a Trucking Commission, which was to be a subsidiary of the Motor Vehicle Department; that he had to go pretty strong to convince his people on account of the propaganda he had spread for so long and so forcibly. * * * He explained it was necessary to have men in Sacramento to take care of the matter at Sacramento—that he would need 10 men at $550 a month, including expenses for five months. I called his attention. I forgot to say, Mr. Elliott said he wanted the money for himself. I called his attention to the fact that $550 a month for 10 men was $5,500 a month, and for five months it was only $27,500 and I asked where did the other money come in. Well, he said he forgot about two key men in addition to the others which would take up the slack.

Q. Was anything said by Mr. Elliott to the effect that if this $33,000 was not paid that he would not take a part in this legislative work?

A. He said if the $33,000 was not paid he would not go with the bill, and it would not carry, because he had financed it and enlisted a sufficient number of Assemblymen to practically control the Assembly.

Q. Did he say anything else with respect to the paying of any money or giving of any reward or gratuity of any kind and description other than you have already told us?

A. No.

HARVEY SANBORN testified in substance as follows: I reside at Berkeley. I am an attorney by profession. Some time ago I went to Mr. Elliott's room in the Senator Hotel for the purpose of discussing truck legislation. Some other people (naming them) were with me. Nothing was said in my presence by Mr. Elliott about money. We did discuss the pending legislation. Mr. Elliott favored a Truck Commission and I favored the Railroad Commission to administer the bill. That was about the extent of the discussion.

C. G. ANTHONY testified in substance as follows: I live at Glendale and am an officer and director of the Pacific Truck Line and am engaged in the trucking business. I was present on the third day of January, 1935, at Room 1 on the fourth floor of the Athletic Club in Los Angeles with certain other gentlemen (naming them) including Nathan Elliott. At such time Mr. Elliott addressed the meeting concerning Senate Bill No. 329 and outlined a plan for passing the bill. He said that he had a very powerful lobby this year at Sacramento and he was set up in such a way that he could be of great assistance in passing this proposed legislation, that he had a very strong unified bunch of legislators from the south who were pretty much committed to him because of the fact that he had paid their railroad fares. He said just the day before he had paid some $600 or $800 in railroad fares for the legislators from the south to Sacramento and he was arranging to take rooms up here and have gaming tables, or poker tables—running poker games, etc., and he said he had unity with him and that he could assist us materially in this legislation, but that it would take money to do it. At this particular meeting no sum of money was mentioned. He put in the time simply explaining to the men present the potential possibilities of his political set-up and conditions at Sacramento this year.

Q. What other details did he give concerning his potential political power at Sacramento?

A. He mentioned the fact that he had twenty-eight of the Assembly with him particularly the Epic group of the south, and that he had succeeded in financing their campaign—supplied them with funds—purchased transportation for them to Sacramento, and because of his activity in their behalf he could count on their help and he said he practically held them in the palm of his hand and they would do just as he wanted them to do.

I was also present at the Jonathan Club on the fifth day of January, 1934. At that meeting practically all of the large interests of the State in the truck industry were present, some 25 or 26 associations being represented; the only one on the outside being Mr. Elliott. At that time Mr. Meyers informed

Mr. Elliott that it was decided Mr. Ben Morris and Dave Shearer were to represent the north and south at Sacramento and he wanted to know if that would be satisfactory to Mr. Elliott, and Mr. Elliott said, "No, it would not be satisfactory." He said that he was going to represent the truck men here this year and he reiterated the same conversation as at the Athletic Club, explaining the political set-up and his strength and about holding the southern delegates in the palm of his hand and around that strength that we should rally and to let him be the spokesman, but he said it would take considerable money; that the sum required would be $33,000, and he figured it on the basis of the fact that he was obligated to the extent of $5,500 a month for six months here in Sacramento—that he was actually obligated for that amount and that money had to be raised. No money was ever given Mr. Elliott.

SHERMAN K. BURKE testified in substance as follows:

I live at San Francisco. I am assistant general freight agent of the Southern Pacific Railway Company.

Q. Now, I will ask you if, in the month of January, 1935, you had any conversation with Mr. Nathan Elliott of Los Angeles in which the sum of $33,000 or any such sum was mentioned.

A. I did.

Mr. Elliott said unless there was forthcoming to him the sum of $33,000 that he was in a position to and would kill the proposed truck regulatory bill in the drafting of which he had participated.

Q. Did he say from whom he wanted that $33,000?

A. He said it was a matter of indifference to him from whom he got the money, but, inasmuch as the carriers were prominently interested in the passage of that bill, he had come to them for the purpose of raising the money.

Q. What did he mean by "the carriers"?

A. All the transportation companies that had representatives on the committee that drafted the bill.

Q. Did that include the people that you represented?

A. It included me as representative of all steam railroads in California. * * *

Q. During that conversation, did Mr. Elliott state how that $33,000 was to be expended?

A. He did.

Q. State to the members of the committee what he said with respect to that.

A. The $33,000 was to be expended for the purpose of paying the salaries and expenses of 12 men at Sacramento at a rate of $550 a month for a period of five months. Twelve times $550 is $6,600 a month and for five months it is $33,000. That is the detail of the amount of money Mr. Elliott said was needed as his price to support the bill. * * *

Q. Was anything said with respect to his alleged influence with the Assembly or legislators?

A. Mr. Elliott made the statement in general, without specifically mentioning any member of the Legislature, that he was in position by virtue of the influence he had had with people he had supported through the medium of the Independent Truck Owners Association to have a substantial amount of influence in the Assembly of the Legislature.

On January 5th at the Jonathan Club Mr. Elliott said that he would have to maintain some 10 or 12 men at Sacramento, and there was going to be expense and he would have to have a considerable amount of money to do it, and I just don't recall who did the questioning—I did part of it and some of the others questioned him also and he arrived at this figure at that time. He said he would have to have at least 10 men at Sacramento and a salary of $550 a month, and that it would have to be over a six months period of time or a total amount of money of $33,000.

AL MEYERS testified in substance as follows: I am the owner of the Western Transportation Company which is engaged in the trucking business for hire. I operate in Los Angeles. I was present at a meeting of persons interested in truck legislation prior to the meeting at the Athletic Club on January 3, 1935, at which time Mr. Elliott stated that he would like to get together with the operators—the way he put it was that he would like to get together with the fellows and see if something couldn't be done towards raising the money—that it would take lots of money to put the bill over; that he thought it was a good bill and he was willing to go for it if the matter of the money could be taken care of. At a meeting at the Athletic Club on January 3d Mr. Elliott stated that he had considerable strength in Sacramento; that he had some 27 or 28 legislators that he controlled.

Q. Did he designate which house?

A. I was going to qualify that—it was in response to my question as a matter of fact, and I asked him who were the legislators and he said they are all in the Assembly and I said "You have no support in the Senate whatsoever?" and he said "No, not a single man" and then he went on and we asked him what he had to say and what his program was and he said he had 10 or 12 men that he was going to have to maintain at Sacramento and he said he had already gone to the expense of paying the railroad fare of many of the members of the Assembly—principally the Pipe group—and that he had already spent about $600 or $800—and some had already gone to Sacramento and others were going to leave that day and some the following day and some were taking their wives and families with them—that he was arranging to take care of any and all of them that wanted him to do so. He then went on about the matter of this money and suggested an assessment of $2 a truck for six months and the other eighteen months of $1 a truck and I called his attention to the fact that in the case of one of the large operators there, with the number of trucks that he had, it would mean an assessment to him of some $10,000 or $12,000 and I said, "Do you realize what this is?" and he said "What is $10,000 or $12,000 to a man like that who has that many trucks—he can afford to pay it"—so we really got nowhere at that meeting and it was suggested that the matter would be given consideration. I was present at the Jonathan Club on January 30, others (naming them) were also present. There were about 14 or 15. I believe this meeting was called at Mr. Elliott's suggestion. He discussed forming a state-wide association. He favored a Truck Commission rather than the Railroad Commission to handle truck legislation. After discussing the proposed bill he said he had no objection to the Railroad Commissioner's administering the rate provisions, but he felt there should also be a provision for a truck commission.

Q. What was said about money?

A. Well, again he repeated the statement he made at the Athletic Club, that he would have to maintain some 10 or 12 men at Sacramento, and there was going to be expense and he would have to have a considerable amount of money to do it, and I just don't recall who did the questioning. I had part of it and some of the others questioned him also and he arrived at this figure at that time. He said he would have to have at least 10 men at Sacramento and a salary of $550 a month, and that it would have to be over a six months period of time or a total amount of money of $33,000. At the meeting on January 5th he stated in substance that he controlled the Southern delegation in the Assembly; that he had no strength and didn't control a single man in the Senate. There were several other statements in one of which he said that the new state-wide association could be formed making him the head at a salary of $12,000 the first year, and increasing that amount $2,000 for each year over a period of a five-year contract, that he would then be in a position so that he could go for the bill.

NATHAN J. ELLIOTT was called to give his explanation of the statements hereinbefore referred to and he testified in substance as follows: My name is Nathan J. Elliott. I reside on Glendale Avenue, Los Angeles. I am executive vice president and general manager of the Independent Truck Owners Association, which is a nonprofit corporation with 27 directors. It was organized for the purpose of advancing the interests of its members. There are between 4000 and 5000 members. Approximately 2000 of them have paid their dues for this year. I was a member of the committee which prepared certain truck legislation. There were quite a number of drafts made. I always opposed the plan of putting the trucks under the Railroad Commission. I was for a commission under the Department of Motor Vehicles and advocated a division of the Department of Motor Vehicles to have jurisdiction over the regulation of trucks. At the first of these meetings where all the truck and freight-carrying interests were represented, I asked them to support a legislative measure that would provide for a Department of Motor Vehicle Control for higher trucking rates; that is the thing upon which my conversation with them is based. There was most definitely no conversation at that meeting about the alleged $33,000; there was nothing said at that meeting about money. Mr. Morris and others at the meeting asked me if it would be satisfactory if the three groups represented there, namely our group, the Independent Truck Owners Association, and Mr. Morris' group, and the Certificated Highway Carriers, Inc., they asked me "Would it be satisfactory to have Mr. Shearer represent the three groups here at Sacramento?" They said that Mr. Morris and Mr. Shearer and myself would sit down and go over matters and then give Mr. Shearer his instructions and have him represent us, all of us, at Sacramento. Then I stated that Dave Shearer was not satisfactory to the truck men in this State. We did not want him representing our interests at Sacramento because he was known to be a representative of the Certificated Carriers, operating under the jurisdiction of the Railroad Commission, tied closely to the railroads and who do not have a real community interest with the balance of the industry.

Q. What did you say to express yourself?

A. I expressed myself in that way—objecting to Dave Shearer's representing us here at Sacramento.

Q. What did they say in reference to that?

A. Well, they simply said, "All right, we will send Dave Shearer anyhow, and have Mr. Morris there too." I advised them that we would be here too.

Q. For what purpose?

A. For the purpose of fostering the legislation we thought best for the people we represent.

Q. Did you say anything about whether you would oppose the bill that they were proposing?

A. I think I advised them that we would oppose Railroad Commission control over trucks.

Q. During any time of that conversation was any statement made by you as to the influence that you had over, or might have over any member of the Legislature?

A. We discussed the members of the Legislature and the discussion to a great extent was based upon the November 25th issue of our official newspaper.

SENATOR RICH: This paper just identified will be introduced in evidence and marked Exhibit 1.

A. On page 4 and 5 you will find a number of letters that were written to us, I mean the Independent Truck Owners Association. A number of letters addressed to our association from Assemblymen and some other officials that had just been elected to office. There was a great deal of discussion at this meeting and other places about this group of letters; I think there are something like 28 letters here. A number of them are from Epic candidates and I think that much of the talk about our control over Epic candidates and naming the entire southern delegation is the result of this issue of the newspaper where we have these letters from the Assemblymen.

Q. Tell us what was said with reference to the gentlemen referred to, the members of the Assembly, at that meeting.

A. Well, I made the statement that if we were all together in regard to a regulatory measure that we could go to Sacramento, and with the proper presentation of that proposed measure of the Legislature that the likelihood of obtaining the passage of that bill would be very good; if we went up there and engaged in controversy before the Legislature that the likelihood of getting a satisfactory regulatory bill passed would not be very good. I have made the statement, not only at that meeting but at many meetings, that if there are bills introduced in the Legislature that are unfair and discriminatory against truckmen, that with the proper presentation of the facts to the various members of the Legislature we would be able to no doubt defeat an adverse bill.

Q. At that meeting was anything said as to the method or means by which you would accomplish the results desired?

A. No, nothing was said as to how results would be accomplished except, other than a proper presentation. Of course certain things were talked about in a very general manner.

Q. I believe you said already that no question of finance or money was discussed at that meeting?

A. No, there was not. I said as to the $33,000 talked about, that was not mentioned. I never discussed money at that meeting at all. They may have said something about money, but I don't recall now that I said anything about money and at that whole meeting nothing was said about this muchly talked about $33,000.

Q. The question of money and influence with legislators was discussed; was that at the first meeting, prior to the Athletic Club meeting?

A. Of course, but there has always been the subject of money discussed in these various meetings.

Q. When was the $33,000 first mentioned?

A. Let me think (hesitating) yes there was a $33,000 sum mentioned. That amount never came up in a meeting where there were a number of people. It was discussed with Mr. Dwyer and it was discussed with Mr. Anthony. It was discussed with Mr. Burke and it was discussed at different times with these men. The dates I do not remember, but here is substantially the conversation that I had with people where that amount was discussed. As I have already stated we are in favor of the Department of Motor Vehicles having regulation over rates,—

SENATOR RICH: (Interposing) You are rambling around; what we want to know is about the $33,000.

A. (Continuing) And the people with whom we were talking were in favor of Railroad Commission control. Now this all has a bearing on the $33,000, so I am not rambling around; it has a direct bearing on this.

SENATOR RICH: Well, make it short, and as quick as you can.

A. In our discussion they, of course, wanted our association to go along on Railroad Commission control. What we wanted was to get it under the control of Department of Motor Vehicles. I said that the truckmen would never consent to Railroad Commission control and that they wanted Department of Motor Vehicle control. They said "We have a good bill"—This was after the State Chamber of Commerce Bill was drawn up, "and if this Railroad Commission bill is presented to the truckmen of the State properly explained to them, and if they are educated as to the provisions of that bill and informed as to the provisions of the I. T. O. Truck Commission Bill, it was the contention of the proponents of the State Chamber of Commerce bill that the majority of the truckmen would vote for Railroad Commission control over trucks.

Q. Having made that statement, may I ask this Mr. Elliott. Prior to the time that you had figured out and stated or used the figure $33,000 in this discussion, had anything been said to you, or any inquiry made as to how much money it would take to carry on this education you refer to? Was there anything said by anybody that caused you to arrive at the figure of $33,000? Was anything said by anybody?

A. I made the statement that if a campaign was conducted whereby they were informed and advised as to the two bills and a vote taken, that they would have to stand the expense of it, we did not have the money with which to conduct a campaign of that magnitude. And they said, "How much will it cost?"

Q. Who said?

A. These people.

Q. Who?

A. Mr. Dwyer and Mr. Anthony.

Q. Both present at the same time?

A. No. Understand there were numerous conversations on this thing. They wanted to know definitely what a campaign like that would cost. I said that if this thing was going to be done we were going to find out how the truckmen stood on this issue. I said that we would have to hold 150 or 200 meetings, send them a copy of each bill, circulate them thoroughly, then take a vote. That will take several months to do and would cost six, seven, or eight thousand dollars a month. That is what it would cost to conduct a campaign of that character. Then the figure was estimated that it would cost about $33,000.

Q. What did you tell them that you would do with the money?

A. That it would be spent entirely for the one purpose of conducting an informative and educational campaign on the two bills and for the taking of a vote, and that I would not handle the money nor would any official or officer of our association handle the money.

Q. Will you please identify the meeting at which you first brought up the subject of money,—that is the $33,000?

A. That was not brought up at either the Jonathan Club or the Athletic Club.

Q. Where was it brought up?

A. In individual interviews.

Q. With Mr. Anthony and Mr. Dwyer?

A. Yes and also discussed with Mr. Burke.

Q. Did you at any of these meetings at the Jonathan Club or Athletic Club, or in talking with Mr. Anthony or Mr. Dwyer, state to them in words or substance, that you controlled any member or members of the Assembly, or held any of them in the palm of your hand,—or words to that effect?

A. I very definitely never made a statement that I controlled one, or 5, or 20, or 50, legislators; I have never made the statement that was charged that I held in the palm of my hand the entire southern delegation. I did not make that statement.

Q. What was said about your entertaining members of the Legislature?

A. I never discussed any plans because we had no plans for entertaining legislators.

Q. Then you did not discuss it?

A. Yes.

Q. What was said if anything, about maintaining any gambling rooms to which members of the Legislature would be invited to play?

A. I very definitely deny the charge that we were contemplating conducting a gambling room and games in Sacramento. There may have been conversation about poker games, but there certainly was never anything said by me that would implicate or imply that we had any intentions of improperly conducting any sort of a gambling game or in improperly trying to influence a legislator, either in a poker game or any other way.

Q. The statement has been made that during one of these conversations you stated that you had paid the railroad fare of some member of the Legislature, either going to or from the Legislature. Now, have you ever directly or indirectly either paid or contributed to the paying of any railroad fare or expense of any member of the Legislature in going to or from the legislative session or any expense of any member of the Legislature while attending a session of the Legislature?

A. I very definitely have not contributed any money to any member of the Legislature, directly or indirectly, for railroad fares or current expenses or anything else. * * *

Mr. Dwyer asked what I would estimate it to cost to conduct an educational and informative campaign and to take a vote of the industry.

Q. Do you mean all of the membership.

A. A vote of the entire industry. All of the truck owners in the State of California.

Q. How many votes would be taken?

A. Between seven and eight thousand * * *

Well, he asked how much would it cost to take an actual poll of this industry. I outlined what I felt would have to be done in order to properly educate them and inform them.

Q. What did you say?

A. I said to properly inform the truck men as to the provisions of both bills, first of all the State Chamber of Commerce Bill should be published in our I. T. O. newspaper, and to publish the I. T. O. proposed Truck Commission Bill. That would be the first thing to do in informing the truck men as to the provisions of the two bills. And then to follow that up with other information later and to allow the State Chamber of Commerce people to present all of the arguments for the Railroad Commission Control Bill and against our bill, and we would present all of our arguments for our bill and against the Railroad Commission Bill. We would have to hold 150 or 200 meetings and that would take several months and before you could get a complete poll of this entire industry it would run into April and maybe the early part of May, at which time we could announce the results of the vote and we would all support the bill that the truck men voted for. If that were done that the proponents of Railroad Commission control would have to stand the expense of conducting such a campaign. Mr. Dwyer said what would it cost, what did I figure that it would cost and I said that I figured it would cost six, seven, or eight thousand dollars a month to conduct a campaign of that character, it would run several months, and he did some figuring and we arrived at the figure of $33,000 as a maximum amount that it would cost to conduct that campaign; to take a vote of the industry.

Q. Didn't you say at a meeting of the Motor Vehicle Committee that you suggested the $33,000 for additional purposes?

A. No, I don't recall saying that I asked for the $33,000 because I was not asking for it. If this money had been put up for this campaign, it would not have been given to me, nor to my association, because my board of directors thought that if the proponents of Railroad Commission control accepted the proposition of this plebiscite idea that we would not handle the money, that that would have to be done by someone else and as it was to be spent to conduct this campaign it would have to be put in some trust fund and handled by a trustee.

Mr. Elliott made specific denial to some of the other statements made by some of the other witnesses but, inasmuch as the committee does not deem this material, we have not made special reference to them.

We have set out quite fully the substance of the testimonies of all the witnesses so that the members of the Senate may be fully advised as to just what was said by the various persons interrogated by your committee and as a basis for the conclusions arrived at by your committee.

From the testimonies submitted, it is apparent to the committee that, prior to the convening of the session of the Legislature, various persons interested in trucking legislation met on various occasions for the purpose of drafting a bill to present at this session of the Legislature by which all trucking for hire within the State of California would be regulated; that prior thereto, various persons, including Mr. Elliott and some of the other witnesses here, formed and organized associations to which various trucking interests contributed; that Mr. Elliott organized and apparently controlled such an organization, published a paper which was distributed among the various persons engaged in trucking for hire; that the purpose of this and other such organizations was stated to be for the interests of the trucking industry but primarily such organizations were formed in the interests and for the benefit of the persons forming such organizations, for in each instance dues were paid and the organizers usually received compensation in some form or another. At the various meetings discussed by the witnesses these organizations were represented as well as the railroads and all persons engaged in freighting for hire. The railroad interests and some of the other trucking organizations favored a bill which would place control of the entire truck industry with the Railroad Commission. Elliott and his organization favored the creation of a department in the Motor Vehicle Department to control such business. A majority of the committee working on the bill finally determined in favor of a bill which placed control under the Railroad Commission. Elliott opposed such plan. While the matter was being discussed, an effort was made to get Elliott to join with the other members in recommending the Railroad Commission bill. It was during this discussion that the matter of control of members of the Legislature was discussed and the matter of raising and expending $23,000 was considered. As a condition for his supporting the bill Elliott demanded that the sum of $23,000 be raised and made available for his use. There is dispute among the witnesses as to just what it was to be used for but the preponderance of the evidence is that no part of it was to be paid to any member of the Legislature or to be improperly expended in their interest or behalf. During some of these discussions, Elliott made boastful representations as to his influence and control of certain members of the Legislature. This practice is not uncommon among a certain class of lobbyists. It is unfair and unethical and is condemned and persons engaging in such practice should be barred from appearing before any committee of this Senate. There was no evidence presented to the committee of any moneys having been raised by Mr. Elliott or for Mr. Elliott nor was there any evidence that Mr. Elliott had used any money for any improper purpose nor was there any evidence that he had any influence over or control of any member of the Legislature. It is a well known fact that many people engaged in advocating legislation or in attempting to defeat proposed legislation not infrequently raise and expend large and unnecessary sums of money and that the public is generally exploited by advocates and lobbyists and, as a result thereof, a large and unnecessary number of persons are frequently present at Sacramento, whose presence could very well be dispensed with. In saying this we have no reference to those men who are here in the interests of public entities, legitimate business and whose purpose is to render aid to the members of the Legislature concerning matters and subjects that are being considered. This very unsatisfactory situation can be easily remedied if the people themselves will only cease making contributions to the persons who exploit them. The use of money at Sacramento in the interests of legislation is not necessary and the public should not encourage its use by contributing to lobbyists' funds.

As hereinbefore stated, nothing herein should be used either in favor of or to the prejudice of the bill now pending in the Senate but such bill should be determined upon its merits.

As hereinbefore indicated, the committee is of the opinion that the evidence in this case does not sustain the charge that $23,000 was demanded for any improper use or for use in influencing any member of the Legislature nor does it show that Mr. Elliott has or exercises any control or authority over any member of the Legislature.

While the foregoing report covers the specific investigation under consideration, we feel that it might be well to continue this committee until the conclusion of this session so that, in the event that any similar charges or suggestions are made, this committee will be in a position to take them up and determine them expeditiously. We also believe that the continuance of this committee will have a very beneficial influence in protecting members of the Legislature from similar charges and accusations and will, perhaps, prevent other lobbyists from making similar boastful claims of influence and control.

Respectfully,

RICH.
SWING.

Minority Report of Investigating Committee by Senator McGovern.

SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, April 4, 1935.

Hon. George J. Hatfield,
President of the Senate, State of California.

DEAR SIR: Pursuant to a Senate resolution, the undersigned, special investigating committee, were appointed to investigate various oral charges concerning one Nathan J. Elliott of Los Angeles, California, who was accused of having demanded from certain persons engaged in the trucking industry in this State, and most of whom are proponents of Senate Bill No. 329, the sum of approximately $23,000 as the price for his support of such bill, such oral charges being to the effect that said Elliott declared to such persons that if he was not paid such sum of money he would oppose the bill and cause its defeat in this Legislature.

This committee held three sessions at which testimony was taken, the first session being held on March 22, 1935, the second session on March 28, 1935, and the third session on March 29, 1935.

The following persons who were subpoenaed as witnesses were duly sworn before such committee and testified with respect to said charges, namely: Ben Morris, W. P. Dwyer, Harvey Sanborn, C. G. Anthony, Sherman K. Burke, Al Meyers, and Nathan J. Elliott, the accused. Approximately 150 typewritten pages of testimony were received and transcribed.

The evidence produced before this committee showed that in January, 1935, there were three groups of motor truck freight transportation interests in this State, namely, the so-called southern group, the so-called northern group and the so-called independent group known as the Independent Truck Owners Association of California, of which latter group the accused, Nathan J. Elliott, was an officer and active leader; that all of such groups had been discussing and agitating different systems of motor truck freight transportation control and regulation by the State for several years; and in 1934 the California State Chamber of Commerce appointed a committee, consisting of representatives of various shipping interests in this State, to study the problem of motor truck freight transportation regulation and to prepare proposed legislation thereon. The said Elliott and many of his accusers were members of said committee.

The testimony of the accusers of Elliott may be summarized as follows:

In the early part of January, 1935, said Nathan J. Elliott approached various persons connected with said trucking groups and said committee and advised them that while he, as one of the leaders of the said independent group of truckers had been actively opposed to the form of the suggested motor truck regulation which was intended to confer jurisdiction on the Railroad Commission of this State, in the regulation of the freight trucking industry, he would be willing to withdraw his opposition to such proposed legislation and to support the same provided there was advanced the sum of approximately $33,000, which sum of money would be used by said Elliott and by his associates for different purposes, including an "educational campaign", among the members of this association as well as the expenditure of money for sending different representatives to the State Capital to lobby among members of the Legislature in the interests of such proposed legislation; in speaking to the various interests whom he sought to interest in his plan, in conversations at the Jonathan Club in Los Angeles, California, and in the office of W. P. Dwyer, in San Francisco, California, in January 1935, the said Elliott declared, in substance and effect, that he held the southern delegation in the Assembly to the California Legislature, in the palm of his hand, that he had assisted said legislators in their campaigns for election, that he had paid their railroad fares and the railroad fares of their families to Sacramento, that by the exercise of his influence the legislation in question could be either "put over" or defeated, but that, it would take a fund to do that job; that said Elliott, upon numerous occasions, said that it would require $33,000 to either kill or pass the legislation in question; that in such conversations, Elliott declared that it was his intention to have 10 or 12 men at Sacramento to support his campaign, whichever side of the issue he supported; that he controlled said Independent Truck Owners Association of California and that as a leader in such association he had conducted an anti-Railroad Commission propaganda campaign among the members thereof, and that he did so for the purpose of keeping such members "pepped up" that he argued with the persons from whom he sought to obtain this money that as a member of the State Chamber of Commerce Committee who drew up Senate Bill No. 329 he was placed in an embarrassing position, because of his previous opposition to Railroad Commission control of the freight trucking industry and that it was now necessary for him to change his policy among the members of the association of which he was an officer; he stated, frequently, that if the opposition of the alleged 4700 members of said association which he claimed to control was placed in opposition to Senate Bill No. 329, the same would be defeated; that if said $33,000 was not paid to him; to be expended as he suggested, he would "not go with the bill" and that it would not carry; that he had great political influence with the southern California delegation in the Assembly; that the draft of Senate Bill No. 329 was completed before there was any talk of the $33,000 between Elliott and his accusers; that Elliott claimed, from time to time, that he was the head of a very powerful lobby at Sacramento and that he could be of very great assistance in passing the proposed legislation; that he had a strong unified number of Assemblymen from the southern part of the State committed to him because he had paid their railroad fares and had provided for their entertainment at Sacramento; that he could assist materially with this legislation but that it would take money to do it; that he had 25 Assemblymen with him; that he had financed their campaigns and supplied them with funds and purchased transportation for them and their families to Sacramento; that he could count on their help; that he held them in the palm of his hand; that they would do just as he wanted them to do.

In one conversation Elliott declared that the $33,000 would be expended at the rate of $5,500 a month for six months, in persuading his followers and legislators to support the bill in question; that the expense of maintaining a lobby was terrific and that if he did not get the money in question he would have to oppose the bill.

Elliott testified as a witness. He denied that he had made any demand for $33,000 as the price of his support of the legislation in question, but he did admit, under oath, that the sum of $33,000 was mentioned, upon several occasions, by him, in conversations with the other members of the Chamber of Commerce Committee, including his accusers, in which conversations he stated that it would take said sum of money to win over the members of the Independent Truck Owners Association, of which he was an officer and leader, as well as legislators friendly to him, to support the bill. His plan involved, he claims, the publishing of a questionnaire in a periodical issued by his association, the holding of meetings and the distribution of printed literature. Elliott testified that in suggesting the sum of $33,000 as the amount to be expended by the trucking interests, in accordance with his suggestion, he had never attempted to itemize any particular expenditure of such total sum; he could not estimate, before this committee, how he believed such sum would or should be apportioned in the expenditure. He could not offer any explanation as to why he suggested the particular sum of $33,000, instead of a larger, or smaller sum, for the so-called "educational" campaign for which he claimed the money was to be used.

The witnesses interrogated by this committee admitted that there was never any evidence, documentary or otherwise, that corroborated, to any extent, the bald statements of Elliott with reference to his alleged influence with members of the Assembly from southern California. All of the witnesses who were questioned on the point stated flatly that they did not believe that Elliott possessed the influence which he claimed to possess.

The evidence showed that the organization apparently controlled by Elliott endorsed numerous candidates for political office during the last State campaign, in the manner in which most candidates for office in California are endorsed for office under our present election system.

The evidence also shows that after the election, Elliott obtained from successful candidates for the Legislature and other successful candidates for public office, letters of acknowledgment, thanking Elliott for the alleged efforts he and the organization he represented had made in behalf of such grateful candidates. These letters were of the type usually written by successful candidates to organizations and individuals who claim to have supported such successful candidates.

From the foregoing facts, I am satisfied that the accused, Nathan J. Elliott, made various statements and claims of political power to members and others, including his accusers, in which he attempted to sell himself and his alleged influence, for a consideration. I believe that no money nor anything of value was paid by any person to Elliott, that none of the persons approached by Elliott were furnished with any evidence of his alleged political influence or power, that Elliott's claims to political influence with Assemblymen and others were and are totally unfounded, that so far as the evidence at this hearing discloses no legislator and no other public official has been guilty of any improper conduct of any kind or description whatsoever, and that which no individual names were used, by Elliott, his reference to certain groups of legislators from southern California was wholly unauthorized and unjustified.

When the Senator who made the motion that created this Special Investigating Committee addressed the Senate in support of his resolution, he argued that the same was sufficiently broad to include a general investigation into the whole question of legislative lobbying, which practice is now so widespread in this city. The resolution itself indicates that this body had in mind a general investigation of the problem, when it adopted the same.

Up to now, this committee has confined its inquiry to the particular charges involved in the alleged attempt by one Nathan J. Elliott to obtain a sum of money from interested persons for the purpose of influencing legislation. Now that the special committee has concluded its investigation of the Elliott occurrence, it should proceed further and thoroughly investigate the entire problem of lobbying.

This Senate should take official cognizance of the great number of persons who are now visiting this capitol, seeking from various motives, to influence pending legislation.

The legislative branch of our State Government can not function properly or effectively unless it curbs this continuous lobbyist interference. Ours is becoming a government by lobbyists instead of a government by the elected representatives of the people. Lobbyist domination means invisible government in its worst form. Our failure to accomplish anything progressive or definite since January 8, 1935, is, in my opinion, due in no small part to the presence in this city of a vast horde of special pleaders who are selfishly seeking to influence the action of our State Government.

Undoubtedly there are persons who visit Sacramento during legislative sessions, in an honest endeavor to protect, by open advocacy, the legitimate interests of those whom they represent. Those men, who openly advocate their respective causes, should be encouraged to present the true facts of their problems, at open meetings of various legislative committees. There can be no legitimate objection to such frank advocacy.

It is the secret activities of the under-cover lobbyist, who works in the dark, through illegitimate practices, that we should seek to eradicate. The activities of these henchmen of selfish interests, who seek special benefits through legislative action, are a disgrace to modern democracy and a challenge to popular government. They aim to obtain by stealth that which they know they can not get by honest means. They resort to different practices in their attempts to attain their illegal objectives. These practices are too well known to need further comment here. As long as they are tolerated, they reflect on every legislator in this State. It is the duty of this Senate to employ every legitimate means to exterminate this challenge to honest government.

For the foregoing reasons, I submit, with respect, that this investigation into the practice of lobbying should be continued, so that legitimate, open advocacy may be regulated and encouraged and the dishonest lobbyist exposed and driven from this capital.

Respectfully submitted.

WALTER McGOVERN,

State Senator for the City and County of San Francisco.

April 4, 1935.

Consideration of Daily File.

Second Reading of Senate Bills.

Senate Bill No. 561—An act to amend sections 3 and 5 of an act entitled "An act to provide for the acquisition of rights of way for and the construction, maintenance and improvement of State highways, classifying the highways in the State system and allocating and directing the expenditure of funds for the construction, maintenance and improvement of State highways," approved May 26, 1927, relating to the allocation and expenditure of State highway funds.

Consideration of Committee Amendments.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Roads and Highways, the following amendments to Senate Bill No. 561 were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1, line 1 of the title of the printed bill, strike out the following: "3 and 5 of an act entitled 'An act'; and also strike out the remainder of said title, and insert in lieu thereof the following: "194, 195, 196, 197, and 198 of the Streets and Highways Code, relating to the allocation and expenditure of State highway funds".

Amendment No. 2.

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out lines 1 to 21, inclusive, and all of pages 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"SECTION 1. Section 194 of the Streets and Highways Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

194. The commission shall allocate annually, and the department shall expend or cause to be expended within the cities of this State, from the State highway fund, an amount equal to the net revenue derived from one-half cent per gallon of tax on motor vehicle fuel.

Such expenditures shall be made within each city in the proportion that the total population of such city bears to the total population in all cities in this State. For the purpose of this section the population in each city is that determined by the last preceding Federal census. In the case of a city incorporated subsequent to the last census or in the case of unincorporated territory being annexed to a city subsequent to the last census, the population of such city or the territory so annexed shall be computed by the department to be equal to that percentage of the total population as determined by the last preceding Federal census of the county, wherein such city is situated which the total number of registered voters of the city or of the territory so annexed bears to the total number of registered voters of said county.

All moneys allocated under the provisions of this section shall be expended for the acquisition of real property or interest therein for, or the construction, maintenance, improvement and operation of streets of major importance within such city other than primary and secondary State highways, except as provided in section 197 of this article.

SEC. 2. Section 195 of the Streets and Highways Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

195. It shall be the duty of the legislative body of each city, on or before the first day of June of each year, to prepare and submit to the department a budget, on such forms as the department may require, showing the work proposed to be done and the estimated expenditure of such funds proposed to be made during the ensuing fiscal year within such city.

The department may refuse to accept any such budget, or any item thereof, if in the opinion of said department the work proposed to be done or the expenditures proposed to be made, as outlined therein, do not comply with the requirements of this article as to the purposes for which such funds may be expended. In the event of any such disapproval by the department, the legislative body shall modify the budget so submitted and resubmit the same to said department.

The budget of any city may be amended at any time and resubmitted as hereinabove provided.

SEC. 3. Section 196 of the Streets and Highways Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

196. Any expenditure of money from the State highway fund within any city, as authorized by this article, shall be delegated by the department to the governing body of such city if the department is satisfied that such city is equipped to conduct the particular work in an efficient and economic manner.

The department shall quarterly pay to any city to which the expenditure of such funds has been delegated its full pro rata share of the fund to which it is entitled under this article when:

(1) The budget submitted by the city has been accepted by the department;

(2) The city has set up by ordinance a "Special gas tax street improvement fund." No money in the said fund shall be spent by the city except on projects contained in the budget as accepted by the department.

Where expenditures under the budget, either in whole or in part, are not delegated to a city by the department, the city may enter into contracts with the department or with the county within which it is situated for the performance of work on all maintenance projects in the budget approved by the department.

SEC. 4. Section 197 of the Streets and Highways Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

197. To permit the accomplishment of a major project in its entirety, the governing body of any city may authorize the accumulation of money accruing over a period of years from the State highway fund, or may authorize the advancement of money from such fund in anticipation of moneys thus to accrue.

The legislative body of any city may include in its budget and the department may approve projects for the expenditure of any money accruing to a city hereunder upon any primary or secondary State highway or any county highway outside the limits of such city.

The provisions of this article shall be construed as a guarantee for the expenditure of not less than the amounts herein provided within each city, but shall not be deemed to prevent the expenditure of any larger amount by the department within any city.

SEC. 5. Section 198 of the Streets and Highways Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

198. All cities expending any motor vehicle fuel tax money under this article shall file with the Department of Public Works annually at such time as the department may designate a report showing all expenditures made, projects completed, and projects under construction, and such other matters as the department may require."

SCHOOL CODE.

Chapter VIII, sections 6.570 to 6.723, inclusive, Union High School Library.

SEC. 2. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1, Article IV of the Constitution, and shall therefore go into effect immediately.

The facts constituting the necessity are as follows: Unless the organization of certain types of sanitary and county sanitation districts is exempted from the provisions of the District Investigation Act of 1933 the inhabitants of many communities will be deprived of adequate and modern sanitation facilities to the detriment of the public peace, health, safety and welfare, because of the impossibility of fulfilling the conditions of said act in time to receive from the Federal Government financial assistance in the construction of sanitation systems. Because of these circumstances it is necessary that this act become effective immediately."

(b) The declaration shall be subscribed and sworn to before some officer authorized to administer oaths, and thereupon at least sixty-five days before the August primary election shall be delivered to the county clerk or registrar of voters in the county in which the candidate resides. Such clerk or registrar of voters shall forthwith certify and transmit to the Secretary of State the declaration of candidacy and acceptance as herein provided, for each candidate for State offices, United States Senators, Representatives in Congress, members of the State Senate and Assembly, and all officers to be voted for in districts comprising more than one county.

(c) A candidate for a nonpartisan office shall omit all reference to party candidacy or party affiliations from said declaration.

(d) Said declaration shall be signed, certified and filed as provided in this section, and at least sixty-five days before said primary election, the candidate shall cause to be filed sponsor certificates herein provided for, of not less than sixty-five nor more than one hundred sponsors if the candidate is a candidate for a State office or for United States Senator, and not less than forty nor more than sixty if the candidacy is for Representative in Congress, member of the Board of Equalization, or for any office voted for in more than one county, and not Statewide except for the State Senate or for the Assembly, and not less than twenty nor more than thirty if the candidacy is for the State Senate or for the Assembly, or a candidate in a single county or any political subdivision thereof. In the case of every candidate to be voted for at the primary election for whom the number of sponsor certificates is not above provided, the number shall be not less than the sum more than twenty; provided, that if any political party has less than 20% registered voters in the State or in the county or district in which the election is to be held, a candidate for nomination by such party need not have more sponsors than one-tenth the number of said registered voters of said party; provided, further, that if there are less than one hundred fifty registered voters in the county or district in which the election is to be held, the number of sponsors shall not be less than ten nor more than twenty.

Sponsors must be electors and qualified to vote at the ensuing primary election in the district or political subdivision in which the candidate is to be voted for, and shall be affiliated with the party, if any, in which the nomination is proposed.

(e) Sponsor certificates and declarations of candidacy by sponsors shall be delivered to the county clerk or registrar of voters of the county in which the sponsor resides and is a registered voter and the county clerk or registrar of voters shall not accept for filing any declaration or sponsor certificate unless all blanks therein are filled. The county clerk or registrar of voters shall forthwith file said certificates in his office or forward the same for filing as provided in this act.

The county clerk or registrar of voters before filing or forwarding for filing any declaration or sponsor certificate shall verify the signature on each declaration and certificate and the political affiliation set forth therein with the registration affidavits on file in his office and mark "not sufficient" any signature in any declaration or certificate which does not appear in the same handwriting as appears on the affidavit of registration in his office or in which the declaration of party affiliation is not in accordance with the declaration of party affiliation in such affidavit of registration. No more sponsors shall be secured for any candidate than the maximum number required in subdivision (d) of this section; provided, that if, through misrepresentation or otherwise, more sponsors are secured than said maximum number, the officer with whom said sponsor's certificates are filed, shall with the written consent of the candidate withdraw such excess number. No fee or charge whatsoever shall be made or collected by any officer for the verifying of any declaration of candidacy, sponsor certificates, declaration of acceptances or verification affidavit.

(f) Sponsors for candidates for nonpartisan offices shall omit all reference to party candidacy or affiliations from their declarations and certificates.

(g) All sponsor certificates which by section 6 of this act are required to be filed in the office of the Secretary of State shall be delivered to the county clerk or registrar of voters as provided herein at least sixty-five days prior to the August primary election and within five days after being so left such certificates shall be forwarded by such county clerk or registrar of voters to the Secretary of State, who shall receive and file the same. The county clerk or registrar of voters shall forward with said sponsors' certificates a statement showing the total number which have not been marked "not sufficient," as hereinabove provided.

All sponsor certificates which are not required by this act to be filed in the office of the Secretary of State shall be filed in the office of the county clerk or registrar of voters. All sponsor certificates shall be so arranged, by pluralizing of pronouns and otherwise, as to admit of the signatures of not exceeding thirty sponsors on the same sponsors' certificates.

Sponsors, other than those who shall sign declarations of candidacy by sponsors, shall certify to the qualification of the candidate as follows:

Sponsor's Certificate.

I, the undersigned sponsor for ----- for the ----- party nomination to the office of -----, to be voted for at the primary election to be held on the ----- day of -----, 19-----, hereby assert as follows:

My knowledge of the said ----- is sufficient to warrant my urging his election to the office of ----- and in my opinion he is fully qualified mentally, morally and physically for the said office and should be elected to fill it. I am a qualified elector of ----- county and I am registered as affiliated with the ----- party and am not at this time a signer of any other certificate nominating any other candidate for the above-named office, or in case there are several places to be filled in the above-named office, I have not signed more certificates than there are places to be filled in the above-named office. My residence and occupation are correctly set forth after my signature hereto.

Name	Residence	Occupation

Verification Deputy's Affidavit.

I, -----, solemnly swear (or affirm) that I have been appointed according to the provisions of subdivision a, section 5 of the Direct Primary Law, as a verification deputy to secure signatures of sponsors in the county of ----- to the nomination paper of ----- as a candidate for the nomination of the ----- party for the office of -----; that all the signatures on this section of said nomination paper, were made in my presence, and that, to the best of my knowledge and belief, each of said signatures is the genuine signature of the person whose name it purports to be.

(Signed) ----- Verification Deputy.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this ----- day of -----, 19-----.

[SEAL]

Notary Public (or other official).

Examined and certified by me this ----- day of -----, 19-----.

Registrar of Voters—County Clerk.

(h) No defect in any declaration or sponsor certificate presented shall prevent the filing of another declaration or sponsor certificate which is presented within the period allowed for presenting the declaration or sponsor certificate.

(i) The Secretary of State, county clerk or registrar of voters shall preserve in his office, for a period of four years, all declarations and sponsors' certificates filed in accordance with this section.

(j) Each signer of a sponsor certificate must be a qualified elector, must not at the time of signing a certificate have his name signed to any other certificate for any other candidate for the same office, or, in case there are several places to be filled in the same office signed to more certificates for candidates for that office than there are places to be filled for such office.

(k) Nothing herein shall be construed as prohibiting the independent nomination of candidates as provided by section 1188 of the Political Code, as said section reads at the time of said nomination; except one whose name has appeared upon the ballot as a candidate of any political party at a primary election held under the provisions of this act, and who is defeated for such party nomination at such primary election, shall be ineligible for nomination as an independent candidate, or as a candidate named by a party central committee to fill a vacancy as provided in section 25 of this act for the same or any other office at the ensuing general election; and no person shall be permitted to file nomination papers for a party nomination and an independent nomination for the same office, or for more than one office at the same election. Nor shall any person whose name has been written in upon any ballot or ballots for any office at any primary election have his name placed upon the ballot as a candidate for such office at the ensuing general election, except under the provisions of said section 1188 of the Political Code, or of section 25 of this act providing for the filling of vacancies by party central committees, unless at such primary election he shall have received for such office votes equal in number to one per cent of all votes cast for such office at the last preceding general State election.

(l) The officer with whom declarations of candidacy are filed shall keep a record in which he shall enter the name of the candidate, the title of the office, the party, if any, and the time of filing.

(m) The provisions of this section of the Direct Primary Law shall not apply to municipal elections nor to the May presidential primary election, but nominations under the provisions of the Presidential Primary Act and under the provisions of section 1188 of the Political Code shall be made through the method of nomination papers provided by the Direct Primary Law as it existed in 1926."

Article 1. Contract of Stipulated Premium Insurance.

10810. Every contract whereby a benefit is to accrue to a person named therein through the death of the insured, or his physical disability from accident or sickness, or for the payment of any sum of money as an annuity or endowment, if the benefit is conditioned, not upon fixed payments but upon the collection from time to time of stipulated premiums with provision requiring additional payments from insured members by assessment, shall be a contract of mutual insurance on the stipulated premium plan; and the business involving the issuance of such contracts shall be carried on in this State only by duly organized corporations subject to this chapter.

Article 2. Special Exemptions.

10811. Nothing contained in this chapter except as herein provided shall apply to

(a) Fraternal benefit societies operating under "An act for the regulation and control of fraternal benefit societies," approved May 1, 1911, as subsequently amended.

(b) Benefit and relief associations formed by churches, lodges, labor unions, or employees of a common employer, membership in which is confined to the members of such churches, lodges, or labor unions, or employees or officers of such common employer, or employees or officers of companies or corporations of which a single employer owns at least one-quarter of the issued capital or voting stock, or to those who were such corporate officers or employees at the time of becoming members of such associations;

Provided that section 10815, Article 4 and Article 13 of Chapter 1, Part 2, Division 1 of this code shall apply to any such society, association or corporation.

Article 3. Formation and Organization.

10815. Seven or more persons, residents of this State, may form a mutual corporation for the purpose of transacting the business of life, disability, or life and disability insurance as defined in this chapter. Such corporation shall be formed in the manner prescribed in, and shall be subject to the provisions of, Article 3 of Chapter 10, Part 2, Division 2 of this code, so far as applicable to such a corporation, except as is otherwise expressly herein provided; provided this section shall not apply to existing corporations; and provided further, that applicants may be accepted as to insurability as the by-laws of such corporation may provide.

10816. The name of the corporation shall contain the word "insurance" and shall be first submitted to and approved by the Insurance Commissioner. No name shall be approved which is so similar to that of an existing insurer as to lead to confusion.

10817. Officers chosen at the first meeting of the incorporators shall hold office until the next succeeding meeting of the company for the election of officers, the date of which shall be within two years of the time of organization, and shall be prescribed by the by-laws. At that meeting and thereafter at least quadrennially the officers shall be chosen and shall hold office until their successors are elected and qualified.

Article 4. Time for Beginning Business by New Corporation. Existing Corporations May Continue.

10820. A domestic corporation now engaged in transacting the business of insurance under Chapter VI of Division 1, Part 4, Title 2 of the Civil Code of this State, may continue to exercise all rights, powers and privileges conferred by said chapter, or its articles of incorporation not inconsistent herewith, subject to this chapter, except that corporations heretofore organized shall be privileged to carry to completion under the terms of said Chapter VI their existing contracts, but no new policy shall be issued except under the provisions of this chapter.

10821. No certificate of incorporation granted under the provisions of this chapter shall continue valid after one year from the date hereof, unless the organization shall have been completed and business begun thereunder.

Article 5. Issuance of Policies.

10830. An insurer hereafter organized under this chapter shall not assume any liability nor collect any other than the advance premium, nor issue any policy or certificate until at least one thousand persons have subscribed, in writing, an agreement to be insured therein for death benefit of not less than one thousand dollars if life insurance, or for a disability benefit of not less than five dollars per week if disability insurance and have each paid one full stipulated premium or assessment of not less than five dollars, to be held in trust for the beneficiaries which shall have been deposited as provided in section 10901 hereof, nor unless such fund is at least equal to the largest benefit provided in any contract of insurance applied for, nor until the insurer has deposited twenty-five thousand dollars with the commissioner, nor until the commissioner has certified that the insurer has complied with the provisions of law and is authorized to transact business. The commissioner may require of the applicants for such policy or certificate, and at any time of the officers of any such corporation evidence, under oath or otherwise, relative to its affairs as he may consider it necessary. If it shall appear that the incorporators or persons acting in their behalf have advanced to or for the subscribers the stipulated premiums or assessments herein required to be paid, no authorization shall be issued and the corporation shall be immediately dissolved. It is the intent of this chapter that no person shall have a proprietary interest in such corporation except equally with all other members.

Article 6. Reinsurance, etc.

10840. Such insurer may reinsure with, or transfer its membership certificates or policies and funds to, any insurer doing business under this chapter, or to any stock or mutual insurer authorized to transact the business of life, disability or life and disability insurance in this State.

10841. The contract of reinsurance or transfer shall be submitted to and approved by a two-thirds vote of the policy or certificate holders of the ceding insurer present in person or by proxy at a meeting called to consider the same, of which a written or printed notice shall be mailed to each policyholder or certificate holder, at least thirty days before the day fixed for the meeting. If the vote is in the affirmative, a certified copy of all proceedings relating to the proposed reinsurance shall be filed with the commissioner, who, if he finds that the proceedings have been in accordance with law, shall approve the same.

10842. The reinsuring corporation shall be entitled to all the assets of the ceding insurer and shall assume all of its liabilities, but the commissioner may make such requirements as to segregation of assets and accounts as may best protect the interest of policyholders of both corporations. If such vote of approval of reinsurance or transfer shall include an agreement for the transfer to the reinsuring corporation of a reserve fund deposited with the State, the commissioner shall approve an order for the transfer of the deposit fund to such corporation, and the State Treasurer shall thereupon pay over the deposited fund to the reinsuring corporation or credit said corporation with it as a deposit.

10843. If the corporation assuming the reinsurance or transfer is subject to this chapter, the proposed contract of reinsurance shall be submitted to its policy or certificate holders, and a similar notice given and a two-thirds affirmative vote required of its policy or certificate holders the same as is required of the policy or certificate holders of the ceding insurer.

10844. The policies or certificates in force at the date of reinsurance or transfer shall continue in full force and effect in all their provisions, agreements and undertakings and shall be construed according to the provisions of law under which they were issued. Any defenses or evidence relative to such policies or certificates available under their provisions shall constitute a defense, and shall be received as evidence in any controversy between the parties to and interested in such policies or certificates.

10845. Any such insurer may reinsure any individual policy or policies, or any part thereof, issued by it with any insurer licensed to transact life, disability, or life and disability insurance business in this State without submitting the reinsurance thereof for approval to the commissioner.

10846. Any insurer authorized to do business under this chapter may reinsure or assume, in whole or in part, the contracts of any association authorized to do business under Chapter 8 of Part 2, Division 2 of this code, provided that no individual contract shall be so reinsured or assumed, provided, further, that the contract of reinsurance or assumption in all such cases shall be subject to the approval of the commissioner.

10847. The approval by the commissioner of a contract of reinsurance or transfer shall operate to dissolve the existing insurer, and all its liabilities shall thereupon cease, but its officers may thereafter perform any act necessary to close its affairs.

Article 7. Amount of Benefit to be Specified, Payment of Benefit, etc.

10850. Every policy issued by any such insurer shall provide the amount of money which it promises to pay upon the contingency insured against, and the number of days after satisfactory proof of the happening of such contingency and the liability of the insurer when such payment shall be made, and upon the occurrence of such contingency the beneficiary may maintain an action upon such policy in his own name.

10851. If the commissioner is satisfied, on investigation, after a hearing upon notice of not less than thirty days, that any such insurer has refused or failed to pay a policy claim for a reasonable time after it became due, and after proper demand, he shall notify the insurer that until such indebtedness is fully paid, and while such notice is in force, no officer or agent of the insurer shall make, sign or issue any policy of insurance.

Article 8. Life Insurance Policies, Policy Provisions

10860. No insurer subject to the provisions of this chapter shall issue or deliver in this State any contract of life insurance until a copy of the form thereof, including the form of application, any rider or endorsement, has been filed with and approved by the commissioner. The commissioner shall approve or disapprove such form within thirty days thereafter; otherwise such form shall be deemed approved, provided, however, that before disapproving such form he shall notify the insurer of his reasons therefor and grant a hearing to the insurer thereon. In considering whether a form of policy shall be approved, the commissioner shall consider whether or not it takes into consideration the provisions of this chapter and all standard provisions applicable thereto; nor shall such policy be so issued or delivered unless it contains in substance the following provisions:

(1) A provision that the insured (after three months' premiums have been paid) is entitled to a grace not less than twenty days within which time the payment of any premium or assessment after the first may be made, subject at the option of the insurer to an interest charge not in excess of six per centum per annum for the number of days of grace elapsing before the payment of the premium or assessment during which period of grace the policy shall continue in full force, but in case the policy becomes a claim during the said period of grace before the overdue premium or assessment or the deferred premiums of the current policy year if any are paid, the amount of such premiums or assessment with interest or any overdue premium or assessment may be deducted from any amount payable under the policy in settlement.

(2) A provision that the policy shall be incontestible after it has been in force during the lifetime of the insured for a period of three years from its date of issue or from the date of any reinstatement thereof except for suicide and except for nonpayment of premiums or assessments and except for violation of the conditions of the policy relating to military or naval service in time of war or relating to additional insurance with the insurer upon the monthly or weekly payment plan without special indorsement and at the option of the insurer provisions relative to benefits in the event of total and permanent disability and provisions which grant additional insurance specifically against death by accident may also be accepted.

(3) A provision that the policy shall constitute the entire contract between the parties, but if the insurer desires to make the application a part of the contract it may do so provided a copy of such application, except for insurance on the weekly or monthly premium basis, shall be indorsed upon or securely attached to the policy when issued, and in such case the policy shall contain a provision that the policy and the application therefor shall constitute the entire contract between the parties.

(4) A provision that if the age of the insured has been misstated the amount payable under the policy shall be such as the premium or assessment would have purchased at the correct age in accordance with the table of premium rates of the insurer on file with the commissioner.

A policy, or any application, indorsement or rider form used in connection with any policy issued in violation of this section, shall nevertheless be held valid but shall be construed as provided in this section, and when any provision in such policy, application, indorsement or rider is in conflict with any provision of this section, or of any other statutory provision, the rights, duties and obligations of the insurer, the policyholder and the beneficiary shall be governed by the provisions of this section. Any such policy may be issued or delivered in this State which, in the opinion of the commissioner, contains provisions on any one or more of the several foregoing requirements more favorable to the insured than hereinbefore required. The provisions of this section shall not apply to policies of reinsurance. Every such insurer shall file with the commissioner complete schedules of its premiums, rates and classifications.

10861. If the commissioner fails to approve within thirty days any such form or disapproves the same, his act or decision thereon shall be subject to review, in accordance with the provisions of Chapter I, of Part 3, Title 1 of the Code of Civil Procedure. Upon such review the burden of proof shall lie upon the appellant, and the court shall receive and consider any pertinent evidence, whether oral or documentary, concerning the action of the commissioner under review, but shall be limited to a consideration and determination of the question whether there has been an abuse of discretion on the part of the commissioner in failing to approve or in disapproving any such form. No such policy or form may be issued or delivered pending the final determination of any appeal from the failure of the commissioner to approve or his act of disapproving any such form.

Article 9. Life Insurance Reserves.

10870. Every insurer subject to the provisions of this chapter shall hold and maintain upon every contract of life insurance issued on and after the date upon which it shall become subject to the provisions of this chapter, assets in excess of other liabilities, to provide for reserves not less than the minimum tabular reserves prescribed herein; provided the statutory deposit required by law may be considered as a part of such reserves, or of other required policy reserves.

The basis for minimum reserves under this act shall be the American Experience Table of Mortality, with Farr's Table No. 3 or Craig's Extension for ages under ten, and interest at four per centum per annum; provided, however, that contracts issued on a weekly premium basis and providing therein for valuation according to the Standard Industrial Table of Mortality and interest at four per centum per annum shall be valued according to such industrial table of mortality and rate of interest. Such contracts may provide for not more than one year preliminary term insurance by incorporating therein a clause plainly showing that the first year's insurance under such contracts is term insurance, purchased by the whole or a part of the premiums to be received during the first contract year, and such contracts may be valued on the basis of the mortality table and interest rate above prescribed by the preliminary term plan; provided, however, that the reserve according to such standard for the first to the fifth policy years, inclusive, may be reduced by the following percentages: first year, eighty per cent; second year, eighty per cent; third year, sixty per cent; fourth year, forty per cent; fifth year, twenty per cent; and provided, further, that at no time shall the reserve be less than the value of any nonforfeiture provision contained in the policy.

In computing reserves as required by this section, no allowance or reduction shall be made in consideration of the fact that members may be assessed to make up a deficiency.

Article 10. Additional Premiums or Assessments.

10875. All life contracts issued or delivered in this State by corporations subject to this chapter shall provide, in addition to the stipulated premiums, for the payment of additional premiums or assessments, to the extent needed to pay for their share of claims and expenses and to maintain the tabular reserves required by this chapter, or shall require such additional amount to be charged as an indebtedness, at a rate of interest specified in the contract, not exceeding the tabular reserves on the contract and shall provide for terminating the contract whenever the total indebtedness thereon shall equal such tabular reserves, and on such contract no liability shall be charged in any valuation for any deficiency in future contributions so long as such payments are actually collected or such charges are actually made; provided, however, no such additional premiums or assessments shall be enforced against any holder of a life contract except upon due notice to such holder.

Every such holder shall have the option of paying such additional premiums or assessments in cash or permitting the same to be charged as an indebtedness against the tabular reserves as above provided but if no option selection is made within thirty days after the mailing of such notice the second option shall become applicable and said additional premiums or assessments shall become a lien upon said contract, and it is further provided that all said life contracts and notices of said additional premiums or assessments shall contain a statement to that effect.

Article 11. Conversion to Mutual Legal Reserve.

10880. Any domestic insurer subject to the provisions of this act possessed of admitted assets in excess of all liabilities equal to the minimum paid up capital required by sections 10510 and 10511 of this code to transact the class or classes of insurance which it proposes to transact may, at its option, without reorganization, elect to operate as a mutual legal reserve insurer. Such action shall be by resolution adopted by not less than a two-thirds vote of the policy or certificate holders present in person or by proxy at a duly called meeting for that purpose, of which a written or printed notice shall be mailed to each policy or certificate holder at least thirty days before the day fixed for the meeting. A certified copy of all proceedings relative to such action shall be filed with the commissioner, who, if he finds that the proceedings have been in accordance with law, shall approve the same.

10881. Such transformed corporation may amend its articles and by-laws, and shall be considered a continuation of the original corporation by the same name.

10882. Thereafter the insurer shall not include in its policies the provisions required by the preceding article, but shall be subject as to subsequent business to the test of solvency provided for life, disability, and life and disability insurers by this code and to all other provisions relating to mutual life, and disability insurance not on the stipulated premium plan. But such election shall not affect the rights or obligations of the insurer or its members on any contract theretofore made.

Article 12. Contributions.

10885. Any person may advance any sum of money to an insurer operating under this chapter, such advance being made for the purposes of organization or to promote or conserve the insurer's business or to enable it to qualify as a mutual legal reserve insurer as provided herein, or to comply with the laws of any State, and the return of such money, together with such interest thereon as may have been agreed upon, not exceeding eight per cent per annum, shall be payable only out of earned surplus remaining after providing for all required reserves and other liabilities, whether required by the laws of this State or any other State in which the insurer does business, and the obligation to return such money shall not be a liability or claim, either as to principal or interest, against the insurer or any of its assets. No commission or promotion expenses shall be paid in connection with the advance of any such money to the insurer, and the amount of such advance shall be reported in each annual statement. When any insurer organized under this chapter discontinues business, after the payment of or provision for all liabilities, following a determination made by the Insurance Commissioner, any surplus must be returned to the person or persons who advanced it, or if the money advanced is repaid then such surplus shall be distributed or disposed of as may be determined by the superior court of the county in this State in which such insurer has its principal place of business.

10886. The advance of any sum of money or contribution for the purposes specified in the preceding section shall be evidenced by contribution certificates in such form as may be approved by the commissioner.

No repayment, in whole or in part, of the principal of such contribution or advance shall be made without the approval in writing of the commissioner being first had or obtained.

Article 13. Life Insurance. Separation of Accounts and Segregation of Assets.

10890. Any insurer subject to the provisions of this chapter which issues life policies shall keep separate accounts of its life insurance business and shall segregate the assets relating to that business and such assets and the interest thereon together with all premiums or assessments on life policies shall be held for the sole benefit of such business, provided that there may be paid from the premiums and assessments a reasonable amount for the proportion of the insurer's expenses due to its life insurance business. No holder of a life insurance policy shall be liable as such to assessment for losses incurred other than in connection with the life insurance business of the insurer and no holder of a contract other than of life insurance shall be liable as such to assessment for losses incurred in connection with the life insurance business of the insurer. It is the intention of this provision that the life insurance business and the disability insurance business of an insurer subject to this chapter and doing both classes shall each be self sustaining and not dependent one upon the other.

Article 14. Insolvency. Investigation by Commissioner. Revocation of Certificate of Authority.

10895. If the liabilities of any insurer organized or operating under this chapter exceed its resources, and it can not within a reasonable time, not more than three months from the date of the original default on any obligation, pay its accrued indebtedness in full, without impairment of the reserves for its business as required by this chapter, it is insolvent. When the commissioner has given the notice required by section 10851 of this chapter, he shall proceed without delay to investigate the condition of the insurer, and if it shall appear to him that it is insolvent, he shall proceed in accordance with the provisions of Article 14 of Chapter 1, Part 2, Division 1, of this code; provided, however, that nothing in this section shall prevent the commissioner from proceeding under said Article 14 for any other cause stated therein.

10896. Any company doing business under this chapter refusing or neglecting, for sixty days after the filing of satisfactory proof of the death or disability of a policyholder, if the claim arising thereon is not disputed and if the available assets are not sufficient to pay said claim, to levy an assessment or otherwise obtain funds to provide for its payment, shall thereby be subject to having its certificate of authority revoked.

Article 15. Statutory Deposit and Investment of Funds.

10901. The statutory deposit and reserves required by this chapter shall be invested in securities in which domestic incorporated insurers are allowed by this code to invest their capital and of such securities an amount of the value not less than twenty-five thousand dollars shall remain deposited in trust with the commissioner for the benefit of contract holders of the company.

Article 16. Insurer Exceeding Its Powers, etc.

10915. If the commissioner, on investigation, is satisfied that any such insurer has exceeded its powers, failed to comply with any provision of law or is conducting business fraudulently, he shall proceed in accordance with Article 14 of Chapter 1, Part 2, Division 1, of this code.

Article 17. Foreign Corporations May Be Admitted.

10920. A corporation organized under the authority of another State or Government to issue policies of life, disability or life and disability insurance on the stipulated premium or assessment plan, as a condition precedent to transacting business in this State, shall deposit with the commissioner a certified copy of its charter; a statement, on oath, of its president and secretary in the form required by the commissioner, of its business for the preceding year; a designation of an agent in this State and an agreement or stipulation as provided by sections 1600 to 1604, inclusive, of this code; a certificate, on oath, of its president and secretary, that it is paying, and for the twelve months then last preceding has paid, the maximum amount named in its policies in full; a certificate from the proper authority of its home State that corporations of this State engaged according to this chapter in insurance on the stipulated premium or assessment plan, are legally entitled to do business in such State; a copy of its policy and application, which must show that benefits are provided for by stipulated premiums or assessments upon policyholders; evidence satisfactory to the commissioner that it has accumulated and maintains a deposit and reserves equal in amount to that required by this chapter; that such accumulation is permitted by law of its incorporation and is held in trust for the benefit of policyholders only, and is securely invested. The commissioner shall thereupon make or cause to be made an examination, as provided by Article 4 of Chapter 1, Part 2, Division 1, of this code, and if he is satisfied thereby he shall issue a certificate of authority authorizing such corporation to do business in this State until July 1st following unless it is sooner revoked, but it may be renewed annually by the commissioner before that date upon written application of the insurer; and such certificate shall be revoked if the commissioner, on investigation, is satisfied that such corporation is not paying in full the maximum amount named in its policies, or that it has otherwise failed to comply with any provision of this chapter or its own contracts. Upon such revocation the commissioner shall cause notice thereof to be published in such manner as he deems necessary for the protection of the public; and no new business shall be thereafter done by it or its agents in this State.

10921. A foreign corporation admitted under this section to transact business shall pay, on filing its application, the fees prescribed by law. If any other State or country shall impose any obligation in excess of those imposed by this chapter upon any such corporation of this State, like obligations shall be imposed on similar corporations and their agents, of such other State or country, doing business in this State.

Article 18. Additional Premium or Assessment Demand.

10925. Every demand for payment by the policyholders under the assessment provision of any policy or contract shall distinctly state the purpose of the same, and if any part of the amount called for is to be used for expenses the demand shall clearly state how much.

Article 19. Insurance Laws Applicable.

10928. Except as specifically provided to the contrary herein or elsewhere, all contracts of insurance hereafter issued or delivered under the provisions of this chapter, and any company issuing such contracts in this State, shall be subject to all laws now in effect or hereafter enacted, except section 384 and Article 3 of Chapter 1, Part 2, Division 2, of this code.

Article 20. Licensing of Agents.

10930. All agents of such insurers in this State shall be subject to the provisions of Article 2 of Chapter 5, Part 2, Division 1, of this code.

Article 21. Penalty.

10940. Any such insurer or any officer or agent thereof neglecting to comply with or violating any provision of this chapter shall, except as otherwise provided, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 2. Any provision of Chapter 9 of the Insurance Code inconsistent with the provisions of this act is hereby repealed.

SEC. 3. If any section, subsection, sentence, clause, or phrase of this act is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this act. The Legislature hereby declares that it would have passed this act, and each section, subsection, sentence, clause, and phrase thereof irrespective of the fact that any one or more other sections, subsections, sentences, clauses, or phrases be declared unconstitutional."

On page 2, line 36, of the printed bill, after said line 36, insert the following: "SEC. 4. 3.304 of the School Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

3.304. Any person not residing in a high school district desiring to attend a high school in a high school district situate entirely outside the county in which such person resides, may attend such high school only upon such terms as may be agreed upon by the high school board of the high school which he desires to attend, and the superintendent of schools of the county in which he resides, or, if they fail to agree, upon such terms as the superintendent of schools having jurisdiction over the high school he desires to attend may prescribe.

The board of supervisors having jurisdiction over any elementary school district not in any high school district, and in which resides any person or persons who are attending in a high school district situated entirely outside the county in which such person or persons reside, shall each year cause a tax to be levied upon the property of the elementary school district. The tax provided for in this section shall be known as the high school tuition tax of the elementary school district, and shall produce an amount computed as follows: From the entire cost of maintenance of the high school for the year, plus the interest and payments on bonds of the high school district for the year, there shall be subtracted the entire income of the high school from State and county sources; the remainder shall be divided by the units of average daily attendance in the high school, and the quotient so obtained shall be multiplied by the units of average daily attendance of pupils from the elementary school district.

The amount shall be levied and collected from the elementary school district in the usual way and shall be paid into the special fund of the high school district."

Amendment No. 8.

On page 2, line 11, of the printed bill, strike out the following: "Should the county super-"; and strike out all of lines 12 to 21, inclusive.

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, and on file for third reading.

Assembly Bill No. 563 ordered transmitted to the Assembly.

Third Reading of Assembly Bills.

Assembly Bill No. 1743—An act to amend the Palo Verde Irrigation District Act, approved June 21, 1923, as amended, by adding to said act, as amended, new sections to be numbered and providing as follows, to wit: Section 284o, relating to disposal of tax delinquent and tax-delinquent lands; section 65, relating to proceedings in bankruptcy; section 66, relating to contracts with the United States or any agency thereof under an act approved May 5, 1917, as amended, and validating such contracts; section 67, validating bonds of the district; and section 68, validating rehabilitation plans; and declaring the legislative intent as to unconstitutionality.

Amendments From the Floor.

During third reading of Assembly Bill No. 1743, the following amendments, offered by Senator Difani, were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1, line 2 of the title of the printed bill, as amended, after the word "by", insert the words "amending section 28o of said act, as amended, and by".

Amendment No. 2.

On page 1, line 1, of the printed bill, as amended, amend the introductory paragraph of section 1 to read as follows:

"SECTION 1. Section 28o of the Palo Verde Irrigation District Act, as amended, is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 28o. A redemption of the property sold may be made by the owner, or any party in interest, within four years from the date of the sale. Redemption must be made in lawful money of the United States, provided, however, that when redemption of such property shall be made more than one year after the sale provided for in section 281 of this act, an owner of such land, who is the holder of any bond or accrued interest coupon or warrant or other evidence of indebtedness issued by or assumed or agreed to be paid by said district, is authorized to apply the credit represented by such bond, accrued interest coupon, warrant or other evidence of indebtedness, together with the accrued interest on any such obligations as a medium of exchange in the redemption of such property in the manner and to the extent hereinafter specified.

Upon presentation and surrender to the treasurer of Riverside County of any such bond or accrued interest coupon or warrant or other evidence of indebtedness, or any of them, the treasurer shall issue to the holder a memorandum in writing in duplicate indicating the amount of credit represented by such bonds or accrued interest coupons or warrants or other evidences of indebtedness, or any of them, and the accrued interest thereon, which such holder is entitled to apply on such redemption.

The credit memorandum herein provided for shall be designated "Redemption credit memorandum," and each such memorandum shall have printed clearly on the face thereof the words "Redemption credit memorandum."

The collector shall accept such redemption credit memorandum in lieu of lawful money for the redemption of such property in the manner and to the extent herein provided; provided, however, that such redemption credit memorandum shall be accepted for redemption as herein provided only for such portion of the amount required to redeem as shall be equal to or represented by the amount of taxes and assessments, together with penalties and interest thereon. Any balance due on such eighteen months prior to the date of such redemption. Any balance due on such redemption may be paid in whole or in part in lawful money, or by the credit memorandum provided for in section 281h of this act. The collector shall indorse upon such redemption credit memorandum the amount of credit applied on such redemption and the balance, if any, not so applied, and retain one copy of said memorandum to be used in settling his accounts with the secretary and said treasurer.

The said treasurer shall accept such redemption credit memorandum to the extent that the same has been applied upon such redemption in accordance with the provisions of this section, as the equivalent of money. Said treasurer shall thereupon cancel the bonds and coupons, warrants and other evidences of indebtedness for which such credit was given if the entire amount of the redemption credit memorandum has been applied to such redemption, and in the event that only a portion of the credit has been applied, then said treasurer shall indorse upon the face of such bonds, or coupons or warrants or other evidences of indebtedness, the fact that the same and/or the accrued interest thereon have been paid to the extent of the credit so applied and return the bond, coupon, warrant, or other evidence of indebtedness so indorsed to the holder. If no part of the credit represented by such memorandum is applied to the redemption of property as herein provided, the treasurer shall, upon surrender of such credit memorandum, cancel the same, and deliver the bonds or coupons or warrants or evidences of indebtedness to the owner.

On receiving the certificate of sale, the county recorder must file it and make an entry in a book similar to that required of the collector. On presentation of the receipt of the collector of the total amount of the redemption money, the recorder must mark the word "redeemed," the date and by whom redeemed on the certificate and on the margin of the book where the entry of the certificate is made. If the property is not redeemed within the time herein provided, the collector, or his successor, must make to the district a deed of the property, reciting in the deed substantially the matters contained in the certificate, and that no person redeemed the property during the time allowed by law for its redemption. The title acquired by the district may be conveyed by deed, executed and acknowledged by the president and secretary of the board of trustees, or said property may be sold on contract, with deferred payments, similarly executed and acknowledged; provided, that authority so to convey or contract must be conferred by resolution of the board, entered in its minutes, fixing the price and terms at which such sale or contract may be made, and for the purpose of making such sales or contracts the district may employ an agent or agents; and provided, further, that property sold to the district for delinquent taxes may be redeemed as herein provided at any time before the district has disposed of the same.

When any plan for compromise, payment or satisfaction or funding or refunding of any bonds, warrants or other evidences of indebtedness of said district shall have been approved at an election as provided in section 23 of this act, and such plan shall provide therefor, property deeded to the district for delinquent taxes may be leased for a term not exceeding ten years and the district as a part of such lease, or otherwise, may give options to purchase such property. The rentals under any lease, and the purchase price in any such option agreement or in any contract of sale, may be made payable in bonds and/or coupons of the Palo Verde Drainage District, Palo Verde Irrigation District, Palo Verde Joint Levee District of Riverside and Imperial Counties, California, and/or bonds and coupons heretofore issued by Palo Verde Mutual Water Company. If any sentence, clause or phrase of this section is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this section.

SEC. 2. A new section is hereby added to said Palo Verde Irrigation District Act, as amended, to be numbered 2840 and to read as follows:"

Third Reading of Senate Bills—(Resumed).

Senate Joint Resolution No. 13.

Relative to memorializing the President and the Congress of the United States to adopt legislation to adjust SERA relief wages to establish employment agencies with lists of those eligible to seek private employment and take from relief rolls those who fail to accept reasonable offers of private employment.

WHEREAS, The present operation of the SERA under an hourly wage scale is greatly in excess of that being paid by farmers and other employers in private industry, and considerably above that which has ever prevailed in the most prosperous times, is actually attracting more and more persons from gainful private employment and rendering it impossible to obtain domestic help, and increasingly difficult to find labor for ordinary unskilled work; and

WHEREAS, This condition is not isolated, local or exceptional, but is the general, natural and inevitable result of the present SERA policy; and

WHEREAS, A continuation of this policy will attract an ever increasing number to relief rolls, place a premium on idleness, decrease private employment, discourage all attempts at finding ways and means of self-support, place a burden of taxation and higher costs on employers and employees alike so as to render it impossible for them to continue; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate and Assembly of the State of California, jointly, That the President and the Congress of the United States enact such legislation so that hourly relief wages of the SERA be at a lower basis than paid by the majority of employers in each locality; and be it further

Resolved, That an employment agency be established in every SERA office, with lists of those on relief available for prospective employers; and be it further

Resolved, That legislation be enacted that anyone able to work who refuses a reasonable offer of private employment or fails to perform a fair day's work when employed privately or on relief, be stricken from relief rolls; and be it further

Resolved, That the Governor of the State of California is hereby requested to transmit copies of this resolution to the President and Vice President of the United States, to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and to each Senator and member of the House of Representatives from California in the Congress of the United States, and that such Senators and members from California are hereby respectfully urged to support such legislation.

Resolution read.

The question being on the adoption of the resolution.

The roll was called, and Senate Joint Resolution No. 13 adopted by the following vote:

AYES—Senators Crittenden, Denel, Difani, Edwards, Fletcher, Garrison, Gordon, Hays, Jaspersen, Keough, King, McCormack, McGuinness, Metzger, Mixer, Parkman, Perry, Pierovich, Rich, Scollan, Seawell, Sharkey, Slater, Snyder, Stow, Swing, Wagy, and Young—28.

NOES—None.

Senate Joint Resolution No. 13 ordered transmitted to the Assembly.

Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 12.

Relative to reports of the proceedings of the annual convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, Department of California.

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, the Assembly concurring. That there shall be printed as a public document, 5000 copies of the report of the proceedings of the annual convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, Department of California, for the year 1935, and of each succeeding annual convention, together with illustrations, copies of general orders enacted at such conventions and of the official roll, 250 copies for the use of the Senate and 250 copies for the use of the Assembly, the annual cost thereof, not exceeding $6000, to be payable from the appropriation for legislative printing.

Resolution read.

The question being on the adoption of the resolution.

The roll was called, and Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 12 adopted by the following vote:

AYES—Senators Crittenden, Denel, Difani, Edwards, Fletcher, Garrison, Gordon, Jaspersen, Keough, King, McCormack, McGinness, Metzger, Mixer, Parkman, Perry, Pierovich, Rendollar, Rich, Scollan, Sharkey, Slater, Snyder, Stow, Swing, Wagy, Williams, and Young—28.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Revenue and Taxation, the following amendments to Senate Bill No. 919 were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out the title, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"An act to license, regulate and control the manufacture, transportation, sale, purchase, possession and disposition of alcoholic beverages; to levy an excise tax on the sale of alcoholic beverages; to provide for the licensing of the manufacture, distribution and sale of alcoholic beverages; to prescribe penalties for the violation of this act; to make an appropriation for the enforcement of this act; to take effect immediately."

Amendment No. 2.

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out lines 1 to 17, inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"SECTION 1. This act is known and may be cited as the "Alcoholic Beverage Control Act."

SEC. 2. The following words, terms and phrases when used in this act have the meanings ascribed to them in this section, except where the context clearly indicates a different meaning:

(a) "Alcohol" means ethyl alcohol, hydrated oxide of ethyl, or spirits of wine, from whatever source or by whatever process produced.

(b) "Alcoholic beverage" means and includes alcohol, spirits, liquor, wine, beer and every fluid or solid containing alcohol, spirits, wine or beer, and which contains one-half of one per cent or more of alcohol by volume and which is fit for beverage purposes either alone or when diluted, mixed or combined with other substances.

(c) "Beer" means any alcoholic beverage obtained by the fermentation of any infusion or decoction of barley, malt, hops or any other similar product, or any combination thereof in water, and shall include ale, porter, brown, stout, lager beer, small beer and strong beer.

(d) "Distilled spirits" means ethyl alcohol, spirits of wine, whiskey, rum, brandy, gin and other distilled spirits for beverage use, including all dilutions and mixtures thereof.

(e) "Wines" means the product obtained by the fermentation of grapes or other agricultural products containing natural sugar or any such alcoholic beverage fortified with grape brandy and containing not more than twenty-four per cent of alcohol by volume and shall include sake known as Japanese rice wine.

(f) "Person" includes any individual, firm, copartnership, joint adventure, association, corporation, estate, trust business, trust, receiver, syndicate or any other group of combination acting as a unit, and the plural as well as the singular number.

(g) "Board" means the State Board of Equalization of the State of California.

(h) "Club" means a corporation or association which in the owner, lessee or occupant of an establishment operated solely for objects of a social or athletic nature, having a bona fide membership list, and the majority of the members of which pay dues at least twice in every year, and such payments to be approximately six months apart, but not for pecuniary gain, and the property as well as the advantages of which belong to the members.

(k) "Manufacturer" means every person, who within the State of California, brews, ferments, distills, cuts, blends, rectifies, or otherwise processes, produces, or manufactures alcoholic beverages containing one-half of one per cent or more of alcohol by volume. Providing that any person who manufactures not to exceed two hundred gallons of wine per year for his own consumption, shall not, because of such manufacture, be considered a manufacturer within the meaning of this act.

(i) "Rectifier" means every person who colors, flavors, or otherwise processes distilled spirits by distillation, blending, percolating or other processes.

(k) "Importer" means every person who, in the case of alcoholic beverages brought into this State from outside of this State, is the first in possession thereof within this State after the act of importation is completed.

(l) "An industrial alcohol dealer" is one who is authorized by proper license to sell distilled spirits in packages of more than one gallon for use in the trades, professions or industries, but not for human consumption or for use in the preparation of alcoholic beverage for human consumption.

(m) "Sale" means any transfer, exchange, delivery or barter in any manner or by any means whatsoever, for a consideration or not, and includes all sales made by any person, whether principal, proprietor, agent, servant or employee of any alcoholic beverage.

(n) "Package" or "original package" means any container or receptacle used for holding alcoholic beverages which is corked or sealed with a stop, stopper or cap, or in any other manner.

(o) "To bottle" or "to package" means to bottle, barrel, or otherwise place alcoholic beverages in a container.

(p) "Distiller" means a manufacturer who produces distilled spirits from naturally fermented material.

(q) "Proof spirits" means that alcoholic liquor which contains one-half of its volume of pure ethyl alcohol of a specific gravity of 0.7939 at sixty degrees Fahrenheit, referred to water at sixty degrees Fahrenheit as unity.

(r) "Proof gallon" means a gallon of proof spirits, or an equivalent amount of alcohol.

(s) "Wholesaler" means and includes every person other than a manufacturer or rectifier who is engaged in business as a broker, jobber or wholesale merchant, dealing in alcoholic beverages, and for the sole purpose of payment of license tax for branch offices of a manufacturer as stated in section 6 hereof, such branches shall be classed as wholesaler.

(t) "Wholesale sale" or "sale at wholesale" means a sale to any person for purposes of resale.

(u) "Restaurant" shall mean a place which is regularly and in a bona fide manner used and kept open for the serving of meals to guests for a compensation and which has suitable kitchen facilities connected therewith, containing conveniences for cooking an assortment of foods, which may be required for ordinary meals, the kitchen of which must, at all times, be in charge of a cook.

Provided further, that in any town, city, county or city and county wherein a license is required for the operation of a restaurant or hotel, an existing license therefor shall be obtained and maintained for conducting such restaurant or hotel on said premises, or particular location where liquors are to be served.

(v) "Wine gallon" means that liquid measure containing two hundred and thirty-one cubic inches.

(w) "Wine manufacturer" means any person engaged in the manufacture of wine as the term "wine" is defined in this act.

SEC. 3. No person shall perform any act or acts which would constitute such person, a manufacturer, rectifier, importer, wholesaler, retailer of any alcoholic beverage within the meaning of this act or shall package, label and/or sell any alcoholic beverage unless such person is authorized to do so by a license duly issued pursuant to the provisions of this act, and any person violating any provision of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 4. The following are the types of licenses to be issued under this act and the annual fees to be charged therefor, provided that the fee as specified shall be reduced twenty-five per cent for each full quarter of a year elapsing between the first day of the year for which the licenses are applied, and the date on which the application for the licenses are filed with the board.

SEC. 5. Except as otherwise provided in this act and subject to the provisions of section 22 of Article XX of the Constitution, the licenses provided for the preceding section shall authorize the person to whom issued to exercise the following rights and privileges and no others at the premises for which issued during the year for which issued.

(a) Any manufacturer's license authorizes the person to whom issued to become a manufacturer of the alcoholic beverage specified in the license, to package, mix, flavor and color and label the same and to export or sell such alcoholic beverages to persons holding licenses issued by the board authorizing the sale of such alcoholic beverage; provided that a wine manufacturer's license authorizes the manufacture of grape brandy to be used exclusively for fortifying purposes by its holder on the premises for which issued.

(b) A rectifier's license authorizes the person to whom issued to cut, blend, mix, flavor, color and bottle distilled spirits and to export or sell such products to persons holding licenses issued by the board authorizing the sale of distilled spirits.

(c) Any importer's license authorizes the person to whom issued to become an importer of alcoholic beverages specified in the license and to export such alcoholic beverage.

(d) A bottling or packaging license authorizes the bottling or packaging or labeling alcoholic beverages specified in the license.

(e) A wholesaler's license authorizes the sale of the alcoholic beverages specified in the license, to other persons holding license issued by the board authorizing the sale of such alcoholic beverage, but does not authorize sale to consumer.

(f) An off-sale alcoholic beverage license authorizes the sale of alcoholic beverages in packages of (1) beer in quantities of thirty-one gallons or less, (2) wine in packages and quantities of fifty-two gallons or less, and distilled spirits in quantities of less than five gallons per sale and in packages of one gallon or less to consumer and not for resale, and for consumption off the premises where sold.

(g) An industrial alcohol dealer's license authorizes the sale of distilled spirits in packages of more than one gallon for use in the trades, professions or industries but not for human consumption or for the use of alcoholic beverages for human consumption.

An industrial alcohol dealer's license shall only be issued to a person already holding a license as a distilled spirits wholesaler.

(h) Any on-sale license authorizes the sale of alcoholic beverages specified in the license for consumption on the premises where sold, provided that any on-sale beer or wine license authorizes the holder to exercise the rights and privileges on the licensed premises of an off-sale retail package license of the alcoholic beverage specified in such on-sale license.

And provided further, that in the case of hotels licensed as "onsale all-inclusive alcoholic beverage licenses" service of all alcoholic beverages except beer shall be limited to that part of such hotel premises used as a "restaurant" as herein defined or to the private rooms of guests.

Retailer's "onsale wine licenses," or "onsale all-inclusive alcoholic beverage licenses" shall be issued only for premises of any bona fide hotels, restaurants, cafes, cafeterias, railroad dining or club cars, passenger ships or other public eating places, or bona fide clubs after such clubs have been lawfully operated for not less than one year.

Retailer's on-sale license for beer may be issued for any premises mentioned in the next preceding paragraph, and also for any other premises.

Any on-sale licensee under this act who has in his possession or control, or who permits under his control upon any premises licensed under any provision of this act, any alcoholic beverage different from the kind, type and character authorized under any license issued and in effect for such premises, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punishable by a fine of not less than fifty dollars or more than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail of not less than thirty days or more than three months, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and the license for such premises where such violation occurs shall be summarily revoked, and no new license shall be granted to such licensee or for said premises for a period of three months thereafter.

Any alcoholic beverage not authorized by such on-sale license and found upon the premises of any such licensee shall be seized by, forfeited to and sold by said board at public auction.

SEC. 5a. On application to the board and pursuant to such regulations as it may from time to time prescribe, the board shall issue permits to sell and furnish alcoholic beverages on railroad dining or club cars and passenger ships operated as common carriers. Said board shall charge and collect therefor permit fees which are hereinafter fixed in amounts hereby found to be reasonably required to defray the expenses of issuing and supervising such permits. Such permit fees shall be based on the average number in actual operation of each class of operating units, namely, trains, vehicles and boats, operated under such permit during the calendar year and upon which alcoholic beverages are sold, furnished or offered for sale within this State, such average to be ascertained by the board under such regulations as it may prescribe. Such permit fees shall be: For each train or vehicle of said average number, the sum of fifteen dollars and for each boat of said average number, the sum of fifty dollars. The said permits shall authorize only the sale or furnishing of alcoholic beverages on such railroad dining or club cars and passenger ships to a bona fide passenger or employee or person then actually being transported on said railroad dining or club train or passenger ship for consumption only on such train, vehicle or boat. Said permit shall not authorize "off-sale" privileges or transactions nor shall it authorize "onsale" privileges at any fixed place of business such as a hotel, restaurant, eating house or station.

SEC. 6. Each license issued under this act shall be issued to a specific person, and, shall be issued for a specific location, the address of which shall be indicated on the license. Separate licenses shall be issued for each of the premises of any business establishment having more than one location, provided, however, that a manufacturer who maintains branch offices in this State, at which he sells and warehouses, but does not manufacture his product, shall be required to obtain only a wholesale license for each such branch.

SEC. 7. Each license issued under this act is separate and distinct, shall be non-transferable from one person to another, but shall be transferable from the premises for which issued only as may be permitted by the board, upon payment of a transfer fee of five dollars for each license.

SEC. 7a. Whenever a license certificate issued under the act is lost or destroyed, the board shall issue a duplicate license upon the payment of a fee of five dollars.

SEC. 8. All licenses issued under this act, and all rights and privileges conferred upon licensees by any license shall, subject to revocation, be for a tax year or fiscal year beginning with July 1st, and ending on June 30th of the following year, and in computing, any tax year or tax per annum shall mean such period of fiscal year, and all licenses shall expire on the thirtieth day of June next after their issuance. All license fees payable annually shall be due and payable on or before the first day of July of each year, and if not paid are delinquent on the fifteenth day of July next succeeding, and in the case of license fees computed quarterly are delinquent as in this act set forth. In case of any delinquency in the payment of any license fees, in the absence of any other amount being specially declared in special cases, an additional amount equal to five per cent of the amount of the license fee due shall be paid to the board before said board shall renew any license for the then current term.

In all cases of issuance of licenses hereunder and payment therefor, any applicant shall be allowed credit for the unexpired term of any existing license issued under chapters 176 or 658 of the year 1933, or the regulations of the State Board of Equalization for spirituous liquors for the year 1935, and held by such applicant upon the premises for which application is made.

SEC. 9. Upon receipt of any license issued hereunder the licensee shall sign said license and shall post the license in a conspicuous place upon the licensed premises. Licenses issued for trains or boats may, in lieu of being posted upon the train or boat for which issued, be posted in such other place in this State as the board shall designate.

SEC. 10. To obtain a license under this act application therefor, accompanied by the license fee therefor, must be made to the board upon a form prescribed by the board. The application must contain the name of the applicant, and in the case of a copartnership, the names of the individual parties in the case of a corporation the principal officers and directors, the location of the premises for which a license is applied and such other information as the board may require to assist it in determining whether the applicant and the premises qualify for a license. The board may require that the application for any on-sale license be verified under oath and be indorsed by five freeholders or householders of the city or county in which the applicant resides or the premises are located.

SEC. 11. Upon receipt of an application for a license and the license fee the board shall make a thorough investigation to determine whether the applicant and the premises for which a license is applied qualify for a license. The board must deny an application for a license if either the applicant or the premises for which a license is applied do not qualify for a license under this act.

If an application is denied, three-fourths of the license fee paid, or an amount equal to the license fee paid less ten dollars, whichever is greater, shall be returned to the applicant and the balance shall be deposited in the alcoholic beverage license fund hereinafter created.

SEC. 12. No retailer's on-sale license shall be issued to any applicant who is not a citizen of the United States; and where a corporation, partnership or other business association is the applicant no license shall be issued to it unless the majority of the members of the board of directors and all of its officers who are charged with the duty of managing, directing or conducting said business, are citizens of the United States.

SEC. 13. The board is specifically authorized to refuse the issuance of on-sale retail licenses for premises located within the immediate vicinity of churches, hospitals, schools and children's public playgrounds, and not licensed as on-sale premises at the effective date of this act.

SEC. 14. No retail license shall be issued to any applicant for any premises for which a license has been forfeited, or revoked during the three months immediately preceding the filing of such application.

SEC. 15. No retail license shall be issued for any premises which are located in any territory where the exercise of the rights and privileges conferred by the license is contrary to a valid zoning ordinance of any county, city and county or municipality, unless such premises had been used in the exercise of such rights and privileges at a time prior to the effective date of any such valid zoning ordinance.

Nothing in this act contained shall be deemed to interfere with the powers of cities, counties, and cities and counties, conferred upon them by an act of the Legislature entitled, "An act to provide for the establishment within municipalities of districts or zones within which the use of property, height of improvements and requisite open spaces for light and ventilation of such buildings, may be regulated by ordinance."

SEC. 16. No retailer's on-sale license shall be issued to any person to whom or for any premises for which a manufacturer's, importer's, wholesaler's or rectifier's license shall have been issued, and no manufacturer's, importer's, wholesaler's or rectifier's license shall be issued to any person to whom or for any premises for which a retailer's on-sale license is issued.

SEC. 17. Before commencing to engage in the sale of any alcoholic beverage at any premises, notice of intention to so commence, with the time and place of hearing such application, must be posted in a conspicuous place at the entrances to such premises. Licenses will not be issued for such premises until such notice has been so posted for fifteen consecutive days immediately prior to the hearing on the application for issuance of the license. The notice herein specified shall be in such form as the board shall prescribe.

Upon the receipt by the board of an original application for any license, notice thereof shall immediately be given by said board to the sheriff, chiefs of police and district attorneys of such locality, and to the city clerk and city planning commissions in such locality upon request.

SEC. 18. In the case of any applicant whose license fee varies with his total volume of sales per annum, the applicant shall at the time of filing application for license, accompany such application with the minimum license fee required, or such larger fee as the applicant shall elect.

The licensee shall report quarterly at such time and in such manner as the board may prescribe, the amount of his total sales of alcoholic beverages during the preceding quarter, and also his total sales to date during the current tax year.

If his total sales for the current tax year, as reported at the end of any quarter shall exceed the total sum of sales permitted annually by the license fee already paid the board, the licensee shall accompany such report with such additional license fee as shall authorize him to continue to make additional sales in accordance with the schedule provided in section 4.

Failure to report sales and to pay such additional license fees when due within ten days of the date set by the board, shall be considered a violation of this act, and shall also subject the licensee to an arbitrary assessment of such license due by the board.

Failure to make a final report and payment of any license due at the end of any tax year shall operate to prevent the board from issuance of any license to any delinquent licensee.

SEC. 19. In addition to the above required licenses, an excise tax is hereby imposed on the sale of all alcoholic beverages as follows, to take effect immediately upon the passage of this act.

(a) On all beer sold and delivered in this State by a manufacturer or importer, sixty-two cents for every barrel containing thirty-one gallons, and at a proportionate rate for any other quantity: provided that no beer manufacturer shall pay such tax upon any beer consumed by employees or others upon the place of manufacture and a report of such beer so consumed must be given to the board as by such board required.

(b) On all wine two cents per wine gallon, and at a proportionate rate for any other quantity:

These excise taxes on the above items, namely, beer and wine, shall be collected from the manufacturer or importer, as the case may be, of beer or wine at the time of sale and delivery.

In the case where the excise tax levied by this act is collected from the manufacturer or importer, it shall be presumed, for the purposes of this act, that all alcoholic beverages produced, brewed, fermented, distilled or manufactured in this State by a manufacturer, or delivered to a manufacturer or importer here, has been sold by such manufacturer or importer unless he shall establish to the satisfaction of the board that such beverages are still in the possession of such manufacturer or importer, or, prior to the termination of such possession, have been lost through evaporation, leakage, spillage or destruction by the elements.

On champagne, or sparkling wine, whether naturally or artificially carbonated, and whether imported or domestic, the tax shall be three cents per pint or fraction thereof.

On all distilled spirits of proof strength or less, one cent for each bottle containing two ounces or fraction thereof; three cents on each bottle containing eight ounces or fraction thereof greater than two ounces; five cents on each bottle containing one pint or fraction thereof greater than a half a pint; eight cents on each bottle containing one-fifth gallon or fraction thereof greater than one pint; ten cents on each bottle containing one quart or fraction thereof greater than one-fifth gallon; twenty cents on each bottle containing one-half gallon or fraction thereof, greater than one quart; forty cents on each bottle containing one gallon or fraction thereof greater than one-half gallon.

All spirits in excess of proof strength shall be taxed at double the above rate.

In the case of "on-sale" licensees, the tax shall be collected by affixing to the bottle a stamp or stamp of the proper denomination. These stamps must be affixed to each bottle, and canceled as hereinafter provided before the retailer shall dispense or use any of the contents thereof.

This tax shall be collected from the consumer by package off-sale distilled spirits licensees at the time of sale by means of attaching to the bottle a stamp or stamps of the denomination required by the particular package. Stamps shall be purchased by the retailer from the State Board of Equalization; said stamps shall be of such size, type, and character as the board may from time to time determine, provided that all such stamps must be of a character, design, and process which will give the State the maximum amount of protection against counterfeiting.

The board shall have full charge and control of the issuance, securing or purchase and of the sale of such stamps, provided that no sale thereof shall be made except to a person holding an on-sale distilled spirits license or an off-sale distilled spirits license, as the case may be; and the board shall keep a record of the amount of such stamps purchased by each and every such person.

At the time of affixing any stamp as required by this act, said stamp shall be canceled by the dealer either by stamping thereon or writing in ink his license number and the date of cancellation.

SEC. 20. Every person who makes, sells, or uses any false or counterfeit stamp or permit, or die for printing or making stamps or permits which is in imitation of or purports to be a lawful stamp, permit or die of the kind before mentioned in this act, or who procures the same to be done, and every person who shall remove or cause to be removed, from any package of distilled spirits any stamp denoting the tax thereon, with intent to re-use such stamp, or who with intent to defraud the State revenue, knowingly uses, or permits to be used any stamp removed from another package, or receives, buy, sells, gives away, or has in his possession, any stamp so removed, or makes any fraudulent use of any stamp for distilled spirits, shall be guilty of a felony and shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, and imprisoned not less than six months nor more than three years in the State prison.

SEC. 21. Every person who engages in business as, or becomes a manufacturer or importer of beer or wine, as defined in this act, shall be required by the board to file with said board, in such form as shall be prescribed by said board, a bond duly executed by such person as principal and a corporation such as is mentioned in section 1066 of the Code of Civil Procedure in this State, as surety, payable to the people of the State of California, conditioned upon faithful performance of all of the requirements of this act and expressly providing for the payment of all excise taxes, penalties and other obligations of such person, arising out of this act.

The total amount of the bond or bonds required of any such manufacturer or importer, shall be fixed by the board and may be increased or reduced by said board at any time subject to the limitations herein provided. In fixing the total amount of the bond or bonds required of any such manufacturer or importer, the board must require a bond or bonds equivalent in total amount to one and one-half times his estimated monthly excise tax determined in such manner as said board may deem proper; provided, that the total amount of the bond or bonds required of any such manufacturer or importer shall never be less than five hundred dollars.

SEC. 22. Every manufacturer or importer of alcoholic beverages taxable under this act shall render to the board on or before the tenth day of the month immediately following the effective date of this act, and on or before the tenth day of each month thereafter, a verified statement of the quantity of such alcoholic beverage sold by such manufacturer or importer during the preceding calendar month. Such statement shall be in such form as the board may prescribe, together with such other information as the board may require.

If any manufacturer or importer shall fail, neglect or refuse to file said report, within the time prescribed for filing such report, the board must note such failure, neglect or refusal upon the tax roll hereinafter described, and must estimate the amount of alcoholic beverage sold by said manufacturer or importer assessing the excise tax thereon, adding to said excise tax a penalty of fifteen per cent thereof for failure, neglect, or refusal to report. Such action of the board shall be final, and subject only to review by a court of competent jurisdiction.

The board shall, on or before the twenty-second day of the month immediately following the effective date of this act, and on or before the twenty-second day of each calendar month thereafter, assess the excise tax due hereunder, and prepare and complete an assessment roll showing the amount of the excise tax assessed against each manufacturer and immediately deliver said assessment roll to the State Controller.

Excise taxes herein required to be paid by the manufacturer or importer shall be payable in monthly installments to the State Controller commencing with the end of the month which immediately follows the effective date of this act, and for each and every calendar month thereafter. The amount of such excise tax for each month shall be paid on or before the tenth day of the second calendar month thereafter, and if not paid prior thereto, shall become delinquent at five o'clock in the afternoon of said day, and ten per cent penalty shall be added thereto for delinquency.

SEC. 23. The board may examine the books and records of any person required to make said statement, and may also examine the books and records of any licensee as herein defined, and such books and records shall at all times be subject to the inspection of said board or its representatives during regular business hours.

If any examinations or investigations made by the board shall disclose that any reports of manufacturers or importers theretofore filed with said board by said manufacturers or importers pursuant to the requirements of this act, have shown incorrectly the amount of alcoholic beverage sold or the excise tax accruing thereon, said board shall have the power, and is hereby authorized, to make such changes in subsequent assessments of said manufacturers or its investigations in pursuance of its powers hereunder.

Sec. 24. Any person refusing to permit the board or any of its representatives to make the inspection for which provision is made in the preceding section or failing to keep books of account as may be prescribed by the board or failing to preserve such books for the inspection of the board for such time as the board may deem necessary, and any person altering, concealing or obliterating entries in such books of account for the purpose of falsifying the records of sales of alcoholic beverages made under this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than one month nor more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Sec. 25. The board on five days' notice and after a hearing duly held shall have power to revoke or suspend the license of any licensee who fails or neglects to comply with any of the provisions of this act.

Sec. 26. No excise tax shall be imposed by this act in any transaction whereby any alcoholic beverages sold and delivered by a manufacturer or importer to another manufacturer or importer holding a valid manufacturer's or importer's license.

In order to obtain the exemption granted under this section, the manufacturer or importer selling alcoholic beverages must present to the board at the time of filing his monthly report required under section 22, a verified statement, in a form to be prescribed by the board, obtained from the purchaser showing the date, kind and quantity of alcoholic beverage sold and delivered to the purchaser, the purpose for which the alcoholic beverage is to be used, that the purchaser holds at the time of such purchase, a manufacturer's or importer's license, the number of such license, and such other information as the board may require. A copy of this statement must at all times be kept on file at the place of business of the manufacturer or importer desiring to obtain the exemption herein granted.

If any person obtains any alcoholic beverage exempt from tax, and uses such beverage for any purpose other than the purpose for which obtained, there shall immediately be due and payable from such person a tax on the beverage so used at one and one-half times the rates specified in section 20 of this act. The tax imposed by this paragraph shall be collected from the purchaser in the same manner as the tax imposed under said section 20.

Sec. 27. None of the provisions of this act shall apply, or be construed to apply, to commerce with foreign Nations or commerce with the several States, except in so far as the same may be permitted under the provisions of the Constitution and laws of the United States nor shall the excise tax imposed by section 20, or this act apply to alcoholic beverages sold and actually exported from this State, but every manufacturer shall be required to report such exports to the board in such detail as the board may require, otherwise the exemption herein granted shall be null and void and such alcoholic beverage shall be considered sold in this State subject fully to the provisions of this act.

In support of any exemption from excise taxes claimed under this section on account of the exportation of alcoholic beverage every manufacturer must execute an export certificate in such form as shall be prescribed, prepared and furnished by the board containing a sworn statement made by some person having knowledge of the fact of such exportation that the alcoholic beverage has been exported from this State, and giving such detail with reference to shipment as said board may require. All exportation certificates must be completed and on file in the office of the board within thirty days after the close of the calendar month in which the shipments were made and no certificate not completed and filed within such period shall be recognized for any purpose by the State or any agency thereof. The board may demand of any manufacturer or importer such additional data as is deemed necessary by said board in support of any such certificate and failure to supply such data will constitute waiver of all right to exemption claimed by virtue of said certificate.

Sec. 28. The excise tax required to be paid by this act shall constitute a lien upon, and shall have the effect of, an execution duly levied against any and all property of the manufacturer or importer attaching at the time of the sale subject to said excise tax, and remaining until the excise tax is paid or the property sold in payment thereof. The lien created by the provisions of this act shall be paramount to all private liens or encumbrances whatever.

In the event that any manufacturer or importer is delinquent in the payment of the excise tax herein provided for, the Controller shall notify the board forthwith and may give notice of the amount of such delinquency by registered mail to all persons having in their possession or under their control, any credits or other personal property belonging to such manufacturer, or owing any debts to such manufacturer, at the time of receipt by them of such notice, and thereafter any person so notified shall neither transfer nor make other disposition of such credits, other personal property or debts until the Controller shall have consented to a transfer or disposition, or until twenty days shall have elapsed from and after the receipt of such notice. All persons so notified must, within five days after receipt of such notice, advise the Controller of any and all such credits, other personal property or debts, in their possession under control or owing by them, as the case may be.

Whenever any manufacturer or importer shall be delinquent in the payment of the excise tax herein provided for, the Controller or his duly authorized representative shall proceed forthwith to collect the excise tax due from such manufacturer or importer in the following manner: The Controller shall seize any property, real or personal, subject to the lien of said excise tax, and thereafter sell at public auction such property so seized, or a sufficient portion thereof, to pay the excise tax due hereunder, together with any penalty or penalties imposed hereby for such delinquency, and any and all costs that may have been incurred on account of such seizure and sale. Notice of such intended sale and the time and place thereof, shall be given to such delinquent manufacturer or importer and to all persons appearing of record to have an interest in such property, in writing at least ten days before the date set for such sale by inclosing such notice in an envelope addressed to said manufacturer or importer at his last known residence or place of business in this State if any, and, depositing same in the United States mail, postage prepaid, and by publication for at least ten days before the date set for such sale in a newspaper of general circulation published in the county or city and county in which the property seized is to be sold; provided, however, that if there be no newspaper of general circulation in such county or city and county, then by the posting of such notice in three public places in such county or city and county for said ten days period. The said notice shall contain a description of the property to be sold, together with a statement of the amount of the excise taxes, penalties and costs, the name of the manufacturer and the further statement that, unless such excise taxes, penalties and costs are paid on or before the time fixed in said notice for such sale, said property, or so much thereof as may be necessary, will be sold in accordance with law and said notice.

At any such sale, the property shall be sold by the Controller or by his duly authorized agent in accordance with law and said notice, and the Controller shall deliver to the purchaser a bill of sale for the personal property, and a deed for any real property so sold, and such bill of sale or deed shall vest title in the purchaser. The unsold portion of any property so seized may be left at the place of sale at the risk of the manufacturer or importer. If, upon any such sale, the moneys so received shall exceed the amount of all license taxes, penalties and costs due the State from such manufacturer or importer, any such excess shall be returned to the manufacturer or importer, and his receipt therefor obtained; provided, however, that if any person having an interest in or lien upon the property has filed with the Controller prior to any such sale notice of such interest said Controller shall withhold any such excess pending a determination of the rights of the respective parties thereto by a court of competent jurisdiction. If, for any reason, the receipt of such manufacturer or importer shall not be available, the Controller shall deposit such excess moneys with the State Treasurer, as trustee for such owner, subject to the order of such manufacturer or importer, his heirs, successors or assigns.

The Controller must also immediately transmit notice of such delinquency to the Attorney General who shall at once proceed to collect all sums due to the State from any such manufacturer or importer hereunder by bringing suit against the necessary parties to effect forfeiture of the bond or bonds of the manufacturer or importer, reducing any deficiency to judgment against the manufacturer or importer.

It is expressly provided that the foregoing remedies of the State shall be cumulative and that no action taken by the board, Controller or Attorney General shall be or be construed to be an election on the part of the State or any of its officers to pursue any remedy hereunder to the exclusion of any other remedy for which provision is made in this act.

In any suit brought to enforce the rights of the State hereunder the assessment roll prepared by the board pursuant to section 22 of this act, or a copy of so much thereof as is applicable in such suit, duly certified by the Controller showing unpaid excise taxes assessed against any manufacturer or importer, shall be prima facie evidence of the assessment of the excise tax, the delinquency thereof, the amount of the excise tax, penalties and costs due and unpaid to the State, that the manufacturer or importer is indebted to the people of the State of California in the amount of such excise tax and penalties therein appearing unpaid and that all the forms of law in relation to the assessment and levy of such excise tax have been fully complied with by all persons required to perform administrative duties under this act.

SEC. 29. No such action may be instituted more than sixty days after the last day prescribed for the payment of such excise tax without penalty, and failure to bring suit within said sixty days shall constitute waiver of any and all demands against this State on account of alleged overpayment of excise taxes hereunder. No grounds of illegality of the excise tax shall be considered by the court other than those set forth in the protest filed at the time of the payment of the excise tax.

If in any such action judgment is rendered for the plaintiff, the amount of the judgment shall first be credited on any excise taxes due from the plaintiff under this act, and the balance of the amount of the judgment shall be refunded to the plaintiff. In any such judgment, interest shall be allowed at the rate of six per cent per annum upon the amount of excise tax found to have been illegally collected from the date of payment of such excise tax to the date of allowance of credit on account of such judgment or to a date preceding the date of the refund warrant by not more than thirty days, such date to be determined by the Controller.

In no case shall any judgment be rendered in favor of the plaintiff in any action brought against the State Treasurer to recover any excise tax paid hereunder, when such action is brought by or in the name of an assignee of the manufacturer or importer paying said excise tax, or by any person, other than the person who has paid such excise tax.

SEC. 30. The board may seize and sell at public auction any alcoholic beverage found in the possession of any person, who does not hold a license issued under this act unless it can be conclusively shown that any taxes due the State by reason of the manufacture and sale or importation or sale of such specific beverage under this act have been paid.

SEC. 30a. It is unlawful to possess any alcoholic beverage upon which State or Federal taxes have not been paid. Any person who violates the provisions of this section is guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars or by imprisonment for not less than one month nor more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

SEC. 31. Moneys collected by the board under the excise tax provisions of this act shall be deposited in the State treasury to the credit of the alcoholic beverage tax fund, which fund is hereby created. For expenditures by the board in carrying out the provisions for collecting the excise taxes levied under this act, there is hereby appropriated out of the alcoholic beverage tax fund an amount not to exceed five per cent of the amounts deposited in said fund; and for expenditures by the Controller in carrying out the provisions of this act requiring the collection of an excise tax there is hereby appropriated out of said alcoholic beverage tax fund the sum of twelve thousand dollars or so much of said amount as may be necessary. After allowing refunds, for which provision is made in section 29, the balance of the amount so transferred shall be deposited by the Controller to the general fund of the State.

SEC. 32. There is hereby appropriated from the alcoholic beverage tax fund the sum of thirty thousand dollars per biennium, to be used by the State Department of Public Health for enforcement work directed toward preventing the manufacture, sale or transportation of adulterated, mislabeled or misbranded liquors.

This expenditure shall be made as provided in "An act preventing the manufacture, sale or transportation of adulterated, mislabeled or misbranded food, liquor and drugs and making an appropriation" approved March 11, 1907.

The Director of Public Health shall communicate to the State Board of Equalization any findings which indicate that the above act has been violated by any holder of a license under this act.

SEC. 33. The board shall administer all of the provisions of this act and to that end shall prescribe all necessary rules and regulations to carry out such provisions. The board shall have the power to require any report from any licensee, and or transportation companies, and to make any examination of the books and records of any licensee it may deem necessary to perform its duties under this act, and for the performance of its duties shall have all the powers conferred upon it by section 3692 of the Political Code.

The members of the board and the investigators and auditors employed by the board shall have the power to administer and certify oaths, and shall have all the powers of peace officers in administering the provisions of this act.

SEC. 34. The provisions of Chapter 178, Statutes of 1932, approved April 27, 1933, shall remain in effect until June 1, 1935, after which date such provisions shall no longer be of any force and effect; provided, that any taxes imposed under said provisions prior to said date shall remain fully collectible.

SEC. 35. A written report of a member of the board or of an employee of the board engaged in the enforcement of this act disclosing that an applicant for a license or the premises for which a license is applied are not qualified for a license under this act shall constitute grounds for the denial of an application for a license.

Immediately upon the denial of any application for a license the board shall notify the applicant thereof in writing. Within ten days after mailing the notice the applicant may present his written petition for a license to the board.

Upon receipt by the board of a petition for a license in proper form it shall be referred to a representative of the board for hearing.

SEC. 36. Protests may be made to the board at any time prior to the issuance of a license against either the original issuance of a license or the renewal of a license.

Protests must be in writing and filed in the main office of the board at Sacramento, and must state one or more grounds which would authorize the board to deny or refuse the issuance of the license. The original copy of the protest must be verified unless made by public officers acting in their official capacity.

Upon receipt by the board of a protest in proper form it shall be referred to a representative of the board for hearing.

If a license has been issued to the applicant before receipt of the protest by the board, the protest shall be considered as a complaint against the licensee and a hearing had thereon as if a complaint had been filed.

SEC. 37. Complaints may be made to the board by any person against any licensee. Complaints must be in writing and must state one or more grounds which would authorize the board to suspend or revoke the license or licenses of the licensee against whom the complaint is made.

A written report of a member of the board or of an employee of the board engaged in the enforcement of this act, or of a public officer disclosing grounds for the suspension or revocation of the license or licenses of any licensee shall be deemed a complaint against the licensee within the meaning of this act, even though not in the form of a complaint.

The original copy of complaints must be verified unless made by public officers acting in their official capacity or by employees of the board engaged in the enforcement of this act.

The following are the grounds which constitute a basis for the suspension or the revocation of licenses:

(a) The violation or the causing or the permitting of a violation of this act or of the rules and regulations of the board by any licensee.

(b) The misrepresentation of a material fact by any applicant in obtaining any license hereunder.

(c) It shall be mandatory on the board to revoke any license granted by this board upon a showing that the holder of such license or a member of a partnership holding such license or a general manager or director or officer of any corporation holding such license has been convicted in any Federal or State court of a felony.

(d) It shall be mandatory on the board to revoke any license granted by the board upon a showing that the holder of the license has been convicted of either a felony or misdemeanor in connection with the evasion of a State or Federal tax required to be paid on alcoholic beverages by licensees under this act.

(e) It shall be mandatory on the board to revoke any license granted by the board upon a showing that a licensee under this act has been convicted of deliberate and wilful violation of an act of the State of California entitled, "An act for preventing the manufacture, sale or transportation of adulterated, mislabeled, or misbranded foods and liquors and regulating the traffic therein, providing penalties, establishing a State Laboratory for Foods, Liquors and Drugs and making an appropriation therefor," approved March 11, 1907, or of an act of Congress of the United States entitled "An act for preventing the manufacture, sale, or transportation of adulterated or misbranded or poisonous or deleterious foods, drugs, medicines, and liquors, and for regulating traffic therein, and for other purposes," approved June 30, 1906.

Upon receipt by the board of a complaint in proper form it shall be referred to a representative of the board for hearing.

At any time prior to the final determination of the board upon any complaint the board shall have the power, in its discretion, to suspend temporarily the license or licenses of the licensee against whom complaint is made for any length of time, not to exceed the time of the final determination of the matter by the board.

SEC. 38. Upon receipt by a representative of the board of a protest, a complaint or a petition for a license, the representative shall forthwith cause written notice of the time and place of the hearing of said protest, complaint or petition for a license to be given to the protesting or complaining party as well as the applicant, licensee or petitioner. The hearing shall be set for a date not more than fifteen days nor less than five days subsequent to the mailing of the notice and shall be held in the county seat of the county in which the premises of the applicant or licensee are located.

Enclosed with a copy of the notice of the time and place of hearing sent to the applicant or licensee shall be a copy of the protest or complaint as filed with the board.

SEC. 39. The failure of an applicant for a license or a licensee to appear before the representative of the board at the time set for the hearing, except for the intervention of an act of God, shall be deemed an admission by him of the facts or acts charged in the protest or complaint and thereupon the representative of the board shall have the power to act as if the facts charged in the protest or complaint were found to be true.

SEC. 40. The board or any member thereof or any representative appointed by the board to conduct hearings shall have the power to administer oaths, certify to all official acts, and to issue subpoenas for the attendance of witnesses and the production of papers, books, accounts, documents and testimony in any inquiry, investigation, hearing or proceeding in any part of the State.

Each witness who shall appear, by order of the board or member thereof or a representative appointed by it, shall be entitled to receive, if demanded, for each attendance the same fees and mileage allowed by law to witnesses in civil cases in the superior court, which amount shall be paid by the party at whose request such witness is subpoenaed, unless otherwise ordered by the board or the representative. When any witness who has not been required to attend at the request of any party is subpoenaed by the board, or a member thereof or a representative of the board, his fees and mileage may be paid from the funds appropriated for the use of the board in the administration of this act in the same manner as other expenses of the board are paid in the administration of this act.

SEC. 41. The superior court in and for the county, or city and county in which any inquiry, investigation, hearing or proceeding may be held by the board or a representative appointed by it shall have the power to compel the attendance of witnesses, the giving of testimony and the production of papers, including books, accounts and documents as required by any subpoena issued by the board or any member thereof or a representative appointed by the board.

The board or any representative appointed by it, before whom the testimony is to be given or produced, in case of the refusal of any witness to attend or testify or produce any papers required by such subpoena, may report to the superior court, in and for the county, or city and county, in which the proceeding or hearing is pending, by petition, setting forth that due notice has been given of the time and place of attendance of said witness, or the production of said papers, and that the witness had been subpoenaed in the manner prescribed in this act, and that the witness has failed and refused to attend or produce the papers required by the subpoena, or has refused to answer questions propounded to him in the course of such proceeding or hearing, and ask an order of said court, compelling the witness to attend or testify or produce said papers before the board or representative. The court, upon the petition of the board or any member thereof or a representative appointed by the board, shall enter an order directing the witness to appear before the court at a time and place to be fixed by the court in such order, the time to be not more than ten days from the date of the order, and then and there show cause why he did not attend and testify or produce said papers before the board or representative of the board. A copy of said order shall be personally served upon said witness, and service shall not be made by registered mail as otherwise provided in this act.

If it shall appear to the court that said subpoena was regularly issued by the board or member thereof or a representative of the board and the witness was legally bound to comply therewith, the court shall thereupon enter an order that said witness shall appear before the board or representative at a time and place to be fixed in such order, and testify or produce the required papers, and upon failing to obey such order said witness shall be dealt with as for contempt of court.

SEC. 42. All hearings and investigations before the board or any representative appointed thereby shall be governed by this act and other applicable provisions of law not inconsistent herewith and in the conduct of said hearings neither the board nor any representative appointed by it shall be bound by the common law or statutory rules of evidence and procedure, but may make inquiry in such manner through oral testimony and printed records as is best calculated to extend the substantial rights of the parties and carry out jointly the spirit and provisions of this act.

The board, or any member of the board or any representative appointed by it, or any party to the action or proceeding may, in any investigation or hearing before the board or a representative thereof cause the deposition of witnesses residing within or without the State to be taken in the manner prescribed by law for like depositions in civil actions in the superior court of this State, and to that end may compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of books, documents, papers and accounts; provided that depositions taken outside of the State may be taken before any officer authorized to administer oaths.

SEC. 43. Within ten days after the hearing the representative of the board shall certify to the board his findings of ultimate fact whether the protest, complaint or petition is true or not, and in the case of hearings on complaints the representative may make recommendations in respect to the suspending or revoking of licenses. The findings and recommendations of the representative shall not be open to public inspection, either to the applicant, licensee, protestant, complainant or any other person.

SEC. 44. After the findings of the representative of the board are filed, the board shall make its decision upon the petition for a license, protest or complaint, and shall notify the petitioner, protestant, complainant, and licensee thereof. Within ten days after the mailing of the notice, the petitioner, protestant, complainant or licensee may petition the board for a reconsideration of the cause. Such petitions shall be verified unless filed by a public officer acting in his official capacity.

SEC. 45. Within thirty days after receipt by the board of a petition for reconsideration the board shall either deny the petition, or modify, or set aside its original order, or refer the matter to a representative of the board for further hearing. In case the matter is referred to a representative the matter shall be treated as upon an original reference.

SEC. 46. Within thirty days after the decision of the board upon a petition for reconsideration the petitioner, protestant, complainant or licensee, may apply to the District Court of Appeal of the Appellate District in which the hearing before the representative of the board was had for a writ of review. No writ of review shall be granted unless a petition for reconsideration has been filed with the board and the board has either acted thereon or the time for so acting has elapsed.

SEC. 47. In granting a writ of review the District Court of Appeal shall have no power or authority to make any order which would restore a license or any rights thereunder except in its final decision of the review and such final decision shall not be effective until the time has expired within which the Supreme Court may pass upon the matter.

Such writ, if granted, shall be made returnable not later than thirty days after the date of issuance thereof.

SEC. 48. Service of the notices required by this act may be made personally or by mail; if by mail service shall be made in the manner prescribed by section 1013 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

SEC. 49. All moneys collected as license fees under this act shall be deposited in the State treasury to the credit of the "Alcoholic beverage license fund," which fund is hereby created. Of all moneys collected from license fees for each year under this act, fifty per cent is hereby appropriated to be apportioned to the counties, cities and counties, and cities of the State on or before March 31st of the succeeding year in the proportion that the amount of the fees collected in the particular county, city and county, or city bears to the total amount collected throughout the State. There is hereby appropriated from the alcoholic beverage license fund so much as may be necessary to pay the salaries and expenses of auditors, inspectors and clerks employed by the board, and to defray the necessary expenses arising by reason of the administration and enforcement of the provisions of this act. The balance remaining after the appropriations heretofore authorized by this section shall be transferred to the general fund on the order of the Controller approved by the board.

SEC. 50. Postal authorities may refuse delivery of any shipment of alcoholic beverage originating outside of this State. Postal authorities may turn such alcoholic beverage over to the board. The beverage when received shall be summarily forfeited to the State, to be sold at public auction by the board. Every person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 52. It shall be unlawful for any person, whether or not such person holds a license issued by the board, to sell, serve or otherwise dispose of any alcoholic beverage other than beer which may be so sold over or at any public bar or in any public barroom, for consumption on the premises where sold. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 53. Any person who fails, neglects or refuses to file any report required to be filed by this act within ten days after the report is required to be filed, or who makes any false statement or conceals any material fact in any application for a license or in any record, report, affidavit or claim provided for herein, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor unless such act is by any other law of this State declared to be a felony, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not less than one month, nor more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

SEC. 54. No manufacturer, rectifier, distiller, bottler, importer or wholesaler or any officer, director or agent of any such person shall

(a) Hold the ownership, directly or indirectly, of any interest in any "On-sale" license;

(b) Furnish, give or lend any money or other thing of value, directly or indirectly, to, nor guarantee the repayment of any loan or the fulfillment of any financial obligation of, any person engaged in operating, owning or maintaining any "On-sale" premises where alcoholic beverages are sold for consumption on such premises;

(c) Furnish, give, rent, lend or sell, directly or indirectly any equipment, fixtures, or supplies, other than alcoholic beverage directly or indirectly to any person engaged in operating, owning or maintaining any "on-sale" premises where alcoholic beverages are sold for consumption on such premises;

(d) Furnish, give, lend or rent directly or indirectly to any person any decorations, paintings or signs, other than interior signs mentioned in section 55 herein, for use in or about or in connection with any premises where alcoholic beverages are sold for consumption on such premises, or pay money or anything of value for the privilege of placing or painting a sign or advertisement, or window display on or in any premises selling alcoholic beverages at retail.

(e) Own any interest, directly or indirectly, in the business, furniture, fixtures, signs, refrigeration, equipment or lease in or of any premises operated or maintained under any "on-sale" license for the sale of alcoholic beverages for consumption on the premises where sold; own any interest directly or indirectly in realty upon which such "on-sale" premises are maintained.

Any person violating any provision of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and any holder of any retail "on-sale" or retail "off-sale" license who shall solicit the violation of the provisions of this section or accept or permit to be accepted on his behalf and with his consent any of the prohibited matters, articles or acts herein designated shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 55. No signs or any matter advertising alcoholic beverages, or using the words "bar," "barroom," "saloon" or words of like or similar import, shall be maintained, erected or placed upon or adjacent to the outside of any building and in connection with any premises therein licensed to sell alcoholic beverages at retail. No advertisement or sign shall contain the words "bar," "barroom," "saloon" or words of like or similar import. Nothing in this section prohibits the manufacture of any alcoholic beverage, beer or wine to place upon his place of manufacture or business any sign containing the name of such manufacturer or the name of his product or brands, or the class of his product as wine, beer, spirits, or other appropriate description. Every person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 55a. Signs or other advertising matter within the licensed premises of any retailer of alcoholic beverages shall not be of any obnoxious, gaudy, blatant or offensive nature and shall in no manner obstruct the view of the interior of the premises from the street, and shall be limited to illuminated or unilluminated signs of not to exceed in area six hundred thirty square inches and no one dimension to exceed forty-two inches. In no case shall any sign or other advertising matter obstruct more than one-third of the total area of a display window. Any sign so displayed shall be paid for by the retail licensee. A manufacturer, distributor or wholesaler of alcoholic beverages may furnish to retail dispensers a sign, not exceeding the area and dimensions herein prescribed, bearing only the name of the manufacturer, distributor or wholesaler or the trade or copyrighted name or brand of the product. Any sign heretofore erected not conforming with these regulations shall be made to conform thereto or shall be removed forthwith. Every person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Each and every holder of an "on-sale" retail license who shall give, sell or otherwise dispense any draught beer, shall, upon the faucet, spigot or outlet wherefrom such beer is drawn, attach and keep posted a clear and legible notice, placard or marker which shall in the English language indicate and declare the name or brand adopted by the manufacturer of such draught beer so given, sold or dispensed by such licensee, and which notice, placard or marker shall be so situated as to be clearly legible for a distance of at least ten (10) feet from such spigot, faucet or outlet to a person with normal vision, and such notice, sign or placard shall at all times be so situated as to be so clearly legible from the place where such "on-sale" licensee serves any customer or consumer of such beer, and provided further that if such faucet, spigot or other drawing device is in a location not within the room of the place of service and consumption of such beer, then, and in that event there shall also be kept posted a similar notice, placard or marker in the place of service and consumption of such beer which shall truthfully state and indicate only the kinds and brands of draught beer actually on sale in the premises of the "on-sale" licensee.

Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this section, or who shall substitute another or different brand of draught beer from that indicated by any of the notices, placards or markers hereinabove provided for, or who shall substitute one brand of beer for another, or misrepresent the brand or kind of beer served to a consumer, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor for each such violation or noncompliance. Any wholesaler or retail licensee who sells any draught beer containing more than three and two-tenths per cent of alcohol by weight shall be guilty of a misdemeanor; and any person who sells or otherwise dispenses of any bottled beer which has not been pasteurized or which is in bottles of a capacity of more than twenty-four fluid ounces, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 56. Every person holding a retailer's on-sale license under this act who employs or uses the services of minors on any premises for which a retailer's on-sale license has been issued shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. The word "premises" as used in this section shall be construed to include only that portion of a building which is used for the actual sale and service of alcoholic beverage.

SEC. 57. It shall be unlawful for any on-sale licensee to pay or agree to pay any hostess, waitress, entertainer or other person a percentage of the receipts from sales of alcoholic beverages solicited or made by such hostess, waitress, entertainer or other person a salary or remuneration the amount of which is in any way dependent upon the amount or number of sales of alcoholic beverages solicited or made by such hostess, waitress, entertainer or other person.

SEC. 58. Every person holding a retailer's on-sale license who keeps or permits to be used or suffers to be used any disorderly house or place in which people abide or to which people resort, to the disturbance of the neighborhood, or in which people abide or to which people resort for purposes which are injurious to the public morals, health, convenience or safety shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 59. Every person engaged in the business of selling or serving alcoholic beverages who sells, gives away or furnishes any alcoholic beverage for consumption on the premises apart for any general or special election, in any election district or precinct in any county in the State where an election is in progress, during the hours when by law the polls are required to be kept open for voting shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 60. Every person engaged in the business of selling or serving alcoholic beverages who sells, serves, gives away or delivers any alcoholic beverages to any person between the hours of two o'clock a.m. and six o'clock a.m. of the same day shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 60a. Except as otherwise provided in this section, no person engaged in manufacturing or distributing alcoholic beverages shall deliver or cause to be delivered any alcoholic beverages to any person holding an on-sale or off-sale license except between the hours of six a.m. and seven p.m. No such delivery may be made on Sunday. Alcoholic beverages may be delivered at the platform of the manufacturing or distributing plant at any time. Every person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 61. Every person engaged in the business of selling or serving alcoholic beverages who sells, furnishes, gives, or causes to be sold, furnished or given away any alcoholic beverage to any person under the age of twenty-one years shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 62. Every person engaged in the business of selling or serving alcoholic beverages who sells, furnishes, gives or causes to be sold, furnished or given away, any alcoholic beverage to any habitual or common drunkard shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 63. Every person, engaged in the business of selling or serving alcoholic beverages who sells, furnishes, gives or causes to be sold, furnished or given away any liquor to any Indian of whole or mixed blood, or to any person who is commonly known to live with and associate with Indians shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 64. Every person, not authorized by law, who brings into any State prison, town or county jail, or city and county jail, or reformatory in this State or within the grounds belonging or adjacent to any such institution any alcoholic beverage of any kind whatsoever shall be guilty of a felony.

SEC. 65. Every person who sells, gives or delivers to any other person any alcoholic beverage at any public schoolhouse or upon any portion of the grounds thereof shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Any person convicted of a violation of this section shall, in addition to the penalty imposed for the misdemeanor, be barred from having or receiving any privilege of the use of public school property which is accorded by Chapter II of Part III of Division VI of the School Code of this State.

SEC. 66. Every person convicted of a misdemeanor for a violation of any of the provisions of this act for which another punishment is not specifically provided for herein, shall be punished by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

SEC. 67. Every person convicted of a felony for a violation of any of the provisions of this act for which another punishment is not specifically provided for herein, shall be punished by a fine of not more than five thousand dollars or by imprisonment in the State penitentiary for not less than one year, nor more than five years or by both such fine and imprisonment.

SEC. It is hereby declared that this act shall not apply to the manufacture, sale or use of completely denatured ethyl alcohol or special denatured ethyl alcohol, as these substances are defined in the various statutes and regulations of the United States Government relating thereto.

Nothing in this act shall be deemed to prevent or restrict the use of tax-free ethyl alcohol under regulation of the Treasury Department of the United States Government by any governmental agency, State or Federal, or any scientific university or college of learning or any laboratory for use exclusively in scientific research or to any hospital or sanitarium.

Nothing in this act shall be deemed to prevent or restrict the use of tax-free alcohol or of industrial alcohol or other distilled spirits or wine under regulation of the United States Government in the manufacture of medicinal, pharmaceutical, or antiseptic products, including prescriptions compounded by retail druggists; of toilet products, of flavoring extracts, syrups, of food products, of scientific, chemical, or industrial products; provided such products are unfit for beverage use.

The following acts and sections, together with all amendments thereof and all acts supplementary thereto, are repealed.

Sec. 70. If any section, subsection, clause, sentence or phrase of this act which is reasonably separable from the remaining portion of this act is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the remaining portions of this act. The Legislature hereby declares that it would have passed the remaining portions of this act irrespective of the fact that any such section, subsection, clause, sentence or phrase of this act be declared unconstitutional.

Sec. 71. This act, inasmuch as it provides for tax levies for the usual current expenses of the State, shall, under the provisions of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution, take effect immediately."

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint and re-referred to Committee on Revenue and Taxation.

Rush Order to Printer.

On motion of Senator Pieroovich, the Secretary was directed to issue a rush order for printing Senate Bill No. 919.

Consideration of Daily File.

Second Reading of Senate Bills.

Senate Bill No. 1019—An act to add a new section, to be numbered 13, to "An act to provide for the protection and preservation of shade and ornamental trees growing and to be grown upon the roads, highway, grounds and property within the State of California, and for the planting, care, protection and preservation of shade and ornamental trees, hedges, lawns, shrubs and flowers growing and to be grown in and upon such roads, highways, grounds and property; and to create county boards of forestry for such purposes; and to prescribe the duties and powers of such boards; and to authorize such boards to appoint county foresters; and to prescribe the duties and fix the compensation of county forester, and to empower such boards to enforce all laws and adopt and enforce any and all lawful and reasonable rules for the protection, planting, regulation, preservation, care and control of such shade and ornamental trees, hedges, lawns, shrubs and flowers, with relation to fire, diseases, pests, or any other dangers, of any nature, to the safety and encouragement of such growths." approved April 28, 1909, relating to ornamental trees and shrubs and to boards of forestry.

Bill read second time, ordered to engrossment, and on file for third reading.

Senate Bill No. 37—An act providing for the creation, organization, and government of joint districts composed of two or more counties of the State of California for the purpose of maintaining joint county road camps and providing that persons confined in the county jail of any such county under a final judgment of imprisonment rendered in a criminal action or proceeding may be required to perform labor on the public work on public highways in any of such counties.

Consideration of Committee Amendments.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on County Government, the following amendments to Senate Bill No. 37 were read and adopted:

Title read and approved.

Senate Bill No. 153 ordered transmitted to the Assembly.

Resolution.

The following resolution was offered:

By Senator Olson:

Resolution.

WHEREAS, It has been ascertained and is common knowledge that one of the largest and most valuable oil and gas pools in the State of California underlies the tidelands belonging to the State in the vicinity of Huntington Beach, in Orange County; and

WHEREAS, It is commonly reported and claimed that a corporation known as The Standard Oil Company of California has taken many millions of barrels of oil and many billions of cubic feet of gas from said pool, aggregating in value many millions of dollars belonging to the State of California, without any legal right thereto and without payment to the State therefor; and

WHEREAS, It is reported that the Director of Finance and the Chief of the Division of State Lands in the Department of Finance in the State are negotiating a settlement of the State's claim against said corporation in the premises, for a comparatively few thousand dollars, as a full settlement and discharge of said claim; and

WHEREAS, There are a number of bills now pending in the Legislature relating directly or indirectly to this grant oil and gas resource of the State, and the consideration of which the Legislature should have before it all of the facts pertaining to the State's interest therein and its right to the oil and gas, and the resources thereof, taken from said resource by said corporation and any and all other corporations and individuals, and full information in regard to any pending proceedings and proposed settlements with reference thereto; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California. That a special committee of five (5) Senators be appointed by the President of the Senate to make a full and complete investigation of all operations and proceedings past and present of The Standard Oil Company of California and any and all other persons, firms, associations or corporations in connection with the abstraction of oil and gas from the lands belonging to the State and all actions of the Department of Finance and of the Attorney General with respect thereto, and all and singular the facts, circumstances and data as to the amount of oil and gas, if any, taken from tidelands belonging to the State in the vicinity of the city of Huntington Beach, county of Orange, State of California, and the market value of such oil and gas as of the time of its production, and of any and all proceedings taken in respect thereto by the Department of Finance and the Attorney General, and the circumstances, terms and conditions of any proposed settlement by the Department of Finance or any person charged with the claims of the State of California with reference thereto, and into such additional facts and circumstances as said committee may deem proper to enable the Legislature to fully protect the rights of the State in the premises and in the oil and gas underlying tidelands and other lands belonging to the State; and be it further

Resolved. That said special committee be hereby authorized to hold public hearings at any place in the State of California; and be it further

Resolved. That said special committee in making said investigation be hereby authorized and empowered to require the production of books, papers, records, documents and papers of every kind and description; to issue subpoenas to compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of testimony, and to do any and all things necessary to make a full and complete investigation of the matters herein mentioned. Each member of said special committee is hereby authorized to administer oaths, and all of the provisions of Article VIII of Chapter II, Title I, Part III of the Political Code, relative to the attendance and assembly of witnesses before the Legislature and committees thereof, shall apply to said special committee. Said committee is authorized to sit during the present session of the Legislature and during any recess or adjournment thereof, and to report back to the Senate with recommendations during the present or any future session of the Legislature; and be it further

Resolved. That the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars ($2,500), or so much thereof as may be necessary for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the committee and the cost of this investigation, is hereby made available and appropriated out of the contingent fund of the Senate, and the State Controller is authorized and directed to draw his warrants in favor of the person or persons entitled thereto for such expenditures as may be certified to him from time to time by the chairman of the committee, and the State Treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to pay the same.

Case of Urgency.

Recommendation of the Governor.

In accordance with section 34 of Article IV of the Constitution, the Governor presented the following communication recommending the passage of Senate Bill No. 212:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE,

SACRAMENTO, March 28, 1935.

To the Honorable Members of the Senate,

Sacramento, California.

Senate Bill No. 212—An act to establish an Insurance Code, thereby consolidating and revising the laws relating to insurance principles, practice and business, and matters incidental thereto, and to repeal certain acts and parts of acts as specified herein, is before me with request for consideration before the enactment of the budget.

In my opinion said Senate Bill No. 212 constitutes an emergency bill within the meaning of that term as used in section 34 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, the consideration of which should not await final enactment of the budget bill.

I therefore recommend the consideration of Senate Bill No. 212 as such an emergency measure.

Respectfully submitted.

FRANK F. MERRIAM, Governor of California.

Third Reading of Assembly Bills—(Resumed).

Assembly Bill No. 521—An act to provide a method for improving public streets, avenues, lanes, alleys, courts and places within municipalities of the sixth class, and for levying and collecting assessments upon property to pay for such improvements, and declaring the urgency hereof, to take effect immediately, and repealing an act approved May 25, 1933, relating to the same subject.

Bill read third time.

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 20. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution, and shall therefore go into immediate effect. The facts constituting such necessity are as follows:

The continuance of the widespread depression has kept many people out of employment and continues to make it impossible for them to obtain work. By allowing street improvements to be made in accordance with this act, such work can be begun more quickly and thereby employment can be furnished to needy persons throughout the State, thereby relieving unemployment and removing many persons from the relief rolls.

Urgency clause read.

The question being on the adoption of the urgency clause.

995. Capri fig trees unless properly controlled and regulated under supervision constitute a menace because they are a source of infection and pests, and capri figs unless properly treated contribute to, and are responsible for the transmission of endosepsis and other plant diseases by the blastophaga therein. In the interest of the public welfare and general prosperity of the State and to provide for the control, eradication, elimination and prevention of endosepsis and other plant diseases, all abandoned capri fig trees, all capri fig trees used for ornamental or decorative purposes and all capri fig trees in or about a fig orchard aggregating in number more than one per centum of the fig trees therein are declared a public nuisance. The director shall upon report and inspection by the enforcing officer notify the owner of such tree or trees to graft or destroy the same, and upon failure of the owner so to do within ten days from and after such notice, shall cause the grafting or destruction of such tree or trees in a summary manner. Instructions for application may be furnished to such owners at the expense of the department.

SEC. 2. A new section is hereby added to said act to be numbered 996 and to read as follows:

996. Every person who owns, raises, uses, packs, ships, or delivers for shipment or sells any capri figs of the profichi or mamme crops for use within the county, shall cause same to be washed or treated for the prevention or elimination of endosepsis or the transmission of endosepsis by the blastophaga therein, and when same are to be shipped or used without the county, such person shall notify the commissioner of the county within which same are to be used of such shipment, the nature thereof and the name and residence of the consignee, whereupon such commissioner shall cause such consignee to properly cleanse, wash or treat as may be necessary, such figs for the prevention or elimination of endosepsis before using. Every person violating the requirements of this provision shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 3. A new section is hereby added to said act to be numbered 997 and to read as follows:

997. The Director of Agriculture shall provide for and designate such deputies as are necessary for the enforcement of the foregoing provisions, in accordance with the provisions of section 23 of the Agricultural Code.

SEC. 4. A new section is hereby added to said act to be numbered 998 and to read as follows:

998. Every person who wilfully or otherwise interferes with the enforcement of the provisions of the preceding three sections is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 5. A new section is hereby added to said act to be numbered 999 and to read as follows:

999. The director may receive and accept on behalf of the State, contributions or donations of money from individuals, firms, corporations, associations, boards of supervisors, departments, divisions, bureaus, boards or commissions of this State or of the United States for the purpose of enforcing the provisions of the foregoing sections 995, 996, 997 and 998. All moneys so received shall be deposited in the Department of Agriculture fund of the State treasury and shall be expended solely for such enforcement."

An act to make an appropriation for predatory animal control.

Respectfully submitted.

SENATOR GORDON.

Request referred to Committee on Rules.

Resolution.

The following resolution was offered:

By Senators Hays, Wagy, Mixter, Schottky, Pierovich, Rich, Williams, Garrison, Deuel, McColl, Seawell, Powers, and Scollan:

WHEREAS, The Congress of the United States has recently enacted a measure wherein $4,800,000,000 are appropriated for relief and unemployment to be expended on useful and permanent projects; and

WHEREAS, There is in the process of development in California a high mountain scenic highway known as The Sierra Way which will, upon its completion, connect all of the National parks in California and the majority of the National forests in northern and central California, Burney Falls State Park, Lake Tahoe recreational region, and many other points of scenic and recreational value in the high Sierra Mountains; and

WHEREAS, The Sierra Way, upon its completion will greatly facilitate travel into and through the National parks and National forests and other high mountain scenic areas, and is of great value as a permanent and useful connection in the highway transportation system in the State of California; and

WHEREAS, The sum of $15,500,000 will construct the unconstructed portions of this route and reconstruct those sections of the route constructed to a low standard; and

WHEREAS, The expenditure of this sum on road work offers a larger percentage of labor, both directly and indirectly, and is as a result highly desirable from an unemployment relief viewpoint; and

WHEREAS, Said project lies entirely within the lateral boundary of National forests and National parks and is therefore primarily a Federal undertaking; and

WHEREAS, A formal application has been made by subdivision of this State that said project be put upon the United States public works program; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Senate, That the State Department of Public Works file an application with the appropriate Federal authority, requesting the sum of $15,500,000 complete The Sierra Way; and, be it further

Resolved, That the Senate of the State of California most respectfully urges and petitions the Federal authority charged with the allocation of these funds to give every consideration to this project with a view of allocating funds necessary to complete The Sierra Way; and, be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States, to the authority designated by the President as responsible for allocation to projects, and to the members of the Senate and House of Representatives, of the Congress of the United States, from the State of California.

Resolution read, ordered printed in the Journal, and to be considered on the next legislative day.

Unfinished Business.

Consideration of Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 25.

Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 25—Relative to the appointment of a Joint Legislative Committee to Study Pending Revenue and Taxation Measures.

Statement by Hon. George J. Hatfield, President of the Senate.

In reply to Senator Scollan's suggestion that Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 25, introduced by Senator Duval, creating a Joint Legislative Committee to be appointed for the purpose of studying pending revenue and taxation measures, that the appointive power should select representatives of the various opinions and views held, rather than a committee completely committed to the Governor's plan, I desire to make the following statement:

If Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 25 is adopted it is my intention to appoint a representative committee to the end that a tax program may be developed that will be acceptable to a majority of both houses and to the Governor. In this regard I desire to state that I do not desire to be deluged by suggestions and advice as to the membership of the committee by representatives of special interests. I have been approached by a number of persons not members of either house, with suggestions as to the make-up of the committee. I do not desire any such assistance.

Resolution read.

Second Reading of Senate Bills.

Senate Bill No. 867—An act relating to and providing for the levy and collection of a tax upon sales of tangible personal property and making provision for the administration thereof and prescribing penalties for violation of its provisions, the act to take effect immediately.

Consideration of Committee Amendment.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Revenue and Taxation, the following amendment to Senate Bill No. 867 was read and adopted :

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out lines 3 to 7, inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following :

"Sec. 2. The following words, terms and phrases when used in this act have the meanings ascribed to them in this section, except where the context clearly indicates a different meaning.

(a) "Person" includes any individual, firm, copartnership, joint adventure, association, corporation, estate, trust, business trust, receiver, syndicate or any other group or combination acting as a unit, and the plural as well as the singular number.

(b) "Sale" means any transfer, exchange or barter, conditional or otherwise, in any manner or by any means whatsoever, of tangible personal property, for a consideration, and includes the furnishing, preparing or serving for a consideration of any tangible personal property consumed on the premises of the person furnishing, preparing or serving such tangible personal property. A transaction whereby the possession of property is transferred but the seller retains the title as security for the payment of the price shall be deemed a sale.

(c) A "retail sale" or "sale at retail" means a sale to a consumer or to any person for any purpose other than for resale in the form of tangible personal property.

(d) "Business" includes any activity engaged in by any person or caused to be engaged in by him with the object of gain, benefit or advantage, either direct or indirect.

(e) "Vendor" means the person by whom the transfer effected or license given by a sale is or is to be made or given; and in case two or more persons shall be engaged in business in the same retail establishment under a single trade name in which all collections on account of sales by each are made, such persons shall constitute a single vendor for the purpose of this act.

When, in the opinion of the board it is necessary for the efficient administration of this act to regard any salesmen, representatives, peddlers or canvassers as the agents of the dealers, distributors, supervisors or employers under whom they operate or from whom they obtain the tangible personal property sold by them, irrespective of whether they are making sales on their own behalf or on behalf of such dealers, distributors, supervisors or employers, the board may so regard them and may regard the dealers, distributors, supervisors or employers as vendors for purposes of this act.

(f) "Consumer" means the person to whom the transfer effected or license given by a sale is or is to be made or given, or to whom the admission is granted.

(g) "Price" means the aggregate value in money of any thing or things paid or delivered, or promised to be paid or delivered by a consumer to a vendor in the consummation and complete performance of a retail sale without any deduction therefrom on account of the cost of the property sold, cost of materials used, labor or service cost, interest or discount paid, or any other expense whatsoever. The tax collected by the vendor from the consumer under the provisions of this act shall not be considered as a part of the price, but shall be considered as a tax collection for the benefit of the State, and, except for the discount authorized in section 14 of this act, no persons other than the State shall derive any benefit from the collection or payment of such tax.

(h) "Retail establishment" means any premises in which the business of selling tangible personal property is conducted or in or from which any retail sales are made.

(i) "Tangible personal property" means personal property which may be seen, weighed, measured, felt, touched, or is in any other manner perceptible to the senses.

(j) "Board" means the State Board of Equalization.

SEC. 3. For the purpose of providing revenue with which to meet the needs of the State in the existing economic crisis, for the use of the general fund of the State, for the purpose of securing a thorough and efficient system of public schools throughout the State, and for the purpose of affording revenues, in addition to those from other sources, permitted under constitutional limitations, and for the purpose of reimbursing the State for the expense of administering this act, an excise tax is hereby levied on each retail sale in this State of tangible personal property occurring during the period beginning on the first day of _____ 1935, and ending on the _____ day of _____, with the exceptions hereinafter mentioned and described, as follows:

One cent, if the price is more than five cents and not more than fifty cents;

Two cents, if the price is more than fifty cents and not more than eighty-four cents;

Three cents, if the price is more than eighty-four cents and not more than one dollar seventeen cents;

Four cents, if the price is more than one dollar and seventeen cents and not more than one dollar fifty cents;

Five cents, if the price is more than one dollar and fifty cents and not more than one dollar eighty-four cents;

Six cents, if the price is more than one dollar and eighty-four cents and not more than two dollars seventeen cents; and thereafter one cent additional shall be added within each dollar of sale after seventeen cents, fifty cents, and eighty-four cents.

If the price is not more than five cents, no tax shall be imposed.

The taxes hereby imposed shall apply and be collected when the sale is made, regardless of the time when the price is paid or delivered.

In the case of a sale as herein defined made during said period, the price of which as herein defined consists in whole or in part of rentals for the use of the thing transferred, the taxes hereby imposed shall, as regards such rentals, be measured by the installments thereof falling due within said period only.

SEC. 4. There are hereby specifically exempted from the provisions of this act and from the computation of the amount of tax levied, assessed or payable under this act the following:

(a) Sales of tangible personal property which this State is prohibited from taxing under the Constitution or laws of the United States of America or under the Constitution of this State.

(b) The sale, furnishing, or service of gas, electricity, and water, when delivered to consumers through mains, lines, or pipes.

(c) The sale of gold bullion or gold concentrates or gold precipitates by the producer or refiner thereof.

(d) Sales of tangible personal property used for the performance of a contract on public works executed prior to the effective date of this act.

SEC. 5. There is hereby specifically exempted from the provisions of this act and from the computation of the amount of tax levied, assessed or payable under this act, sales or distributions of motor vehicle fuel in this State subject to the tax imposed thereon under the provisions of the "Motor Vehicle Fuel License Tax Act," and not subject to refund.

The tax by this act imposed upon those sales of motor vehicle fuel which are subject to tax and refund under the "Motor Vehicle Fuel License Tax Act" shall be collected by the State Controller by way of deduction from refunds otherwise allowable under said act. The amount of such deductions, he shall transfer from the motor vehicle fuel fund to the retail sales tax fund.

This section is hereby declared to be separable and distinct from all other portions of this act, and shall not be deemed a consideration or inducement for the enactment of the whole or any portion of this act. If this section be for any reason declared invalid, the remainder of this act shall remain in full force and effect and shall be as completely operative as though this section had not been included herein.

SEC. 6. As used in this section governmental agency means the State, any county, city and county, city or district thereof.

A governmental agency may apply to the board for refund of the amount of tax imposed hereunder and paid upon sales to it of foodstuffs used for free distribution to the poor and needy.

Such refunds may be obtained only in the following amounts and manner and only under the following conditions:

(a) On forms furnished by the board, the governmental agency shall report to the board, within ninety days from the date or dates of purchase, the total amount or amounts, valued in money, expended, directly or indirectly, for foodstuffs used for free distribution to the poor and needy.

(b) On said forms the governmental agency shall separately list the persons making the sales to it, or to its order, together with the dates of the sales, the total amounts so expended by the governmental agency, and the total amounts of tax imposed by this act and paid thereon by said governmental agency.

(c) The governmental agency must prove to the satisfaction of the board that the tax provided for by this act has been paid upon such sales.

If the board is satisfied that the foregoing conditions and requirements have been complied with, it shall certify the amount of the refund payable to the governmental agency to the State Board of Control. Upon approval by the State Board of Control, the State Controller shall draw his warrant on the sales tax fund in the amount specified, payable to the governmental agency, and the State Treasurer shall pay the same.

SEC. 7. For the purpose of the proper administration of this act and to prevent the evasion of the tax hereby levied, it shall be presumed that all sales made in this State during the period defined in section 3 hereof are subject to the tax hereby levied until the contrary is established.

SEC. 8. Excepting as provided in section 10 of this act, the tax hereby imposed shall be paid by the consumer to the vendor in every instance, and it shall be the duty of each vendor to collect from the consumer the full and exact amount of the tax payable in respect of each taxable sale, and to evidence the payment of the tax in each case by canceling prepaid tax receipts, equal in face value to the amount thereof, in the manner and at the times provided in this section, to wit:

(a) If the price is, at or prior to the delivery of possession of the thing sold, to the consumer, paid in currency passed from hand to hand by the consumer or his agent to the vendor or his agent, the vendor or his agent shall:

1. Collect the tax with and at the same time as the price.
2. Immediately cancel in the presence of the buyer by immediately tearing into two parts a prepaid tax receipt or receipts of the proper face value, deliver one part of each such canceled prepaid tax receipt to the consumer or his agent, and retain the other part thereof.

(b) If the price is otherwise paid or to be paid, the vendor or his agent shall, at or prior to the delivery of possession of the thing sold, to the consumer, cancel or cause to be canceled by tearing into two parts prepaid tax receipts equal in face value to the amount of the tax imposed by this act. Thereupon and thereby the amount of the tax with respect to such sale, payment of which to the State is evidenced by such cancellation, shall become a legal charge in favor of the vendor and against the consumer, which shall in every case be collected by the vendor, as herein provided, in addition to the price; and at or immediately after such collection, the vendor shall deliver one part of each such canceled prepaid tax receipt to the consumer and retain the other part thereof.

SEC. 9. Prepaid tax receipts required by this act shall be issued by the board in such denominations as the board may deem necessary. They shall be printed on durable paper, be of different design and distinctly different coloring for each of such denominations represented thereby.

SEC. 10. The board shall design and procure the prepaid tax receipts herein provided for. The board shall enforce and administer the provisions of this act. It shall have power to adopt and promulgate such rules and regulations as it may deem necessary to carry out the provisions of this act, and without prejudice to the generality of the powers of the board by virtue of the foregoing provisions, the board may:

(a) Prescribe the form and manner of canceling prepaid tax receipts consistent with the provisions of this act.

(b) Authorize a vendor to prepay the tax levied by this act upon sales of things produced or distributed by such vendor, and waive the collection of the tax from the consumer in the manner otherwise provided in this act; but no such authority shall be granted or exercised excepting upon application to the board and unless the board shall, after hearing, advance notice of which must be given by the board to all vendors in the same general classification as the applicant, find that the conditions of the applicant's business are such as to render impracticable the collection of the tax in the manner otherwise provided by this act and upon the applicant furnishing a bond payable to the State of California in such amount as the board may determine to be sufficient to secure the prepayment of the taxes levied by this act in the manner desired, with surety to the satisfaction of the State Controller, with whom such bond shall be filed; nor shall the authority so granted be exercised nor the vendor or vendors actually selling such products be exempted from the other provisions of this act by virtue thereof unless the person to whom such authority is granted shall print plainly upon the product sold or offered for sale, a statement to the effect that the tax levied by this act has been paid in advance.

(c) Upon written request of a vendor, authorize the use of mechanical devices or meters approved by it, in lieu of prepaid tax receipts, for the purpose of establishing the accountability for the tax collected and providing a tax receipt to consumers.

SEC. 11. In the event prepaid purchases are returned to the vendor by the consumer after the tax imposed by this act has been collected or charged to the account of the consumer, the vendor shall be entitled to reimbursement of the amount of the tax so collected or charged by him, either through the cancellation of prepaid tax receipts paid for by the consumer, or through the canceling of prepaid tax receipts paid for by the vendor and charged to the account of the consumer, in the manner herein provided. Upon receipt of a sworn statement by the vendor as to the gross amount of such refunds, during the period covered by such sworn statement, which period shall not be longer than sixty days, the board shall issue to the vendor an official credit memorandum equal to the net amount paid by the vendor for such canceled prepaid tax receipts. Such memorandum shall be accepted by any county treasurer, or by any agent of the board at full face value, from the vendor to whom it is issued, in the purchase of prepaid tax receipts under the provisions of section 12 of this act.

SEC. 12. The board shall be responsible for the custody and distribution of the prepaid tax receipts provided for herein. It may appoint agents for the sale of prepaid tax receipts at such places in the State as it may deem expedient, fix their compensation, payable from any appropriation made for the purpose of administering the provisions of this act, and require of each agent such bond or other security as it may deem necessary. It shall deliver to each county treasurer such number and denomination of prepaid tax receipts as in its judgment may be required for sale in each county or city and county, pursuant to this act, and may prescribe such regulations and forms of receipts and reports as it may deem necessary and advisable for the transaction of the business of selling such prepaid tax receipts.

SEC. 13. Each county treasurer shall pay, on the first business day of each week, to the board all moneys arising from the sale of prepaid tax receipts by him during the preceding week. At the same time each county treasurer shall transmit a report showing all sales, the name of purchasers, and the aggregate face value purchased by each.

Each county treasurer shall retain for the use of the general fund of the county or city and county, an amount equal to one-tenth of one per centum of the proceeds of such sales. All the powers and duties hereby imposed upon the county treasurer shall be deemed and considered to be within the scope of his office as county treasurer for all purposes.

The agents appointed by the board for the sale of prepaid tax receipts shall transmit all moneys received by them at such times and in such manner as the board may direct.

SEC. 14. The board, its agents, and the several county treasurers shall sell prepaid tax receipts only to licensed vendors. All such prepaid tax receipts shall be sold and accounted for at a discount of not to exceed three per centum of the face value thereof, as a commission for handling and cancelling such prepaid tax receipts. The board shall by regulation, fix within the limitations herein prescribed the rate of discount applicable to the sale of prepaid tax receipts to such classes of licensed vendors as it may establish.

SEC. 15. The county treasurers shall redeem and pay for any unused or spoiled tax receipts at the net value thereof on written verified request made by any licensed vendor, his administrators, executors, successors or assigns. Such payments shall be made from current collections. Each county treasurer shall be entitled to deduct from the amount transmitted by him to the board any amounts so paid by him.

upon the delivery to the board of such unused or spoiled tax receipts accompanied by the written verified request provided for herein.

SEC. 16. Within five days after the issuance of his license, it shall be the duty of each such licensed vendor to purchase and have on hand at all times prepaid tax receipts in suitable denominations and in amount sufficient to supply the normal requirements of his business. A licensed vendor shall procure prepaid tax receipts only from the board, or its agents authorized to sell such receipts, or the treasurer of the county in which he is licensed.

SEC. 17. After July 1, 1935, no person shall engage in making retail sales as herein defined, as a business, without having a license therefor, excepting that in the case of the dissolution of a partnership by death, the surviving partner or partners may operate under the license of the partnership for a period of sixty days, and the heirs or legal representatives of deceased persons, and receivers and trustees in bankruptcy, appointed by any competent authority, may operate under the license of the person so succeeded in possession by such heir, representative, receiver, or trustee in bankruptcy; and excepting further that two or more persons constituting a single "vendor" as defined by section 2 of this act may operate a single retail establishment under one license, and in such case neither the retirement of one or more such persons from business in such establishment, nor the entrance of one or more therein, under an existing arrangement, shall affect the license or require the issuance of a new license.

SEC. 18. Every person desiring to engage in or transact business as a vendor of tangible personal property within this State shall file with the board an application for a permit or permits. Every application for such a permit shall be made upon a form prescribed by the board and shall set forth the name under which the applicant transacts or intends to transact business, the location of his place or places of business, and such other information as the board may require. The application shall be signed by the owner if a natural person, in the case of an association or partnership, by a member or partner thereof, in the case of a corporation, by an executive officer thereof or some person specifically authorized by the corporation to sign the application, to which shall be attached the written evidence of his authority. Any person who engages in the business of selling tangible personal property at retail in this State without a permit or permits or after a permit has been suspended, and the officers of any corporation which shall so sell, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 19. At the time of making such application, the applicant shall pay to the board a permit fee of one dollar for each permit, and the applicant must have a permit for each place of business.

SEC. 20. Upon the payment of the permit fee or fees herein required, the board shall grant and issue to each applicant a permit for each place of business within the State. A permit is not assignable and shall be valid only for the person on whose name it is issued and for the transaction of business at the place designated therein. It shall at all times be conspicuously displayed at the place for which issued.

SEC. 21. Permits issued under the provisions of this act shall be valid and effective without further payment of fees until suspended or revoked by the board.

The board shall charge a fee of one dollar for the removal of assurance of a permit to a retailer whose permit has been previously suspended or revoked.

SEC. 22. Whenever the holder of a permit fails to comply with any of the provisions of this act or any rules or regulations of the board prescribed and adopted under this act, the board upon hearing after giving ten days' notice in writing of the time and place of the hearing to show cause why his permit should not be revoked, may revoke or suspend the permit.

SEC. 23. Each vendor shall keep such records of sales together with invoices, bills of lading, retained parts of canceled prepaid tax receipts, and such other pertinent documents, in such form as the board may by regulation require. Such records and other documents shall be open at any time during business hours to the inspection of the board and shall be preserved for a period of three years, unless the board shall in writing consent to their destruction within that period, or by order require that they be kept longer.

SEC. 24. In case any vendor fails to collect the tax herein imposed, or, having collected the tax, fails to cancel the prepaid tax receipts in the manner prescribed by this act and by the regulations of the board, he shall be personally liable for such amount as he failed to collect or for the amount of the prepaid tax receipts which he failed to cancel. In such case the board shall have power to make an assessment against such vendor based upon any information within its possession or that may come into its possession. If any part of the deficiency for which such assessment is imposed is due to negligence or intentional disregard of this act or authorized rules and regulations thereunder, a penalty of five per cent of the amount of such assessment shall be added. If any part of the deficiency for which such assessment is imposed is due to fraud or an intent to evade the tax, a penalty of twenty-five per cent of the amount of such assessment shall be added. The board shall give to the vendor written notice of such assessment. Such notice may be served upon the vendor personally or by mail; if by mail, service shall be made in the manner prescribed by section 1013 of the Code of Civil Procedure and addressed to the vendor at his address as the same appears in the records of the board. The vendor shall have the right to petition for reassessment of any such tax found, determined and declared by the board pursuant to and in accordance with the provisions of this section.

Sec. 25. Any vendor against whom an assessment is made by the board under the provisions of section 24 hereof may petition for a reassessment thereof within fifteen days after service upon the vendor of notice thereof. If a petition for reassessment is not filed within said fifteen-day period the amount of the assessment becomes final at the expiration thereof.

If a petition for reassessment is filed within said fifteen-day period the board shall reconsider the assessment, and if the vendor has so requested in his petition, shall grant said vendor an oral hearing and shall give the vendor ten days' notice of the time and place thereof. The board shall have power to continue the hearing from time to time as may be necessary.

The order or decision of the board upon a petition for reassessment shall become final sixty days after service upon the vendor of notice thereof unless the retailer brings a proceeding for the review thereof under the provisions of section 38 hereof.

Any notice required by this section shall be served personally or by mail in the same manner as prescribed for service of notice by the provisions of section 24 hereof.

Sec. 26. Except in the case of a fraudulent return, or neglect or refusal to make a return, every notice of additional tax proposed to be assessed hereunder shall be mailed to the vendor within three years after the return was filed.

Sec. 27. All assessments made by the board under the provisions of section 24 hereof shall become due and payable at the time they become final and if not paid when due and payable there shall be added thereto a penalty of five per cent of the amount of the tax and interest on the amount of the tax at the rate of one per cent per month, or fraction thereof, from that date until the date of payment.

Sec. 28. The board shall report to the Controller every assessment made under this act, and he shall keep a record thereof.

Sec. 29. In any case in which any tax, interest or penalty imposed under this act is not paid when due the board may file for record in the recorder's office of any county a notice of lien specifying the amount of the tax, interest or penalty due and the name of the vendor liable for the same. From the time of filing any such notice the amount of the tax specified in such notice shall have the force and effect of the lien of a judgment against the vendor named in said notice of lien for the amount specified in such notice. Such lien may be released by filing for record in the offices of the county recorder of a release thereof executed by the board upon payment of the tax, interest and penalties or upon receipt by the board of security sufficient to secure payment thereof, but no such release shall be deemed a waiver of any tax, interest or penalty levied or assessed under this act and due and payable or to become due and payable by such vendor.

In the event that any vendor is delinquent in the payment of the tax herein provided for the board may give notice of the amount of such delinquency by registered mail to all persons having in their possession, or under their control, any credits or other personal property belonging to such vendor, or owing any debts to such vendor at the time of receipt by them of such notice and thereafter any person so notified shall neither transfer nor make any other disposition of such credits, other personal property, or debts until the board shall have consented to a transfer or disposition, or until twenty days shall have elapsed from and after the receipt of such notice. All persons so notified must, within five days after receipt of such notice, advise the board of any and all such credits, other personal property or debts, in their possession, under their control or owing by them, as the case may be.

At any time within two years after any vendor is delinquent in the payment of the tax herein provided for, the board may proceed forthwith to collect the tax due from the vendor in the following manner: The board shall seize any property, real or personal, subject to the lien of said tax, and thereafter sell at public auction such property so seized, or a sufficient portion thereof, to pay the tax due hereunder, together with any interest or penalties imposed hereby for such delinquency, and any and all costs that may have been incurred on account of such seizure and sale. Notice of such intended sale and the time and place thereof, shall be given to such delinquent vendor and to all persons appearing of record to have an interest in such property in writing at least ten days before the date set for such sale by enclosing such notice in an envelope addressed to such vendor at his last known residence or place of business in this State if any, and in the case of any person appearing of record to have an interest in such property addressed to each person at the last known place of residence, if any, and depositing the same in the United States mail, postage prepaid, and by publication for at least ten days before the date set for such sale in a newspaper of general circulation published in the county or city and county in which the property seized is to be sold; provided, that if there be no newspaper of general circulation in such county or city and county, then by the posting of such notice in three public places in such county or city and county ten days prior to the date set for such sale. The said notice shall contain a description of the property to be sold, together with a statement of the amount of the taxes, interest, penalties and costs, the name of the vendor, and the further statement that unless such taxes, interest and penalties and costs are paid on or before the time fixed in said notice for such sale, said property, or so much thereof as may be necessary, will be sold in accordance with law and said notice.

At any such sale, the property shall be sold by the board in accordance with law and said notice, and the board shall deliver to the purchaser a bill of sale for the personal property, and a deed for any real property so sold, and such bill of sale or deed shall vest the interest or title of the vendor in the purchaser. The unsold portion of any property so seized may be left at the place of sale at the risk of the vendor. If, upon any such sale, the moneys so received shall exceed the amount of all taxes, interest, penalties and costs due the State from such vendor, any such excess shall be returned to the vendor, and his receipt therefor obtained; provided, however, that if any person having an interest or lien upon the property has filed with the board prior to any such sale notice of such interest or lien the board shall withhold any such excess pending a determination of the rights of the respective parties thereto by a court of competent jurisdiction. If, for any reason, the receipt of such vendor shall not be available, the board shall deposit such excess moneys with the State Treasurer, as trustee for such owner, subject to the order of such vendor, his heirs, successors or assigns.

It is expressly provided that the foregoing remedies of the State shall be cumulative and that no action taken by the board or Attorney General shall be construed to be an election on the part of the State or any of its officers to pursue any remedy hereunder to the exclusion of any other remedy for which provisions is made in this act.

SEC. 30. At any time within three years after the delinquency of any tax, the board may bring an action in a court of competent jurisdiction in the name of the people of the State of California to collect the amount delinquent, together with penalties. The Attorney General must prosecute such action, and the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure relating to service of summonses, pleadings, process, trials and appeals are applicable to the proceedings hereby provided for. In such action a writ of attachment may issue, and no bond or affidavit previous to the issuing of said attachment is required. In such action a certificate by the board showing the delinquency shall be prima facie evidence of the levy of the tax, of the delinquency and of compliance by the board with all provisions of this act in relation to the computation and levy of the tax.

SEC. 31. No injunction or writ of mandate or other legal or equitable process shall issue in any suit, action or proceeding in any court against the State or against any officer thereof to prevent or enjoin under this act the collection of any tax sought to be collected, but after payment of any such tax under protest, duly verified and setting forth the grounds of objection to the legality of such tax, the vendor paying such tax may bring an action against the State Treasurer in a court of competent jurisdiction in the county of Sacramento for the recovery of the tax so paid under protest. No such action may be instituted more than sixty days after the tax becomes due and payable, and failure to bring suit within said sixty days shall constitute waiver of any and all demands against this State on account of alleged overpayment of taxes hereunder. No grounds of illegality of the tax shall be considered by the court other than those set forth in the protest filed at the time of the payment of the tax.

If in any such action judgment is rendered for the plaintiff, the amount of the judgment shall first be credited on any taxes due from the plaintiff under this act, and the balance of the judgment shall be refunded to the plaintiff. In any such judgment, interest shall be allowed at the rate of six per cent per annum upon the amount of tax found to have been illegally collected from the date of payment of such tax to the date of allowance of credit on account of such judgment or to a date preceding the date of the refund warrant by not more than thirty days, such date to be determined by the Controller.

In no case shall any judgment be rendered in favor of the plaintiff in any action brought against the State Treasurer to recover any tax paid hereunder, when such action is brought by or in the name of an assignee of the vendor paying said tax, or by any person other than the vendor who has paid such tax.

SEC. 32. Whoever falsely or fraudulently makes, forges, alters, or counterfeits any prepaid tax receipt prescribed by the board under the provisions of this act, or knowingly and wilfully utters, publishes, passes, or renders as true, any such false, altered, forged or counterfeited receipt shall be imprisoned in the State prison for a term of not less than one year or more than ten years.

SEC. 33. Whoever, being a vendor, as defined in this act, fails, neglects, or refuses to collect the full and exact tax as required by this act, or fails, neglects, or refuses to comply with the provisions of this act and the rules and regulations of the board with respect to the cancellation of prepaid tax receipts, or excepting as expressly authorized pursuant to this act, refunds, remits or rebates to a consumer, either directly or indirectly and by whatsoever means, all or any part of the tax levied by this act, or makes in any form of advertising, verbal or otherwise, any statements which might infer that he is absorbing the tax or paying the tax for the consumer by an adjustment of prices, or at a price including the tax, or in any other manner whatsoever shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars, and upon conviction for a second or other subsequent offense, shall, if a corporation, be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or if an individual or a member of a partnership, firm, or association, be fined not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars, or imprisoned in the county jail, not more than sixty days, or both.

SEC. 34. Whoever violates any provision of this act or any lawful rule or regulation promulgated by the board under authority of this act for the violation of which no penalty is otherwise expressly provided by law, shall be fined not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars.

SEC. 35. It shall be unlawful for the board, or any person having an administrative duty under this act to divulge or to make known in any manner whatever, the business affairs, operations, or information obtained by an investigation of records and equipment of any vendor visited or examined in the discharge of official duty, or the amount or source of income, profits, losses, expenditures or any particular thereof, set forth or disclosed in any return, or to permit any return or any copy thereof or any book containing any abstract or particulars claimed to be seen or examined by any person except as provided by law; provided, however, that the Governor may authorize examination of such returns by other State officers, by tax officers of another State, or by the Federal Government, if a reciprocal arrangement exists, and any other persons the Governor may so authorize.

Any violations of the provisions of this section shall be a misdemeanor and be punished by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both, at the discretion of the court.

SEC. 36. Any vendor failing or refusing to furnish any return hereby required to be made, or failing or refusing to furnish a supplemental return, or other data required by the board, or rendering a false or fraudulent return, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to a fine of not exceeding five hundred dollars for each such offense.

SEC. 37. Any person required to make, render, sign or verify any report as aforesaid, who makes any false or fraudulent return, with intent to defraud or evade the assessment required by law to be made, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall for each such offense be fined not less than three hundred dollars and not more than five hundred dollars or be imprisoned not exceeding one year in the county jail or be subject to both said fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court.

SEC. 38. Every order, decision or other official act of the board shall be subject to review in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 1, Title I of Part III of the Code of Civil Procedure if the proceeding is brought within sixty days after service of notice of such order, decision or other official act. Upon such review the court shall be limited to a consideration and determination of the question whether there has been an abuse of discretion on the part of the board in making such order, decision or other official act. The person prosecuting for a review of any order, decision or other official act of the board shall pay the cost of the preparation of any transcript or transcripts of the records or proceedings of the board that the board may be required to furnish in the proceeding instituted by the vendor under the provisions of this section.

SEC. 39. All fees, taxes, interest and penalties imposed under this act must be paid to the board in the form of remittances payable to the Treasurer of the State of California, and said board shall transmit such payments daily to the State Treasurer to be deposited in the State treasury to the credit of the "Retail sales tax fund," which fund is hereby created.

SEC. 40. For expenditure by the board in carrying out the provisions of this act there is hereby appropriated a sum of money equal to _____ dollars plus _____ per cent, or so much thereof as may be necessary, of all other moneys deposited in the retail sales tax fund; said _____ dollars being payable out of moneys in the general fund not otherwise appropriated being payable out of the retail sales tax fund; provided, that, out of said two per cent of said other moneys deposited in the retail sales tax fund and on or before June 30, 1937, the sum of _____ dollars shall be returned into the general fund.

For expenditure by the Controller in carrying out the provisions of this act there is hereby appropriated out of the retail sales tax fund the sum of _____ dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary.

The balance of the moneys in the retail sales tax fund shall, upon order of the State Controller, be drawn therefrom for the purpose of refunding to the taxpayers hereunder or be transferred to the general fund of the State.

SEC. 41. If any section, subsection, clause, sentence or phrase of this act which is reasonably separable from the remaining portions of this act is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the remaining portions of this act. The Legislature hereby declares that it would have passed the remaining portions of this act irrespective of the fact that any such section, subsection, clause, sentence or phrase of this act be declared unconstitutional.

Sec. 42. This act, inasmuch as it provides for a tax levy for the usual current expenses of the State, shall, under the provisions of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution, take effect immediately."

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, and re-referred to Committee on Revenue and Taxation

Senate Bill No. 78.—An act to authorize the creation and establishment of a public utilities commission within any city, county and other local governmental agency or political subdivision, and to authorize the issuance and sale of revenue bonds for the purpose of defraying costs of construction and/or acquisition of public utilities and extensions and additions to public utilities for the production, purchase, sale and distribution of products, commodities, energy and/or services of such public utilities, providing for the payment of such bonds and the interest thereon.

Consideration of Committee Amendments.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Municipal Corporations, the following amendments to Senate Bill No. 78 were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1, line 7, of the printed bill, strike out the second word "of", before the word "operating", and insert in lieu thereof the following: "for".

On page 11, line 19, of the printed bill, following the period after the word "rejected", insert the following: "Any resolution or resolutions authorizing the issuance of bonds under this act may contain covenants as to (a) the purposes or purposes to which the proceeds of sale of said bonds may be applied and the use and disposition thereof, (b) the use and disposition of the revenues of the utility for which said bonds are to be issued, including the creation and maintenance of reserves, (c) the transfer from the general funds of the city, county or other local governmental agency to the account or accounts of the utility an amount equal to the cost of furnishing such city, county or other local governmental agency or any of its departments, boards or agencies with the supplies, facilities and commodities of said utility, (d) the issuance of other or additional bonds payable from the revenue of said utility, (e) the operation and maintenance of such utility, (f) the insurance to be carried thereon and the use and disposition of insurance monies, (g) books of account and the inspection and audit thereof, and (h) the terms and conditions upon which the holders of said bonds or any proportion of them or any trustee thereof shall be entitled to the appointment of a receiver by the superior court, which court shall have jurisdiction in such proceedings, and which receiver may enter and take possession of said utility, operate and maintain the same, prescribe rates, fees or charges and collect, receive and apply all revenues therefrom arising therefrom in the same manner as the city, county or other local governmental agency itself might do. The provisions of this act and any such resolution or resolutions shall be a contract with the holder or holders of said bonds, and the duties of the city, county or other local governmental agency and of its governing body and officers, including the public utilities commissioners thereof, under this act and any such resolution or resolutions shall be enforceable by any bondholder, by mandamus or other appropriate suit, action or proceeding in any court of competent jurisdiction."

Amendment No. 28.

On page 11, line 48, following the period after the word "law", add the following: "All bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be legal investments for all trust funds, and for the funds of all insurance companies, banks, both commercial and savings, and trust companies, and for the State school funds, and whenever any moneys or funds may by law now or hereafter enacted be invested in bonds of cities, cities and counties, counties, or school districts, in the State of California, such moneys or funds may be invested in the bonds issued under this act; and whenever bonds of cities, cities and counties, counties, or school districts may by any law now or hereafter enacted be issued as security for the performance of any act or as security for the deposit of public funds of the State or of any county, city and county, municipality, or other public corporation or political subdivision in any State or National bank or banks, bonds issued under this act may be so used."

Bonds issued under this act to the same extent as other securities referred to in section 4 of the act hereinafter referred to shall be legal for use by the State or National bank or other depository in this State as security for public funds, both active and inactive, in accordance with the provisions of that certain act entitled, "An act to authorize and control the deposit in banks of money belonging to or in custody of any county, city and county, city, town, municipality or other political subdivision within this State, and to repeal all acts or parts of acts in conflict with this act," approved May 24, 1927, and any act or acts amendatory thereof.

Bonds issued under this act shall in the same manner be legal for use by any State or National bank or banks in this State as security for deposits of State funds, both active and inactive, in accordance with the provisions of that certain act entitled, "An act to authorize and control the deposit in banks of money belonging to or in the custody of the State and to repeal all acts or parts of acts in conflict with this act," approved April 12, 1923, and any act or acts amendatory thereof."

Amendment No. 29.

On page 12, line 34, of the printed bill, following the period after the word "law", insert the following: "All bonds of the same issue shall, subject to the prior and superior rights of outstanding bonds, claims or obligations, have a prior and paramount lien on the revenue of the utility, for which said bonds have been issued, over and ahead of all bonds of any issue payable from said revenue which may be subsequently issued and over and ahead of any claims or obligations of any nature against said revenue subsequently arising or subsequently incurred. All bonds of the same issue shall be equally and ratably secured without priority by reason of number, date of bonds, of sale, of execution, or of delivery, by a lien on said revenue in accordance with the provisions of this act and the resolution or resolutions authorizing said bonds."

Amendment No. 30.

On page 14, line 41, of the printed bill, after the word "bond", insert the word "fund".

Amendment No. 31.

On page 16, line 32, of the printed bill, following the word "State", insert the following: "An annual report conforming as closely as practicable to the form of report and classification of assets and liabilities, income, disbursements and accounts (excepting capital accounts) as established by the Railroad Commission of this State shall be filed with the State Controller. Said annual report shall be made upon the forms provided thereto by said Railroad Commission. A qualified professional accountant, not an officer or employee of such Public Utilities Commission or of the city, county or other local governmental agency making such report shall be engaged by said commission to certify to the correctness of each such annual report. In such certificate such accountant shall certify that he has made an examination of the books of account and records of such commission or of the local governmental agency pertaining to public utilities, without personal supervision of inventories or independent appraisal of assets and that, to the best of his knowledge and belief, such annual report is in accordance with correct accounting practice and fairly reflects the true condition of the assets and liabilities and the operations thereof for the period embraced therein."

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, and re-referred to Committee on Municipal Corporations.

Report of Special Committee.

The following report of Special Committee on Investigation of the High Cost of Sickness was received and ordered printed in the Journal.

REPORT OF THE
SENATE COMMITTEE ON INVESTIGATION OF THE HIGH COST OF SICKNESS.

To the Senate of the State of California at its Fifty-first Session, April 12, 1935.

Under authority of the Senate of the State of California and pursuant to a resolution passed by the Senate at the fiftieth session of the California Legislature, the Senate Committee on the Investigation of the High Cost of Sickness appointed by Hon. Frank F. Merriam, respectfully submits the following report:

The committee was required

"to investigate and report at the next session of the Legislature (to be held in 1935) as to the advisability of a health insurance act for the reduction of the high cost of sickness, and if, in the opinion of said committee, such an act be advisable to accompany its report by a draft of a bill therefor."

In undertaking this investigation, your Senate committee, acting in the interests of the State, had as its primary purpose the ascertainment of accurate information on all practical phases of the question in order to do something in a constructive, legislative way for the general welfare of the people. It is no exaggeration to say that the committee was confronted with one of the most vital and urgent questions before the people. We recognized the magnitude and complexity of the problems involved. We aimed to consider from every practical angle the reasons for the high cost of sickness, and, in so far as it might be measured, we tried to analyze the effect of such high costs on public welfare and the health interests of groups most affected.

The health of every citizen is a matter of vital concern to the State and it is the fundamental duty and supreme law of the State to provide for the safety of society. The high cost of sickness is of common cognizance and the increasing need for some solution of this problem is generally recognized. The inevitable consequences of the high cost of sickness are incalculably injurious to the interests of the State.

In conducting this investigation of the high cost of sickness the Senate committee was not committed to any hypothesis, formula, remedy or preconceived plan. We had no prejudice or bias and no interest to govern us in the discharge of our duty except the public interest.

As pointed out by Senator Tickle in Appendix A of this report, this Senate committee is unique indeed. Its work has been wholly a free inquiry. It has not cost the State a dollar. The committee did not receive any appropriation and the members have contributed their time and their money to this investigation of the high cost of sickness. One unique feature of this investigating committee is that it has really functioned for two years without funds.

Congress some years ago created a National Board of Health, whose duty it was to investigate the causes and means of prevention of contagious and infectious diseases, to indicate measures of National importance, and to be a distributing center of information relating to public health. The National Board of Health, composed of distinguished men, died a premature death from lack of nutrition popularly known as "an appropriation."

The Legislature gave no appropriation but the committee was empowered to obtain funds from philanthropists and foundations and anyone interested in such practical welfare work.

The concluding paragraph of the resolution adopted by the Senate is as follows.

"In order to enable the committee to make a comprehensive investigation of this vital problem, the committee is hereby authorized to accept donations from philanthropic persons, foundations, and others interested in this constructive work and to expend such donations in carrying out the purposes hereof."

This authorization of the California Senate was plainly predicated on the belief that certain foundations, philanthropists and others interested would welcome the opportunity to make ample contributions to carry on this work. This assumption was warranted because certain well-financed foundations had expressed such active interest in the subject and were spending much money to ascertain what could be done in a legislative way.

Two typical replies which the committee received from richly endowed foundations (names of which will be given to the Legislature upon request) are partially quoted here:

"MY DEAR SENATOR WILLIAMS: As you probably know the ----- Foundation contributed to the expenses of the Committee on the Costs of Medical Care. The nature of that committee's work was in large measure to ascertain what the facts are. The factual material was supplemented by a report with an interpretation of the possible significance and importance of the facts revealed. The contribution to the comprehensive study of medical economies has been so large, that it is not likely we should be in a position to be of aid."

"DEAR SENATOR WILLIAMS: I was greatly interested to learn from Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur of the appointment of your committee. I feel you have an opportunity to make an important contribution to social legislation and I sincerely hope that California will set an example for other States to follow. I regret to say, however, that ----- is too fully committed that it is not in a position to make an appropriation toward the expenses of your committee."

We shall, of course, be glad to put at your disposal the results of our studies now in progress. The first of these, which is almost completed, will analyze the existing situation in the United States, supplementing the report of the Committee on the Costs of Medical Care; the second, which will be published early next year, will contain a critical analysis of health insurance and other methods of dealing with the problem in Europe and the United States; and the third, to be published later in 1934, will contain a comprehensive plan for one or more typical States. We shall be glad to send you our reports as they are issued, and our staff will be glad to supplement these by expert advice at your request, in so far as we are in a position to do so."

The Senate committee was not discouraged by the adverse action of philanthropic foundations and altruistic associations. Upon inquiry we found the committee growing among discriminating legislators and well-informed progressive physicians that some of these highly endowed foundations and associations, while trying to impress the public that they are sincerely interested in doing something to solve the very vital problem which this Senate committee is now handling, and unsparingly striving to solve, always avoid any practical steps that may be taken, and they succeed. They seem to prefer futile discussion of plans which no well-informed observer believes will ever be operative.

After the expensive studies and analyses of health insurance and other methods of dealing with the problem in Europe and elsewhere, and much professional theoretical plans for unnamed States to adopt, we find that substantial results are no nearer. To judge the lack of effectiveness of their methods, we need only to look at the lack of results. They are acting as if writing treatises and recording reports of surveys were real remedies. All their pretension is no remedy at all, but an aggravation of the problem. We know that this problem has not been solved in any State despite all their surveys, and they are waiting for "California to set an example for other States to follow."

The policy adopted by the committee is expressed in Appendix A: "We shall preserve the spirit of free inquiry to the end, and we will not accept any funds with any strings attached to them. We have no axes to grind and we are not going to grind any axes for others. We are going ahead without being open to the accusation that we are subsidized for the promotion of any special theory or group. This question vitally concerns everyone who gets sick and all who pay the bills, and that includes all of us."

In all our approaches to the problem we shall maintain a fair and open-minded attitude and we shall make a sincere and devoted effort to find a sound basis for legislation that will neither invade rights nor impair services but that will provide adequate care for the sick and improve the health and well-being of the State."

The committee was empowered by the resolution to choose its own officers and we drafted Dr. Celestine J. Sullivan as best qualified by vision, knowledge and experience to serve as our coordinator-secretary. He has been serving steadily and efficiently with the committee without any remuneration and at personal sacrifice of time, talent, and money.

Volumes could be filled with the data which has been accumulated by our fact-finding inquiries. We can not attempt to recount all the important meetings, conferences, discussions, correspondence, oral and written evidence obtained, analyses of reports, studies, surveys, to which members of the committee gave their attention during this two-year investigation. Each member of the committee did not concern himself equally with the actual investigation and the laborious process of reading reports, reviewing the literature and sympathetically and diplomatically discussing controversial aspects of the question with conflicting interests. Senator Tickle and the coordinator-secretary did this important work. It would be beyond the scope of this committee to set down in writing all the facts and aspects of this social, economic and paramount health problem. It would be impractical.

even if it were possible, to recite in detail in this report all of the evidence which proves how tragically inadequate is the present system of medical care. We must say very frankly that little of practical value can be accomplished unless the Legislature realizes that the present system is inadequate and demands a remedy. The problem is difficult and complex but the committee believes that in health service insurance is a satisfactory solution and that it is imperative for the State to adopt this practical measure to protect the health of its citizens and surround them with adequate care when sick.

It is already recognized by the Legislature that certain diseases and certain classes of the community can not be given adequate care by private enterprise. Should the State be impartial to all its citizens, play no favorites, and, because of governmental responsibility, see to it that all who can not pay under the present system are treated adequately? What are the real costs of sickness and who really pays them? How and why have present conditions come about? Why is the cost of sickness so high? Why is the care of so many sick citizens inadequate? What are the present tendencies, whither are they leading, and, with due consideration for all the human factors and vested interests involved, what should the State do to solve health problems which concern more vitally than anything else the stamina, usefulness, and happiness of its citizens?

Your committee has secured competent answers to these and many other essential questions relating to the subject of the high cost of sickness and we believe that the dependable evidence in this report is sufficient for the Legislature to reach a just judgment.

Health Comes First.

Man has had health problems from the primeval period when life evolved and he began to metabolize atoms of oxygen, nitrogen and carbon, and construct for himself a community of cells having specialized functions, cooperative interests, and central government. Health always has been the most priceless possession, but too often it is appreciated only after it has been lost. The question of health is that of life itself, because when health is lost the joys of living depart and life becomes a burden. The pursuit of happiness and the enjoyment of success depend first of all on health. As health is the most valuable asset that the citizen has, the health of the people is the most valuable of all the resources of the State.

A great statesman proclaimed: "The health of the people is really the foundation upon which all their happiness and their powers as a State depend." Holy Writ says: "Health and good estate of body are above all gold, and a strong body above infinite wealth."

Public health in a given community depends upon the personal health of each individual. The individual is the foundation upon which the public health is built. In order for health officials to deal effectively with community conditions, it must first be known what diseases are present. The causes of ill health are of great importance to health officers and physicians in their scientific preventive and curative work. The importance of taking necessary steps to safeguard and improve the health of the people has been recognized by every session of the California Legislature. The protection and conservation of health and the care of the sick is a matter in which the State must be interested for its own welfare. For this reason the Legislature enacted health laws, medical practice laws, nursing laws, pure food laws. For health reasons the Legislature appropriated millions for medical schools and hospitals, child hygiene, epidemiology, canning inspection, dairy and poultry, fruit and vegetable and meat and mattress inspection services; also for bovine tuberculosis control and tuberculosis subsidies for humans.

While all agree that health is of primary importance, we are too prone to place health matters as secondary to the claims of property and profit. The rights of property are, of course, important, but health service insurance must be determined by the same criterion that is justly applied to every other method or rule of distribution, namely, social and individual consequences. Citizens are not subordinate to profit-making.

Governor Merriam in his inaugural address, January 8, 1935, said: "Human needs demand and should receive first consideration; they must be served as long as society exists and government is maintained. To such service we must bring not alone the words of our mouths and the wishes of our hearts; we must contribute the labor of our hands and the intelligent and practical attention of our minds. . . . the wider and greater enjoyment of social justice and basic human rights should have, and must have, our undivided, unremitting, and unselfish care. To the care of the disabled, the aged, and the sick, every consideration should be given. There is an obligation here which as a people we have never fully understood or assumed. In the future, society will meet this responsibility not only in justice to the individual, but as a protection to society itself."

Governor Merriam spoke soundly. There is an obligation here which as a people we never fully understood or assumed. The Senate committee appointed by Governor Merriam to investigate the care of the disabled and the sick has the facts to prove the obligation of the State, and we are asking the State to fulfill its obligation and meet this responsibility not only in justice to the individual (which our tables show in serious need) but as a protection to society itself.

Lieutenant Governor George J. Hatfield in his inaugural address urged "a proper regard for human rights and human needs, for human suffering and distress. . . . 'I am appealing,' said the Lieutenant Governor, 'for a new spirit of cooperation in solving common problems; a new appreciation of the other fellow's problems and a recognition that human need must come first in the new scheme of things, regardless of the cost and regardless even of a balanced or an unbalanced budget. . . . Those who have must pay toward the support of those who have not. . . . A policy which places human rights above property rights and man above the dollar.'"

The most transcendent of human needs as well as the most fundamental factor in life and let live is health, for without it nothing else in life matters much. The average length of human life in the sixteenth century, when health work occupied a place of minor importance, was between 18 and 20 years, and at the close of the eighteenth century it was still less than 25 years. At the close of the nineteenth century it was between 45 and 48 years, whereas, today it varies in different countries from less than 25 in India, where the average remains only about 24 years—to 60 years in New Zealand and 58 years in the United States. The best available figures show that the span of life in this country has been lengthened 17 years since 1870.

The epoch making discoveries of Pasteur, Koch, and others from 1870 to 1890 gave a new impetus to legislative interest in health affairs.

The bacillus of anthrax was discovered by Davaine. In 1873 Obermayer discovered the spirochaetes of relapsing fever; in 1875 Louis Pasteur discovered the bacillus of malignant edema; in 1879 Neisser isolated the pneumococcus of gonorrhea; in 1880 Sternberg discovered the organism causing psittacosis; and in the same year Ehrlich isolated the bacillus of typhoid fever. In June 1882 Koch discovered the tubercle bacillus, and in 1884 the spirillae of cholera. Other important discoveries, such as the plasmodium of malarial fever, were made in the eighties by Laveran. In 1894 Yersin and Kitasato discovered the bacillus of bubonic plague. The spirochaetes that are the cause of yellow fever were isolated in 1929 by Noguchi.

With the development of bacteriology, practically since 1870, modern preventive medicine had its birth, and we know that the diseases mentioned above, as also glanders, tetanus, leprosy, erysipelas, wound and postoperative infections, cerebrospinal meningitis, influenza, dysentery, and typhus fever, are caused by living organisms, capable of reproduction within the body.

The great white plague was the name formerly given to tuberculosis. Through the centuries it was a leading cause of sickness and death. Robert Koch's discovery of the tubercle bacillus that causes tuberculosis was announced for the first time at a time when consumption was the captain of the men of death. One out of seven died of it, and if only those were counted who died between adolescence and old age, its deadly toll reached one out of three. Tuberculosis took millions in lives and billions in treasure.

Before Koch's discovery it was thought that tuberculosis was a hereditary disease to be feared only by certain families. Koch bridged the gap in Villermé's translation work by establishing a sure method of diagnosing tuberculosis and revealing the presence of the bacillus. He indicated the precautions that must be taken to prevent its spread and revolutionized the world's knowledge of its most costly and dangerous disease.

But what good are all these scientific discoveries to a large per cent. of the people of California who lack the funds to pay for them under the present individual and prohibitive system of charging for medical care? As stated in the minority report of the Committee on the Costs of Medical Care, "If an illness requires hospital care in addition to professional services, it alone may entail costs which are catastrophic for the family. . . . Illnesses which involve hospitalization are responsible for 50 per cent of the total charges for medical care."

Under the present system scientific discoveries are not applied to a considerable percentage of the people. Can anyone soundly say that the scientific discoveries of medicine should be reserved for the benefit of the rich and the indigent and withheld from the man of average income?

To practice medicine on a thoroughgoing scientific basis diagnosis must precede treatment. To pay for a complete diagnosis, followed by scientific treatment, is beyond the reach of the average patient's purse. What is the alternative? People in the lower income brackets are getting the unscientific and inadequate methods that prevailed before the days of Pasteur and Koch.

To bridge this gap, as Koch did the one in his day, there is an effective method. The very essence of the problem is economic—economic from the standpoint of the patient, the physician and the public. What the patient wants the physician to do for him but for which he can not pay present prices, what the physician wants to do for the patient but can not afford to do without adequate payment, and what the public wants the physician and the patient to do for each other, may be accomplished through the practical application of health service insurance.

HOW CAN THE LEGISLATURE BRING HOSPITAL SERVICES WITHIN THE REACH OF PERSONS OF AVERAGE INCOME?

Inseparably attached to the problems of efficiency and economy in the practice of scientific medicine, is the hospitalization of the sick. We all recognize that for the safety of the surgical patient, hospital care is imperative. The elaborate technique of aseptic surgery demands the perfect organization obtainable only in the hospital operating room. The fear of surgical sepsis drives patient and surgeon to the protection of hospital equipment. We have been slow, however, to acknowledge the necessity, even the advisability, of the hospitalization of the medical patient. Even serious medical cases receive only the inadequate and haphazard care possible in home surroundings.

The modern hospital has been the direct result of the scientific discoveries in the field of medicine. To apply the new discoveries, special facilities and equipment are required that must be available every minute of every hour through the whole 24 hours of the day. The hospital has become the only place where all of the agencies developed by scientific medicine can be brought to the bedside, and applied most effectively for the benefit of the patient. Nowhere else can these scientific agencies be used so quickly and safely. The three most important things in the control of any disease, viz., the understanding of the origin and mode of development, the early diagnosis, and the institution of intelligent treatment, can be observed best where the best facilities are ready that can be utilized to identify and trace disease processes back to their first causes. Progress in medicine runs almost parallel with the discovery of the cause and nature of disease.

The complexities of medical service, the necessary expense of applying new truths and new diagnostic procedures, the increased cost of thousands of supplies of different kinds that must be kept constantly available, the increased costs of nurses, of labor of every variety, have also combined to create the factors that have resulted in increasing the cost of hospital service to patients. Chemistry, biology, physics, in addition to all the other agencies of scientific medicine, are in daily cooperation in the modern hospital for the benefit of the patient.

Hospitals have arisen during the twentieth century in all civilized communities in response to humanitarian sentiments. In former days they were viewed largely as places to care for the indigent. Now they have become great homes for physicians and nurses where all kinds of patients, ambulatory and bed-ridden, come to get the best that medical skill can offer.

The community hospital, originated for the care of the helpless and friendless poor, with the development of modern science has become a necessity for all members of society.

It is obvious that the actual cost of all the valuable scientific hospital and medical services must be borne by someone. Those who have kept their eyes only on the income side of hospitals, and concluded from the big bills rendered that the hospitals must be paying fat profits, should be furnished the facts which show that practically all the hospitals of California report deficits. Hospitals are suffering economically from the results of their own scientific advancement. Fifty years ago there were very few hospitals in the United States, and in most of those that were in existence conditions were so deplorable that patients went to the hospital only as a last resort. Most hospitals in the early days cared for the poor, while people of moderate means and the well-to-do stayed at home when they were ill. Although splendid hospitals have been built in our various communities, the sad statement is made and can not be challenged that a large percentage of our people is not receiving the maximum benefits of hospital, medical and nursing care; and that only the very poor in the cities and the rich, both in country and city, are receiving the full benefits of the advances of medical science.

Forgotten Men and Women of California.

Your Senate committee regrets to report that there exists in this incomparable State of California, in the midst of all its rich resources, a no man's land, occupied at present by forgotten men and women of average incomes who want and need hospital and medical care, but who are not rich enough to pay present prices and not poor enough to be given free service.

Among some of the far-reaching consequences of the present costly system of paying for hospital and medical services, only a few may be mentioned. It is obvious that when the cost of hospitalization has reached such a height that people of moderate means can not afford to pay hospital and nursing bills, much less that of the physicians who have the greater responsibility of their treatment, that such patients must suffer.

People of moderate income, as data in this report show, often put off seeking expert diagnosis and treatment on account of the expense involved until a serious illness brings them to a helpless position; many when sick and unable to pay the present high costs and too self-respecting to accept charity, go entirely without medical attention; some seek charity at the hands of family doctors whose generosity has generally been demonstrated; often patients pay the hospital, nursing and other bills incident to sickness, and nothing is left over to pay the physician or to pay other community obligations.

Do the members of this fifty-first session of the California Legislature believe that industrious, self-respecting citizens of California, whose incomes are sufficient to pay ordinary bills and living expenses but are not enough to pay hospital, medical and nursing bills, should be compelled to accept charity or suffer in silence?

The pity of it is that it is so unnecessary! Health service insurance will prevent such economic and social disaster, and a vast amount of unnecessary sickness and thousands of unnecessary deaths.

Insurance is used by the hospitals to protect their own interests. They have fire insurance, hospital liability, general liability, elevator liability, automobile liability and property damage and compensation insurance. California, it is pleasant to record, was a leader in making the compensation form of insurance compulsory over the opposition of a great many powerful groups.

Thus, every hospital in California must carry compensation insurance in order to comply with the law. The compensation policies insure directly to the benefit of the injured workman or servant, and by the terms of these policies the insurance company assumes all the obligations which may be imposed against the employer on account of the compensation law, with the exception of injuries resulting from the serious and wilful misconduct of the employer. It is prohibited by the law to insure against this hazard.

The compensation premium is computed on the wages of the employees and the Insurance Manual standardizes the rates, which vary in accordance with the classification of work done by the employees, the more hazardous forms of employment taking the higher rates. The usual form of compensation policy assumes all the obligations of the Compensation Act.

The hospital liability form of policy protects the hospital against errors or mistakes made by its agents or representatives; that is, against malpractice, negligence, or mistake in the treatment of the patient, and suits for damages growing out of autopsies or inquests, alleged personal restraints, dispensing of drugs or medicines and against damages growing out of counter claims in suits brought by the hospital for the collection of fees. In addition the policy imposes on the insurance company the duty to defend any suit arising out of such cases, without limit as to the cost of defense, and to carry it to the court of last resort if desired by the hospital. The policy further provides that the company will not compromise any such claim without the consent of the hospital.

The hospital liability policy not only protects the hospital from liability against errors and mistakes, but protects individually the physicians, surgeons, dentists, pharmacists or prescription clerks, employed by the hospitals from such errors and mistakes. The visiting physician and surgeon, or dentist, or pharmacist, is not protected by the policy, but almost always pays for individual protection by obtaining a physicians' and surgeons' defense form of insurance policy, protecting him against liability for damages because of malpractice, error or mistake.

FACTS FOUND BY THE CALIFORNIA MEDICAL ECONOMIC SURVEY.

The study of the cost and adequacy of medical care in California undertaken by the California Medical Economic Survey was started over eight months ago, and while there still remains some work to be completed in making available the final report, most of the significant statistical compilations have been completed, the more important of which are in Appendix E.

The exhaustiveness of this study is well demonstrated by the fact that the survey has contacted personally a total of 20,560 families scattered throughout California, from whom important data relating to health and economic conditions have been obtained. These families include a fair statistical sample of the residents of California as a whole. The information has come from over one thousand communities and territories in 26 widely scattered counties. In addition to this the staff has also secured statements, largely signed statements, from a total of 1112 doctors of medicine, 646 doctors of osteopathy, 828 dentists, 192 hospitals and 97 clinics. Most of this information, as suggested above, has been carefully classified and tabulated, and certain very significant conclusions can be drawn from the data.

1. Medical facilities within the State are unevenly distributed. In 1929, California had a higher proportion of physicians to the population than any other State in the Union, or any Nation in the world. Furthermore, a higher proportion of physicians and surgeons is to be found in urban centers than in rural communities. Hospital facilities are likewise unevenly distributed, and examination of the location of bed capacities discloses little evident recognition of the comparative needs of communities. It is also true that hospitals operate at a wide variation of percentage capacity. For instance, State institutions operated during 1933 at approximately 90 per cent capacity, while private institutions operated at approximately 53 per cent capacity.

Hospitals 40 Per Cent Empty and Accumulating Deficits.

2. Hospital institutions are everywhere suffering from poor financial conditions. To remedy their unprofitable plight, some hospitals have reincorporated as non-profit institutions and proposed hospital legislation which obviously would not touch the more important problems of medical care. Preliminary tabulations based upon reports from 22 private hospitals in the State illustrate the hospital problem. Out of a total bed capacity of 61,053 (63,526 at the end of 1934) afforded by both public and private institutions within the State, these 22 private hospitals reported a bed capacity of 7145, or approximately 12 per cent of the State's total. They further reported that during 1933 they had experienced an average occupancy of 4385 beds, or slightly less than 60 per cent of their capacity.

Hospitals with 40 per cent vacancy could not operate profitably without charging exorbitant prices to many.

The trend of charges that these institutions made to patients is also significant. In 1929 total charges to patients for the 22 hospitals equaled $5,253,557.63. By 1934 this figure had decreased to $4,661,618.99; in 1933 the figure dropped to $3,347,532; in 1934 it had increased slightly to $3,432,303. Based on 1933 charges for these 22 hospitals, the average charge per patient was $80.60. Manifestly it is not good public policy to allow such a condition to continue.

The ratio between collections and charges among these hospitals has remained fairly high, especially as compared with the percentage collections of doctors and dentists. Over 95 per cent of the patients' charges was collected during the three-year period 1929-31. In 1932, however, this percentage dropped to 85.2, then increased to 92.8 in 1933 and 92.3 in 1934.

The 22 hospitals considered show a total operating income of $310,789.53 in 1929. This figure decreased constantly during the following years until 1933, when it reached a deficit of $80,226.64. In 1934 their income situation improved somewhat, but deficits prevailed. Thus are revealed the financial trends of approximately 12 per cent of the State's total hospital bed facilities, representing approximately 42 per cent of the total bed capacity of private institutions in California.

Whether the hospitals show a deficit or an income, however, is only part of the picture. This condition does not disclose whether the patient who needs care can pay the price for medical and dental care, or for proper hospital and nursing charges; nor does it disclose how the percentage of hospital collections compares with that of other medical agencies. These are questions that deserve consideration.

3. The California Medical Economic Survey has revealed interesting and significant facts concerning the incomes of medical practitioners. It has discovered that in 1933 approximately one-third of the doctors of medicine earned net professional incomes of less than $2,000; one-half of them earned less than $3,000; while approximately three-fourths of these members of an educated and highly trained profession whose services are indispensable to society earned less than $5,000. While 25 per cent of these stating incomes for both 1929 and 1933 reported having earned over $9,000 net professional income in 1929, only 10 per cent reported earnings of over $9,000 in 1933.

Similar trends in the net professional incomes of others concerned have been discovered. These trends, however, indicate that doctors of medicine are receiving relatively higher incomes than others performing medical and dental services. In the case of doctors of dental science (D.D.S.), one-third were earning less than $2,000 net in 1933, while approximately two-thirds were earning less than $3,000, and three-fourths were earning less than $4,000.

The net professional incomes of the doctors of osteopathy throughout the State have dropped sharper than those of the dental profession, as judged by the large sample covered. The study of the California Medical Economic Survey shows that in 1933 almost one-half of the doctors of osteopathy earned less than $2,000 net, while five-sixths earned less than $4,000.

These relatively low net professional incomes can be explained in several ways. They may indicate more free work on the part of professional medical people, in which case those concerned have been asked to contribute services with little or no compensation. Again, these trends may indicate an increasing number of uncollectible bills, in which case services may be extended to individuals who need them, but without remuneration. Finally, they may indicate that fewer medical and dental services are being offered to citizens of the State, which suggests again the fact that large numbers may be going without adequate attention either because they can not pay, or do not choose to ask for these services free of charge.

Facts Which the Government Can Not Safely Ignore.

4. Another general conclusion to be drawn from the study is that many families are in need of medical and dental care. Final compilations on income distribution demonstrate that among 18,863 white families studied, representing a fair cross section of all income groups within the State, 15 per cent in 1933 had net incomes of less than $500; 39 per cent had incomes of less than $1,000; while 51 per cent had incomes of less than $1,200. In income classes above $1,200 the study has shown that during the year 1933 approximately 13 per cent of families received incomes of between $1,200 and $1,500, while 14 per cent received incomes ranging from $1,500 to $2,000, and 8 per cent received incomes from $2,000 to $2,500. It has been further revealed that in 1933 almost 15 per cent of all families received more than $2,500, and slightly more than 4 per cent reported incomes for that year of more than $5,000.

5. When these income groups are further scrutinized, it is discovered that certain income classes require more medical care than others. Almost twice as many families with incomes of $1,200 a year or less reported that they required more medical care, relatively speaking, than others with incomes above $5,000 in 1933, while almost three times as many families with incomes of $1,200 a year or less reported that they required more dental care, relatively speaking, than those with incomes above $5,000. Between the income groups of $1,200 to $5,000 the variation in the amount of medical or dental care required does not appear to be of great significance.

6. Another deplorable fact disclosed by this study is that lower income classes do not get the care which they need. Preliminary analyses, for instance, have shown that only one-fifth of the people in families with 1933 incomes below $1,200 reporting a need for medical care were receiving such care at the time of interview, while two-thirds of those between the income classes of $2,000 to $5,000 reporting a need for such care were receiving it. This same condition holds in general for dental care as well, where, for instance, only one-half of all those in families with 1933 incomes of less than $1,200 reporting a need for medical care were receiving it; while four-fifths of those whose family incomes are between $2,000 to $5,000 so reporting were receiving care.

7. A final general conclusion to be drawn from the study to date is that charges for medical, dental, and hospital care are unevenly distributed within each family income grouping. It can not be emphasized too often that many studies have demonstrated the fact that the average charges for these services are not equally burdensome when distributed over the entire population by health service utilization. A serious social and individual problem, however, is created when unexpected demands for treatment and care arise within the individual family of low income. Almost as a rule the medical charges have not been anticipated and as a result many families find it impossible to meet payments, and thus are often forced to go without proper services. The California Medical Economic Survey has substantiated the general findings of previous studies in this regard, but has gone further by emphasizing the extent and severity of this problem within the State. About one-fourth of all families surveyed reported that no charges were sustained for medical care during the year September, 1933, to September, 1934. This statement is based upon a record of the individual expenditures of 18,843 families including over 61,000 persons. But in contrast with this large number of families in all income groups scattered throughout the State who have escaped the necessity of incurring medical and dental charges, the study shows that almost one-third of the families with incomes of $1,200 or less in 1933 reported that they had incurred no charges, while only one-ninth of the families with incomes of $5,000 or more reported that they had incurred no charges during this same period. While it is true, however, that large numbers of the lower income groups reporting no charges are actually receiving free medical services from public institutions and from physicians and surgeons, still it must be remembered that many families within these brackets actually go without adequate services.

Further analysis of this data shows that charges range widely within certain income groups. In the case of families with incomes in 1933 of $1,200 or less, 15 per cent of the total number falling within these groups is found to have had charges of from $20 to $40 within the one-year period; another 8 per cent had charges of between $100 and $200; and 4 per cent had charges of between $200 and $500. One hundred families out of every thousand, on the average, with incomes ranging between $1,000 and $1,200 reported that they had incurred charges of between $500 and $1,000; while still another proportional 40 out of every 1,000 reported they had incurred charges of $1,000 or over.

Within the group of families with incomes ranging from $1,200 to $2,000 it has been found that over 14 per cent had charges between $100 and $200; and almost 9 per cent had charges between $200 and $500. Within the family groups whose incomes range from $2,000 to $3,000 who experienced charges, 17 per cent reported having incurred charges between $100 and $200; about 13 per cent reported charges between $200 and $500; while almost 2 per cent reported charges of over $1,000.

These figures can not fail to lead one to ask the serious question: Can a family with an income of $1,200 or less afford unexpected medical and dental charges ranging between $100 to $500 during the year? We may well question the ability of individual families to meet such unexpected charges, yet 12 per cent of the families studied actually reported such charges.

The conditions prevailing among these families surveyed, and professional people responding to inquiries, it is believed, are in general quite representative of conditions throughout California. They have led the Staff and Advisory Council of the California Medical Economic Survey to recommend to the Committee of Five and to the House of Delegates of the California Medical Association that it is their belief that the best way of meeting the problems of unexpected costs, low income, operating deficits, uncollectible bills, etc., is for the State of California to pass a type of compulsory health insurance law with voluntary privileges, which will make it mandatory for large numbers of individuals from families of low incomes in the State to be insured for a certain small amount of the wage earner's pay roll while gainfully employed. Such a law would safeguard the uncertain and ever-present possibility of the necessary requirement of adequate services from the doctor, dentist or hospital.

Illness and the Receipt of Medical Care Among California Families of Low and Moderate Incomes.

To measure the extent of illness and the receipt of medical care in California among families of low and moderate economic status and to correlate these data with incomes decreased by the depression, the State of California Emergency Relief Administration, through its Division of Research and Statistics, sponsored a survey of health and the depression in representative rural and urban areas of the State. The survey, conducted during 1934, was under the competent direction of Margaret C. Klem. The Senate committee is indebted to her and her splendid staff for continuous cooperation.

Twenty-one separate areas were chosen for study as being sufficiently representative of the State as a whole. Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Oakland were selected as typical cities of over 250,000 population; eleven other cities were chosen to represent smaller commercial and manufacturing centers;¹ and seven counties were chosen from different sections of the State to represent various types of rural areas.²

Within the areas selected for survey, 5096 white families of two or more persons were visited in June, 1934, and questioned regarding the number of illnesses experienced during the three months immediately preceding the date of interview. At the same time information was obtained on the type and volume of medical care received for each illness, the amount of charges incurred, the amount of outstanding medical bills, and the employment record and family income during 1929 and 1933.

In the cities covered by the SERA Health and Depression Survey all white families of two or more persons residing in certain selected blocks were interviewed. The blocks chosen were in residential sections representative of moderate and low income groups. In rural areas different sections of each county were chosen to give a fair sample of income and occupations.

Of the 5096 white families, 555 reported that they received medical care on an annual fee basis. Data for these families are being analyzed separately and are not included in the present report, which is confined to records of 4541 families who either obtained their medical care on the customary fee-for-service basis or were the recipients of free care from practitioners or institutions. Of these families 641 were recipients of some public or private relief during 1933. These families, regardless of their supplemental incomes, are considered as constituting the lowest income group of the study and are designated as "relief families" in the present discussion. This, however, does not imply that they were continuously on relief or that they were completely dependent upon relief during the entire year. Of the families surveyed 14 per cent were recipients of relief during 1933, 18 per cent had an annual income in 1933 of less than $600, 29 per cent of from $600 to $1,200, 26 per cent of from $1,200 to $2,000, 9 per cent of from $2,000 to $3,000, and 4 per cent of $3,000 and over.

The average size of family was largest in the so-called "relief" group, which had an average of 4.5 persons per family. The next higher income group, families with less than $600 a year who had received no relief in 1933, had the smallest families, with an average of 3.3 members. The highest income group with $3,000 or more had an average of 3.9 persons per family.

The surveyed population was slightly younger than that of the State. Approximately 36 per cent of the individuals in the families studied were less than 20 years of age, whereas, for California as a whole, only 29 per cent of the 1930 population was reported as under 20.

Illness Rates.

Perhaps the most striking revelation of the effect of family income upon health is found in a comparison of illness rates. It should be pointed out that many cases of minor, nondisabling illness are quickly forgotten and are not reported to an investigator. In this SERA survey where families were visited only once, it is obvious that records will be far more accurate for disabling illness of long duration and for disabling illness with onset within the period of survey than for nondisabling illnesses. Figures indicate that persons in the "relief" families experienced more illnesses per 1000 individuals than those in any other income categories. Their illness rate for the three-month survey period was 267 per 1000 persons as contrasted with a rate of 227 per 1000 in the highest income group. This difference between the extremes of income is found to be even greater for illness with onset prior to the survey period than for illness which started during the three months of survey. This fact would indicate that the "relief" group experienced significantly more illness of long duration or a higher rate of chronic illness than the highest income group.

When disabling illness is contrasted with nondisabling it appears that the higher illness rate among the poorest families studied results from their higher case rate for disabling illness with onset during the survey period. For all disabling illness the relief group with a rate of 183 per 1000 persons experienced 51 per cent more illness which interrupted the normal routine of daily living than the highest income group which had a case rate of 121 per 1000 for disabling illness.

20.1 Per Cent Received No Medical Treatment.

When disabling illnesses are correlated with the receipt of medical care it is found that the "relief" group is at the lowest end of the scale in the receipt of medical attention to medical needs. Of the individuals in the "relief" group who reported some illness during the survey period, 20.1 per cent received no medical treatment. This is in sharp contrast to the highest income group where only 8.9 per cent of the individuals reporting illness received no medical attention. This difference is the more marked when one recalls the higher rate of disabling and consequently more severe illness among individuals in the "relief" category. Of the disabling illnesses which individuals in "relief" families experienced only 71 per cent received some medical care. In the $2,000 and over income group 90 per cent of the disabling illnesses received medical treatment.

During the period of this survey of medical care in California data were also collected on the number of months which had elapsed between the date of interview and the last receipt for medical, dental, and eye care. In an age when an annual medical examination is considered highly desirable, for the early discovery and treatment of incipient disorders, it is dismaying to learn that except for the "relief" group more than a third of the individuals in all the income categories had had no medical attention in the three years prior to the survey. Since the Federal Emergency Relief Administrator has, within the last year, made provision for medical care of families on the relief rolls, this, and the receipt of free care from private physicians, dentists, and hospitals, and other agencies may account for the fact that nearly half (43.6 per cent) of the individuals in the families which had received some relief in 1933 had also received some medical care within the twelve months preceding the date of interview.

Lack of Medical, Eye and Dental Care.

However, total lack of medical, eye, or dental care is conspicuously higher among individuals in "relief" families than in the higher income groups. Slightly more than one-fourth of these individuals had never visited a dentist in their lives; more than one-half had never had their eyes examined or treated; and 8 per cent had never had any medical care whatever. Among these individuals are included those who by reason of age, or good teeth or eyes, or general health might have had little occasion for obtaining the care in question, but when the various income groups are compared and it is found that the percentage of individuals with a lifelong record of no medical care drops with each successive increase in income level, one is led to the conclusion that economic status rather than the incidence of good health is a major factor in the total lack of medical examination or treatment.

Eleven per cent of the illnesses reported by the "relief" families received hospital treatment, a percentage which was also found for the families with annual incomes of less than $600. For these two income groups combined a total of 151 illnesses were hospitalized for an average of 23 days of care per case. Public hospitals furnished 3205 days or nearly 92 per cent of this care. Less than 7 per cent of the illnesses among families with incomes of $2,000 or more were hospitalized. Their 34 hospital cases received on the average 15 days of care, about 73 per cent of which represent treatment in private hospitals. When the illnesses reported for all families are totaled it is found that less than 9 per cent received hospital treatment within the period covered by the survey. Nearly one-third of the total days of hospital care were, moreover, received by mental and tuberculous patients who were almost exclusively in public hospitals. This largely accounts for the high average days of care per case found in the low income groups.

The average charges for the medical care received during the three months of survey varied with income. In the "relief" group the average cost for the three-month period was $8.06 per family receiving medical care, or $33 per family per year. The highest income group on the other hand received services which cost them $51.51 per family receiving care, or an annual charge of $206. When these costs are averaged among all families surveyed, they amount to $23 per year for the "relief" group and $152 per year for families in the highest income category.

Variations in medical charges, however, tell a more dramatic story of individual experience than do average charges. Practically 40 per cent of the "relief" group who received care of any kind, received free care during the survey period; an additional 25 per cent had three-month charges of less than $5, and nearly 5 per cent incurred charges of $40 or more.

In the "relief" group 32 per cent of the total charges were incurred by 2 per cent of the families, and the three-month charges of these families were $60 and more. More than half of the charges (53 per cent) were borne by only 13 per cent of the families, and these charges ranged from $10 to $60 in magnitude.

As one observes the figures in various tables printed in Appendices D and E for each of the income groups it appears that the uneven burden of medical costs affects families in all economic classes.

Uneven Distribution of Costs of Medical Care.

The problem of meeting the costs of medical care is not so much the magnitude of total costs, but the uneven distribution of these costs among the families concerned. In the highest income class approximately half of the families bore only about 2 per cent of the total charges, and less than one-fifth of the families were called upon to meet three-fourths of the total medical bills. Let us consider the composition of these charges.

Except for the families who received some relief in 1933, charges for physicians' services constituted approximately one-third of the total costs of medical care. For these so-called "relief" families physicians' services represented slightly more than one-fourth of the total three-month charges incurred. The tendency toward self-medication, always dangerous, is strikingly revealed by the "relief" group when it is noted that more than 20 per cent of their total medical expenses were for the purchase of drugs and medicines sold without prescription.

Facts relating to outstanding medical bills, not only for services received during the survey period but for all medical expenses which the family considered as obligations and hoped and intended to pay, may be found in the tables in the appendix. The average total medical bill outstanding among the relief group amounted to $23.46. This is higher than the average amount owed by any other income group except for families with incomes of $2,000 to $3,000 who owed, on the average, $32.35 per family.

Physicians Bear Heaviest Burdens for the Sick.

In Figure 2 of Appendix D may be found a graphic presentation of the distribution of the total outstanding bills among physicians, hospitals, dentists, and other practitioners and services providing medical care to the surveyed population. It will be observed to the praise due physicians that they bear three-fourths of the total outstanding charges for the families in the lowest income class. These self-sacrificing physicians also bear 70 per cent of the total amounts due for services to the families with $1,200 to $3,000 and approximately half of the amount owed by the highest income group. Hospitals and dentists each carry only about 10 per cent of the total outstanding accounts for the lowest income group, but with increasing income level the proportion borne by the hospital decreases while that owing to dentists rises. Among the families with income of $3,000 and over the amount owed to the hospital represents only 2 per cent of the total outstanding bills, while the dentist gives larger credit to the larger income groups.

The percentage of disabling illness receiving medical attention shows significant variation with shifts in income status. Of the disabling illnesses among families who shifted from "comfortable" income to "relief," 22 per cent received no medical care of any type. Among families maintaining a "comfortable" status in the two years only 14 per cent of the disabling illnesses received no medical care. The lowest economic group of all—those who were relief recipients at some time in 1929 as well as in 1933—had no medical care for 40 per cent of these disabling illnesses.

Surveys Cost More Than $100,000.

Your Senate committee, in drawing attention to the phenomenal fact that it has functioned two years without any appropriation, donation or other source of revenue, except that derived from its own personal pockets, would not have the Legislature believe that the factual material contained in this report was collected, collated, coordinated, criticized and tabulated without the expenditure of a good round sum of money. Faced with the fact that foundations were more interested in gathering data in Russia, the Scandinavian countries, the Orient and distant places than in California, the committee stimulated local bodies to take immediate interest in their own problems and leave foreign fields to philanthropists.

The California Medical Association responded and sponsored the California Medical Economic Survey. The distinguished personnel of the survey is guarantee of ability, reliability and sincerity of the public purposes that inspired the work. Here are some of the leaders of the survey:

Paul A. Dodd, Ph.D., Director of the Survey, Assistant Professor of Economics, University of California at Los Angeles.

Rockwell D. Hunt, Ph.D., Dean of the Graduate School, University of Southern California.

Gordon S. Watkins, Ph.D., Consulting Economist, Professor of Economics, University of California at Los Angeles.

John B. Canning, Ph.D., Professor of Economics, Stanford University.

The Reverend James J. Lyons, S.J., President of the University of Santa Clara.

Arthur G. Coons, Ph.D., Dean of Men and Associate Professor of Economics, Occidental College.

California Medical Association Committee of Five for the Study of Medical Care

William R. Molony, M.D., Chairman, Los Angeles.

Harry H. Wilson, M.D., Secretary, Los Angeles.

Alton R. Kilgore, M.D., San Francisco.

Robert A. Peers, M.D., Colfax.

Rodney A. Yoell, M.D., San Francisco.

The first letter sent out by the C. M. E. Survey staff opened with this sentence:

"Will you help us secure a truthful view of the economic and health situation in California homes?"

The SERA splendid survey is described elsewhere in this report.

The combined surveys cost more than $100,000 and your Senate committee presents them to the Legislature without one cent of expense to the State.

ECONOMY SECURITY AND HEALTH INSURANCE

In making our investigations we have not been unmindful of social and economic needs other than the immediate protection of the health and vitality of the population. In our study of foreign experience we find a wide variety of cash benefits merged, under single administrative departments, with medical benefits in kind. This mingling has become so common that the conventional meaning of the term "health insurance" has come to include both sorts of benefit. This more common of language has unduly influenced numerous ill considered legislative proposals in the United States. Lost our failure to conform be understood we assign the following grounds for recommending that all cash benefits, whatever the occasion for them may be, shall be administered separately from health benefits in kind.

The appropriate mode of preventing harm to people by reason of economic insecurity depends upon the character of the need to be supplied. If shortage of ready money in hand leads to harm of the person by reason of insufficient food, clothing, shelter, fuel, etc., recurrent payments of cash, adjusted in amount to these needs of the family, may be an adequate and proper preventive. To be sure, such needs can be supplied in kind rather than in cash, but only at very great administrative cost and only at the cost of needless invasion of the private lives and domestic establishments of those in economic jeopardy.

On the other hand the hourly and daily pressure of such wants, upon the person in need of protection, is of a character which assures us that nearly all cash awards, if properly made, will be devoted to their intended uses. The rudiments of common sense and shopping skill are sufficient, on the part of the recipient, to ensure reasonably appropriate use of such awards. The immediate wastages and abuses of cash awards is mostly to be found where the amount awarded is not adjusted to current needs. The total wastage of cash awards is usually much smaller than the administrative cost of supplying benefits in kind for the satisfaction of such wants.

An entirely different condition prevails when harm is threatened by reason of illness. Day to day requirement of food, clothing and the like and their money cost can be forecast with reasonable reliability. This is obviously not the case with health services. Not even the most skilled physician can forecast individual illnesses; and, after the illness begins, only the physician in attendance can determine what is needful—and then only from day to day. Medical benefits must be given in kind.

Conferring Medical Benefits Must Not Be Confused with Cash Benefits.

The administering of cash benefits is only one kind of administrative task no matter what the occasion for making the award may be. It is a wholly different kind of administrative task from that of conferring medical benefits in kind. In a single country we find one administrative department distributing cash awards to the aged, another distributing cash under a workmen's compensation act, a third making unemployment awards, a fourth paying out emergency relief funds and so on. When the ill informed superficial enthusiasts for each of these mere verbal types of economic security services point with none too well founded pride to the efficiency of the several administrative agencies they have set up, they wholly fail to impress us.

If a State is to have both a system of compulsory unemployment reserves and a system of health insurance it is obviously advantageous that the cash awards made to persons who are unemployed by reason of illness should be administered by the unemployment reserves agencies. All their awards are cash awards; the harm done by unemployment does not depend on the cause of the unemployment; but the few additional cash awards can be made with lesser additional administrative cost than would be possible if a separate personnel under a health service insurance commission had to make this one type of cash distribution.

We see, in other countries, a multitude of agencies duplicating one another's organizations and each doing only a single part of one common service for exactly the same population. We do not need to be told that such duplication involves waste and misuse of public funds. While we have sought throughout our investigation to glean what is good from foreign experience we have equally sought to avoid common blunders.

It is our hope that California will not make the mistake of giving two unlike jobs to one agency nor the mistake of splitting one job between two agencies. There can be no doubt that the action of this Legislature will be looked to as a model for American legislation on economic security. We urge this Legislature not to freeze into single statutory institutions administrative tasks that are essentially unlike and not to split up essentially like tasks among many statutory institutions. Your Senate committee with the cooperation of the important groups who are now rendering the best service to the sick has designed a plan of health service insurance that is economical and workable and that will help to solve the problem.

Basis of Legislation on Health Insurance.

The legislation which we propose is recommended on the following basis:

Individual illnesses and injuries are unpredictable both as to character, time of occurrence, duration, and cost of treatment. By reason of this individually unbudgetable character of these costs many people die prematurely or become gravely impaired in health and vitality for want of ability to pay the irreducible costs of timely, proper, and adequate services. Many others become impoverished by reason of prolonged illnesses. Experience has shown, beyond all possibility of informed doubt, that these conditions prevail even in the most prosperous times. In times of depression, when those thus harmed become much more numerous and their suffering is augmented by the increased incidence of illness due to privation, many lose confidence in our social and political institutions and become resentful against them. There is a basis of fact for this resentment; for other populations with lesser resources have long since proved that agencies of the kinds provided in this act are efficient remedies to these conditions.

The present numbers, proficiency, and geographical distribution of those licensed to practice medicine, surgery and dentistry are all adequate for the needful care of all illnesses and injuries at all times for the present population. The service capacity of existing hospitals, laboratories and other facilities is greater than any past or present utilization of them. Many such licensed practitioners and many of those who operate hospitals are either wholly unemployed, or partially or inadequately employed by reason of their patients' inability to pay currently the amounts necessary to bear the irreducible costs of rendering the services. Many fully occupied practitioners, even in prosperous times, are unable to obtain incomes which, in view of the costly and prolonged period of training, will serve as an inducement to attract sufficient numbers of able young men and women to enter these indispensable professions.

Both common experience and scientific investigation have shown beyond the possibility of informed doubt that the health, vitality and the life itself of every member of the population of California are dependent upon many variable conditions. These conditions include: the standards and practices of agencies of the State, its political subdivisions and its instrumentalities in administering the laws relating to health and sanitation; the conditions under which gainful occupations are carried on; the economic conditions that affect the stability of incomes available for maintenance of households; and those conditions of living imposed by the increasing complexity of our industrial and social organization. No agency less powerful than the State is competent to deal effectively in the public interest with such conditions.

Experience has shown that the aggregate of needed health service does not greatly change from year to year in relation to the total numbers of the population in the lower ranges of income. Current, regular contributions which persons of small and moderate income can afford to pay will, if pooled and budgeted, suffice to defray the costs of all or nearly all needful services of the kind in question. Such funds equitably distributed among those practicing under this act will suffice both to enable those indispensable public servants to maintain themselves and render their services and to assure appropriate recruitments to their ranks. Experience has shown that only by common pooling of the risks by large numbers and by common, current budgeting of the cost can the continuity and the adequacy of these services be assured.

Experience has shown that in times of depression the increase of cost burden of these benefits upon the general funds of political subdivisions and instrumentalities of this State overburdens those general funds at a time at which revenues are most needed for emergency requirements and at which taxpayers are least able to increase their contributions. The reserve principle of this act tends to eliminate this improper fluctuation of general revenue burden by making the health services self-financing.

Recommended Declaration of Public Policy with Respect to Legislation on Health Insurance.

The following severally declared statements of public policy are recommended as a declaration of the public policy of the State of California with respect to health service insurance. They should be given precedence in the order of the following enumeration:

(1) The preventable death, disability or impairment either of health or vitality of any member of its population is an irreparable damage to all persons in the State of California.

(2) The loss of confidence in self and resultant impairment of morale because of preventable death, disability or impairment of health or vitality of an immediate dependent of any person in California is an irreparable damage to all persons in California.

(3) The loss of confidence in our social and political institutions by those unable by themselves to prevent avoidable impairment of health or vitality of themselves and of their families is a damage to the stability of the social and political institutions of the State of California.

(4) The determination by the medical profession of the standards of and the necessity for the treatment and care of the sick person, and the preservation of the relation of utmost mutual good faith between physician and patient, and of the responsibility of the physician for his treatment of the patient, are necessary to the most effective conservation of the life and health of the people of California.

(5) Insufficient and inequitably distributed compensation of those licensed to render medical, surgical and dental services tends toward intolerable lowering of the standards of practice in these indispensable public services in the State of California.

(6) The reserve principle is a necessary adjunct to the rendering of adequate health services and is an important means of protecting the credit of the State of California and of its political subdivisions and instrumentalities.

Loss of Health More Serious Than Property Loss.

Although health is our most valuable State resource and the most priceless possession of the individual citizen, it is the one thing that is being squandered most recklessly. Health service insurance will usher in a better appreciation of science and a clearer comprehension of the relative importance and value of those things which scientific services can bestow. It is folly to give more attention to building highways and byways and bridges and developing businesses and government organizations than to building and maintaining sound citizens who govern and pay for all these material things. Loss of health is a far greater disaster than loss of property, for one may have happiness without wealth, but not without health. There is no reasonable equivalent for the loss of health of any individual. The right to health, and the efficacious means to preserve it, are immediate and direct and derived from society or the State. The State can not rightfully kill innocent citizens nor permit visible or invisible enemies to do so. Science insists that the invisible foes of man cause tens of thousands of preventable deaths. The justification for expenditure of public funds for public health work is based upon the fact that public health work is an approved means to human welfare and the money spent is much more than equalled by the prevention of disease and the saving of human life. Scientific knowledge regarding the causes and ways of spread of certain diseases is so definitely established and the methods of preventing such diseases are so frequently demonstrated that it is possible to determine with a considerable degree of certainty the proportion of cases and deaths from a given disease, which may be prevented.

The Senate committee has created nothing new or original in recommending health service insurance to the favorable consideration of the Legislature. We have adopted and adapted those parts of health insurance which have many years of successful experience to recommend them.

Legislature Has Right to Pass Health Service Insurance.

Session after session of our Legislature has appropriated large sums of money for public health purposes yet less than 10 per cent are diseases against which public health efforts are chiefly directed. More than 90 per cent of the illnesses can not be controlled by public health measures but are problems of individual patients which physicians must treat individually and not collectively. Modern medicine is a basic necessity. Bacterial cause of infection is a scientific fact and germs make no special concessions to those who deny their existence. No one challenges the police power of the State to protect the citizens against infected milk, infected food and water. If the sciences upon which medicine is based ceased to be applied modern urban civilization could not continue. The Legislature possesses the undoubted right to pass laws for the preservation of health. The Legislature may, by appropriate legislation, provide for the comfort, health and general welfare of any and all employees. The Legislature, the Chief Executive, and the courts are under a solemn duty to protect the health and safety of the public. Government is instituted for the protection, security and benefit of the people. The police power, deriving its existence from the rule that the safety of the people is the supreme law, justifies legislation upon matters pertaining to the public welfare, the public health, or the public morals. A legitimate exercise of the police power can not be condemned as invalid on the ground that it is an unlawful or unauthorized invasion of the right of property, or upon the ground that it is a taking of property without due process of law, or that it deprives persons of the equal protection of the laws contrary to the fourteenth amendment of the Constitution of the United States. When a legislative enactment is attacked upon the ground that it is arbitrary, unreasonable and discriminatory and constitutes special legislation, violating the prohibitions of both the State and Federal Constitutions, all presumptions and intendments are in favor of the reasonableness and fairness of the legislative action, and the decision of the Legislature as to what is sufficient distinction to warrant the classification will not be overthrown by the courts unless it is palpably arbitrary. As a general rule the question of classification is one for the legislative power, to be determined by it in the light of its knowledge of all the circumstances and requirements. The presumption in the courts is in favor of the fairness and correctness of the determination by the legislative department, and the courts are not privileged to overturn that determination unless they can plainly see that the same was not warranted by the facts. The general powers of the Legislature to determine what is necessary for the protection of the public health are well recognized and in viewing a statute, the courts must presume that the Legislature has carefully investigated and has properly determined that the interests of the public require certain legislation. The power to invade property rights exists only to the extent to which its exercise is reasonably necessary to protect the health, safety or welfare of the people; the question whether or not such necessity exists is for the Legislature, and its determination thereof is conclusive upon the courts if there is any basis in reason therefor. The Legislature may pass a special law, though it be in derogation of, or in the nature of an exception to the operation of a general statute. A legislative enactment which is designed to operate upon a particular class which, in its specifications, presents a genuine or constitutional differentiation from other classes, either individual or considered as a whole, is not unconstitutional as discriminatory and lacking in uniformity of application. A law to promote public health will be upheld as a valid exercise of the police power if its requirements are not unreasonable and its provisions do not discriminate in favor of or against particular persons or classes of persons as to whom no reasonable basis of discrimination exists.

What is for the public good, and what are public purposes, are questions which the Legislature must decide upon its own judgment, in respect to which it is vested with a large discretion which can not be controlled by the courts. It is not the province of the courts to deal with the policy of the law, as that belongs exclusively to the Legislature. The Legislature has power as well as the judiciary to determine facts and the court will not assume a wisdom which it denies to the Legislature or exercise a supervision over the discretion of the Legislature.

Important as are the business interests of each citizen and the proprietary rights of citizens, they must sometimes yield to the superior health interests of all. The Legislature acts for the whole people and has the power and responsibility to enact laws which in its judgment will promote the health interests of the people. The health of the people must outweigh the profit interests of any class in the judicial scale of true social and individual values.

The Health Service Insurance Act we believe is for the public good, based upon incontestable facts, the health rights and needs of the people. Among indispensable demands and vital needs of men not only as a social group, but also as individuals, health comes first. To deny adequate medical care to our citizens of average income, to those who constitute the largest proportion of our population, violates the most fundamental principles of justice, humanity and good government. The requisites for human health, security in life and limb, without which we are undermining our present and future citizens, can not be measured merely in dollars.

The central consideration here is the power and responsibility of the Legislature to pass a Health Service Insurance Act for the public welfare and the sound policy and the need for and the reasonableness of the act itself. Employers are the only persons to whom government can look to pay a living wage. The health of employees confers benefits on the employer, the community as a whole as well as on the employees. The wisdom and the right of a government to compel citizens, for their own good and for the good of society, to provide by insurance against contingencies against which experience has proven that they are unable to protect themselves, have been maintained by enlightened governments throughout the world, including those countries from which we received our common law and our principles of democracy.

The Senate committee which impartially has been investigating this subject for two years is entirely convinced that there are abundant facts and eloquent evidence in the tables and other facts contained in this report that prove the need for the application of the insurance principle to distribute the costs of illness and make more available the life-saving services of scientific medicine. Under the present system a siege of sickness brings many families to bankruptcy. When the entire family income for one year is exhausted to pay doctor and hospital bills, what becomes of the other obligations of the family? We can not hide our heads from the facts and we can not hide the facts from the people. "Facts," as the Scottish writer declared, "are fellows you can't coerce, and won't bear to be disputed." We must face the facts.

Let Us Have Equal Distribution of Health Services.

We are printing carefully collected and tabulated data in this report and the representativeness and adequacy of the statistical tables presented from the California Medical Economic Survey and the SERA Survey must be recognized. In studying the tables, keep in mind that the minute variation in percentages between several tables of the two surveys is due to the fact that the SERA Survey was based mainly upon the lower income classes and were not selected as a statistical cross-section sample of the State, but were chosen in order to study the relationship between depression and health. But it is overwhelmingly evident that these two competent studies, carried on quite independently within the State of California, verify and substantiate the results and conclusions of each other.

Anyone without blinding bias who will review the tables of this report can not escape the conclusion that, despite the self-sacrifice of the physicians of California, their devotion to duty, their loss of time and money in giving free services, and charged services that can never be paid for, and notwithstanding the many possible plans of hospital insurance and medical care, the services of scientific medicine are not within the reach of many who seriously need them. The tables give a very pathetic picture and show how critical the situation is becoming. Sickness is no respecter of persons, never visits one at an opportune time and there is no other cause of economic disaster which compares with sickness. The human temple deserves more care than buildings of stone and bastions of steel. Damaged hearts, injured lungs and kidneys can not be replaced like stripped gears, broken bridges or cracked pistons. The moving appeals which we have heard for medical and surgical care after irreparable damage was done, together with other facts, impel us to say that the present system is one of the most tragic and wasteful causes of human relationship and it is not surprising that the victims of the system are starving more and more loudly that something is radically wrong.

The scientific methods of saving those from subjecting the economy to losses caused by preventable diseases, are well known and have been demonstrated to be effective. Health Service Insurance will provide the means whereby a majority of the people will receive adequately and reasonably needed scientific treatment that was given to a minority. It is the duty of the Legislature to meet the human needs of today and tomorrow, to give the ordinary man and woman all the health protection that science and a progressive State can give. The right to pursue and obtain happiness is guaranteed to all by the fundamental law of the State. This right, by its very nature, includes the right to health protection and adequate care to preserve and restore health. We can not have a healthy state of society if we waste the physical and mental resources of our people. Health services must be distributed otherwise the present and future citizenship is undermined.

California has an unequal distribution of wealth. As far as may be we should strive to have an equal distribution of health.

Your Senate Committee on the Investigation of the High Cost of Sickness recommends this report to your careful consideration and respectfully requests the honorable members of the fifty-first session of the California Legislature to enact Senate Bill No. 454, introduced by the members of the committee, for the promotion and protection of the health of the people of California.

WILLIAMS,
TICKLE
DIFANI

SENATE COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC HEALTH AND QUARANTINE. AMENDMENTS TO SENATE BILL No. 454.

Amendment No. 1.

In lines 2 and 3 of the title of the printed bill, strike out "health insurance for persons in certain income groups", and insert in lieu thereof the following: "State health service insurance, including the establishing of a Health Service Insurance Commission and prescribing the powers, duties and functions thereof, the establishing of a health service insurance fund and providing for certain payments thereon, the prescribing of methods and conditions under which professional or other services may be rendered, the regulation of certain persons, firms, associations, and corporations, the making of an appropriation, the enforcement of the provisions hereof, penalties for the violation of the provisions hereof, and repealing acts in conflict herewith."

Amendment No. 2.

On page 1, line 1, of the printed bill, insert after "SECTION 1.", the following: "This act is adopted by the people of the State of California to promote the comfort, health, safety and general welfare of the people of the State of California."

SEC. 2. This act shall be known and may be cited and referred to as "The Health Service Insurance Act."

SEC. 3. Words used in this act in the present tense include the future as well as the present; words used in the masculine gender include the feminine; the singular number includes the plural, and the plural the singular; "writing" includes "printing" and "typewriting"; the word "county" includes "city and county."

SEC. 4. Unless the context otherwise clearly indicates, as used in this act, the words and phrases defined in the sections immediately following shall have the meanings ascribed to them.

SEC. 5. "Benefit" means any medical, dental, hospital, or other service which is made available by this act for the diagnosis, treatment, or care of any person coming under the provisions of this act and includes:

(a) "Professional benefits," which consist only of the services of a physician or dentist, and which include all such services which either is entitled to render under the laws of the State of California.

(b) "Auxiliary benefits," which consist of maintenance and care in hospital, nursing care, drugs, medicines, physiotherapy, occupational therapy, transportation, material appliances and their upkeep.

The determination of the commission that a service is a professional benefit or an auxiliary benefit is final and conclusive.

SEC. 6. "Beneficiary" means any person entitled to receive a benefit under this act.

SEC. 7. "Commission" means the Health Service Insurance Commission.

SEC. 8. "Physician" means the holder of a valid and unrevoked "physician and surgeon certificate" entitling him to practice medicine and surgery in the State of California.

SEC. 9. "Dentist" means the holder of a valid and unrevoked license entitling him to practice dentistry in the State of California.

SEC. 10. "Employer" means any employer of one or more employees, as the term "employee" is defined in this act, doing business in the State of California, and includes the State, every State agency, and each county, city and county, city, district having power to assess or levy taxes or assessments, or both, and all public or municipal corporations and quasi-public corporations and public agencies therein, and every person, firm, voluntary association, and private corporation, including any public service corporation, any trustee in bankruptcy, receiver, or trustee, and the legal representative of any deceased employer, but does not include the United States of America or any foreign State.

SEC. 11. "Employee" means every person, including aliens and minors, receiving a wage at a rate which will yield a total amount not greater than three thousand dollars per year and whose net income from all sources together with that of his spouse is not in excess of three thousand dollars per year, in the service of an employer, as defined in this act, under any appointment or contract of hire or apprenticeship, express or implied, oral or written, whether lawfully or unlawfully employed, and all elected and appointed paid public officers, and all officers of quasi-public or private corporations while rendering actual service for such corporations for pay, but excluding any person engaged in vending, selling, offering for sale, or delivering directly to the public, any newspaper, magazine or periodical where the title to such newspaper, magazine or periodical has passed to the person so engaged, and also excluding any person holding an appointment as a deputy clerk, deputy sheriff or deputy constable, or other deputy, appointed for the convenience of such appointee, who receives no compensation from the county, township or municipal corporation or from the citizens thereof for services as such deputy, and also excluding any person while both he and his dependents are absent from this State.

Any person who for hire renders services to another, other than as an independent contractor, or one who is expressly excluded herein, is presumed to be an employee within the meaning of this act. The term "independent contractor" shall be taken to mean, for the purposes of this act, any person who renders service, other than manual labor, for a specified recompense for a specified result, under the control of his principal as to the result of his work only and not as to the means by which such result is accomplished.

An employee is a "casual" employee if, (a) in the usual and normal course of his employer's trade, business, profession, or occupation, the particular work to which said employee is assigned is begun and concluded within nine successive calendar days; or (b) his employment is not in the course of the trade, business, profession, occupation, or domestic establishment of his employer. The phrase "course of trade, business, profession or occupation of his employer" shall be taken to include all services tending toward the preservation, maintenance or operation of the business, business premises or business property of the employer. The words "trade, business, profession or occupation of his employer," shall be taken to include any undertaking actually engaged in by the employer with some degree of regularity, the trade name, articles of incorporation or principal business of the employer to the contrary notwithstanding.

It shall not be a defense to the commission, the holder of a certificate of compliance, or to any health service insurance association that a person with respect to whom any benefit is claimed was not lawfully employed, or was the dependent spouse or minor child of one not lawfully employed by reason of the violation of any civil service or other law, rule, or regulation respecting the hiring of employees.

Workmen associating themselves under a partnership agreement, the principal purpose of which is the performance of the labor on a particular piece of work, shall be deemed employees of the person having such work executed.

SEC. 12. "Health service insurance" is the provision, by any means or in any form, by or for any person or group of persons, of the right to receive, when needed, the benefits of professional service practice and auxiliary insurance service as hereinafter defined, when the costs of such benefits and of their administration are defrayed from funds derived by any one or more of the following means or from any one or more of the following sources:

(a) The issuance of memberships, certificates, contracts or other evidences of rights or privileges to participate in or use the benefits, services, facilities or activities of the group or association or of any subsidiary, associated or affiliated firm, group, or association.

(b) Donations, contributions, or payments of money or other valuable consideration, mandatory or voluntary, from any source for the purpose of obtaining the benefits of professional service practice and auxiliary insurance service.

(c) Appropriations from any fund or funds of this State or of any political subdivision of this State or from any fund or funds of any instrumentality of this State.

(d) Any other form of common or pooled moneys, property, credit or other resources to be used to obtain or furnish any of the benefits, as defined by this act, for or to individual persons or groups of persons.

SEC. 13. "Fund" means the health service insurance fund.

SEC. 14. "Professional service practice" means the furnishing of any professional benefit under this act.

SEC. 15. "Auxiliary insurance service" means the furnishing by any person, firm, association or corporation of auxiliary benefits under this act.

SEC. 16. "Professional service practitioner" means any physician or dentist availing himself of the privilege to engage in professional service practice.

SEC. 17. "Auxiliary service association" means:

(a) Any person, firm, association or corporation furnishing for compensation any or all of the auxiliary benefits upon the basis of a health service insurance contract and not upon the basis of a service contract.

(b) For the purposes of this act, a county hospital or a municipal hospital or other public facility provided for rendering or actually rendering or prepared for conferring or actually conferring for compensation any or all of the auxiliary benefits.

SEC. 18. "Health service insurance association" means any group of two or more persons, other than a person and his dependents, who associate themselves together to secure for themselves and their dependents, or others, by any lawful means or in any lawful form, the benefits of professional service practice or auxiliary insurance service, or both.

SEC. 19. "Certificate of compliance" means a certificate issued by the commission to a single employer or a group of employers who are affiliated by stock ownership or common financial interests, certifying:

(a) That the employees of such employer or group of employers have been and are receiving the benefits of medical, surgical, dental, hospital and other service, defined herein as professional service practice and auxiliary insurance service.

(b) That such service is being received from the hospital departments of railroad, industrial, or other private corporations which have heretofore furnished and at the time or the enactment of this act are furnishing to the employees of the said employer or group of employers the same or equivalent services or treatment as would be required by this act.

(c) That such service is being rendered for no less than the same compensation, dues or payments by whomsoever paid, as would be required with respect to like groups of such employees if the contributions were paid into the health service insurance fund.

SEC. 20. "Member" means any person entitled to participate in or receive the use of benefits, services, facilities, or activities of a licensed health service insurance association.

SEC. 21. "Patient" means any person who needs or receives the professional services of a physician or dentist.

SEC. 22. "Wage" means every form of compensation paid by an employer to an employee as consideration for labor or services, and includes salaries, commissions, bonuses, and the reasonable money value of gifts, board, rent, housing, lodging, or other forms of consideration furnished by an employer.

SEC. 23. "Resident" means every natural person who has been physically within this State at least forty-eight weeks of the year next preceeding the time when he is entitled to receive any benefit; but temporary absences from this State shall not affect a person's status as such resident if such person has been living in this State at least five years.

SEC. 24. "Dependent" means a dependent spouse or a dependent minor child.

SEC. 30. This act shall be administered by the Health Service Insurance Commission, which is hereby created.

SEC. 31. The commission shall be composed of five members, all of whom shall have been residents of California for at least a total of ten years, two of whom shall be physicians who have held the degree of doctor of medicine for not less than ten years.

SEC. 32. All commissioners shall be appointed by the Governor, with the consent of the Senate. The first commissioners shall be appointed within thirty days after the effective date of this act.

SEC. 33. The terms of the first commissioners shall expire: Two on February 28, 1937, and three on February 28, 1939. Upon the expiration of these terms, the term for each commissioner shall be four years. In the event of a vacancy in any term the Governor shall appoint a commissioner for the unexpired portion thereof.

SEC. 34. If there is a quorum, no vacancy shall impair the commission's powers. Three commissioners shall constitute a quorum.

SEC. 35. No commissioner shall hold any position of trust or profit or engage in any business, occupation, or profession the duties or functions of which are inconsistent with or interfere with his duties as such commissioner.

SEC. 37. Each commissioner shall execute an official bond in the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000).

SEC. 38. Each commissioner shall receive an annual salary of $8,000 and his actual and necessary traveling expenses.

SEC. 39. Commissioners shall be liable to impeachment for any misdemeanor in office and shall be tried therefor in the manner prescribed in and subject to the provisions of Article IV, sections 17 and 18, of the Constitution.

SEC. 40. The Attorney General of the State of California shall be the attorney for the commission and he may assign from his staff such assistants or deputies as may be necessary.

SEC. 41. The commission shall appoint a chief medical officer and fix his compensation. He shall be a physician, shall hold the degree of doctor of medicine and shall have been engaged in the practice of medicine or in medical administration for at least ten years during the period of twelve years immediately preceding his appointment, not less than three years of which shall have been in the State of California. Upon making public the reason therefor the commission may remove the chief medical officer from such office. During the time he holds office the chief medical officer shall:

(a) Hold no other position of trust or profit, but shall devote his entire time to the performance of his official duties; and

(b) Be the chief administrative officer under this act with respect to all benefits conferred by this act and have all the duties, powers, and authority which may be delegated to him by the commission to carry out the purposes of this act.

SEC. 42. Subject to civil service laws, the commission may from time to time appoint a general finance officer and such assistants and other employees as may be necessary for the general financial administration of this act and may fix the method and amount of their compensation and assign their duties and require from them security for the faithful performance thereof.

SEC. 43. Subject to civil service laws, the commission may from time to time appoint or employ such assistants and other employees as may be required for the administration of this act and may assign their duties and fix the method and amount of their compensation and require of them security for the faithful performance of their duties.

SEC. 44. The commission may engage the services of and accept the reports and advice of experts concerning technical, scientific, medico-legal, actuarial, and other matters pertaining to the administration of this act.

SEC. 45. The commission shall designate a member to act as chairman. The chairman may from time to time divide the commission into subcommissions of one or more members, for the purpose of conducting any investigation, inquiry, hearing or review which may come under the jurisdiction of the commission, assign the members of the commission thereto, and, in case of a subcommission of more than one member, designate the chief thereof. A subcommission shall hear and make a determination upon any proceeding instituted by or before the commission assigned to such subcommission by the chairman, and shall make its report to the commission. Subcommissions consisting of professional members only, to be known as professional subcommissions, shall be assigned to conduct, hear and determine all investigations, inquiries, hearings or reviews relating to professional matters including matters relating to standards, service and compensation. The report of a subcommission shall become the final determination of the commission within thirty days after said report is filed with the commission by the subcommission unless, within such period, the chairman, or any member of the commission, has directed that such report shall be reviewed by the commission as a whole; provided, that no subcommission shall be assigned, without the unanimous assent of its members, to conduct any such investigation, inquiry, hearing or review, and provided that if such assent is not given, the commission shall sit en banc.

SEC. 50. There is hereby created a Health Insurance Advisory Council, herein after referred to as the "council" consisting of ten members, who shall be appointed by, and serve at the pleasure of, the commission.

SEC. 51. The membership of the council shall include at least two representatives from the California Medical Association, and representatives of the dental and nursing professions, and of hospitals, employers, employees, and agriculturists. Every such representative shall be actively engaged in the business, profession, or pursuit of which he is a representative.

SEC. 52. The council shall consider and shall advise the commission on such matters connected with the financial and medical administration of this act as may be submitted to it by the commission. Upon its own motion it may also submit to the commission such changes in the financial and medical administration of this act as it deems necessary. When directed by the commission to make an investigation in connection with the administration of this act, the council shall have the powers of the head of a department as such powers are specified in section 353 of the Political Code.

SEC. 53. The members of the council shall be paid their actual and necessary traveling and other necessary expenses incurred in connection with any activity under the provisions of this act.

SEC. 54. Five councilors shall constitute a quorum.

SEC. 60. (a) The commission shall procure and have offices in the city of Sacramento and in such other places as it may require in its discretion.

SEC. 61. The commission shall have full power and authority unconditionally to administer and enforce the provisions of this act, to make, amend, modify, repeal, and enforce rules and regulations consistent with the provisions of this act for its administration and enforcement, to perform all acts and exercise all powers, whether herein specifically designated, or in addition thereto, which are necessary or convenient to accomplish the purposes of this act, and to delegate to others such powers as may be necessary in administering this act.

SEC. 62. The commission shall promptly promulgate all rules and regulations adopted by it pursuant to this act and all amendments thereto and promulgates or repeals thereof. For the purposes of this section a rule or a regulation shall be deemed to be in full force and effect from the time of its promulgation to the time of

(1) promulgation of an amendment thereto, or

(2) promulgation of a modification or repeal thereto, or

(3) a judicial declaration by a court of competent jurisdiction to the effect that said rule or regulation was in excess of the authority of the commission, whichever is earlier.

An amendment or modification of a rule or regulation is a rule or regulation for the purposes of this section. No act not otherwise unlawful done by any person in good faith under the apparent authority of any rule or regulation adopted by the commission, while such rule or regulation is in effect, shall give rise to any liability, either civil or criminal, on the part of any person so acting.

SEC. 63. The commission shall have power to regulate and control professional service practice and auxiliary insurance service, to investigate, regulate and control the operations and affairs of all professional service practitioners, auxiliary service associations and health service insurance associations and to prescribe and enforce rates or fees to be charged or paid for all services to be furnished under this act. In prescribing such fees, rates, or charges, the commission shall have regard for the necessity of furnishing proper and adequate benefits to beneficiaries and for providing adequate, but not excessive, compensation therefor to professional service practitioners and auxiliary service associations. The commission may, to accomplish the purposes hereof, prescribe, maintain and enforce reasonable rules and regulations.

SEC. 64. The commission shall have the further power to investigate, regulate and control the operations and affairs of all persons, firms and corporations, including public corporations, offering to furnish or furnishing any service of a kind defined in this act as a benefit, or any other medical, dental, or hospital service, under any form of organization, including, but not restricted to, the forms of organization defined herein as an auxiliary service association or health service insurance association, without regard to the amount of compensation paid to any employee or to the amount of the net income of any person entitled to receive any such benefit thereunder.

SEC. 65. The commission may cooperate with public health officers and agents, both public and private, in the improvement of public health and sanitation and in the promotion of public education on all matters pertaining to health.

SEC. 66. The commission may accept and take and hold in public trust, either by purchase or by donation or gift, testamentary or otherwise, or in any other manner, without restrictions, all real and personal property for the benefit of this health service insurance system. The commission shall be vested with the legal title, as trustee for the public, and with the management and disposition of all of the property acquired by it pursuant to this section.

SEC. 67. The commission shall have power to institute and prosecute actions and proceedings involving any provision of this act or the administration thereof; and the commission may defend any action or proceeding brought against it for any cause whatever.

SEC. 68. The commission shall have the powers of the head of a department as such powers are specified in section 353 of the Political Code.

SEC. 70. In the administration of this act, the commission may hold and conduct hearings on any disputed matter arising under the provisions of this act.

SEC. 71. Claims shall be filed at such place, in such form, within such time and in such manner as the commission shall prescribe. The commission shall have power to determine all controverted claims and all other controversies arising under this act, and shall adopt such reasonable rules and regulations as may be necessary to establish a uniform system thereof throughout the State, and may designate referees to hear and determine, in the first instance, any such controverted claim or other controversy.

SEC. 72. Any person adversely affected by a decision of a referee may, within fourteen days after written notice of such decision, request a rehearing by the referee who made the decision. Thereupon such referee shall conduct such rehearing upon the matter after giving reasonable written notice thereof to all persons affected thereby who appeared at such prior hearing. Such referee shall render a decision on his rehearing within such uniform time as the commission may prescribe and shall give notice thereof to all persons interested who have appeared thereon.

All notices required to be given by this act or by any rule or regulation of the commission shall be in writing and may be served personally, or deposited in the United States registered mail addressed to the party to be notified at his last known address.

SEC. 73. Any person adversely affected by a decision upon a rehearing, may within fourteen days after written notice of such decision, request the commission to review such decision by filing notice to that effect with the referee who conducted such rehearing, and by filing a copy of such notice in an office of the commission. Thereupon the commission or any sub-commission thereof shall conduct a hearing upon the matter after giving reasonable written notice thereof to all persons affected by the decision to be reviewed who have appeared at either or both of such hearing and rehearing. The commission or any division thereof shall render a decision within thirty days after its hearing is completed, and shall give written notice of its decision to all persons affected thereby who appeared thereon and to all persons who appeared at either or both of such prior hearing and rehearing.

SEC. 74. Any party aggrieved by such action of the commission may make a written demand for a certified transcript of all the papers on file in the commission's office affecting or relating to such action and all the evidence taken on the hearing. Such party shall pay such reasonable fee as the commission may prescribe for every folio of the transcript and one dollar for certification thereof. Thereupon, the commission shall, within thirty days, make and certify such transcript.

SEC. 75. Any party affected by a decision of the commission may apply to any court of competent jurisdiction for a writ of review for the purpose of having the lawfulness of the original order, rule, regulation or decision on rehearing inquired into and determined. Such review shall not be extended further than to determine whether or not:

1. The commission acted without or in excess of its powers;
2. The order or decision was procured by fraud;
3. The order, decision, rule or regulation was unreasonable;
4. If findings of fact were made, such findings of fact support the order or decision under review.

The findings of the commission on questions of fact shall be conclusive and final and shall not be subject to review. The commission and each party to the proceeding before the commission shall have the right to appear in the review proceeding.

The provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure of this State relating to writs of review shall, so far as applicable and not in conflict with this act, apply to proceedings in the courts under the provisions of this section.

Such writ of review shall be issued if, but only if, applied for within the sixty days next succeeding any one of the following occurrences:

- (a) Notice of a denial by the commission of an application for an original hearing;
- (b) Notice of a denial by the commission of an application for a review by the commission of a decision made by a referee upon a rehearing;
- (c) Notice of a decision by the commission on any matter heard by the commission either originally or upon a review after a hearing or a rehearing by a referee.

Deposit in the United States registered mail, addressed to the last address of the applicant made known by him to the commission, shall constitute communication of notice within the intent of this section.

SEC. 76. The following decisions are final and not subject to review:

- (a) The determination of a referee unless proceedings for rehearing or review thereof are taken as herein provided.
- (b) The action of the commission in denying or revoking a privilege or a license or making a decision on a claim, complaint or controversy unless application for review thereof is made to a court of competent jurisdiction within the time specified in this act.

SEC. 77. The commission and its delegated representatives shall, in administering any provision of this act or conducting any hearing or investigation hereunder, have power to administer oaths and examine under oath any person, or witness, certify to all official acts, take depositions and issue subpoenas for the attendance of witnesses and the production of books, accounts, documents, records or other papers.

Sec. 78. In any hearing in any part of the State, the process of the commission shall extend to all parts of the State and may be served by any person capable of serving civil process, such person to receive such compensation as may be allowed by the commission but not to exceed the fees allowed by law for similar service.

Sec. 79. Each witness who shall appear in response to a subpoena shall receive for his attendance the fees and mileage allowed by law to a witness in a civil action.

Sec. 80. In case of the refusal of any witness to attend or testify or produce any papers as required by such subpoena, the commission may petition the superior court, in and for the county in which the particular matter is pending, for its order requiring the obedience of the witness to the subpoena. The court shall order the witness to appear at the time and place designated in such order, which time shall be not more than ten days from the date of the order then and there to show cause why he has not obeyed the subpoena, a copy of which order shall be served upon such witness. If it shall appear to the court that such subpoena was regularly issued under this act, the court shall order such witness to obey such subpoena at a time and place to be designated in such order.

Sec. 81. Depositions of witnesses within or without the State may be taken in the manner prescribed by law for like depositions in civil actions in the superior court.

Sec. 82. Any party to a hearing under this act shall have the right to reasonable notice thereof and of a written copy of all charges or other matters of concern to such party which will be presented at such hearing.

Sec. 83. Any party to a hearing under the provisions of this act shall have the right to the attendance of witnesses in his behalf at such hearing or upon deposition upon making request that designated persons be subpoenaed. But the commission may require that any party who requests the issuance of a subpoena for any attending witness shall pay the mileage and witness fees of such witness if it shall be made satisfactorily evident, and the commission finds, that the said party had no reasonable ground for believing that the said witness could give competent, material or relevant evidence substantially tending to establish such party's claim or answer.

Sec. 84. No exceptions need be entered to any ruling made in any hearing under this act.

Sec. 85. Evidence shall be governed by the rules of the commission and shall not be subject to common law or statutory rules of evidence and procedure, but such competent, relevant and material evidence is admissible as will serve to obtain and preserve the substantial rights of the parties.

Sec. 86. The commission shall have power to require a bond in a reasonable amount of any claimant making application for a rehearing before a referee or review before the commission, and may assess costs, including attorney's fees against a claimant whose claim is disallowed upon such reconsideration or review, but those powers shall be exercised only in those instances in which the claim is made on trivial grounds, or in which there is satisfactory evidence and the commission finds an intent on the part of the claimant to harass the commission in the discharge of its duties or maliciously to harass an opposing party in interest.

Sec. 87. Attorneys appearing for or on behalf of any beneficiary under the provisions of this act shall receive only such compensation therefor from said party as may be fixed, both as to amount and manner of payment, by the rules of the commission. The charging or receipt of any other amount of compensation by such attorney is unlawful.

Sec. 88. It shall be a misdemeanor to solicit, by agent or otherwise, for the purpose of appearing for or on behalf of any party in any matter instituted by or before the commission or its referees.

Sec. 100. The commission shall prescribe, maintain and enforce reasonable rules and regulations for professional service practice and the obtaining thereof by individuals and health service insurance associations, including, but not restricted to, the ratio of the number of physicians or dentists to the number of members.

Sec. 101. No professional service practitioner shall render any professional services under this act other than personally; and nothing in this act shall be construed to authorize payment of compensation to any physician or dentist for professional services rendered under this act not rendered by him personally; provided, however, that the commission may in its discretion recognize not more than two bona fide professional assistants of any physician or dentist rendering such services under this act, when it is established to the satisfaction of the commission that these assistants are not supplanting the personal services of such physician or dentist.

Sec. 102. The rendering of services under this act is a privilege and any physician or dentist and any regularly established hospital, or laboratory, or any other person or agency able and desiring to render services necessary for the proper furnishing of benefits, shall be entitled to render services in accordance with the provisions of this act; provided, however, that the commission, after notice and a full opportunity to be heard pursuant to the provisions of this act may, upon determining that good and sufficient cause exists, revoke such privilege. The following shall be deemed to be good and sufficient cause for revocation of the privilege of rendering services under this act: fraud, deceit, intent to defraud, gross neglect, habitual intemperance, habitual use of narcotic drugs, rebate of fees or charges that will result in the actual rendering of services at rates below those for fees or charges that may be established by the commission, solicitation of patients, or any violation of the Medical Practice Act or Dental Practice Act of this State; provided, that none of the aforementioned causes shall justify the revocation of such privilege unless done or committed while the physician, dentist, hospital, laboratory or other person or agency was rendering services under the provisions of this act.

SEC. 103. In addition to its own action against a physician or dentist for any of the causes specified as sufficient for the revocation of the privilege of rendering services under this act, the commission shall file a complaint with the State Board of Medical Examiners or the State Board of Dental Examiners, as the case may be, against any physician or dentist found by the commission to be guilty of any of the acts specified in the State Medical Practice Act or State Dental Practice Act as cause for revocation of license.

SEC. 110. Any professional service practitioner proposing to furnish or furnishing any service of a kind defined in this act as a professional benefit to the members of any health service insurance association shall first obtain a license from the commission so to do.

SEC. 111. Any person, firm, or corporation proposing to furnish, or furnishing, any service of a kind defined in this act as an auxiliary benefit to members of any health service insurance association shall first obtain a license from the commission to operate as an auxiliary service association.

SEC. 112. Any group of persons proposing to operate, or operating, in a manner or for a purpose defined in this act as a health service insurance association shall first obtain a license from the commission so to do.

SEC. 113. Any person, firm, association, or corporation which, on the effective date of this act, is furnishing to or obtaining for any person or group of persons any service of a kind defined in this act as a professional or auxiliary benefit is a health service insurance association when the costs of such service or services and the administration thereof are defrayed from funds derived by any one or more of the following means or from any one or more of the following sources:

(a) The issuance of memberships, certificates, contracts, or other evidences of rights or privileges to participate in or use the benefits, services, facilities or activities of the group or association or of any subsidiary, associated, or affiliated firm, group, association, or corporation.

(b) Donations or contributions from any source for the purpose of obtaining the benefits of professional service practice or auxiliary insurance service.

(c) Appropriations from any fund, except the health service insurance fund, of this State or any political subdivision or instrumentality of this State.

(d) Any other form of common or pooled moneys, property, credit, or other resources to be used to obtain or furnish any benefit, as defined by this act, for or to a person or group of persons.

SEC. 114. Any person, firm, association or corporation required by this act to obtain a license must make written application therefor to the commission, which application shall be verified by or on behalf of the applicant in the same manner as pleadings are verified in civil actions, and then filed in the office of the commission.

SEC. 115. In such form and in addition to such other information as the commission may require, such application with respect to a professional service practitioner shall specify:

(a) The rate of compensation to be received in return for services;

(b) References to the character, reputation for personal integrity and standing of the applicant;

(c) Information with respect to the means by which applicant intends to assure the fulfillment of any contract that applicant may undertake to furnish the benefits of professional service practice.

SEC. 116. In such form and in addition to such other information as the commission may require, such application with respect to auxiliary service associations shall specify:

(a) A description of the types and kinds of service to be furnished to those persons entitled to participate in the benefits or activities of such association;

(b) A description of the physical facilities to be used in rendering or furnishing such service;

(c) The names and office and residence addresses of the persons who will conduct the business of the association and a succinct statement of their experience and training;

(d) A statement of the fees, dues, rates or other charges imposed upon members of such association.

SEC. 117. In such form and in addition to such other information as the commission may require, such application with respect to health service insurance associations shall specify:

(a) A description of the types of service to be received by those persons entitled to participate in the benefits or activities of such association.

(b) A description of the physical facilities to be used in rendering such service.

(c) The names and office and residence addresses of the professional service practitioner or practitioners who will furnish the benefits of professional service practice to the members of such association and the method of compensation by which they propose to be paid therefor; and the means and agencies by which the applicant intends to furnish to its members the benefits of auxiliary insurance service.

(d) The names and office and residence addresses of the persons who will conduct the business of the association, and a succinct statement of their experience and training.

(e) A statement of the fees, dues, rates, or other charges imposed upon members of such association and of the fees, rates or other considerations to be paid for services rendered to the members.

SEC. 118. Upon the filing of an application for any of the licenses hereinabove required, the commission shall examine it and any other papers and documents filed therewith. The commission may also require, at the actual expense of the applicant, incurred and borne by the applicant, a detailed examination, audit and investigation of the applicant and its affairs.

SEC. 119. Before issuing a license to an applicant for any of the licenses hereinabove required, the commission must find that at least the following conditions exist:

(a) That the proposed plan of applicant's operations and activities is fair, just, and equitable.

(b) That applicant is not engaged in, and does not propose to engage in, solicitation, directly or through agents, of members, subscribers or beneficiaries.

(c) If the application is for either a license to operate an auxiliary service association or a health service insurance association, that the memberships, certificates, contracts, or other evidences of rights or privileges for participation in or use of the benefits, services, facilities, or activities of the association, which the applicant proposes to issue, and the method whereby the same are proposed to be issued, conform to the rules and regulations of the commission in regard thereto, promulgated pursuant to the provisions of this act, and are not such as will work a fraud or injustice upon any member, intended beneficiary, or other person.

(d) If the application is for a license to operate a health service insurance association, that applicant is able to provide adequate benefits of professional service practice or auxiliary insurance service, or both, as the case may be, and properly to care for its members according to the standards of service prescribed by the commission.

(e) If the application is for a license to operate a health service insurance association, that applicant has made, and/or proposes to make, all investments of funds derived from members in compliance with the provisions of section 574 of the Civil Code, as therein prescribed for investments by savings and loan corporations.

SEC. 120. When the commission has determined that an applicant for any of the licenses hereinabove required is otherwise entitled to a license, it shall require the applicant to file with it a bond conditioned both: (1) Upon the compliance by applicant with the provisions of this act and with the rules and regulations of the commission; and (2) upon the protection of those with whom applicant may have any dealing against fraud or damage by reason of the applicant's activities. The penal sum of such bond shall be such sum as the commission may find to be reasonable but not to exceed twenty five thousand dollars ($25,000), and shall be executed by a corporation authorized to become a surety upon bonds or undertakings required or authorized by the laws of this State.

In any action against the applicant covered by the conditions of said bond, the surety thereon may be joined with the applicant, in which case the surety, to the amount of the bond, will be jointly and severally liable with applicant for the payment of any judgment rendered against applicant in such action.

SEC. 121. Before granting any license to any applicant, the commission shall require the applicant to pay to the commission a minimum original fee of:

(a) Five dollars, for a professional service practitioner's license.

(b) Twenty dollars, for an auxiliary service association's license.

(c) Fifty dollars, for a health service insurance association's license.

In addition to such minimum original fees, the commission may charge and collect such fees as may be necessary to defray the necessary expenses incident to superintendence, control, and regulation of each of said classes of such licenses respectively.

SEC. 122. When the commission has approved the bond which has been filed by the applicant and when the applicant has paid the prescribed fee therefor, the commission shall issue to the applicant a license. Such license shall remain in force and effect unless suspended or revoked until the thirtieth day of June next following; and thereafter the licensee must renew its license annually subject to the same conditions as applied to its original license, each renewal to expire on the succeeding thirtieth day of June. The commission before renewing a license shall require the licensee to pay the commission a renewal fee. The amount of such renewal fee shall be fixed in the same manner and subject to the same requirements as are herein prescribed for original fees.

SEC. 123. After notice and hearing, the commission may suspend or revoke the license of any licensee for failing to conform to any of the standards prescribed by this act or to any of the rules or regulations of the commission promulgated pursuant to the provisions of this act. Any such hearing shall be subject to all the provisions of this act relating to hearings before the commission and review thereof.

SEC. 124. Every representation by a health service insurance association, with respect to the diagnosis, treatment, or other medical or dental services available to its members, must include a statement containing the name and address of each physician or dentist by whom such diagnosis, treatment or service will be given.

SEC. 130. Benefits shall be available to the extent and under the conditions of this act at a time set by the commission, and not later than December 1, 1936, to an employee and his dependent spouse and minor children. An employee or his dependent spouse or minor child shall not be entitled to benefits under this act unless he or she shall be or become a resident of and physically within this State or unless he or she shall be physically within this State and shall have satisfactorily passed such physical examination as the commission may prescribe, within ten days immediately preceding becoming so entitled. But no constrained inmate of a penal institution or of an institution for the insane and no person committed to an institution for the feeble-minded shall become entitled to receive any benefits provided in this act.

SEC. 131. No benefit shall be paid for by the commission unless:

(a) There shall be paid by or on behalf of the beneficiary to the commission for any one sickness or injury, 50 per cent of the cost of the first professional visit and 25 per cent of the maintenance cost of the first day's hospitalization, collection thereof to be made at such time and in such manner as may be prescribed by the commission.

(b) If an employee, he has had not less than ten days of employment within the three months preceding the day on which benefits are claimed.

(c) He be the dependent of an employee, and such employee has had not less than ten days of employment within the three months preceding the day on which benefits are claimed.

SEC. 132. Primary benefits shall include:

Class one: The services of a physician who is a professional service practitioner and who shall be chosen by the patient, who shall give preventive, diagnostic, or therapeutic treatment and care to the patient at the physician's office, the patient's home, a hospital, or elsewhere as the case, in the opinion of the physician, may warrant.

Class two: The services of laboratories when prescribed by the attending physician.

Class three: The services of a dentist who is a professional service practitioner and who shall be chosen by the patient, for the extraction of teeth, and on the prescription of the attending physician, such other therapeutic dental services as may be authorized by the commission.

Class four: Prenatal and maternity treatment and care at the physician's office, at home, in hospital, or elsewhere as the case, in the opinion of the physician, may warrant.

Class five: Maintenance and care in hospital and nursing care as may be prescribed by the attending physician.

Class six: Infants and children up to fourteen years of age shall receive not only sickness and injury benefits, but health supervision and preventive medical care as the commission may prescribe.

Class seven: Essential drugs and medicines.

SEC. 133. The amounts of primary benefits to be furnished to a patient suffering from any one illness or injury shall be limited as follows:

Class one: Twenty-six weeks.

Class two: On the prescription of the attending physician.

Class three: On the prescription of the attending physician except for the extraction of teeth.

Class four: When necessary, maintenance and care in hospital and nursing care limited as in class five hereunder.

Class five: One hundred and eleven days, of which the first twenty-one days shall be without charge to the patient except for charges expressly imposed by this act, and the remaining ninety days at a charge to such patient equal to fifteen per cent (15%) of the daily maintenance cost of such benefit; provided, however, that any beneficiary over sixty-five years of age shall receive said benefits for not to exceed ninety days in any consecutive one hundred and four weeks, subject to the same provisions for the first twenty-one days and the last sixty-nine days as are above set forth; provided that any beneficiary may at his expense receive these benefits beyond the limits above specified at the same basic maintenance cost paid by the commission.

Class six: For sickness and injury, as above specified; for health supervision and preventive medical care, as the commission may prescribe.

Class seven: On the prescription of the attending physician under uniform rules and regulations to be prescribed by the commission.

The foregoing periods and services may be shortened and reduced by the commission by reasonable, uniform regulations, if the resources of the fund make such action necessary or advisable in its opinion.

SEC. 134. Whenever the commission finds that the revenues of the fund justify provision of benefits in addition to the primary benefits it may from time to time provide for the furnishing of all or a part of the following additional benefits:

(a) Drugs and medicines other than those included in primary benefits and medical and surgical appliances as may be prescribed by the attending physician.

(b) Nursing service outside of the hospital as may be prescribed by the attending physician.

(c) Institutional care for convalescents.

(d) The commission shall designate types of dental restorations or replacements or other dental services to be allowed as additional benefits hereunder. The commission shall, however, permit the beneficiary and his dentist to designate the type of dental restorations or replacements and other dental service or services.

The commission may:

(1) Pay the whole cost of the dental service rendered; or

(2) Such fractional cost thereof as the commission may determine; or

(3) Allow a maximum dental expenditure exclusive of dental extractions for each beneficiary for any given period or periods.

The benefits provided by this section may be referred to as "additional benefits".

SEC. 135. When a person ceases to be an employee, he shall, from the date he ceased to be such employee, nevertheless be considered an employee for an extended period equal to one week for every five weeks during which contributions with respect to such employee have been made; provided that such extended period shall not become greater than one year. In the event of his death during such extended period, his dependents shall be entitled to all benefits to which they would have been entitled had he remained alive for the entire extended period.

SEC. 136. When any employer establishes to the satisfaction of the commission that its employees have been, and, on the effective date of this act, and at the time of such employer's application for the certificate provided for in this section, are receiving the same or equivalent medical, surgical, dental, hospital and other services, provided for other employees by this act, from its existing hospital department and the personnel thereof, as then organized, conducted and operated, the commission shall issue to said employer a certificate of compliance, and the employees of such employer may continue to receive the said benefits from and as furnished and provided by the hospital department of their said employer in lieu of the benefits furnished under the provisions of this act.

Under such conditions said employer and employees shall be considered as complying with this act; and provided, further, that the commission shall have the power, by resolution after a hearing, to determine from time to time whether any such organization, hospital department or corporation and the employees contributing thereto, or the members thereof, are in compliance with this act.

The commission shall, when it issues such certificate of compliance, appropriate the reasonable sum paid to the hospital departments of such employer for the furnishing of the benefits extended by it to its employees, and arrange for the payment of the remainder of the contributions in respect to the said employees to the commission for the furnishing of the benefits of health service insurance to their spouses and dependent minor children under the provisions of this act, provided, further, that if such employer so elects, and meets the standards of the commission, it may be licensed to serve as a health service insurance association to care for the employees and/or their spouses and dependent minor children.

SEC. 137. No similar benefits shall be provided or allowed for any person entitled, for the same physical causes, to medical, dental, hospital, or other treatment or care under any workmen's compensation insurance act or employer's liability act of this State or of the United States of America.

In the event of any doubt as to whether or not any beneficiary would be entitled, for the same physical causes, to a similar benefit from any other source, the benefits provided by this act shall be promptly furnished and the commission shall be reimbursed therefor as provided in this act.

SEC. 138. If any benefit is furnished to any person who, by reason of the same sickness or injury, has a claim for compensation or damages (including costs of or liability for medical care), under any workmen's compensation insurance act or any employer's liability act of this State, or of the United States of America, or otherwise, against his employer or against any other person, firm, or corporation for causing such sickness or injury and for the damages resulting therefrom, the commission shall, to the extent of the disbursement for furnishing such benefit, have a prior right to be reimbursed from any sum or damages which such person is entitled to receive by way of compensation or damages, by suit, settlement, voluntary payment or judgment, and the commission shall, to such extent, be subrogated to such claim. After having received notice that the commission is entitled to reimbursement and is subrogated as provided in this section, the payment of any sum of money or delivery of any thing of value to such person by way of such compensation or damages without first reimbursing the commission for such disbursement shall render the employer or other person, firm, or corporation making such payment or delivery liable to damages, at the suit of the commission, in such sum as may be necessary to reimburse the commission to the extent of such disbursement.

SEC. 139. If the person furnished such benefit and having such claim for compensation or damages (including costs of or liability for medical care) unreasonably refuses or neglects to commence action or to institute proceedings to enforce and collect such claim, the commission may either:

(a) Recover from the person furnished such benefit such sum as may be necessary to reimburse the commission to the extent of the disbursement for so furnishing the benefit to such person; or

(b) Take such action or institute such proceeding, in the name and on behalf of such person, to recover such claim for compensation or damages (including costs of or liability for medical care) from the one liable to such person therefor, in which case any sum recovered by settlement or judgment as the result of such action or proceeding, after deducting the costs, shall be used first to reimburse the commission to the extent of its disbursement, and any balance thereof remaining shall be paid to such person having such claim.

Nothing in this act shall affect or diminish any physician's, dentist's, nurse's, hospital's, or other agency's claim for the value of services rendered by them, whether or not paid for under this act, in any such action brought to recover such compensation or damages.

SEC. 140. If an employee himself pays for care or treatment when sick or injured because of a dispute over his right to be furnished such care or treatment under this act, he shall be reimbursed therefor by the commission from the fund when it is determined, at a hearing before the commission under its jurisdiction as elsewhere provided in this act, that he should have received such benefit under the provisions of this act.

SEC. 150. The commission shall be authorized to enter into contracts and agreements with persons, firms or corporations to furnish benefits upon the terms and conditions provided in this act. Said agreements shall provide for benefits for such periods of time and contain such other reasonable terms and provisions consistent with this act as the commission shall prescribe.

SEC. 151. The commission shall, by contractual engagements or other undertakings, make all the primary benefits enumerated in this act available to any resident of this State who is neither an employee nor the dependent of an employee within the meaning of this act, subject, however, to all of the following four enumerated conditions:

(a) The net annual income of the resident from all sources together with that of his spouse shall not be in excess of $3,000.00; and

(b) The resident, or some person or agency as hereinafter described acting on his behalf, shall have paid in advance the premium or premiums prescribed by the commission; and

(c) Within ten days of the time at which he is to become a beneficiary the resident shall either:

(1) Have passed a physical examination prescribed by the commission; or

(2) Have been a beneficiary under the provisions of this act relating to employees and their dependents; or

(3) Have been born in the State of California to parents at least one of whom since the birth of said child has continued to be a beneficiary.

(d) The person is not a constrained inmate of any penal institution or of any institution for the insane and is not one committed to an institution for the feeble-minded.

SEC. 152. Subject to all of the conditions enumerated in this act, the following persons and entities may contract for health service insurance with the commission:

(a) A resident on his behalf, and on behalf of his dependents;

(b) The United States of America or any department, bureau or commission thereof or any foreign State upon behalf of any or all of its officers, employees and agents and their dependents who are residents of this State;

(c) Any political subdivision of this State and any instrumentality of this State on behalf of any of its residents, the care of whose health is imposed upon it by law;

(d) Any competent person on behalf of any person who is made eligible to the benefits of this act subject to the provisions of this act relating to conditions precedent to eligibility for the right to contract for benefits.

The commission shall also undertake under equitable conditions and for an equitable contribution from any lawful source or fund to make the benefits of this act available to any class of residents on whose behalf the State of California assumes the burden of providing the benefits enumerated in this act.

SEC. 153. The commission shall be competent to enter into contractual engagements and other undertakings concerning health service insurance on behalf of the State of California, and any such contract or undertaking shall specify among other things:

(a) The length of time during which such engagements and undertakings shall subsist;

(b) The manner and time of paying premiums and other contributions under such engagements and undertakings;

(c) The amounts of premiums and other contributions to be paid under such engagements and undertakings;

(d) The manner and conditions of novation of such engagements and undertakings; and

(e) Such other conditions as may be reasonably necessary for the equitable administration of such engagements and undertakings.

SEC. 154. In order equitably to distribute the costs of benefits among those who contribute to the fund, whether as employees or otherwise, the commission may from time to time establish and alter systems of premium rates giving effect to differences of costs as between those who are required to be beneficiaries and those who become beneficiaries by contract or other undertakings with the commission pursuant to the provisions of this act. In fixing such premium rates, established actuarial principles shall be followed, in determining differences in costs between those required to be beneficiaries and those who become beneficiaries by contract with the commission or by other undertakings, arising because of the following:

(a) Costs of making the physical examinations authorized by or provided in this act;

(b) Costs of administration;

(c) Average morbidity rates;

(d) Average number of dependents; and

(e) Such other differences as are necessary to uniform and equitable distribution of the costs of benefits.

In giving effect to the foregoing subsections of this section, all premiums shall be directly proportional to the average annual net income of the beneficiary and his spouse, provided that the minimum premium shall not be less than the premium determined with respect to an average net income of $1,000 a year. Premiums determined under this section shall not depend, in the instance of any particular family, upon the number of persons in a family composed of parents and dependent minor children.

When no general State tax on the annual net income of natural persons is in effect, the annual net income, for the purposes of this act, of a person and his spouse shall be determined with respect to the next preceding completed calendar year and shall be deemed to be the sum of the following enumerated items:

(a) Their total wage earnings, fees, and other emoluments for personal services received during the said calendar year, whether as employees or otherwise; plus

(b) An amount determined as follows:

(1) Their withdrawals in money or the equivalent from asset funds devoted previously to the said withdrawals, to their principal trade, business, or other gainful occupation; minus

(2) Their investments during the year in money, or the equivalent in their principal trade, business, or other gainful occupation, of any funds not devoted previously to the said principal trade, business, or other gainful occupation; and

(c) Plus an amount equal to seven per cent of all their real and personal property not primarily used or held for use either in their principal trade, business, or other gainful occupation or primarily used or held for use in their domestic establishment or for both such classes of use, valued at their reasonable market value as of December 31 of the said calendar year; provided that all claims in action shall be deemed to be property coming within the meaning of this subsection and subject to its provisions.

When the annual net income of natural persons is made the basis of any general State tax, the annual net income of a person and his spouse shall for the purposes of this act, be determined with respect to the next preceding completed taxable year and shall be deemed to be the sum of the following enumerated items:

(a) Their net taxable income under the said income tax act; plus

(b) Their income from all sources, realized in money, that is either:

(1) Not taxable by the State; or

(2) Taxable by the State but not taxed under the said income tax act.

In no event shall the income of a person and his spouse, if neither is an employee, be deemed, for the purpose of determining any premium for voluntary health service insurance, to be less than one thousand dollars ($1,000) a year.

The commission shall have power to prescribe the forms requiring the disclosure of all facts material for determining net income, and the manner of reporting thereon, for all determinations of net incomes of persons for the purposes of this act and shall have power to withhold and shall withhold all benefits under this act from all persons who shall fail to present, under oath within a reasonable time after demand by the commission, signed statements in writing on the prescribed forms showing that their incomes entitle them to receive the benefits of this act; provided that during such time of withholding of benefits from any such person and his dependents, or any of them, the sums payable by employers with respect to employees under this act, or with respect to any person procuring voluntary health service insurance under this act, shall continue to be payable, but the commission shall hold all sums paid during such time in trust for the person paying said sums pending the establishment of the income status of the person from whom or from whose dependents benefits are being withheld.

The commission, for the purpose of ascertaining the correctness of any verified statement or for the purpose of making an estimate of the net income of any person, shall have power to examine or cause to be examined by any agent or representative designated by it for that purpose, any books, records or memoranda, bearing upon the matters required to be included in the verified statement.

SEC. 153. The commission shall by contractual engagements and other undertakings make available to employees and to other voluntary subscribers thereto any one or more of the additional benefits provided for by this act under the conditions set forth in this act with respect to primary benefits. The commission shall be competent to enter into such undertaking on behalf of the State of California in accordance with the conditions enumerated in this act with respect to contractual agreements and other undertakings relating to primary benefits.

In order equitably to distribute the cost of additional benefits to be made available to those voluntarily subscribing thereto, either on behalf of themselves, or on behalf of themselves and their dependents or on behalf of others, the commission may from time to time establish and alter systems of premium rates giving effect, in accordance with established actuarial principles, to the following variable characteristics:

- (a) Costs of physical examinations;
- (b) Differences of average morbidity rates as among the several items for which additional benefits may be authorized;
- (c) Differences in costs of the several benefit items which may be authorized; and
- (d) Differences in average number of persons per family as between those eligible for primary benefits and those subscribing for additional benefits.

But the premium rates determined for particular benefits or for particular combinations of benefits shall not depend upon the number of persons in a family consisting of parents and dependent minor children. The system of premium rates provided for in this section shall be such that the total cost of additional benefits subscribed to shall be borne by those who pay such premiums.

SEC. 156. The commission shall from time to time make rules for the reduction, postponement, suspension, or termination of the right of a resident and his dependents to receive any or all benefits hereunder because of nonpayment of premiums, for the methods by which unpaid premiums may be paid, and for the reinstatement of the right to receive all or a portion of such benefits by payment of past and present unpaid premiums.

SEC. 157. During the period of a resident's illness entitling him to benefits hereunder, payment by him of premiums for himself and his dependents may be suspended, premiums accruing during such period to be later paid as may reasonably be prescribed by the commission.

SEC. 158. If she engages in no gainful occupation during such period, a woman entitled to benefits paying premiums hereunder shall not be required to pay any premium with respect to the period beginning six weeks before childbirth and ending six weeks thereafter.

SEC. 170. There is hereby created the health service insurance fund which shall be administered by the commission.

SEC. 171. The liability of the State of California under any provision of this act is limited to the resources of the fund and the State shall not be liable under any condition or in any circumstance for any amount which cannot be recovered from or paid out of the fund.

SEC. 172. All moneys received by the commission shall be paid over to the State Controller and by him deposited in the State treasury of this State and credited to the "Health service insurance fund" hereinabove created and to the particular account specified by the commission.

Compensation for all benefits, all expenses of administration and all other charges which accrue by reason of the provisions of this act shall be paid from the fund.

The Controller shall issue no warrants upon the Treasurer for any disbursement, other than in the making of investments of surplus funds and of reserve funds, except upon the order of the commission. The commission shall allocate the fund to the respective fund accounts against which all warrants are to be drawn and shall indicate on each order upon the Controller the account against which the warrant is to be drawn.

SEC. 173. The State Treasurer shall be custodian of the fund and shall make disbursements therefrom only in the manner provided by law. He shall execute an additional official bond in the penal sum of $50,000 conditioned upon the faithful performance of his duties under this act. He shall deposit such portion of the fund as is not required for immediate use in the manner authorized by law for other State funds in his custody. All interest earned thereby shall accrue to the fund and shall be credited to the several fund accounts in proportion to their average daily balances.

SEC. 174. In the manner provided by law any surplus or reserve in the fund may be invested in securities which are legal investments for the moneys of the State of California. Said securities may be converted into money. All such surplus or reserves shall remain in the custody of the State Treasurer regardless of whether they be in the form of cash or securities.

SEC. 175. All receipts and disbursements under the voluntary provisions of this act shall be accounted for separately from the receipts and disbursements under the mandatory provisions of this act. All costs of administration referable to the voluntary provisions of this act shall be charged to the expense accounts of voluntary health service insurance and all costs of administration referable to the mandatory provisions of this act shall be charged to the expense accounts of mandatory health service insurance.

All receipts and disbursements occurring by reason of additional benefits under this act shall be accounted for separately from receipts and disbursements occurring by reason of primary benefits under this act. All administrative costs referable to the administration of additional benefits shall be charged to the expense accounts of additional benefits.

All administrative expenses not directly attributable to or referable to any particular class of health service insurance shall be distributed, in proportion to their average daily balances, among the following classes of accounts:

- (a) Expense accounts for mandatory health service insurance of primary benefits;
- (b) Expense accounts for voluntary health service insurance of primary benefits;
- (c) Expense accounts for additional benefits.

SEC. 176. From and after ninety days after the effective date of this act, every employer other than the State, and other than an employer to whom a certificate of compliance has been issued and is in effect, shall pay to the commission an amount equal to five per cent of the wages paid to his employees, other than casual employees, during any calendar month, provided that, from the amount thus made payable, any employer may deduct an amount equal to one-half of one per cent of the wages paid to those of his employees who are entitled to benefits under this act and any workmen's compensation or employer's liability act.

Said amounts, so adjusted by such deductions, shall be paid to the commission not later than the fifteenth day of the calendar month next following the month in which said wages were paid.

It shall be unlawful for any employer subject to this section to deduct from the wage of any employee, with respect to whom any amount is payable under this section, a sum greater than three and one-half per cent of the wage of such employee.

SEC. 177. From and after ninety days after the effective date of this act every employer, other than the State and other than one to whom a certificate of compliance has been issued and is in effect, shall pay to the commission with respect to each of his casual employees an amount equal to twelve cents per calendar day from and including the day on which the employment is begun to and including the day on which the employment is concluded. Such amounts shall be paid to the commission not later than the fifteenth day of the month next following the month in which the employer pays the wage of such casual employee.

If a casual employee concludes a casual employment and, on the same day, begins one or more other casual employments, only one payment to the commission with respect to that day shall be made; and such payment shall be made by the employer for whom the said employee first worked on that day. The commission may direct that at the conclusion of each casual employment the employer shall give to each casual employee a signed statement in writing on the form prescribed by it, showing the beginning date and the closing date of the employment.

SEC. 178. From and after ninety days after the effective date of this act, every employee of the State, other than a casual employee, whose wage is paid from funds directly controlled by the State shall pay to the commission such sum as will equal three and one-half per cent of his wage. The head of each State office or department shall apply such rate of payment to such employee's wage and shall certify to the State Controller on each and every pay roll the amount to be paid and shall furnish immediately to the commission a copy of each and every such pay roll; and each such amount shall be deducted by the head of each office or department and shall be remitted to the commission, and record thereof shall be made by the commission. Payment of salaries or wages less such payment shall be full and complete discharge and acquittance of all claims and demands whatsoever for the service rendered by employees during the period covered by such payment, except their claims to the benefits to which they may be entitled under the provisions of this act.

The provisions of this section shall apply to all casual employees of the State and payments for them to the commission except that, in lieu of three and one-half per cent of the wage, such casual employees shall pay twelve cents for each calendar day of employment from and including the day of beginning of the casual employment to and including the day of concluding such casual employment.

SEC. 179. From and after ninety days after the effective date of this act, there shall be paid into the health service insurance fund by the State from the general fund and from every other fund out of which wages are paid to employees, the following:

One and one-half per cent of all wages paid to employees other than casual employees; provided, that, from the amount thus made payable, there shall be an allowable deduction equal to one-half of one per cent paid to such employees as are entitled to benefits under this act and any workmen's compensation or employer's liability act.

Sec. 180. All the moneys now or hereafter paid into the health service insurance fund are hereby appropriated, to be expended by the commission in accordance with law for the administration of and to carry out the purposes of this act. Such moneys shall be paid into the fund from the following sources and subject to the following restrictions and conditions:

(a) On the date this act takes effect, there shall be transferred to the fund out of the general fund of the State, as a loan, the sum of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000). Thereafter, whenever on the last day of any month there is in the health service insurance fund the sum of six hundred thousand dollars ($600,000) in excess of the probable disbursements from the fund for the next succeeding month, the commission shall thereupon transfer the one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000), so borrowed, from the health insurance fund to the general fund.

(b) From and after ninety days after the effective date of this act, there shall be paid monthly out of the general fund into the health service insurance fund a sum equal to one and one-half per cent, less allowable deductions of one-half of one per cent, of the total wages paid to said employees, other than casual employees, subject to this act, whose wages are paid from the general fund. The commission shall certify to the State Controller at the end of each month the total amount of wages paid such employees, and the Controller shall thereupon transfer one and one-half per cent, less allowable deductions of one-half of one per cent, of the amount so certified from the general fund of the State to the health service insurance fund.

(c) From and after ninety days after the effective date of this act, in addition to such payments out of the general fund, there shall be paid monthly into the health service insurance fund out of every other fund in the State treasury from which the wages of employees, other than casual employees, subject to this act, are paid, a sum equal to one and one-half per cent, less allowable deductions of one-half of one per cent, of the total wages paid such employees from such fund. The commission shall certify to the State Controller at the end of each month the total amount of wages paid such employees from each such fund, and the controller shall thereupon transfer one and one-half per cent, less allowable deductions of one-half of one per cent, of the amount so certified from each such fund respectively, to the health service insurance fund.

(d) Such other sources from which moneys are to be paid into the fund pursuant to this act.

Sec. 181. The commission may draw, without at the time furnishing vouchers and itemized statements, sums not to exceed in the aggregate five hundred thousand dollars, said sums so drawn to be used as a revolving fund.

Sec. 182. No injunction or writ of mandate or other legal or equitable process shall issue in any suit, action or proceeding in any court against the commission or against any officer or agent thereof to prevent or enjoin under this act the collection of any payment sought to be collected; but after any such payment made under protest, duly verified and setting forth the grounds of objection to the legality of such payment, the person making such payment may bring an action against the commission in a court of competent jurisdiction in the county of Sacramento for the recovery of the payments so paid under protest. No such action may be instituted more than sixty days after the payment becomes due and payable, and failure to bring suit within said sixty days shall constitute waiver of any and all demands against this State on account of alleged overpayment hereunder. No grounds of illegality of the payment shall be considered by the court other than those set forth in the protest filed at the time of such payment.

If, in any such action, judgment is rendered for the plaintiff, the amount of the judgment shall first be credited on any payments due from the plaintiff under this act, and the balance of the judgment shall be refunded to the plaintiff. In any such judgment, interest shall be allowed at the rate of six per cent per annum upon the amount of payment found to have been illegally collected from the date of such payment to the date of allowance of credit on account of such judgment or to a date preceding the date of the refund warrant by not more than thirty days, such date to be determined by the Controller.

In no case shall any judgment be rendered in favor of the plaintiff in any action brought against the commission to recover any payment hereunder, when such action is brought by or in the name of an assignee of the person making such payment, or by any person other than the person who has made such payment.

Sec. 190. Every employer shall make and keep open to examination by the commission, such records of employment of his employees, of wages paid to his employees, of sums paid to the commission by him pursuant to this act, and of such other employment and pay roll data as the commission may reasonably prescribe. Every employer shall make such reports to the commission concerning such records as the commission may prescribe. The records or reports so furnished to the commission and all other records and reports furnished to the commission shall be deemed to be confidential communications within the meaning of the Code of Civil Procedure, section 1881.

Sec. 191. The commission may compile tabulations of the data furnished by employers to the commission from records kept with respect to employees for the use and information of State departments and of the public, but such reports shall in no event be in such form as to enable any person other than those charged with the administration of this act to identify therein any employer or any employee.

SEC. 192. Any patient wilfully failing or refusing to follow the instructions or course of treatment prescribed by the attending physician shall not be entitled to any further benefits for the particular sickness or injury.

SEC. 193. Nothing in this act shall be construed as authorizing any corporation or any person other than the holder of a valid and unrevoked "physician and surgeon certificate" or license to practice dentistry in the State of California, to practice medicine or dentistry, or to furnish the services of physicians or dentists.

SEC. 194. The commission shall make available, under reasonable rules and regulations, provision for medical or dental consultation at the request of the attending physician or dentist; and if in its own judgment such professional consultation is essential to the most effective application of the benefits specified in this act, it shall order such consultation as it deems necessary and may require compliance by the attending physician or dentist with the recommendations resulting therefrom.

SEC. 195. No act, rule, or regulation of the commission shall abridge, modify, curtail, derogate, prohibit, or in any way interfere with the right of a beneficiary to make a free choice of physicians, dentists, or hospitals entitled under this act to render services. Such choice may be restricted in the case of employees of an employer holding a certificate of compliance, but otherwise such selection shall not be restricted by the local area or district in which such beneficiary resides or works, being subject only to the consent of the physician, dentist, or hospital to render the necessary services.

SEC. 196. Such free choice may be subjected to inquiry by the commission if there is reason to believe that the services being rendered by such physician, dentist, or hospital are being improperly or negligently furnished or that such selection was entered into with fraudulent intent on the part of either, or both, the patient and physician, dentist, or hospital.

SEC. 197. Unless the physician, dentist, or hospital is paid directly or indirectly from the funds of a health service insurance association or the health service insurance fund or any other fund into which assessments or contributions are made for the purpose of receiving, wholly or partially, directly or indirectly, the benefits enumerated in this act, nothing in this act shall apply to advice, diagnosis, treatment, or other service by a physician or dentist or to the furnishing of its facilities by a hospital.

SEC. 198. Every bond required by this act shall be approved by a judge of the superior court.

SEC. 199. The operations of professional service practitioners or auxiliary service associations or health service insurance associations are not to be deemed to be or construed as insurance business. No acts, statutes, or rules previously of this State relating to insurance shall be applicable to professional service practitioners, auxiliary service associations or health service insurance associations.

SEC. 200. Every payment, premium, contribution or donation made under the provisions of this act or to carry out the purposes thereof, shall be deductible from the amount of any income tax which may become due by reason of any such tax which is levied in this State.

SEC. 201. It shall be the duty of every member of a partnership, firm, or association and of the president, secretary, and general manager of every corporation to cause such partnership, firm, association, or corporation to comply with all provisions of this act.

SEC. 202. It is a misdemeanor to:

(a) Wilfully make any false statement or representation to obtain any benefit or payment, to obtain payment or compensation for services rendered or materials furnished, or to obtain a reduction in the amount of any contribution, payment or premium.

(b) Wilfully fail to make any payment required to be made by this act.

(c) Refuse to allow the commission, or its authorized representatives, to make any inspection necessary to be made for the proper administration of this act.

(d) Hinder the commission, or its authorized representatives, in the administration of this act.

(e) Violate any provision of this act by action or omission.

SEC. 203. Any person or officer responsible for the violation of this act by any firm, partnership, or corporation is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 204. If any section, subsection, sentence, clause, or phrase of this act is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this act. The Legislature hereby declares that it would have passed this act, and each section, subsection, sentence, clause, and phrase hereof, irrespective of the fact that any one or more other sections, subsections, sentences, clauses, or phrases be declared unconstitutional.

SEC. 205. All acts and portions of acts in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

SEC. 206. If in any proceeding or action arising under this act the intent of the Legislature relevant thereto is not fairly and clearly to be inferred from the text of the act, reference shall be made to those portions of the Report of the Senate Committee on Investigation of the High Cost of Sickness under the captions "Basis" of legislation on health insurance and "Declaration of public policy" with respect to legislation on health insurance. The said portions of said report are hereby adopted, subject to the conditions expressed in this section, as declaratory of the intent of the Legislature in enacting this act.

SEC. 207. Nothing in this act shall be construed as affecting any workmen's compensation or employers' liability act of this State.

APPENDIX A.

IS HEALTH INSURANCE COMING TO CALIFORNIA?

Address Given by Senator E. H. Tickle at The University of California Western Conference on Government, Thursday, March 28, 1934.*

The vast majority of the people of our State is vitally interested in a correct answer to the question: Is health insurance coming to California? The taxpayers are interested because major economic questions as well as health questions are involved. Indeed, health is the best economic asset of the citizens of the State whether considered from the individual or the collective standpoint. The wastefulness and the high costs of sickness, with the endless train of disastrous economic consequences, are generally recognized. The importance to the State of healthful citizens is obvious because the health of the people is the wealth of the State.

It is a fundamental principle of every State of our Republic that the essence of democracy is that all citizens are entitled to essential services and opportunities of life and a full measure of social justice. This basic principle necessarily includes adequate health protection and care in sickness. When you have once laid down the principle that this State can not permit any of its citizens to suffer involuntarily from sickness which may be cured or alleviated, it follows that necessary ways and means must be found to carry the principle into practical effect.

During the fiftieth session of the California Legislature we were repeatedly called upon for a moratorium for the benefit of this, that, and the other group. State aid has been given to relieve the difficulties of farmers, bankers, insurance companies, building and loan associations, railroads, and other basic industries. The inability of many home owners, under present conditions, to meet interest charges on mortgages was given due consideration by the Legislature.

Why should not the sick who are inarticulate and unorganized receive more consideration? The sick have an imperative call on the State for cure, when possible, and always for the alleviation of suffering. Inadequate care of the sick, because of costs too high for the average family to bear individually, is against the best interest of the State.

To give this vital subject the consideration which it merits, a resolution was adopted by the Senate of the State of California appointing a Senate committee of three members "to investigate and report on a 'Health Insurance Act' for the reduction of the high cost of sickness." Lieutenant Governor Frank F. Merriam, President of the Senate, appointed a committee consisting of Senator Dan E. Williams, Senator Leonard Joseph Difani, and myself.

The committee is empowered to choose its own officers and we have drafted Dr. Celestine J. Sullivan as best qualified by vision, knowledge, and experience to serve as our coordinator-secretary.

The committee is known as Senate Committee on Investigation of the High Cost of Sickness. Let us consider for a moment what, precisely, this Senate committee was created for, as there seems to be a wide divergence of opinion as to our functions. First of all, let me state positively that the Senate committee is not committed to any plan. It is committed by the resolution creating it "to investigate and report on a Health Insurance Act for the reduction of the high cost of sickness and report at the next regular session of the Legislature as to the advisability of a Health Insurance Act, and, if in the opinion of said committee such an act be advisable to accompany its report by the draft of a bill therefor. * * * The object of said act shall be, so far as it may be legal and practicable, to provide for a reduction of the high cost of sickness."

The committee is free to accompany its report with the draft of a bill, if, after full investigation, it considers a Health Insurance Act advisable and practicable, or the committee has the alternative, to present no bill if it considers a Health Insurance Act inadvisable and impracticable.

If the committee finds that the costs of sickness are not too high for a majority of the people, then there will be no need for a Health Insurance Act. The evidence thus far received indicates costs are too high. If any considerable number of patients or families of patients thinks that costs are too low, or just about right, we have not heard from such patients. On the contrary, we have heard from many who express the view that present fees—medical and hospital—are beyond their financial ability.

I am not contending that fees are too high from the standpoint of the income of the physician or the income of the hospital. We are not blaming the physicians or the hospitals for the high costs of sickness, but the Senate committee is searching for the reasons for the present difficulties as the unsatisfactory conditions of medical care directly and indirectly affect the lives of all of us.

Despite the best efforts of physicians, dentists, nurses, hospitals, social welfare workers, community chests, parent-teacher associations, women's clubs, groups of various churches, fraternal organizations and civic clubs of all kinds, the great problem of adequate medical and hospital care for the average person is very unsatisfactory and steadily growing worse. It has been stated authoritatively on good authority that the average income of 90 per cent of the families of California is below $2,000 a year. Who can sincerely say that the problem of adequate medical care can be handled by families with that income when such families are the very ones that need resources and have to pay as individuals the enormous fees charged for all services required. It hardly requires argument to prove how difficult, if not impossible, a great number of families find the struggle to meet ordinary daily expenses, not to speak of the extraordinary payments which sickness entails. When unexpected sickness comes and takes a considerable proportion of the income, the family is tragically handicapped and unable to meet its essential communal obligations.

The assumption that this social and economical question is exclusively a medical question and that laymen and laywomen have no valid interest in it, shows a lack of understanding of the problem. In this complex and complicated question the interests of all groups in the community are almost inseparably intermingled. The State and each community of the State has a responsibility superior to any group, and patients, composed of laymen and laywomen, have the most vital interest in the question as their health and lives are at stake, and they pay the bills.

Many talented men and women in the scientific fields of physics, chemistry, engineering, and other branches of science have by their experiments made medicine less empirical but more expensive. Specialists in various branches of medicine who are utilizing, in the diagnosis, prevention, cure, and alleviation of illness, the discoveries of scientific workers in other fields, render superior but more costly service. Most of us want a competent and complete medical service, and such a service when it must be purchased by the individual at retail rates, is too expensive for most of us.

Would health insurance wisely applied remedy this condition? We insure against fires, against automobile liabilities, accidents, theft, etc. Why not extend the insurance principle to cover sickness?

Sickness insurance plans are in operation elsewhere that seem to give a satisfactory answer. Insurance against sickness exists in some form, under State authority, in the following countries:

Austria, Bulgaria, Chile, Czechoslovakia, Estonia, France, Germany, Great Britain, Greece, Hungary, Irish Free State, Japan, Jug. Slavia, Latvia, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Norway, Poland, Portugal, Rumania, Russia, Argentina, Australia, Canada, Denmark, Finland, Netherlands, New Zealand, Palestine, South Africa, Spain, Sweden, Uruguay, Belgium, Italy, and Switzerland.

It is evident, therefore, that insurance against sickness throughout the world is generally accepted and approved. And no country that has adopted health insurance has abandoned it.

The committee is aware of obstacles and knows something about the violent controversies that raged around the early days of sickness insurance establishment and administration in other countries. However much we might prefer to avoid the highly controversial phases of this question, events and circumstances compel us to consider them, and the more we consider them the more serious the question appears. The whole history of sickness insurance lends one inevitably to conclude that if and when it is adopted by California, it will be adopted in response to the public need and public welfare and over the opposition of special groups with private interests. I think we must agree that the interests of the public are paramount.

It has become almost a daily occurrence to pick up the newspapers and read pathetic evidence of "health rackets." We are not going to be astonished and hold our heads in the sand and enjoy the delightful delusion that everything is all right. We are going to keep our heads up and see things in their right proportion and perspective.

One conclusion that may be drawn from the prevalence of this "health racketeering" is that the present system of medical care is not reaching a considerable percentage of our people because it is too expensive for them under the present individual fee for service basis. These people are seeking to insure care for themselves in the event of sickness and they are open to exploitation by various health and hospital associations that promise medical and hospital service at attractive rates. Health "racketeering" has brought some flagrant phases of the subject into the open and has shown that something is radically wrong.

It is time to review the whole question in the light of present needs and trends and discard any obsolete and obsolescent methods and drive from California all agencies that prey upon the sick.

Shall we hide the facts and allow children and grown-ups to suffer the lack of prompt and adequate medical and dental care when ways and means for providing such care can be found? The health benefits which school children have received from medical and dental inspection, and the early correction of minor defects and disorders which uncorrected would have handicapped them seriously later in life, are generally approved. Such beneficent work is paid for by taxation; and even those who prefer to send their children to private schools, and those who are not blessed with children, are not exempted from their share of taxes for this valuable work. The value of sickness insurance in safeguarding the health of prospective mothers and their children, and reducing maternal mortality, is worthy of consideration. Several weeks ago the Academy of Medicine of New York published a report declaring that "66 per cent of the maternal mortality of New York was preventable and that most of the needless deaths were the results of shortcomings on the part of the medical profession." Of course the report was denounced by some, but facts are not to be shouted or whispered away and they can not be evaded or ignored indefinitely.

Sickness insurance will repeal no public health measures, but on the contrary, it will stimulate and extend preventive medicine, it will not impair but improve the services of all serviceable existing agencies, it will not interfere in the competition of physicians for private medical work, it will not prevent patients from paying as large fees as they may desire to as many private physicians as they may choose, but it will give adequate medical service to the average citizen (the same kind of service that the poor now receive for nothing and the rich pay for) at reasonable rates. We are assuming, of course, and many facts support the theory that all necessary services can be provided on an insurance basis at very moderate rates within easy range of the average purse. Men with large experience inform us that it will cost comparatively few cents a day for each individual insured to install and administer a practicable comprehensive sickness insurance plan.

This Senate committee has no cut and dried plan. Anyone who believes he or she has a solution or a partial solution for the problem of the high cost of sickness, please send it to our coordinator-secretary, Dr. Celestine J. Sullivan, 490 Post Street, San Francisco, or to any member of the committee. There are many publicized plans—the majority and minority plans of the Committee on the Costs of Medical Care that spent a million dollars in a five-year investigation. There are many varieties of private plans of fraternal societies, mutual benefit societies, trade unions, group insurance, industrial plans, community health associations, private group clinics, health centers, community hospitals, insurance companies plans, the Alameda County plan, the Coffey plan, the San Diego plan, the San Fernando plan, the Detroit plan, the Philadelphia plan, etc., etc. Some of these plans have good features but they do not reach a considerable majority and they are still very far from actually placing the minimum measure of medical and hospital care at reasonable rates.

This Senate committee is really a free inquiry. It is costing the State nothing. We have not received any funds from anybody although we are authorized to accept donations from philanthropists, foundations, and others interested in this constructive work. We shall preserve the spirit of free inquiry to the end, and we will not accept any funds with any strings attached to them. We have no axes to grind and we are not going to grind any axes for others. We are going ahead without being open to the accusation that we are subsidized for the promotion of any special theory or group.

It is gratifying to the committee to observe the widespread interest that is being taken in this investigation. There are a number of far-sighted and broad-visioned men and women among the professional groups that understand the constructive objectives of the committee. This Senate committee has in mind the legal, social, and economic aspects of this question and we shall deal with fairness and impartiality to all concerned.

The committee is going to ask innumerable specific questions of all who are authorized to treat the sick. We know that physicians are organized, dentists are organized, nurses are organized, hospitals are organized, fraternal organizations and hospital associations are organized, druggists are organized, osteopaths, chiropractors, optometrists, and all other practitioners are organized, but sick persons, who far outnumber those who treat them, and their families, are not organized and are most helpless and least free to speak for themselves or improve their position. The Senate committee wants to hear the viewpoint of the sick and the views of their families as well as the viewpoint of those who receive financial returns from patients. It would not be fair to have the licensed groups or the groups with pecuniary interests control both sides of this question.

The Legislature has already recognized that certain diseases and certain classes of the community can not be given adequate care by private enterprise. Should the State be impartial to all its citizens, play no favorites, and, because of governmental responsibility, see to it that all are treated adequately?

The committee has no utopian idea that sickness can be eliminated by law, but its high cost may be reduced substantially by distributing the costs of medical service among a great group of people on an equitable basis.

Is health insurance coming to California? No positive answer is warranted at the present time. If the members of this Senate committee consider health insurance advisable and practicable, we shall endeavor to present a report to justify it accompanied by a bill with terms fair to all, and, as far as possible, satisfactory to and adequate for the greatest number. The committee and its able coordinator-secretary would not have undertaken the weighty responsibilities of this controversial and complex question if we did not regard the work as important and necessary. When the committee transmits its report to the Legislature, the Legislature of California, vested with the legislative power of the State, will take upon itself the full responsibilities and duties to provide for the public welfare and will deal with this vital subject positively and constructively. The Legislature has the inherent power, in the exercise of its police power and for the general welfare of the State at large, to provide for the care and maintenance of its citizens.

APPENDIX B.

Opening Statement by Senator Edward H. Tickle at Public Hearing of Senate Committee on Investigation of the High Cost of Sickness held Friday, December 14, 1934, State Building, Civic Center, San Francisco, California.*

This Senate committee was appointed by the Honorable Frank F. Merriam during the fiftieth session of the California Legislature.

"to investigate and report at the next session of the Legislature (to be held in 1935) as to the advisability of a Health Insurance Act for the reduction of the high cost of sickness, and if in the opinion of said committee such act be advisable to accompany its report by a draft of a bill therefor."

In undertaking this investigation the Senate Committee on Investigation of the High Cost of Sickness is acting in the interests of the State of California and our primary purpose has been, is, and will continue to be, to ascertain an accurate and useful information as possible on all practical phases of the very vital question of the high cost of sickness and adequate medical care.

We have invited you, ladies and gentlemen, to attend this public hearing on this outstanding problem of our State and to give the committee any constructive and practicable information you may have for its solution. Health is the best asset of the State and of the individual and always of first importance to every member of every family, and the State can not inactively stand by while a considerable proportion of its citizens do not receive adequate treatment and care when sick. We want to obtain from you representative physicians, hospitals and allied institutions, dentists, nurses, social service workers, public health officers, druggists, labor leaders, industrialists, educators, and thoughtful men and women interested in this paramount problem, your professional, public welfare, social, legal, business, community, and group viewpoints. We want, as far as possible, to avoid wasting time on nonessential and extraneous matters and to keep in sight the central situation and to see each group and interest in proper perspective.

It may be admitted without any discussion that the agencies and agents that provide medical service, the physicians, dentists, hospitals, nurses, druggists, manufacturers of medical, dental and hospital supplies have a very large economic interest in this question. It must be conceded also that the public, because it pays the bill, has a larger interest at stake, and that the State, representing all the people, has the largest interest and responsibility.

It is now generally conceded that the present methods of providing and paying for medical services are inadequate and unsatisfactory, and that better methods, adequate methods, that would substantially reduce the high cost of sickness have been tried and are now in successful operation and could be applied advantageously by the people of California. The California Legislature has always manifested an active interest in any progressive measures to promote and protect the health of the citizens of our State. California was the second State in the Union to establish a State Board of Health, and the Legislature gave that board adequate powers to do all its essential and indispensable work of such vital importance to the progress and welfare of the State.

For the protection and benefit of the people of California, and to protect society from the imposition of quacks and charlatans, the Legislature passed laws prescribing what are and what are not proper qualifications for those to possess who would be physicians and surgeons, dentists, pharmacists and others who treat, operate or prescribe for any human disease, pain, injury, deformity or physical or mental condition. The power of the State to provide for the health needs and general welfare of its people has been repeatedly recognized in the combat against certain diseases and for the benefit of certain classes of the community, by the granting of subsidies, the building and conduct of hospitals, clinics, laboratories and the furnishing of various types of service.

The question confronts us, if the physicians and surgeons and others licensed by the State for the benefit of its citizens and the privately owned hospitals are unable under present economic conditions to furnish adequate medical and hospital care at a price within the income ability of a large proportion of our population, what can and should the Legislature do to make adequate medical care available to those who can not pay present average prices?

* This public hearing continued for two days and opportunity was given for all to present their various views on the question of health insurance. Condensed statement of views from stenographic report.

Let me prevent any possible misunderstanding or misinterpretation by declaring definitely that nothing I say is intended in a spirit of criticism of the medical, dental or nursing professions or of the splendid services which the hospitals of our State are rendering. The physicians, dentists, nurses and hospitals did not create the complex problems of costs of medical care, and they, no matter how altruistic their purposes or self-sacrificing their efforts, can not solve these serious problems, in which we are all vitally interested, without changing methods to meet changed conditions. Surveys furnish facts that groups in the lower income brackets receive inadequate care from physicians and dentists, hospitalization, eye care, health examinations, immunizations, special nursing, maternity care and X-ray and laboratory services. Families with incomes of $1,200 to $2,000 receive even less hospitalization and preventive services than do the families with incomes under $1,200. People within these groups are suffering from a multitude of preventable defects, disabling diseases and incipient ailments that later may lead to chronic consequences.

It would be a pleasant and easy task to express our admiration of the medical profession which has made more progress in alleviating human suffering, prolonging life and controlling and reducing diseases than any other agencies. If such merited praise of a noble and devoted profession would serve any useful purpose under present conditions we could enumerate contributions made by the medical profession that have made society its debtor. Abundant statistics are available to prove that physicians, dentists, nurses, by and large, are inadequately paid and only partially employed. Very frequently we have heard from people who claimed that physicians, dentists, nurses and hospitals charged too much for good, bad and indifferent services. Physicians always have rendered and always will render much free service, for a humanitarian profession "has for its prime object," according to the principles of medical ethics, "the service it can render to humanity; reward or financial gain being a subordinate consideration." Exorbitant charges are deplored by most physicians and are confined to a comparatively small number of members of the profession.

If the people who complain that hospitals charge too much were compelled to furnish the funds to make up deficits of many hospitals, if they had to sacrifice time, talent and money to keep hospitals ready, running and rendering 24 hours of service every day of the week, month and year, they would know that good hospitals are not profit-making institutions.

The sciences which physicians use in their practice are constantly changing and improving but the methods of the organization by which they are applied are governed by an individualistic philosophy in the midst of a highly organized economic world. Dr. William H. Welch, one of the renowned leaders of his profession, wrote a few years ago: "We know how to do a lot of things which we don't do, or do on a wretchedly small scale. The health field has a woefully ineffective distribution service, as compared with its marvelously effective production service in the laboratories of the world."

How can we bring this marvelous scientific service to the people at a price which the average man and woman can conveniently pay? We insure our lives, our homes, our automobiles, our jewels, our ships at sea and our airplanes, manufacturers, the operations of mines, crops and herds, singers' throats and musicians' fingers and almost anything that is subject to mischance and hazard.

Workmen's compensation laws passed by our Legislature are practical examples of the utilization of the insurance principle. They were passed, it may be recalled, against the opposition of a great many physicians who considered workmen's compensation legislation an unwarranted interference in their professional work. All sorts of dire predictions were made, such as that the law would expose the injured workman to inferior service and exploitation, that the patient's chance of recovery would be endangered by faulty treatment, and disability increased, and that an industrial board composed of laymen could not deal fairly with questions involving medical problems.

The minority report, number one, of the Committee on the Costs of Medical Care after carrying on an extensive program of research in the various economic aspects of medical care was signed by Dr. Olin West, secretary of the American Medical Association, and Drs. A. C. Christie, George E. Follansbee, M. L. Harris, A. C. Morgan, N. B. Van Etten and Robert Wilson, and they declare:

"The operation of every form of insurance practice up to the present time has resulted in a vast amount of competitive effort on the part of the practitioner groups, hospitals and lay controlled organizations. Such competition tends to lower the standards of medical care, degrade the medical personnel and make medical care a business rather than a profession. Proof of this is at hand in our own experience in this country with the only compulsory system with which we have yet had to deal, workmen's compensation insurance. The results named above are prevalent in many States. This is the rule to which there are a few notable exceptions. Under workmen's compensation, groups are selecting doctors, often through paid lay promoters; laymen are organizing clinics and hiring doctors to do the work; standards of practice are being lowered; able physicians outside the groups are being pushed to the wall; the patient is coerced by his employer to go to a certain clinic; and the physician is largely under the control of the insurance companies. These are not visionary fears of what may happen, but a true picture of widespread evils attending insurance practice. We should heed the better example of what must happen to medical care if compulsory insurance is extended to families.

There is one aspect of any system of insurance which should be kept in mind by all students of this question, namely, that the total cost of medical care is usually increased when it is paid for through insurance.

If this strange statement of the distinguished members of the American Medical Association were correct and not founded on false assumptions and erroneous interpretation, then the service which insurance is ready to render would have to be abandoned. The principle and machinery of insurance are accomplishing economically and beneficially so much in so many forms of human endeavor, and very impressively in the health field, that we would be glad to hear what those familiar with workmen's compensation and self-insurance and insurance experts have to say. From our observation and information the mutual rights of doctors and employers and physicians have been safeguarded by workmen's compensation insurance, and the Industrial Accident Commission, although composed of laymen, has been generally reasonable and competent and the health interests of employees have been protected.

Let me quote further from the minority report, number one, issued by these distinguished doctors of the American Medical Association:

"There are great dangers and evils in insurance practice which must be set over against the advantage of distributing the cost of medical care by this method and which it seems to us the majority report has minimized. The dangers are especially directed at the continued well-being and progress of the medical professions, namely, where all are the ones most concerned in maintaining a high grade of medical service. It ought to be remembered that compulsory insurance will necessarily be subject to political control and that such control will inevitably destroy professional morale and ideals in medicine."

Insurance is being applied and demanded by the public in an ever widening field. It is a recorded fact that none may deny that all age insurance, sickness insurance, workmen's compensation insurance have each in their turn appealed to Legislature after Legislature in the forward looking States of the Union. And let us remind you that these laws, enacted by a high public interest, were passed and put in operation without any aid or instructions from the Federal Government.

In health insurance which will provide medical assistance for the sick, the instrumentality of insurance finds its lowest field. As a voluntary instrumentality of fire or death risks an insurance company is able to guarantee full protection to the policyholders on the actuarial principle that neither all losses fall and all come due at the same time. Through the common sharing of a common risk, the unfortunate receive immediate assistance while the rest of us no longer have the same case for the sake of our own security. Under private insurance only a few persons of the many who need it are able to buy insurance against old age and sickness because each person insured must bear the entire cost of his protection plus the large competitive overhead costs and profits. Health insurance, established and directed by the State distributes the costs on an economical basis among as many members of society as possible so as to enable those who could not otherwise pay private fees to obtain adequate medical care. As one authority expresses it, its function is "that greater relative protection may be properly given to those in the greatest relative need."

We have witnessed a campaign of misrepresentation of the British system of health insurance. It is true that when health insurance was first formulated in England that the medical profession, particularly the representatives of the British Medical Association occupying official positions or having very profitable practices, were lined up in active opposition. When England started to study better provisions for its sickness problem some 30 years ago and the royal commission issued its report in 1908, it contained a minority and majority report, each report, however, being in agreement on one transcendent thing, that the provisions made for medical service to those in lower income brackets was most unsatisfactory and that something ought to be done about it. In 1911 David Lloyd George declared before the British House of Commons: "Thirty per cent of the pauperism is attributable to sickness The efforts made by the working classes to insure against the troubles of life indicate that they are fully alive to the need of some provisions being made."

There are three contingencies against which they insure—death, sickness and unemployment."

At the time that David Lloyd George spoke these words he had the strong opposition of the official medical profession. Twenty-one years later, the British Medical Association, the National Dental Association, the National Ophthalmic Association, the National Pharmaceutical Union honored Lloyd George at a luncheon for fashioning and promoting the first National Insurance Act in the United Kingdom. And might I parenthetically remark that those who are now being unfairly attacked for trying to improve our present unsatisfactory methods by providing more adequate medical service to the whole community, may be honored also, if they survive the attacks and are alive 21 years from now.

While we have no intention of recommending the adoption of the panel system or of a number of inapplicable features of traditional European systems, it may be observed that the panel system formed no part of the insurance plan as laid before parliament by Lloyd George. The government incorporated the panel system into its plan at the request of the medical profession as a method by which the conditions of insurance practice could be made most closely to resemble those of private practice. It is also enlightening and encouraging to note that the British Medical Association, after 21 years' experience with health service insurance, which on June 30, 1933, showed that 18,500,000 persons were insured, now officially is so well satisfied with insurance methods of providing medical care that they desire "that medical benefits of the present National Health Insurance Acts should be extended so as to include the dependants of all insured persons thereunder and entitled to medical benefit."

Here we have a striking example of the unfounded fears and the unjustified forecasts of the medical profession on health service insurance. Now they are glad that it was put in operation and the people have been receiving the benefits for 21 years and the medical profession enthusiastically advocates that the benefits be extended.

Wouldn't we in California exhibit constructive cooperation by avoiding the unfortunate controversies that have delayed needed action? By cooperative and coordinated effort we can prevent a vast amount of unnecessary sickness and many thousands of unnecessary deaths.

We are glad to receive and record assurances of cooperation from the California Medical Association, the University of California, Stanford University, Western Hospital Association, California Congress of Parents and Teachers, California State Chamber of Commerce, Los Angeles and San Francisco chambers of commerce, California Conference of Social Work, League of California Municipalities, California Teachers Association, California Farm Bureau Federation, Commonwealth Club of California, health officers and many community groups profoundly interested in this question.

It is costing California $8,000,000 a month to take care of its relief program, and more people are on relief now in our Golden State than the total population of California at the time when the Legislature established the State Board of Health. Preventable sickness plays an important role in creating relief problems.

So that the Senate Committee may have your individual and composite opinions to give us a clearer understanding of the most practical, economic, sympathetic, and early solution of the problems we have under consideration, we ask you to discuss the question freely and frankly and your views will be welcomed and cordially and candidly considered.

APPENDIX B.

DR. CELESTINE J. SULLIVAN, Coordinator-Secretary of Senate Committee: Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Dr. Sullivan.

DR. SULLIVAN: We are honored by the presence of the Chairman of the Social Health Insurance Commission of 1917-1918, appointed by former Governor, now Senator Hiram W. Johnson. He has studied the problem of health insurance a great number of years, both here and in Europe. He conducted a campaign 17 years ago in this State for social health insurance, and I had the distinguished privilege at that time of conducting the campaign against him. I needn't mention the result of that campaign, or we wouldn't be here discussing the enactment of health insurance today. During the intervening years we have exchanged views many times upon the question, and I want to say, Chester, almost thou persuadest me.

We have the privilege now of hearing from Hon. Chester H. Rowell.

MR. CHESTER H. ROWELL: Mr. Chairman, Dr. Sullivan has referred to the fact that I was chairman of the Health Insurance Commission of California 17 years ago, and he was then upon the other side. I am very proud of such contributions as I have since made to his education, and to know that that contribution to which I contributed a little has added to his experience, and has also gone far with the medical profession of California. In Dr. Sullivan's case I think the education far antedated his estimate of the time as to the carrying out of that part of the education. Since that personal question has been raised, may I say that my own contact and interest with reference to this question antedated that 17 years, even by 25 years. My first contacts were as a student in Germany more than 40 years ago, when I saw it in successful operation there as established by Bismarck 20 years ago. I had my first lesson in it under Bismarck, and a second lesson under David Lloyd George in Britain; I had my third lesson under Theodore Roosevelt in America, in 1912, when I had the honor of writing the social insurance chapter in his platform of 1912, and the same planks in the California platform of 1914, and under Senator Roosevelt now. During that long time America has gradually been more and more isolated from the experience of the remainder of mankind, an experience and common man in America. We have the idea that America is the most progressive country in the world, because in 1776 it was, and the social thinking of most of us has stopped as of that date. We have assumed that all the progress since then was individual, and that we made it. It happens that a great deal of it has been social. This system of social insurance, as I said, was established in Germany 50 years ago. It was established in Britain under David Lloyd George only a few years before the war, and yet it survived in Britain that great strife which had not been anticipated. After the war, when the Allies imposed upon Germany at the cost of the gas and troop losses by themselves, the only amendment to that treaty that the Germans dared insist upon, and did insist upon successfully, was the demand that the people of Alsace-Lorraine, who were about to be transferred to France, should carry with them into France their insurance rights that they had under German law. France granted that. France had already made some timid beginnings toward a voluntary system of health insurance. Timid beginnings I call them, but they were eight times as bold as America had ever dared. At any rate these Alsace-Lorraine immigrants given their rights under the treaty, and France liked it so well that they extended it to all the rest of the people of France. It has gone around the world, including Japan and Russia, and I had occasion to discover a while ago that even China demanded its inclusion in the Pan Islands as a condition of sending Chinese emigrants there; they would not send their indentured laborers to any countries not civilized enough to have this system. So now the two extremes in the world are Canada and the United States. The various provinces of Canada have already made their beginning toward it, because at the last meeting of the American Medical Association I heard a distinguished Canadian physician say that compulsory health insurance was now recognized in Canada. During all that time the Medical Association has been very slow to accept it, but from lessons of experience it is learning it too.

Twenty years ago when I was beginning to practice this social health of all the physicians were in favor of continuing the old system. If there are any here who have that position now, I haven't heard from them. At that time though I was persona grata with the Medical Association of California upon all other subjects, they wouldn't even let me inside of a meeting upon this subject, and passed formal resolutions that only one side should be heard. That was the situation 17 years ago. For a good many years there has never been a meeting of the Medical Association of California that I haven't been invited to and to discuss this subject on the side upon which I was not even permitted to hearing in a local medical society then. The medical profession of California is now divided into two groups. One of which is favorable to, or openly receptive to this plan of which Dr. Sullivan has learned a great deal out of long study; and the other which is seeking to postpone it by presenting various makeshifts to cover some fragments of the situation. So, the only difference of opinion in the medical profession now is between those who have gone the whole way, and those who have gone part of the way, and that have learned in the school of 17 years of experience, what I am rather proud to have learned in the school of 25 years of experience before the emergency held in California 17 years ago.

Now, the situation is that our health problem is divided into several branches. One of them is Dr. Geiger's branch, that is, health engineering, that sort of health treatment that can be administered to the community collectively, instead of individually. We are all for that, and we are all for the State and the city doing it. By the process of distributing clean water and clean milk and decent sewerage, and by all sorts of other collective methods the health officer has done an enormous job of administering preventive medicine to the community; but there is also medicine that has to be administered to individuals, and Dr. Geiger's ability over that is more limited; that is administered first to the indigents, and everybody is in favor of doing that at the State's expense; in fact, a large proportion of it has been administered to indigents at the expense of the medical profession. There is no more reason why the physician who administers to an indigent should not be paid for it, than there is that the grocer should furnish food to an indigent free. No one expects the grocer to do that. Nobody ought to expect the physician to do that. The indigent should be cared for at the expense of the State. Then, at the other end, are the well-to-do. Nobody in this country, or in any other, proposes that the relation of the physician to them shall be anything but what it has always been, and out of them he still makes the most of what little revenue is left to the medical profession. Now, in between comes that vast class that is not indigent, but could easily become indigent under the impact of a serious illness, and who are not able to meet the impact of a serious illness by the savings that they have already made. That includes a very large share of them. I have sometimes told the story of an experience I had myself. The first, and the last serious illness of my life—I have been very lucky in only having one—I found myself in a hospital, and in a room barer than this, as hospital rooms should be; in fact, upon its wall there was only one thing, and that was a sign, which read: "The price of this room is $7 a day, payable in advance." Fortunately I was 50 years old, and had the $7, but suppose it had come upon me, as it would have just been likely to, at 25 years old, when I didn't have the $7? It would have been a serious problem. That illustrates the difference between provision against the emergency of sickness, and provision against other things. The exigencies of life are of two sorts: Averageable and unaverageable. We do that with fire insurance. If one per cent of my house burned up every year, I wouldn't insure, but I would repair it; but one per cent doesn't burn up every year—it is most of it, or none of it; but tomorrow all of it may burn up; and we all long ago learned that the only way to meet that provision was by insurance, because there is nobody on earth that can pay for his house the day it burns up out of his day's earnings; but everybody who has any earnings at all can pay for his food each day out of that day's earnings. So nobody insures his food, and everybody insures his house. The same thing, of course, is true of the unaverageable risk of death. If everybody knew that he was going to die at 77½ years, everybody who is able to make provision at all would make provision each year so that at his death, at the age of 77½ years, his surviving dependents would be provided for, but nobody does that because everybody knows that while he has an average expectancy of life, that there is no certainty whatever whether he will die tomorrow, or will survive that average expectancy by so many years, and that his insurance will cost him more than it is worth; so that we all meet that by insurance. The same thing is true of sickness. There is no average way of meeting the cost of sickness, because it never comes in averages, and yet every man who is able to pay the landlord and the grocer and the tailor, is equally able to pay the average cost of insurance.

Even before the depression, many, many times more people received medical charity, either from the public clinics, or from private charities, than received any other sort of charity. A system under which people who pay their other bills, but who do not pay their medical bills, is a wrong system, and it is due precisely to this point: That the cost of sickness—and that means not only the cost of the physician and surgeon, and also the hospital, but it also means the cost of the landlord and the grocer come right along, and we had no insurance way of meeting it. And the time has arrived, one would say, 21 years after it arrived in England, 50 years after it arrived in Germany, and many years after it arrived in every other civilized nation on earth.

Health insurance is a proposal to meet only one feature of medical practice, and that is the part that the physician doesn't do now, but which his office assistant does, the sending in and collecting of the bills. Nobody proposes to change the science of medicine at all; nobody proposes to change the practice of medicine at all. The proposal is to change the business of medicine. The proposal is that the physician shall have his own patients, and those patients shall consist of those who choose him, just as they do now; that he shall go to them, and attend them at their houses, or that they shall come to his office, and he shall attend to them there; each of them individually; exactly as he does now; nothing will be changed, except sending the bills; but as to that large group of them, who are roughly the same persons who are now covered by industrial accident insurance, that they when they need attendance, will get it from their own physician, but he shall send his bill to the health insurance fund, instead of to the patient, and the patient shall have paid that bill by his regular contributions while he was well, rather than by the emergency exhaustion of all his savings, if he has any, and when he is not earning anything. That will be the only thing that will be changed. The experience already works, because we have that experience all over the world. All over the world that system has shown some faults, and doubtless there will be those who will outline to you those faults; but there is not a country in the world which by reason of those faults has ever proposed to cure those faults by undoing the system. The experience of every country in the world is that those faults are less than the faults of the system that it replaced, and that nobody proposes to undo it. Some of those faults may be incurable, but many are curable; and we in the light of that experience should start as far as we can without those faults. The system will require governmental supervision that no physician wants. It will have some tendency to malingering on the side of the patient that nobody wants. The question is not whether the system is perfect, because it is not; nor whether it can be made perfect, because it cannot; but it will meet a problem that the present system is not meeting; and the experience of the civilized world is that it is doing it everywhere. The main question is, "How rapidly will America learn the lesson that Europe has learned?" And, "Shall California lead or follow along with that lesson?" California did lead—it was not the first, but it was one of the first in meeting that problem as to industrial accidents. California is among the leaders, and was one of the first in point of time to meet it, as to the preventive public health service. California is already in the lead in the quality of its medical education, and in the quality of its medical profession. We have the physicians that can do it, and California should be among those who are in the lead in understanding it; we have now done our part, and others have done their part toward that education. Dr. Wilbur, of Stanford, was the head of the American Medical Association that led in the education of the entire Nation on it. There are medical men in California, men who probably know more about it than any number of men anywhere else in the United States. The experience of mankind is that this is one form of social insurance that can be begun by a state government, and if, after seventeen years of study, California should come more into the lead in the United States in a progressive reform, California will be merely dragging 50 years behind European example, and will not be breaking the speed limit in leadership in the United States.

I am very glad to know that there is a legislative committee willing to take responsibility in that direction, and as an old man, I welcome these young men in doing that. (Applause.)

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS. I will next introduce Dr. French.

SENATOR TUCKER. This is Dr. French, President of the Western Hospital Association. We would like to hear what you have to say, Doctor.

DR. FRENCH. Mr. Chairman, members of the Senate interim committee, ladies and gentlemen, and fellow practitioners.

We are assembled here today in the interest of humanity, but I would like to add just one other statement to that, and let us say, in the interest of the medical profession and the hospitals. I will venture to say if we take a poll of those present here today we would probably find 98 per cent of the same opinion, namely, that there is need for change in our present system of providing health service. Why is there need for change? There are two reasons: One, to increase the availability to those who can not secure adequate service at this time; secondly, to provide adequate remuneration for those physicians and hospitals, and others interested, in rendering the service. To develop some satisfactory plan to meet these two emergencies, they must tie together. First, let us think of the needs of the people, second, the needs of the State, third, the needs of the physicians and hospitals. We all appreciate that service can not be rendered if there are no funds available to pay for it. I can safely say that the costs of medical care today are not excessive, we are not paying our physicians too much, we are not paying the hospitals too much, but when we stop to realize that the entire burden of carrying the entire total cost is a burden upon 12 per cent of the people who are the consumers of this service, it is certainly too great a burden to be carried by that group. Health service is one of the essentials of life. We can not dispute that fact. And when we consider that the availability under present conditions is limited really to the individuals known as the well-to-do class, and the class that we commonly speak of as the indigent, I think we realize that we are limiting the availability of medical service to a small percentage of the people. Health service can be economically given by utilization of health insurance. It has long been recognized as the only plan for meeting equitably the costs of unpredictable hazards, and we certainly can put illness in the class of an unpredictable hazard.

Now, the question arises, what are we going to do about it? We are assembled here for the purpose of giving our views as to what can be done. Now, when we come down to the idea of what can be done, I feel we are probably divided into several groups. In other words, we could group our opinions into possibly several classes. First, there is some resistance coming as has been stated by the speaker before me, Mr. Chester Rowell, from some of the medical profession. The members of the medical profession in my opinion have not offered the resistance because they did not care to give adequate service to the patient, or because they were selfish and seeking larger fees. They have offered resistance largely because of the objectionable features which have been incorporated in systems which have been developed in other countries. Chester Rowell has nicely illustrated that point, that we are in America, and is there any reason why we can not develop an American system which will minimize these objectionable features? Now, how can we develop a plan to minimize the objectionable features? By getting together, and pointing out the objectionable features. Now, if those of you who are here feel there are objectionable features in some of the other systems, you will have the privilege of pointing them out, and it is your duty to point them out. It is the duty of this Senate committee to digest your remarks, and to give recognition to your remarks; and in developing a system of health service insurance they will give those things consideration.

Now, why a system of health service insurance? As I have stated, the utilization of the insurance principle is the only way I know of, or that ever has been suggested for distributing equitably the costs of any unpredictable hazard. Now, how are you going to develop it? There are a great many of you here, and let us say there is a great deal of evidence offered as to the cost of medical care, and indicating that we should start with a voluntary plan, and let people do as they want—join or not join. Now, there are several reasons why a voluntary plan is not practicable. I am not going into the personal elements, but I am just going to mention one objectionable feature of the voluntary system, and that is the fact that it costs 40 per cent more to operate a system of that kind than it does any other kind; 40 per cent for promotion and maintenance of membership. And, gentlemen, if you are going to take 40 per cent and put it into the hands of a lay agency or commercial agency, we had better stop right now, for the reason that all our efforts will be thrown into commercial channels, and I want to say that whatever plan is developed must not permit intervening commercial agencies.

Another thing that I want to say, that in my opinion no one plan will suffice to meet the needs of the respective social classes. One principle will suffice—don't misunderstand that—the principle is all right, but in developing this system I would like to impress upon the Senate committee that in my opinion no one system will suffice; that we must have—I won't say whether it is one, two, three or four, but whatever the law—that you are going to develop, it must be applicable to meet the needs of the respective classes. For the sake of the discussion, let us divide the classes into four classes. The well-to-do, or those that need no one to take care of their needs, the upper class, or the higher income bracket of the employed group, the lower income bracket group, and the indigent. There has been an effort made through various agencies to develop a plan that will take care of the indigent class.

Now, there is no hope of developing an insurance system—

Ring me off, Mr. Chairman, if I talk too long.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: You may proceed.

DR. FRENCH: There is no hope of developing a system of insurance for the indigent class. There always has been a certain percentage who were dependent upon the State, and it is our duty as citizens of the State to protect their health. Therefore, I would strongly suggest, as did Chester Rowell, that we limit our activities to that group between the indigent and the well-to-do, and to provide service to adequately care for the differences of the income group. Now, by joining or grouping those with the minimum group, the minimum wage with the higher wage, you can strike an average, and you can develop a practical system. As I say, no one plan will suffice, but make it flexible enough to develop the plans to take care of the needs of each. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Thank you, Doctor.

SENATOR TICKLE: Mr. Frank McDonald, Industrial Accident Commissioner, will now address this committee.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Mr. McDonald.

MR. FRANK McDONALD: Mr. Chairman, and members of the Senate interim committee:

It so happens that I am President of the State Building Trades Council of California. True, I am earning my living as a member of the Industrial Accident Commission. I desire at this time to express to the members of the committee and your coordinator secretary, Dr. Sullivan, the profound thanks of the working men and women of this State for the personal sacrifices you are making, and the efforts that you are putting forth in trying to bring about an understanding that will enable you to make a proper recommendation to the Senate of the State of California.

I take it that in this public gathering that we all understand that it is not the purpose nor the intent of any speaker to offer offense to any one, but rather to speak candidly on a question that affects the health and the life of the people of our State, and on a situation that compels frank statements.

The men of labor are conscious of the fact that there are now dying in this city, in this State, and in this Nation, thousands of people because they are unable to pay for medical care. We know that there are hundreds of thousands of men and women in America who should be receiving medical attention, but who are doomed to become paupers because they cannot pay for medical attention, and because the State and the Nation says "Our public institutions are overcrowded." Dr. Geiger, who sits here, can verify the statement that he is annually, and particularly in the winter months, hard pressed to try and give but limited accommodation to the destitute sick in San Francisco in the hospitals that he presides over. So that we are dealing with a dangerous, and a most serious subject. We also realize that there is an inherent characteristic in human nature that seems to impel us to oppose any change of any kind. It has been one of the curses of mankind. We look back, and we recall that not many generations ago every other man and woman in Europe had their faces pitted with smallpox; and because of our ignorance, and because of our brutality toward one another, we were slow in eradicating that. We know that in the matter of childbirth that because of our superlative ignorance,—because we did not know enough to thoroughly cleanse our hands, that millions of women suffered and died during childbirth. We didn't even know enough to thoroughly wash our hands before giving medical attention that we were called upon to give. We know that yellow fever devastated the Southern States, and we in our ignorance thought that we couldn't overcome it until we started to build the Panama Canal, and then we demonstrated that we could be intelligent, and that we could eradicate it. We know that we condemned our fellow citizens to insane asylums in America simply because we didn't have intelligence enough to remove an impacted wisdom tooth that created pressure upon the nerves, which caused insanity. And, oh, what price we paid for such ignorance! We know that men have stood and opposed progressive measures. More recently we have been swept by epidemics of the flu; we aren't quite clear of the epidemic of infantile paralysis, and we know now if the moment a child becomes sick, competent medical attention is rushed to him that we would not force the business men to support schemes that are all too prevalent in America, and we would not have the burden of similar schemes that are so numerous to us.

In other words, it is a question of money and costs. We men of Illinois appreciate that when we urge health insurance that there are those who are going to say, "That is one of those foreign things; that is some sort of that European socialized stuff." In Europe it came about because of very serious diseases and the condition that brought it to Europe is not all too far from it. America with one out of every ten in America so poor, and in some communities one out of five on relief, with one out of ten apparently susceptible to disease, we have got to give some thought to health insurance. Whether we had the insurance or not. We are spending many millions annually on cancer prevention, yet we have not the same right to spend millions upon disease prevention. Particularly when we know that a careful and scientific investigation has demonstrated the indisputable fact that a very large proportion of the cause of America's ill health is traceable to disease. In other words, we men of other countries, too, are money spent in making healthier and happier people by guaranteeing that health through competent medical treatment and nursing. America, from private and public, has us billions that we otherwise will continue to lose.

We men in the building industry are told, and have been told for a number of years, that we are overbuilt; that there are too many carpenters and painters and plasterers, and the Government is making money when it comes to a matter of creating work in improving the condition of the people. It is true that we started a campaign for disease clearance, with the same object of getting dollars in mind.

Reference has been made to the industrial accident compensation laws of the State of California, that were so happily accepted by the State and that are now acclaimed by all intelligent people in our State and Nation. I know it is just that much interested in industrial insurance that we ought to take it away from labor would, if such a possibility existed, that we could do it. It is true that in the State of California. That is how many we have of it.

Let me just sketch to you a few features concerning the insurance question. Over $56,000,000 has been paid in insurance premiums in the State of California since the Industrial Accident Commission since its inception. Of that amount over $10,000,000 has been paid to the workmen in compensation insurance during the period of their unemployment because of accidents, and of that $10,000,000 over $2,000,000 was paid to the physicians and surgeons of the State to treat the injured workmen.

Now, we found this in conducting the Industrial Accident Commission, that thousands of cases come before us where the injury is partially traceable to a pre-existing condition of disease. Treatment is given to cure the effect of the effects of the injury, and we have learned that thousands of men in a dangerous diseased condition are told, "Go back and go to work." We know in the union movements that thousands and thousands of men are told to go back at medical treatment, and cannot afford to pay for it, and therefore they get it. What right has society to say to physicians, "You treat those people for nothing." One of the most ridiculous and unfair things that has been said in the medical medicine is your free clinics. We know that just as the workmen are being pauperized, so are physicians and dentists, not because there are not in need of medical attention, but because they cannot pay for it. It is high time to have that condition changed.

We as Americans cherish the declaration in our Constitution that guarantees the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness, but with a full knowledge of the fact that men and women are now dying in California, because they cannot get the money to pay for medical care. We say that the Constitution of the United States is not being lived up to as it should be lived up to, and therefore, Mr. Chairman, I come here with the authorization of the State Board of Trade Council to assure you that it is their earnest request that your committee have a recommendation to the Legislature for compulsory health insurance in the State of California. (Applause.)

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: We certainly wish to thank you, Mr. McDonald.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Dr. Walter B. Coffey is chief surgeon of the Southern Pacific and of the Dollar Steamship Company. I think you were one of the chief originators of this—may I put it that way?

DR. COFFEY: Well, I will admit that I am one of the originators of the present movement, Mr. Williams. In the years that have gone by, as Chester Rowell has stated, Dr. Celestine Sullivan and a few of us who defected from health insurance felt something had to be done. The fear of the medical profession has always been of politics guiding the hand of the physician. It is sound medical tradition that no one must come between the physician and his patient.

As you know I am chief surgeon and conduct an association of insurance of the Southern Pacific Railroad, the oldest in the United States. This great railroad was forced to organize for the protection of its sick and injured in the building of the Continental Railroad. As the increased cost of sickness developed with modern times we kept the cost down for our men to a minimum. I felt that when this question was being discussed and various county medical societies were expressing conflicting opinions, I thought of the old story of a man interfering when a wife and husband were beating one another, and he came out the worst end of it. I felt that if we could have the Legislature investigate the whole question that some sound method of distributing the costs of medical care would be found. The true American does not want to accept charity. I am glad to be here today, and see so many people representing various interests, and to hear the leaders of my profession united for health insurance. I want to emphasize one thing—that patients now neglected must be taken care of. That is the first duty of this State. Years ago when workmen's compensation came up, our profession was divided. I pleaded and begged with the representatives of my profession to go to Sacramento and take part in formulating those laws that were enacted. The medical profession refused to do so; they were opposed to workmen's compensation insurance. There are three people largely concerned in compensation: The employee, the employer, and the physician, and therefore the physician should have his proper place in writing that bill.

I appreciate the courtesy that you are extending to the medical profession in asking for their views. The right of the patient to select his own doctor must be maintained for the rights of the patient always come first.

SENATOR TICKLE: Dr. Coffey, it is very interesting to me to hear you, and to have you publicly declare you really favor this health insurance.

DR. COFFEY: I favor it if it provides adequate care for the patient at a very reasonable monthly rate.

SENATOR TICKLE: And when you came to Sacramento with that resolution, did you ever see me in your life, or had you ever seen me before?

DR. COFFEY: Never.

SENATOR TICKLE: Did you ever talk to me before the resolution was presented?

DR. COFFEY: No, I never met you before.

SENATOR TICKLE: Do you really think health insurance is practicable and workable?

DR. COFFEY: I certainly do.

DR. COFFEY: May I add another statement?

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Yes.

DR. COFFEY: Representatives of the railroad organizations, engineers, firemen and other employees, are here who have been under this plan. Why not ask them for their views? They know how our health insurance works.

Our plan has existed for 68 years, and it started with 50 cents a month. I pay out every nickel in service to the sick, as these gentlemen know who are familiar with the hospital arrangements. I am 38 years in this work, and I know the necessity of taking care of many thousands of sick and injured workmen. I think it is the duty of the doctor to think of his patient first. I know right well what can be done for the benefit of the people of California with a plan similar to our own.

DR. SULLIVAN: What do the men say about the treatment they receive at the Southern Pacific Hospital?

DR. COFFEY: There is a gentleman here, who is a representative of one of the railroad organizations, and I wish you would call on Mr. Peterson, the head of the engineers of the Pacific Coast.

SENATOR TICKLE: Mr. Peterson, you can tell us it is the rottenest system in the world, if you like; just tell us the facts.

MR. PETERSON: Mr. Chairman, and members of the committee, and fellow citizens:

I believe that labor has been rather ably represented here today, and I merely want to add to it by making this statement, that the railroad employees of the Southern Pacific and the Northwestern Pacific are really enjoying fine treatment today, and have enjoyed it ever since the railroad really started. I am representing the locomotive engineers of the two railroads, and I can say to you without any hesitation that the employees of the railroads certainly believe that the hospitalization and medical attention given them by the Southern Pacific Hospital Association is wonderful; we are only paying a dollar and a half a month, and if necessary the employees without question would be willing to pay more. If there is any doubt as to the soundness of the Southern Pacific Hospital, I would suggest that any member of the committee visit that hospital, and interview any of the patients there, or interview anyone who has ever been required to be a patient in the Southern Pacific Hospital. I think that will be the best testimonial that you could get in behalf of the Southern Pacific Hospital. I elect to call it the railroad employees' hospital, because as Dr. Coffey has told you, he is operating and running the hospital without interference on the part of the railroad management.

I am not going to take up any more of your time, but I want to say as the representative of the locomotive engineers we believe that compulsory health insurance is a matter of necessity.

SENATOR TICKLE: In other words, Mr. Peterson, they really gave the people that work for them much better service than the locomotive.

MR. PETERSON: They repair a locomotive when it can't run any longer, but when it comes to the locomotive engineer, he is given advice by the hospital and the doctors not to wait until he burns up or falls down, but to come in and visit the doctor and consult with him before it is too late.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Dr. T. Henshaw Kelly, we would like to hear from you.

SENATOR TICKLE: What is your office, Dr. Kelly?

DR. T. HENSHAW KELLY: I am Chairman of the Council of the California Medical Association, Senator Tickle. I am speaking as one of the non-competitive officers of the California Medical Association. The association, as Dr. Coffey will agree, has been neatly conscious of the insurance principle in the practice of medicine for years. We began in a big way when Dr. Coffey was a member of the council some years ago in the study of a state-wide insurance plan which might be installed in the State of California. We probably in the California Medical Association know as much about voluntary and compulsory health systems and the medical problems concerned as any one.

And speaking as one of the administrative officers of the association, I want to agree with Dr. Coffey that we have had a just feeling for a long time, and Dr. Coffey's resolution which was adopted by the California Legislature I think has been one of the major instruments, as well as the growing consciousness of the profession at large that something does have to be done. Medicine through the development of new scientific methods of diagnosis and treatment has come to a point where the service is so costly that the sick man, unless he is pretty healthy, can't buy it. The arguments that have been hurled the calculation up from time to time have been as to how the charge should take place, and what the nature of the charge shall be. And when the Senate committee was created under the resolution, the association began to crystallize at least into two groups instead of a number of groups. We have been doing our best to crystallize opinion in the association, because I believe that it is the responsibility of the administrative officers of the association to do what they can to get an opinion out of the association so that regardless of whether one group ultimately comes out on top, or the other group ultimately comes out on top, the association should have an official opinion, and work as a unit; and I believe that medicine as the profession most intimately concerned in any change in the method of furnishing medical care should be given the privilege of sitting down and considering as put into a bill what it knows about the administration and furnishing of medical care for the greatest benefit to the sick man, because I can tell you, gentlemen of the committee, and everyone here listening, that any one who says that the thing that is best for the patient, is the best for the medical profession, doesn't know what he is talking about. If we take care of the sick man right, that is the best thing for the medical profession. The two things are synonymous.

Now, I do not want to take up too much time, but I would like to just say what the association is doing to crystallize itself. Last year the association created a committee to study the situation as it exists here in California. There have been big surveys made that have taken little spots in the State, but there has been no evidence or no study made at the present time showing a cross-section of the situation as it exists in the State. The Senate did not see fit to give your Senate committee any money to conduct such an investigation, and the association felt it could help the committee by furnishing such figures.

DR. HARRY H. WILSON, the Secretary of our Survey Committee, is here today and I would like to have Dr. Wilson tell you how the survey is proceeding.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: We will now hear from Dr. Wilson.

DR. HARRY H. WILSON: Senator Williams, members of the Senate interim committee, and ladies and gentlemen:

The present committee of five, unlike some other committees that have died aborning, were given sufficient funds to carry out a survey, and we were charged with the responsibility of ascertaining health conditions in the State of California, as well as the economic conditions of the State of California, together with the duty of bringing in a bill that would be available for compulsory health insurance, and having such bill available for the 1935 session of the Legislature.

We have assumed the responsibility in as nearly a scientific manner as is possible, and a physician should bring to a problem a completely scientific attitude, and in so doing I think it is worth a moment's time to explain to this Senate committee the scope of our activities. The first action of the committee was to communicate to the Senate interim committee that we would be very happy to work with and coordinate our activities with those of your committee, and to make available to you all data and information as gathered by our group. Then we individually consulted with the heads of departments of economics of six of our universities in the State of California, arrived at a definition of our problem, defined the scope and details of our activities, and selected Dr. Paul Dodd, an associate professor of the University of California at Los Angeles, who obtained leave of absence for six months from the University so that Dr. Dodd might have his unlimited time to devote to this matter.

The California Medical Association, through its board of counselors, on an order of its house of delegates appropriated sufficient money to pay for a limited survey.

We found in dispensing various relief problems with the heads of the SERRA that they were tremendously interested in social legislation and health problems, and so that we might have available funds from SERRA to carry out the field work, having the twofold purpose of putting people to work and ascertaining necessary information. Through the courtesy and confidence of the Board of Health, the California Medical Association has had available some $56,000 of SERRA money with which we have at the present time 331 field workers who are making house-to-house canvasses in 25 counties in the State, having for our objective 14,578 completed questionnaire schedules from the citizens; we have at the present time 10,026 completed, so that our survey should be complete from the standpoint of a house-to-house canvass before the end of the month. I might tell you that we are meeting with tremendous response on the part of the public, as most of our counties are running nearly 30 per cent of their quota as anticipated. We have 89 office workers, coding, filing, and classifying the reports as they are coming in. We have sent out 60,000 questionnaires by mail to the medical profession, the dental profession, those doctors of osteopathy who have offices, hospitals, industrial health offices, and presidents of civic organizations. We have 14,972 completed questionnaires in from professional groups. At the present time the committee is having the technical staff analyze all of the important existing health organizations that are operating in California, and elsewhere, including all of the European systems; so that we hope that when the committee makes its report we should be able to know with a fair degree of accuracy the expense of illness, and the ability of the various groups of our population to pay the costs.

We shall make available for your use, scientific analyses of the health and economic conditions in the State of California, and bring into being actually how the cost may be spread and borne. The committee at the present time has requested me to bring to this hearing the statement that the California Medical Association Committee of Five for the Study of Medical Care wish to place on record its tremendous interest in relating the principles of insurance to the cost of sickness.

Friday, December 14, 1934, 2 P.M.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: The meeting will come to order, please.

Dr. Roy Green, who went back east at the request of President Roosevelt, will now have a few moments. He has to catch a train, so I am putting him in rather out of order at the present time. Dr. Green will address us.

DR. ROY GREEN: Senator Williams, members of the interim committee, and ladies and gentlemen:

In regard to the Dental Advisory Board in Washington, I had the privilege of sitting on that board, which was the Advisory Board to President Roosevelt's Committee on Economic Security; and unfortunately the action of that committee—or at least, we were requested not to divulge the action of that committee at this time. I might state, however, that the Committee on Economic Security is working on a very concrete and comprehensive plan in regard to health service, which, if they see fit, will be put into force in the various States of the Union. However, as to the possibility of the thing, we do not know.

I spoke to Senator Williams just a moment ago in regard to a statement from the dental association, and I did not think I would be allowed the floor this early, and, having to catch a train, I prepared a statement which I was going to leave to have read, but I think I will read the thing myself at this time.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: If you please.

DR. GREEN: I represent the California State Dental Association and the Joint Legislative Committee of the California and Southern California State Dental Associations.

The time that I will consume in reporting for these organizations will be brief and certainly not in proportion to the relative importance of dentistry to any satisfactory health program. Dentistry is an important, necessary, and indispensable division of medical service and, as you know, is practiced entirely by members of the dental profession.

We believe that any plan of health insurance will be satisfactory only in proportion to the amount of dental service included therein. To exclude dentistry in our opinion would not only be unsatisfactory, but would invite failure of the plan (the people) to neglect their mouths and teeth, thereby inviting the many consequent ills which are admittedly the result of a faulty dental apparatus. The State dental associations have not committed themselves however on the subject of health insurance. We are actively participating in the California Medical Association's economic survey and have contributed some money towards the expenses incidental to this problem. Our members are acutely interested in the problem of health insurance but will not be in an advantageous position to draw conclusions on these exceedingly important problems until the work of the special committee of 1926 on human economy of the California Medical Association has been completed.

I would like to submit that report as if the two State medical organizations wish to thank you for the privilege of appearing before you. Thank you.

DR. SULLIVAN: Dr. Green, may I ask you a question?

DR. GREEN: Certainly.

DR. SULLIVAN: You stated that the conference in Washington, in a sort of indefinite way, thought they might put a plan into effect in the coming session of the Union.

DR. GREEN: It is rather vague, Dr. Sullivan. The suggestion of the whole thing was this: That if they deemed it necessary, or that the time would be the meantime perfect a plan which would probably be presented to the coming session of the Union.

DR. SULLIVAN: Who would present that plan?

DR. GREEN: The Federal Government.

DR. SULLIVAN: In what way?

DR. GREEN: Well, we don't know. That is something else that is very vague about it.

DR. SULLIVAN: How can the Federal Government legislate for the various States of the Union on health questions?

DR. GREEN: That point was raised, and it is just possible that due to the funds used for relief in the various States, they would recall all funds for relief and say: "Handle your own relief, or accept our plan."

DR. SULLIVAN: Oh, it would be coercion, then, on the States?

DR. GREEN: Well, possibly.

DR. SULLIVAN: That is a new Federal method?

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: It is not new, because we are getting that some thing in unemployment matters.

DR. SULLIVAN: Secretary FRANK PERKINS said the other day very definitely that they were not going to recommend it that way; that they were going to recommend that the States enact their own laws, because we still have State rights.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: That is quite true.

DR. SULLIVAN: And the Federal Government can only enact certain laws for the District of Columbia.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: That is quite true.

DR. GREEN: Anything else, Dr. Sullivan?

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Is there anything else from Dr. Green?

DR. SULLIVAN: I believe, Dr. French, you were back there in Washington, too, in response to one of those numerous presidential invitations?

DR. FRENCH: Yes, sir.

DR. SULLIVAN: Did you get the same impression as Dr. Green?

DR. FRENCH: No, sir.

DR. SULLIVAN: Mr. Chairman, I have just received a telegram addressed to the committee. May I read it?

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Yes, surely.

DR. SULLIVAN: "Celestine J. Sullivan, Senate Committee, 217 State Building. As representative of the California Osteopathic Association, I wish to express through you to the Senate interim committee our grateful appreciation of the pioneering efforts of the committee to solve the difficult problem of health insurance. There are no divisions in our ranks. The California Osteopathic Association heartily approves the insurance plan as outlined by Senator Yoell and Mr. Rowell."

W. W. VANDERBURG, D. O.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Dr. Sullivan, who have you in mind to call on now?

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: The committee would be very glad to have you speak, Dr. Yoell.

DR. YOELL: Mr. Chairman and members of the Senate interim committee, and ladies and gentlemen:

I received an invitation to speak and be present at the public hearing of the Senate interim committee, and I wish to say that in availing myself of that privilege I am speaking as an individual physician, and not as a representative of any organized body of medical men.

Now, it is true that the presence of this representative group of people here this afternoon signifies the coming to the crisis of a great social trend and a great many men within the medical profession in the State of California have been conscious for quite a number of years of the direction, growth, and development of that trend.

While it is true that there are differences of opinion within what is termed organized medicine as to the best method of approach to the solution of this problem, I would call respectful attention to your distinguished committee that contention is to be found not only within the ranks of the medical profession, but that any body of men drawn together to consider the elements of any problem:

must necessarily, if they bring an honest approach to that problem, bring also honest differences of opinion.

There is a great bridge in progress in this city. The mind of man is going to throw a span of steel, ton on ton, across a mile of sea water; and yet, with all the instruments of precision, with the most mathematically exact science that the mind of man has ever been able to develop within the ranks of engineers concerned with the erection of that bridge, there have also been honest differences of opinion.

And I would also respectfully call your attention to the fact that in any case that is brought into any court, under the jurisdiction of the codes of this State, there is also represented in the minds of the legal profession honest differences of opinion. But as I stand here, a younger man—but not necessarily a young man—and see the grizzled veterans of our profession—men like Dr. John Graves, men like Dr. Walter Coffey—and see some of the younger men that I must admit I do contend with, men like Dr. Wilson, men like Dr. T. Henshaw Kelly, men like Dr. Kilgore—I have yet to find in our contentious a single thing which would lead me to doubt the sincerity and the integrity of purpose with which they put up their proposals.

Now, I believe this: I believe that roughly from 55 per cent to 65 per cent of the people in the State of California can not from their own earnings finance the cost of a major illness, and that this group, or any member of that group, when faced by a major illness, must necessarily, if they meet their financial obligations, skirt the edge of bankruptcy. That is a definite sociological fact.

I also believe that just as labor has established the right to collective bargaining; so, too, have the individual citizens the right to pool their resources and to buy collectively that which they can not finance on a personal and isolated basis. And we have heard this morning from organized labor; we have heard from the men who are the root, the bone, the heart, the marrow, the strength, of the commonwealth of the country in which we live, and we have heard that they unhesitatingly and with unflinching eye, meet this challenge, and they want to solve it in an American way. Now, those men and their forebears in the bygone centuries, in the early twenties and thirties in England, which was then going through an industrial revolution, sought and fought to establish this right of collective bargaining, and the mill owners and the mine owners of England combined and passed laws in Parliament which made it a criminal offense for working men to combine to gain their end, and men were picked up from the street, imprisoned, tried, and again imprisoned, and sent across the seas into a howling wilderness—namely, the then existing Australia—in defense of that right; and it is my sincere belief that the medical profession is faced by the same inevitable destiny that faced the mine owners and the mill owners of England in the early twenties and thirties of the last century.

This right to cooperative buying of health protection is definite. It is no longer decent, it is no longer civilized, for a man trying to protect his wife or his children in time of illness, to have a financial barrier established between himself and those things which he needs to have to sustain the life of his loved ones, if that financial barrier can be removed; and it can be removed through the instrumentality of the insurance principle as a social mechanism. It has been established in almost every civilized country in the world, and it will and should be established in California.

There is, however, this distinction—and again I call respectfully the attention of your committee in your deliberations, that the right to cooperatively buy health protection is a very different thing from the rights of corporations to sell medical service. And I ask, with all the earnestness at my command, that in all your deliberations at Sacramento, where you represent the people of this State, that you will bear in mind the distinction between the right to buy cooperatively and the right of corporations to sell.

Now, I believe also that medicine, organized medicine, will sit down with you and work out a happy solution to this problem; because I know in times past that no call has ever been made by an existing civilization on the medical profession wherein the medical profession has been derelict in its duty, and it has been unhearing and unmindful of that call. You must be a little patient with us within the next few weeks, in our deliberations, and with our contentions; but I do believe this: That just as you gentlemen of this Senate committee, and you men and women representing the various hospital associations—the great Catholic sisterhoods, the non-Catholic hospitals, the great universities, the labor organizations, the industries—are sitting in this room now and giving an honest intent and a keen mind and an absolutely penetrating judgment on this existing problem and its solution—so, too, will the medical profession come forward and join you in this study.

We of California, who were born on this soil, and those who live from the bounty of this soil, love this State; we love this, our California, and we feel absolutely that in your hands and in the hands of the fellow citizens of this State, that a solution to this problem will be worked out which will provide for every solvent person competent, adequate medical care, that will retain to the medical profession the right to the competitive effort of practice, and that marching forward shoulder to shoulder, a great load of preventable want and misery will be lifted from the shoulders of the people of California.

I thank you for the opportunity of addressing you.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: We would very much like to hear from Mr. Moffatt, who represents one of the groups of railroad men. Would you mind coming forward, Mr. Moffatt?

MR. MOFFATT: Mr. Chairman, and ladies and gentlemen—

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Mr. Moffatt, will you please tell us whom you represent?

MR. MOFFATT: I am representing the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers on the Southern Pacific and Pacific Lines, and I would distinctly state that there was some criticism offered, or will be offered at this hearing, relative to the hospital system of the Southern Pacific. I would like to state that I have been employed as chauffeur of this Brotherhood for approximately eight years, and I have visited our hospital once and twice a week during that period, and I think and can speak without fear of intentional misstatement, that I could take you to any patient in the hospital, and let one of our men voluntarily tell you that they are well pleased and satisfied. I have been an employee of the Southern Pacific 28 years, and I just roughly estimated what I have paid into the hospital department, $336 on a graduated scale. I believe when I started, when I was first employed, I paid 50 cents a month; is that correct, doctor?

DR. COFFEY: That is correct.

MR. MOFFATT: And now it is $1.50, and I have been in that hospital not less than six months in the 28 years, and have been operated on three times, and all successfully.

Now, there is one point that I have intended to cover thoroughly, and that is the plan of health insurance, as to being voluntary or compulsory. I might relate a little of our own experience. We have had in our organization a pension plan. At one time we had 122,500 members. Our pension plan was voluntary, and finally less than 20 per cent of our members participated in the pension department; consequently it couldn't function, and it was gone away with in 1931. Therefore, I think that any plan adopted should be compulsory, and everybody participate in it and receive benefits whenever needed.

In further support of our satisfaction with our hospital department, I might say that our members who are furloughed have requested and have been granted the privilege of paying hospital dues of $1.50 a month while furloughed, to keep in good standing, so that if anything happened they could enter our hospital.

Now, I think that I have covered it all. If you would like to ask me any questions, I would be glad to answer them.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: May I ask you this question: Have you any figures as to the percentage of those who were furloughed and who maintained that active interest?

MR. MOFFATT: No, I have not.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Have you, Dr. Coffey?

DR. COFFEY: I haven't them with me.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Could you tell me approximately?

DR. COFFEY: Well, I couldn't say approximately, because I don't handle all the figures; my manager handles them. But there are a great number of them that continue on.

MR. MOFFATT: I might state this: That you will work a month or two months, and then be furloughed a month, and then come back on; so it would be rather hard to tell just who furloughed and who was contributing.

DR. COFFEY: There have been men who have passed out to other systems out of our jurisdiction, that have asked the privilege of continuing, even as far as New York—which we have granted, outside the jurisdiction of the Southern Pacific—there are men representing the company all over the United States, and they have the privilege, if they wish it, and they all seem to want to belong to it.

MR. MOFFATT: I might also state that our organization's representatives, who are out of service and are not employed by the company, and persons not employed by the Brotherhood, continue to pay their hospital fees, and are entitled to hospital privileges.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: We will hear now from Mr. George Irvine.

MR. IRVINE: Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen: There is very little to add to what has already been said.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Pardon me. Will you please tell us whom you represent?

MR. IRVINE: I represent the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen in the State—men employed on all the railroads in the State.

There is very little that I can add to what Mr. Moffatt has said, except there is a desire on the part of some of the employees of these railroads to have their families included. There is no provision made for their families. The employees are well taken care of.

I can go Mr. Moffatt one better: I worked for the Southern Pacific about 32 years, and I paid in. I figured out one time, approximately $400, and I was in the Southern Pacific Hospital for a compound fracture of the leg for four months; so I think that I got my money's worth. I think that this is a very commendable and practical plan for everyone.

SENATOR TICKLE: Would you like your families to be taken care of?

MR. IRVINE: That is the opinion of most of the men, that they would like to have their families taken care of for a monthly payment, the same as the men are, and I think that is the opinion of the men—not only on the Southern Pacific, but the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, the Western Pacific, and the Union Pacific. Those are the major lines in California where we represent the men.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Thank you. We will next hear from Miss Jamme.

MISS JAMME: I represent the California State Nurses' Association. While nursing is not medicine, yet it is an important factor in health service, because it is based on and bound inextricably with medical practice; and any change that may take place in the economics of medical practice will affect nursing practice.

Nursing is an important part of medical care, under whatever system it operates, whether voluntary or under State or municipal jurisdiction. The nursing organizations of California have taken no action for or against compulsory health insurance. The nursing profession, however, is pledged to the policy of adequate care of the sick, of whatever type or quality or quantity, and a cost that is within the power of the sick to pay. It has proven that this can be accomplished where organization exists, and the cost of the service is covered by State or municipal funds, or by private endowment. There are data now available showing how effective nursing service can be rendered to the people on an organized basis. It is now given to the people almost all over the country on an organized basis, and it is well carried out by organized nurses.

I think you have with you today a man, Dr. Sheppard, who can very well support the ideas of nursing service in connection with any organized effort to bring nursing care to the people at a moderate rate.

DR. SULLIVAN: Miss Jamme, you had in the last issue of your very valuable journal an article on health insurance—

MISS JAMME: Yes.

DR. SULLIVAN: And commended it very highly.

MISS JAMME: Yes.

DR. SULLIVAN: Do you approve of that article?

MISS JAMME: Yes, I do.

DR. SULLIVAN: All right. Thank you.

MR. MOFFATT: Mr. Chairman, if I may, I would like to make another statement in support of our hospital plan.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Will you proceed, Mr. Moffatt?

MR. MOFFATT: I would like to make another statement. Our good friend, Dr. Coffey, through his interest and persuasion on the Southern Pacific Company, has within the last year established what is known as a better health car. It has traveled all over the line in California, Texas, New Mexico, Nevada, Utah, and into Oregon; and through the efforts and examinations of the examining physician in the car, they have found lots of employees who were just beginning to take down with some disease, ordered them into the hospital, and given them a chance to get well without serious damage. I am bringing that out, for your committee, to illustrate that the other workers who are possibly unemployed or working for a very small salary haven't the opportunity to go to their family physician and secure the information that we can get through the examination car.

DR. SULLIVAN: That is the Better Health car?

MR. MOFFATT: The Better Health car, yes.

DR. SULLIVAN: In other words, that is a practical system of prevention, rather than cure?

MR. MOFFATT: Yes, that is what it is. A similar service could be followed out for all those covered by health insurance if the plan was adopted which we are now discussing.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Thank you, Mr. Moffatt. We will now hear from Dr. Sheppard.

DR. SHEPPARD: Senator Williams, and members of the interim committee:—

SENATOR TICKLE: Dr. Sheppard, for the record will you state whom you represent?

DR. SHEPPARD: I am here purely as an interested onlooker. I came to listen and learn, and I am not authorized to represent my employer, which is the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

My work is connected with the work that Miss Jamme referred to—namely, the direction of a public health program of limited extent amongst our policyholders in the western territory of the company.

Miss Jamme's reference was to a part of that program which deals with the furnishing of our industrial policyholders with a visiting nursing service at their home in the presence of acute illness.

Now, for the benefit of the medical men here, since this has been brought up, I should explain that the nurse is not permitted to continue in charge of the case unless a physician is in attendance. We do find undeniable proof in our own records that there is an inability, at least on the part of our policyholders, to obtain competent medical care when it is needed. These people come through the fact that the nurse is permitted to make one visit at the home of the policyholder at their request. If she finds that the patient is seriously ill, she immediately communicates with the policyholder and a physician to examine the patient and see what steps to be done, and leave directions for the nurse. The nurse is then permitted to make a second visit the next day in urgent cases, to see if the physician has left directions for her to treat the patient, to give nursing care, and so forth. In the majority of cases, 18 per cent of those cases where the nurse herself has been to the home and has been satisfied that serious illness exists, on the return the second day the people have tried to call a physician.

SENATOR TICKLE: Would you mind telling us why?

DR. SHEPPARD: I have been very much impressed in our Senator Tickle and I have no figures on the answer to your question. I have consulted with the nurses in various parts of this territory, and I find that less than 2 per cent of their opinion is due to antimedical obstacles, religion or otherwise, and that 98 per cent. They roughly estimate that perhaps 90 per cent is due to ignorance, not feeling on the part of the policyholder that they are unable to pay for that doctor's visit. That is the nurses' estimate.

I should like to say, since the name of my employer has been brought in, that we are not interested in the sale of this type of insurance. We do not handle health insurance at any time.

I have been pleased with the discussions thus far in defining rather carefully the meaning of the term "insurance." We are using here the insurance principle, and insurance as is so often loosely expressed. As I say it, we are in a relatively fortunate position in this State to tackle the problem, which your committee is concerned with. Sickness is an insurable risk, in the terms of the insurance companies. It is not an insurable risk in the terms of the life insurance companies; and life insurance is a relatively exact science, since we are all in a state of death when, within reasonable limits of error, how many death claims we shall have to pay out of a given part of population. Sickness can be determined with less accuracy.

The cost of sickness may be determined with still less accuracy, because different people require different grades as they think of services, but it can be determined, and our State Medical Society study will give us the best figures. I am sure you are available on that subject.

SENATOR TICKLE: Does your company, as some companies do, send out a notice asking your policyholder to go and see a doctor once a year, at no expense to the policyholder?

DR. SHEPPARD: Yes, sir.

SENATOR TICKLE: You do that?

DR. SHEPPARD: Yes, sir.

SENATOR TICKLE: Well, why do you do that? Isn't that an expense to you?

DR. SHEPPARD: Yes, sir, we pay for the examination. We don't make the examination. That is through contract with a different organization, known as the Life Extension Institute. The figures of that Institute show, as regards our own policyholders, that out of 17,000 persons typically examined over a period of two years, those 17,000 persons had roughly 20 per cent less mortality, less deaths, fewer deaths, than would have been expected according to the average run of deaths in that size group.

SENATOR TICKLE: Then you merely do it as a very sound investment?

DR. SHEPPARD: Yes, sir.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Doctor, that is only for policyholders of $5,000 or more?

DR. SHEPPARD: No, it is available to policyholders holding, I think, as low as $1,000, once a year. I can't give you exactly that figure, but it is available to certain policyholders.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: But it has paid your company to do it?

DR. SHEPPARD: Yes, sir.

DR. SULLIVAN: Did your company, Dr. Sheppard, make a study of health insurance?

DR. SHEPPARD: We have made extensive studies of all types of health insurance.

DR. SULLIVAN: What conclusions did the company reach, and do you agree with those conclusions?

DR. SHEPPARD: We came to no conclusions, Dr. Sullivan. Those studies were simply fact-finding studies, and I think they have been made available to your office.

DR. SULLIVAN: I have them, thank you.

DR. SHEPPARD: They were for the benefit of all individuals.

DR. SULLIVAN: I just wondered whether you approved of them.

DR. SHEPPARD: Well, I can not deny the facts in the studies. I think those are as accurate as could be possibly obtained.

DR. SULLIVAN: Do you think they could be followed with reasonable security?

DR. SHEPPARD: Yes, in so far as they go.

DR. SULLIVAN: Do you believe that the improved death rate, or the rate of 20 per cent, was due to preventive measures that followed the examinations, or that you happened to have a favorable group of people that took better care of themselves?

DR. SHEPPARD: That is a controversial question, of course. There are two obvious errors in those figures—at least, two obvious variables: First, that that examination is not compulsory, but voluntary. Therefore, it is not an unselected group. Doctor. It will consist, first, of those people who know they are sick, or have reason to suspect that they are, and therefore are more willing, perhaps, to seek medical aid. That variable would tend to reduce the expected favorable mortality, because they are sick people. The other error to some extent counteracts that. That is the fact that those people, who would naturally take advantage of this free offer, would be people who are rather meticulous about their physical care anyhow, and who perhaps take a little better care of themselves than the average; and that would in turn tend to counteract the other error. I only know what the figures show; and my own opinion is—and this is a personal opinion, not a company opinion—that it is worth while, it is worth the money that it costs.

DR. SULLIVAN: Are you familiar, Doctor, with the report of the committee on the costs of medical care?

DR. SHEPPARD: Well, with parts of it, Dr. Sullivan. It is very extensive. I haven't followed it in detail.

DR. SULLIVAN: May I read to you just one recommendation in the majority report, and see whether you approve of that:

"The committee recommends that the cost of medical care be placed on a group payment basis through the use of insurance, through the use of taxation, or through the use of both of these methods."

Do you see any objection to that recommendation?

DR. SHEPPARD: No, I do not see any objection to it personally.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: We will now hear from Dr. Morton Gibbons, representing Stanford University.

DR. GIBBONS: Mr. Chairman and members of the commission, and ladies and gentlemen:

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Doctor, don't limit yourself as to time at all.

DR. GIBBONS: I am here as a member of the committee appointed by Dr. Wilbur to represent Stanford University; but inasmuch as Stanford University, so far as I know, as a university has no policy, I shall have to speak for myself. I can not commit Stanford University.

It is my feeling, and that, I think, of a great many of the physicians, that health insurance is inevitable. We have based all our studies in the past three or four years in San Francisco, in our county medical society and other groups studying this subject, upon the assumption that if health insurance were here we would have to cope with it and that we would have to make the arrangements. And it is on that point that I would like to speak.

Assuming that we have health insurance, how is it going to be arranged? What will the details be? You have heard it said that all the countries except Canada and the United States have health insurance. It is significant to me that no two of those systems are alike. It is granted that no two countries are alike. The needs of no two groups of people are alike. But no two of these systems are alike. We can go further than that, and it is probably known to the members of the commission, and it may be a surprise to some other people who are in the audience, the German system is the oldest. Mr. Rowell said it was 50 years old. It is probably older than that. And yet the German system is not perfect. I am not going to take much time. I only want to point but one or two points to you, in the hope that the Senate committee will take such things into consideration. We will grant health insurance, but it is the means of putting it over. In the last 15 or 16 years since the Armistice, the length of disability incapacitation from any given disease in Germany has increased 40 per cent. With the experience of 35 to 50 years, it would seem by this time that something of that sort should be stabilized. We know from Germany that gradually the number of civilian employees employed in bringing the doctor and the patient together, collecting the finances to carry the scheme over, has increased to a number in excess of the doctors employed to do the work. We know that the amount of money collected has been the same. These civilian employees have had to be paid, and the only means left was to squeeze the doctors. We know, further, that the number of doctors applying to the colleges to take medical education has decreased to some 40 per cent of what it used to be, because there is no promise of a future. We know that in England—we heard that the English physicians, at a banquet given to Lloyd George—because he was the originator of this system—I was in England at the time that this system was started in 1911, and knew all about it—that the doctors would not go back. There is a great deal of space between not going back, and what it might be; and some of you may not be aware that there is practically no surgery in the English system. They have a remarkable system in England, unlike ours, in taking care of the sick, and in taking care of particular surgical cases; and it amounts, in the majority of cases, to this: If a man encounters a surgical case—an emergency, for instance an appendix—that is all right, he can take his patient to any hospital, and the patient will be taken care of. The English are remarkably businesslike, even there, and would be in this country under such circumstances. Our doctors come to the military hospital, and are well taken care of. That it is not the same there. You can go to any one of what are known as public hospitals, but they are not taken care of by the man on the panel. We would not that there is a danger, the man rendered an operation for a tumor. The panel doctor doesn't take care of that case, because he in a large majority of cases, but not more in a hospital. As soon as hospital profits are taken up by men who render to the public, it is not the same. The friend of his man is on the staff and who can take him in a hospital. The man goes to the hospital if that arrangement is made, and is operated on for nothing, with no cost to the fund. The lady member of the hospital goes around and visits the patients and her friends, when the time comes, and she collects what she can for the benefit of the hospital, run by private subscription and voluntary contributions. Nobody pays for that case. The doctor is not paid for the Mary, and the panel man is not remunerated, and the man that operates the case is not paid.

We have heard our Workmen's Compensation Law referred to. The Workmen's Compensation Law in California, as we should want. Mr. McDonald said that there would be heavy costs of and the right to remove that from among the laws of the State; but there is no change in the law that I can recall or which has made anything possible in the way of medical care, that has come from passing in the way of medical care under the law, but little good. We have had saving the life of that law, contrary to the law, and different parties, and we have had I mean lay organizers doing things to do the work in large groups, and we have had panel systems. None of these things should be allowed under our health insurance. We have not, furthermore, the administration of the Workmen's Compensation Law during the last 15 years or so in the hands of men who originally framed the law—highly trained men, interested in medical matters, and we have seen now that men who were working elsewhere about the system over which they have had control.

Now, the medical profession is not going to oppose a health insurance law; it is not going to oppose a comprehensive health insurance, because I think they feel or well know that any other system is not possible. But when they want almost all things, is to have the law right so that the work will be done, and the treatment, however treatment, and so that the doctors may be so successful that they may give that treatment.

SENATOR TICKLE: Dr. Gibbons, have you read the California report?

DR. GIBBONS: I am not familiar with it. I have heard it discussed and heard it described, but I am not familiar with it.

SENATOR TICKLE: In that report they state that there has been a 50 per cent decrease in sickness in England since they had their system of health insurance in effect?

DR. GIBBONS: Well, I would imagine that would be so.

DR. SULLIVAN: Are you familiar, Dr. Gibbons, with progress in medical service?

DR. GIBBONS: Only very vaguely. I am not in a medical service myself. Do you mean the instruction—the clinical work, and all that?

DR. SULLIVAN: No, the service rendered to students in the various universities throughout the United States that are progressive, including the University of Stanford—the distinguished university you are representing—and the University of California?

DR. GIBBONS: Well, yes, I am familiar in a vague way. I have not studied them closely.

DR. SULLIVAN: It is stated that the University of California physicians, surgeons, dentistry, hospitalization, laboratory service, physiotherapy, X-ray service, and drugs, are furnished to 18,000 students in residence at a cost, including capital charges, of $17.86 per eligible student for the school year.

Knowing the very high character of the doctors who serve these students, they must receive practically the best care that could be given, don't they?

DR. GIBBONS: Yes. I would like some one who knows more about it than I to tell you more about it, however. I am not familiar with Stanford at all.

SENATOR TICKLE: Inasmuch as we are getting quite eloquent, and we have been to Stanford, we might now go to the University of California.

PROFESSOR MAY: Senator Tickle, and members of the interim committee, and ladies and gentlemen.

I do want to qualify my remarks by stating first that I am not speaking officially for the University of California, except in this respect. As director of the bureau of public administration of the university we are most anxious to be of service to the interim committee or any other commission of the Legislature in furnishing factual material; but it has been our policy not to recommend anything at any time in dealing with legislative matters, so that we can best serve this committee and the State by confining our services to the furnishing of factual material when desired; and for that purpose we have rather unusual facilities, and are at all times ready to marshal our resources in order to give factual information to the committee.

I, however, would like to make a few remarks in regard to the subject generally, which I hope will be considered factual, and not as propaganda for or against any particular scheme.

First, I want to say that we are in an unusual position in the State of California, in that this movement is starting with the experience of almost every other civilization as our background. There has been ample written on this subject, and we have enough material to fill room after room of this size with the material and studies that have been made in this field. Very few more studies are required in this field. It is merely a question of ascertaining the various schemes which exist in the different parts of the world, understanding our own situation, and seeing which ones will be applicable to meet our needs.

To those of you who are interested in this matter, and do not care to go into it at great length, may I suggest, without in any way trying to advertise a particular magazine, that this month's issue of the "Survey Graphic" is devoted entirely to this subject of health insurance, and in my opinion for the layman it has almost everything that is needed for a thorough understanding of this subject. There is here in the briefest survey the report of the American Medical Association boiled down to some ten little paragraphs; the American Dental Association, the Committee on the Cost of Medical Care, the minority report, the Committee on Economics of the American Medical Association, the American College of Surgeons; and then there are a good many articles dealing with the particular aspects of the problem. The Milbank Foundation has been devoting considerable attention to this matter, and I am particularly impressed with an article in their July number, 1934, by the head of the Medical Association in Great Britain, which I recommend to any of you who doubt their own point of view in regard to their experience in England. Sir Henry Brackenbury, who is a member of the Royal College of Physicians, and who is chairman of the British Medical Association—there seems to be no question in regard to their official statement concerning their experience.

Now, we have the advantage of all that, and it seems to me that the problem resolves itself into some very definite questions. Most of the European experience deals with the laboring classes, as such.

There is a serious question in this country as to whether health insurance, if it is passed in this or any other State, should not apply not to just the working classes as such, but certain income groups, and there have been a great many studies to show just what the cost of the medical care in these various groups has been, and also the adequacy of the service in these groups.

Another question, which has not arisen as yet today, but which I think should deserve your consideration, is the problem of cash benefits, because of loss of wages among the unemployed; and again without suggesting what the solution is, I might say that it seems to be the consensus of opinion in America that there should be a complete separation between the cash benefit phase of this problem and the medical phase of the problem. I think hardly any one would differ with me when I say that is the consensus of opinion of most people who studied this problem. And then there is the problem, of course, of the amount of service. Most of the schemes which have been proposed suggest difficulty from the Verdes scheme that hospitalization be included as well as medical service; but, on the other hand, most of the schemes do not include highly specialized medical service, confining their service to general practitioners, hospitalization, drugs, and maternity benefits, leaving to local autonomy the discussion of whether or not the specialists, dentistry, clinics, and home nursing be included. These seem to be the standards which are the minimum which have been suggested by most of those who have given considerable thought to this subject.

Now, another thing which troubles the people interested in this subject greatly, is this fear of politics—the relationship between the layman on the one hand, and the physician on the other. I am not speaking now of the relationship between patient and physician; but in the administration of any health insurance scheme, the degree to which the physicians themselves should control the situation. Now, that is something which deserves consideration, and a good many plans have been suggested.

May I direct your attention to the suggestions made this year in this same quarterly of the Milbank Memorial fund for a three point division, whereby the administrative phases are handled by a lay board with the distinct understanding that all professional problems are handled strictly by physicians, and then when judicial and legislative problems arise, there be some kind of conference between the lay board and the physicians. There is no question about it. There is a practical problem involved, and there is that difficulty. If, as has been suggested here time and again, some type of insurance is inevitable, that is a problem which will have to be settled. All of the schemes I believe suggest that there be a free choice on the part of the patient concerning the individual physician who shall handle his case.

Now, in regard to the cost of this scheme: Most of the proposals suggest, as did the Cost of Medical Care Committee, that there be some public contribution, as well as those who are the beneficiaries of the insurance scheme; and that is, of course, something that the committee will want to consider, too. Of course, with the present state of the budget and finances in the State of California, that is a ticklish question; but a good many of the schemes do suggest that a part of this be taken care of through taxation; and if we are going to include those who are to benefit by this scheme, those other than employees, farmers, let us say, and others, it may be that a taxation scheme is the best way to collect that particular part of the cost.

The fact that studies, and may I say on safer ground, all indicate that a health insurance scheme would not cost more than it now does, even for medical service in this country, I think that is a particularly significant thing. It would appear to be a question of a spread both in the time element, in having the money available, and it would get more integrated service, because it would smooth the rough ride under an emergency requires the service to get it at the time when it was wanted.

I am not going to take up the time of the committee by going into any details concerning the English, the German, or the French systems, except to say that we have the advantage of reason and touch of reality and reality of this scheme, and it seems to me the time for action has arrived in California, and also from the point of view of the patient, not only from the point of view of the public, but from the point of view of the medical profession itself. I have been disappointed that the medical profession has not assumed leadership in building up a scheme of health insurance in this country, because it does appear that they are being forced into the situation. Of course, the medical profession is entitled to leadership if the members of that profession will assume it, but up to the present time I am afraid the medical profession has not assumed the leadership in this matter. You have not asked, however, that the medical profession assume the only one proposed. The one statistics which I have show about $1,000,000,000 cost for physicians fees, about $850,000,000 for hospitals, about $715,000,000 for medicine, $450,000,000 for dentists, $200,000,000 for nurses, and then a smaller figure, $120,000,000 for public health activities. All of these figures should also be paid.

And I am going to end with a rather indefinite statement concerning the administration. The primary interest in this is the public interest. I am not speaking now of the taxing interest or the contribution of funds, but I am speaking of the administration. The primary interest is the public interest, and any type of administration that is worked out must primarily represent the public rather than the physicians as such, or the patients as such. I think that there is nearly general agreement upon that point by all important segments of the situation, and we must expect any of the interested groups to be correctly informed. It is possible that they should represent their interests, and at the same time be perfectly honest and unselfish in so doing.

I think there is one other thing which I may suggest, and that is in the relations of the various groups who are attending this meeting, that they have become the subject of group medicine from health insurance. And the approach which we have are two different things, and in this country, where we have a great deal of public medicine in the way of hospitalization, and insurance schemes which would be worked out would of necessity include the use by those who are the beneficiaries of the scheme, both public institutions and private institutions, of both the private practicing physician and the public agencies as well.

I had the honor bestowed upon me not long ago of being named on the advisory council of the California Medical Economic Survey, and having conversations of that group are here today. I would like to make a statement in regard to it at this time.

I am not a "yes" man. Inasmuch as I have been placed on that committee, I hope that I will have ample opportunity to take part in the discussions, and conclusions are formed in regard to the facts and data which are being presented by the staff.

SENATOR TICKLER: Haven't you been consulted so far, professor?

PROFESSOR MAY: Well, I think that committee in going here has not as yet come to any conclusion, and their data is not in, but when the data is in I hope that I will have an opportunity to help them in regard to the public phase of it.

DR. WILSON: Could I answer you, Doctor?

PROFESSOR MAY: Yes.

DR. WILSON: The committee of five had the honor and privilege of obtaining your consent and that of the heads of the departments of various other universities, not with the thought of having "yes" answers, but that we might have the advantage of the experience and ability and information that was available in your various heads and departments, that out of this, when we submit our report, we would have worked out a bill which might be for the best interests of the public welfare.

PROFESSOR MAY: I am sure of that. In fact, I only made that remark because of this factor: As I understand, so far it is being substantially done in the way of gathering factual material. After all that factual material has been gathered, then a much more important function of the committee immediately arises, and that is to recommend some definite action to the Legislature in the form of legislation which will put into effect the policies; and I am quite frank, without being critical, in saying that, although we all welcome this additional data which will be furnished by the committee in regard to California conditions, I believe the whole subject of health insurance has reached a stage at this time where there is at the present time a great mass of data, and the real problem will be on the decision of some of these problems. Should it become compulsory, what is the group which is to be benefited? How are the funds to be raised? Is the public going to participate?

Those are the questions which are extremely important in any legislative course which is proposed. And what I hope I have done in my talk, is merely to raise some of the problems, Senator Tickle, without in any way trying to answer them.

SENATOR TICKLE: Professor, did you ever go to the University of California Hospital? Were you ever in there?

PROFESSOR MAY: Well, I have two sons who are in there. Members of the faculty are not entitled to the hospital privileges.

SENATOR TICKLE: Would you like to be?

PROFESSOR MAY: Yes. I come in contact with the students, of course; and so far as I can make out, other than the little complaints which you hear here and there, about a tooth hurting when it was pulled, or something of that kind, I think that the students are, so far as I can make out, quite satisfied with the service they are receiving there.

DR. SULLIVAN: Members of the faculty are supposed to have salaries high enough to pay private fees, are they not?

PROFESSOR MAY: Well, I think that we do not even use the hospital facilities. Even if we were to pay for it, $3—it is just for the students. A large part of the fee which is paid the University of California, which is $26—which the public does not always understand—say it costs $26 a semester to go to the University of California in fees, about $17 of that is for medical service alone. It is a service fee in reality.

I would like to make another statement, which hasn't very much to do with the problem of health insurance, and yet I think it is rather intimately related. It was my privilege about two weeks ago in this room to appear before another legislative committee on unemployment insurance; and I have also appeared before a group of the Legislature in regard to old-age pensions. There seems to be no question at all in my mind that there has been a great change in sentiment on the part of the people of California in regard to the whole subject of social insurance during the last two years, and there are some relationships between health insurance, unemployment insurance, and old age pensions, and it is my hope that as these various pieces of legislation in these fields are presented to the Legislature, there may be some interrelationship; and if we keep distinct and separate the financial features of the raising of the money and the paying of the doctor bills, completely separated from the professional, technical and service functions of medical service, I can then see on that other feature of it a very close relationship to these other types of social insurance from an administrative point of view. I hope I haven't made it too technical.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Doctor, may I ask you a question? I think I asked you the same question on the Committee on Unemployment Insurance. This is not your statement. Mr. Kingsbury advocates 20 per cent from taxes, 40 per cent from the employee, and 40 per cent from the employer. It is not a matter of percentage here at all so far as I am concerned; but do you believe personally that the State itself should participate in this as is indicated here?

PROFESSOR MAY: I am speaking now only as an individual, of course.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Yes.

PROFESSOR MAY: And I may say that there are many other people at the university. I am not a specialist in this field. There are many other people at the university who are better versed in this particular subject than myself. My own individual feeling is that primarily the State is the principal factor, and should contribute.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: That is, the employee and the employer who are paying the taxes?

PROFESSOR MAY: Yes, but my point is this: In industrial accident insurance or in unemployment insurance, you are dealing with an industrial problem. In health insurance you are dealing with a problem that goes out beyond industry, and covers every man, woman and child in the community.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: You remember, on unemployment insurance there was quite a variance of opinion in regard to that. I do not remember just exactly who participated in that, but my understanding was that there was only one professor from the University of California who was in favor of the State becoming a participant in that situation.

PROFESSOR MAY: Yes, I heard Professor Ewing make a statement that he thought the State should participate.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Do you believe there is any particular difference in this situation that you have there?

PROFESSOR MAY: There is more reason in health insurance for the State to participate in the raising of the fund, in my opinion, than there is in unemployment insurance, because, after all, unemployment is a problem of industry, while health is a problem which affects every human individual.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Yes.

DR. SULLIVAN: Professor May, if you have given the matter sufficient consideration, do you think that unemployment is as insurable a risk as sickness?

PROFESSOR MAY: No, I do not. I think that health insurance lends itself to the insurance principle to a greater degree than unemployment.

DR. COFFEY: Wouldn't your method or set-up for health insurance make it a paternal form of government, and place the State in the absolute control of the practice of medicine?

PROFESSOR MAY: Well, I think you may have misunderstood a statement, or perhaps I misstated it. I do not suggest that the greatest proportion of the contribution come from the State; I think that their interest is great, and they should make some contribution, but I am not suggesting that 60 per cent, or anything of that sort, should be made by the State to this fund. But I think in answer to that question we are putting up a straw man in order to knock him down. We in this country are not setting up some ideal which we call State medicine, or State socialism, or fascism, or any particular scheme which we are working toward. The American public does not work that way, thank heavens. We have a practical problem before us, whether it is unemployment insurance, or whether it is health insurance. Necessity enforces the consideration of certain factors, and we try to meet the present problem, and I do not think in meeting the present problem, where the necessity exists, we should set up against the solution of that problem, come fear of some kind which we call State medicine or State socialism, or the trend is in that direction sufficiently, not because we purposely try to make it go that way, but that is the trend, then it is a trend so fundamental that it is our duty to go along it that it will do as little harm as possible. We have the present and immediate problem before us that health insurance is a possible way of improving the health status of this country, giving better service to the patient and a better or wider spread at least of income to the physician. We have always proceeded along the line of meeting a practical problem in a practical way, just as England has done along with us, and that is why I think that England and America are the two great democracies of the world, and they will remain great democracies if they continue to meet problems that way. This merely creates a cross and a struggle between two elements, that are merely theorizing about something in the future, trying to set up an ideal form of government, where you can't do such a thing. Health insurance can not be made perfect, as was said this morning. There is nothing perfect, either in government or in health; and the problem before this committee and the people of the State of California is whether or not legislation can be passed which will improve the health of the people of the State of California through some kind of health insurance. (Applause.)

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: We will next hear from Dr. John H. Graves.

DR. GRAVES: Senator, I did not come here with any idea of speaking on this subject. I came to listen to what others had to say, and with a very firm hope that I might learn something. I say that because after 20 years of deep interest and study of this problem, I appreciate very keenly how little I know about it, and how much I have to learn, and I appreciate still more keenly how difficult it is to get a reliable teacher—somebody who has information based upon facts.

I want to congratulate the people of the State and the medical profession upon having a committee such as the Senators and your efficient coordinator-secretary, going into this thing in the manner in which you are.

I feel that something ought to be said about the attitude of the medical profession, so that you will grasp the reason for some of their opinions and ideas.

Now, 17 or 18 years have elapsed since there was a serious effort to establish compulsory social health insurance in California; and Dr. Scullion knows very well the interest that that elicited at that time, and the very bitter contest that followed; but there were reasons. The Legislature made an appropriation for an investigation. A gentleman was brought out here from New York, who had never seen California before, and when he arrived he knew all about what California needed; you couldn't tell him anything. And so he expected, and that commission expected, the full support of the medical profession for a constitutional amendment that would enable them to establish a law, the bill for which never had been written. Well, naturally everybody paused and wanted to know something about it, and so the study of it began. Now, at that time, I testified at many of these hearings, and the dearth of facts and the willingness to establish something that nobody knew anything about, impressed me very much indeed, and, of course, the distinguished publisher this morning, Mr. Rowell, was a valiant exponent of that measure, and on occasions a member of the medical profession advocated it. And Mr. Rowell told you this morning that no matter how carefully you consider this measure, no matter how wise you are, that there is not and never will be a compulsory health insurance measure put into operation, without grave and serious faults. Seventeen years ago, when I heard Mr. Rowell speak of compulsory social health insurance, I thought it was a bed of roses, everything beautiful, and there wasn't a rough spot in it, but he, too, has changed his mind.

Now, this may not be of very much interest to you, or much help to you; but, of course, a great deal of water has gone over the dam during the last 17 years, and California today is an entirely different State from what it was 17 years ago, and the economic, industrial, social and political California of today is not much like it was 17 years ago, or 10 years ago, or 5 years ago, so far as that is concerned. Great changes are occurring all the time, and these changes, of course, must be met.

Now, Professor May has said that he has always felt that the medical profession should have been the leaders in this movement. I entirely agree with him. It was a hope that I clung to for years tenaciously, and spent a great deal of my time and most of my money trying to convince the medical profession of the fact that they should be leaders—and, of course, that entails responsibility.

The professor is also correct in the statement that up to the present time the medical profession has not offered to the people of the State of California in any one locality an opportunity to pay for necessary medical service upon a plan by which they could make periodic payments when they were well that would insure them against the disaster of illness when it occurred; and it seems to me, and I think it seems to all men who have studied this subject—I certainly was glad to know about this "Graphic," when I think of the nights that I have sat up and the volumes that I have read during the last 20 years, and it could all be contained within one little magazine like that. I feel like I have wasted a tremendous amount of money and time. (Laughter.)

But the thing is this—if you will pardon me: That first of all, if certain definite principles can be established—now, organized societies of medicine, the California Medical Association did adopt certain definite principles—that there should be no middleman's profit, that there should be no one who can sell physicians' services to a sick man and make a profit on it himself, no matter what that agency might be—the State, a private corporation, or an individual, or any other agency. You have a group of human beings, and a certain number of them become afflicted with disease or suffer from injuries, and it doesn't make a particle of difference what caused the trouble or what the type of it is: There is a sick person that needs succor and help and treatment, and any system and any State that is worthy of the name has got to provide adequate, reasonable, humane treatment for that sick person. Now, it is true that you may limit the period of time, you may limit the age of the individual, and you will accomplish a certain amount of good; but you are still going to throw onto the scrap heap a lot of people who are just as deserving and it is just as necessary that they should have care; and it seems to me that it is a thing for serious consideration. About the other principles, it is not necessary to enumerate them, because you can get them; I am sure that the medical committee will furnish them to you. And, as has been said, you have the experience of the world back of you. Here is one other thing that I want to say in conclusion: That no matter how long you labor, no matter how carefully you look into every detail, and no matter how much factual material all these various committees that are working so hard present to you, any system that you approve, any bill that you write that becomes a law in the State of California, is going to have a great many faults in it. You are going to do like a great many people have done before—not go very far along until you begin to throw over this, that, or the other, because of its imperfections. But those are things that can not be helped. But the fact does remain, and there is an abundance of proof of that, that today in California there are innumerable California families and California citizens who can not secure for themselves adequate medical care without going to the verge of pauperism, and sometimes over the brink into indigency; and it is a thing that must be met.

SENATOR TICKLE: Mr. Von Ellsworth, I know that you are not prepared to give a lengthy dissertation on this subject—for which we are thankful. (Laughter.) But nevertheless, Mr. Von Ellsworth I know is the economist for the California Farm Bureau Federation, and I think they have been making some sort of a study of health insurance.

MR. VON ELLSWORTH: Mr. Chairman, members of the committee, and ladies and gentlemen: I don't know whether that remark of Senator Tickle's was because he has heard me speak before.

The farmers of the State of California are very vitally concerned in this problem. The problem as it affects them is more important than it is as it affects city people, because oftentimes facilities are available to city folks that are not available to rural people. Oftentimes people are qualified for admission to public institutions where health facilities are made available, when they are in no better economic conditions than many of our farmers are who today neither want such service nor could get it if they did want it in such circumstances. Therefore the problem becomes acute to them.

As you know, Senator Tickle, we have no definite program at this time. In many of our counties we have institutions and county hospitals that we feel are serving very well. We feel that those services should be made available to the members under conditions which would enable them to take advantage of them. But by and large, as a group of farmers, we do not have a position on this particular issue. I think that I can say to you and to your committee that the organization will gladly support any program that is found to be sound and remedial. It has no program of its own. For some time it has to the best of its ability been studying the problem. We have gathered, as you know, considerable data on it, attempting to analyze it from our angle as well as from the angle of the other people of the community, and those data are at your disposal at any time that you see fit to use them. Our study has not progressed far enough to enable us to analyze it and make recommendations thereon. We are looking forward very hopefully to the study that is now being carried on over the State under the direction of Dr. Dodd, and feel that any recommendations that might be made at this time would be speculative and probably premature. We feel that while I agree with our friend Professor Mann that there are volumes written on it, and I must admit that there are volumes that I haven't read on it; yet I feel that I yet have to see a comprehensive survey of the problem, particularly as it affects rural California. There is one phase of the medical problem, it seems to me, that has been somewhat neglected.

Now, just to suggest certain related problems that occur to me and that you are probably considering, because I think we are concerned in one health problem. Since conversing with you up at the hotel that day, I see a great deal in the title of your committee, the high cost of sickness. I think it is. It not only means the amount which we pay to the doctor and the dentist and the hospital, and so forth, but it means the loss that is sustained to society through the individuals being incapacitated; in fact, it changes the individual's mental attitude; the fact that he might be disabled is a serious economic loss. Within the scope of your committee, it seems to me, should come such problems as a consideration of the unification of the entire health program.

Now, by that I mean this: That as you go from county to county over this State, so far as I know with one exception in the State—and that exception is Kern—there is a difference in the personnel between the county board of health and the county physician, a difference in the personnel between the health regulatory official and the head of the county hospital. I think now particularly and observed in one county, for example: A county physician and a county health officer—two different individuals, both apparently very competent persons, both of them giving a great deal of their time and energy, sincerely and efficiently, and yet the scope of jurisdiction of the county health officer is such that there are certain municipalities within that county that do not come under the scope of his jurisdiction, and within those municipalities is created disease and contamination that he has no regulation over whatever. Some of the cities within the county are by compact between the city councils and the board of supervisors, but the city I think of now was not, and sanitation, it seems to me, is the fundamental one of many of their health problems. Very likely there should be a connection between your county hospital and other groups and other institutions.

Now, then, to us as farmers those are very vital problems. They are directly connected up with the problem that you are directing attention to at this time, and it seems to me that they should be taken into consideration. Very likely you are taking them into consideration. Along that line, there is the problem of governmental activity, which has been the subject of discussion more extensively today. There is the matter of taking care of our indigents. Is that a county responsibility? Is it a State responsibility? Maybe it is a National responsibility. I don't know.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Could you give your opinion on it?

MR. VON ELLSWORTH: I can not give you an opinion on it. I can give you some interesting observations, if you would like to have them.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: We would.

MR. VON ELLSWORTH: It seems to me that there is no question but what we are going to take care of our health problems—not only the indigents, but those that are not indigents, and the healthy—even all of them, but it appears to me at this time, when our populace is so transient and they are moving about so rapidly, when so many of our people are moving into California and migrating and moving about within and without the State, that very likely we should have a larger taxing unit than the county unit to provide for the medical needs of our indigents.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: We will next hear from Dr. Geiger.

DR. GEIGER: Mr. Chairman, I supply, of course, the care for the indigent sick of the City and County of San Francisco. We supply about 1,200,000 beds a year. To say that we take care of the indigent sick of the City and County of San Francisco very well, I think is plainly evident. It is done through the help of the two universities. To say that the public health side of it—that the preventive side of it, is well taken care of—well, I think that certainly doesn't need any explanation right here. So far as the problems are concerned in the City and County of San Francisco for the indigent sick and for the preventive services, they are well done. Apparently this committee has several problems before it. Before you get through with it, I am sure that you will be both pessimists and optimists to a certain extent. I have been more or less a pessimist in regard to this problem for many years. We are beginning to get in our institutions more people every day. It is becoming more difficult to take care of them. The problem of the money to be taken from the taxpayer is getting more difficult; the taxpayer hasn't got it. The cost of hospital care is going up, due to certain governmental reasons, recovery, and so on. Our costs have gone up at least about $65,000 this year, over and above what we are anticipated. Now, those problems indicate to me one thing: Either we are getting more people who are coming in to us sick, from the standpoint of a person who is ill, or that more people are becoming incapacitated as the days go along.

Now, there are certain things about this that are of direct interest. In the first place, we have to take care of the indigent sick. That is being fairly well done in many counties. Irrespective of what is being said here, I think it is well done in many of our counties. That part of it can be almost forgotten. That depends upon the taxpayers and the amount of money that they are willing to subscribe to take care of our more unfortunate brothers. That part is all clear; but the part that is not clear is that there is being constantly loaded into the indigent class the people that you are interested in now. Persons made indigent by sickness. The second thing is this, that you have got to have some unanimity of opinion among the medical profession, which is a most difficult thing to obtain, and I don't want any of you to be too pessimistic about that. One thing that organized medicine has to have is loyalty among its own group, and I think that is what is happening in our California today. I think that as a group the medical profession are more loyal than they ever have been to each other, and if there is some difference of opinion between the committee and organized medicine, that difference of opinion certainly can be ironed out between such gentlemen as you are and with organized medicine. I deal with political bodies perhaps more than some of these other gentlemen do. I have to deal with the political bodies of the City and County of San Francisco all the time. I have never found the so-called politician absolutely inimical to public health; neither have I found him inimical in any of his opinions in regard to the people that need to be taken care of; and I don't think you people will be that way toward organized medicine. I think you have a problem before you. There is no doubt that we have got to have something; we have got to have it. And the only thing that we are trying to do in organized medicine is to bring to you a unanimity of opinion as to how this thing should be done, and which will not be a discredit to the medical profession—and I know you don't want to discredit it; I am sure of that.

Now, our people are getting medical service, perhaps not as good as they should get it, to take care of people who are indigents. I know the cost of it, and I know exactly what it means. I know the things that we have to do for that particular patient. Now, no doctor can supply that unless he is paid for it; no hospital can give facilities unless they are paid for it, and the doctors themselves should be paid. One thing that we have tried to do in our city and county work is to see that there should be at least some compensation for the physicians who work in the Department of Public Health.

Now, I realize that we are in a unique institution. On the one hand, we have in one set of men a preventive service, and likewise, on the other hand, we have in the same set of men the curative side of medicine. You have here one of the most interesting problems of medicine that I know of, where the two universities combine with the Department of Public Health, for teaching purposes, it may be true, for teaching purposes of medicine, and from which the indigent poor of this city obtain probably the finest medical advice that they could ever obtain under any circumstances. Now, we have got the best type of hospitals to which the other people can go. There certainly should be some guarantee, with a man on a certain salary, that he can obtain medical service and hospital service. They have both got to come together. You have got to realize this, that if we don't do something the taxpayers are going to be overloaded with indigents, and somebody has to pay. We will have to raise the standards of our so-called social service economy. Now, whether we agree on the social service economy standards, or economic standards, if you want to put it that way, we are going to have to raise that economic standard to a certain extent, if we don't do something of this kind. The medical profession today, of course, are not beggars by any means. None of us are, and we are not requesting anything at all that we should not have; but I think—and I will be the president of the county medical society next year, not because I desire it, but because somebody appointed me—because the whole medical profession appointed me for that position; and one of my attributes has been, and I think it has been attributed to me for many years, a loyalty to organized medicine; and that is one thing that I have brought to the Department of Public Health—loyalty to organized medicine, and to see that they get their just dues. I am not afraid of this Legislature or any other Legislature with reference to their attitude toward organized medicine. I feel sorry for you gentlemen, but I want you to feel that I am willing to help—my whole department is going to help. And so far as the San Francisco County Medical Society is concerned, with its 800 odd members—it is true some of them are militant, and I am glad they are—all I can do is to make certain recommendations, and those recommendations will be substantially this, that they will cooperate through their own State Medical Association, in order to at least permit you gentlemen to work out a plan which I hope will be acceptable to all. I know what is happening in England. I have seen the English system; I have been with the British Minister of Health. I know what is happening in France; I know some things about Germany. We all know about these things; but when you talk about the European countries, you are not talking about America. We have an entirely different situation here. We might take some of their principles, but we can't take all their systems; it can't be done.

Of course you heard labor this morning, from Frank McDonald. If you want to put it that way, our institution is the midwife of labor; we deliver some 20 per cent of the babies. That is a service in this city to the poor, if you want to put it that way. It has got to be taken into consideration. That is one thing that has got to be done properly, notwithstanding the fact of best control and a lot of other things. Somebody and we are not going to have any more babies. Well, we may have plenty of babies yet to come. Now, that is all a part of our health system. I want you to feel, and I hope that you do not in any way take exception to any of the remarks that I am making in this whole hearing. But I am sure much pleased with the personnel of this commission. I want you gentlemen listen today, and I think you are willing to learn, as we are willing to try to learn, just what we think we should have in organized medicine. We have got to have some kind of insurance of some kind. It has got to be paid for by somebody. It can't be paid for by the taxpayers—that we know—but it has got to be paid for by the people who receive it, and the doctor has to receive a certain compensation.

You have heard figures from the Southern Pacific Hospital. I don't know of any system in the world that I would rather bank on than the Southern Pacific system, which Dr. Colley has run for many years. I don't know of any system that I would rather belong to than the Southern Pacific system. I am proud of it. They have never paid me anything, but my relations with them have been as generous, because I have seen some of the work that has been done. Now, it is perfectly true that our public health program in this State is not what it should be. Anytime you don't give us enough money. It is not because the Legislature does not give us enough money. The State Board of Health knows how to run it, and it is just a question of dollars and cents. I could run a 100-bed hospital department with 100 nurses, I could pay it with 50 cents; I could run it with a dollar, and I could give the doctors on the amount of money that you give me. And we can do the same thing on the preventive side, and we can do the same thing on the curative side, provided the doctor is happy in his work—and the only way he can be happy in his work is to have some financial guarantee for his own family, the better he can live.

DR. SULLIVAN: Dr. Geiger, don't you believe that the physicians and surgeons who treat the indigent should be paid for their services?

DR. GEIGER: Dr. Sullivan, that brings up one of the most important things that we are dealing with in curative medicine in our institutions. I think the ideal system that is arranged today in our county hospital here, in which it is used for teaching purposes by two great institutions, in which are paid the resident staff, in which we pay nothing more than the resident staff and a part of the expense. I can admit that the San Francisco County has not paid its resident doctors, and that the universities have been stuck, on some occasions when the county should have paid for it. We are trying to correct that as the years go by.

But when the two universities which we have are giving our instruction for teaching purposes—which is a proper thing to do, and in which they are giving service, there are a part of those services which we can pay for, but I do not think for the attending staff and for the consulting staff. I do not think for the indigent sick that the doctor should be paid. That is a service that he owes.

DR. WILSON: I think it is due the public that some statement as to the relationship or lack of relationship between the Public Health League and the California Medical Association and the various county medical associations be made. It happened that the Public Health League originally was started by various members of the staffs of health centers of Los Angeles County, who were disgruntled at the increasing number of patients that they were being compelled to take care of in the public health agencies, without any voice in the methods and procedures, and so on. The present makeup or organization of who were disgruntled at the conservatism of the organized medical profession, and who believed through their more intense activity that they might effect certain changes which would be and they are primarily, if I am not mistaken, interested in public welfare. Once in a while some individual gets the idea that he is correct in his interpretation, but it isn't so; that is a misconception on the part of the individual. Repeatedly, as the Los Angeles County Medical Association—and I think I may speak for them, as I have been their secretary for four years, and will be the president a week from today—we have refused the endorsement or approval of the Public Health League purely for the reason that we know that some day medicine would be misrepresented in the community. Unfairly so, not through any intention to misrepresent it, but through the lack of care that individuals in their passion and prejudice might exercise over their tongues.

SENATOR TICKLE: I am very much obliged, Doctor. That is very good.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: It has been suggested that before we adjourn, that we ask any of you who care to talk on this subject, if it will not be possible for you to be heard tomorrow. We propose to adjourn until tomorrow. We would be very glad to hear you today, if you desire. Our time is at your disposal. Any person who can not be here tomorrow at the meeting, why, we would be very glad to hear from them today.

We will now adjourn until ten o'clock tomorrow morning, in this same room.

(Thereupon an adjournment was taken until ten o'clock a.m., Saturday, December 15, 1934.)

Saturday, December 15, 1934, Ten o'Clock A.M.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: The meeting will come to order, please. Come to order.
SENATOR TICKLE: Is there an official representative here of the Dental Association?

DR. SLOMAN: Yes, sir.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Dr. Sloman.

SENATOR TICKLE: At the public hearing of this committee yesterday, Dr. T. Henshaw Kelly, Chairman of the Council of the California Medical Association, informed the committee that the Public Health League did not represent and was not the official spokesman of the California Medical Association. I would like to ask you the same question: Is the Public Health League the official representative of the Dental Association?

DR. SLOMAN: No, sir.

SENATOR TICKLE: You never had anything to do with them, Doctor?

DR. SLOMAN: I had nothing to do with them—or do you mean the Dental Association?

SENATOR TICKLE: The Dental Association.

DR. SLOMAN: The closest thing to approval that I can think of at the moment, and probably the only record of approval of the work of the Public Health League, or disapproval, is contained in the minutes of the Council of the California State Dental Association early in the spring of 1933, and this is the result of the executive secretary's appearance before that council, in which he explained the purposes of the Public Health League of California to the council of the California State Dental Association.

Let me call your attention to one thing on the side first: There are two State dental associations—the California State Dental Association and the Southern California State Dental Association.

SENATOR TICKLE: Yes.

DR. SLOMAN: And in the minutes of the council of the California State Dental Association, is that after listening to the presentation of the plans and principles of the Public Health League, the council of the California State Dental Association approved the plan of the Public Health League. That is the only official action of the California State Dental Association. I do not believe there is any official action of the Southern California State Dental Association in regard to the Public Health League, but the council of the State Association has the following wording in the motion regarding the report of Mr. Read, that they approved the plan of the Public Health League.

DR. SULLIVAN: But it is not the official spokesman for the Dental Association?

SENATOR TICKLE: You have not, as an association, contributed to them financially?

DR. SLOMAN: No, sir. No moneys have been contributed to the Public Health League by either association or by the joint legislative committee, of which I am a member, which represents both associations.

DR. SULLIVAN: I think the committee would be delighted to hear from you on the subject before the Committee on Health Insurance, and any solution of our problems which you consider desirable and practical.

DR. SULLIVAN: Yes.

DR. SLOMAN: The Joint Legislative Committee of the California State Dental Associations—neither of the two California State Dental Associations have formed any policy regarding the problem of health insurance. It has been discussed by the councils of both associations, and at length by the Joint Legislative Committee. Dr. Roy Green and I were appointed to come here and represent the California State Dental Association, and the Joint Legislative Committee of both associations. We both come uninstructed; we have no instructions. The statement was given by Dr. Green yesterday, and Dr. Green was of the opinion that he might have to leave before he could make the statement, so we had it here, and the assumption was that we would either leave it with the chairman of the committee or the secretary of the committee, or I would present it.

Any views, of course, that I would express in regard to health insurance would not necessarily be the views of the official organization. The only thing I can do is to anticipate what the views might be in the event of any health insurance legislation. I believe that the members of the dental profession of California are waiting courteously and patiently for the House of Delegates of the California State Medical Association to form a policy or draw some conclusions on the subject of health insurance, and I believe that then the two dental associations will exercise their prerogative of agreeing with the Medical Association or disagreeing with the Medical Association, as seems to best fit their own policy as dentists and as citizens. I believe, too, that the majority of physicians and dentists of California have not made up their mind, probably because they are not in the possession of sufficient information, as to whether or not the public health problem of California will be considerably better off through the advent of health insurance. I think we are all hopeful that this committee can evolve a satisfactory, or nearly satisfactory plan of health insurance. I think that health insurance offers some exceedingly splendid opportunities for dentistry, for the reason that dentistry is confronted with an intricate problem of prevention. I believe that the medical profession, or the members of the medical profession and the people of the State will be taught through some organized method the value of preventive dentistry. We know that we can take care of a child's mouth, for instance, for a period of about ten years, from the ages of two until twelve, for about $107, providing adequate care of that child, exclusive of orthodontia, or straightening the child's teeth, for about ten years at a fee of about $10.70 a year; that is, providing that child or that group of children are all brought to the dentist's office—preferably to a child's dentist—at the age of two. And we know, further, that if another group of children are brought to the dentist's office at the age of six, that the succeeding six years of service incidental to maintaining a healthy dental apparatus for that child, will be considerably in excess of $107 for the six years involved. So we can see in that the economy and the value, in terms of health service, of starting the child to the dentist and giving it adequate care early. The same principle holds true for adults. We know now that the per capita expenditure for dental health service is not nearly what it should be, and through the advent of health insurance we hope that the public will be enlightened sufficiently to know that a few dollars well spent for dental service will probably pay their cost of medical service throughout their lives. Probably the primary concern of dentistry and health insurance is to make reasonable sure that sufficient dentistry is included in any program of health insurance that will provide a comfortable, efficient, and aseptic dental apparatus. We are fearful that in order to reduce the cost—the cost per participant—in any health insurance program, that an attempt might be made to include only the exceedingly simple forms of dentistry, and if the exceedingly simple forms of dentistry, that would be probably the extraction of teeth, and the eradication of infection and the insertion of plastic fillings and vulcanite, which is simply an aseptic job. If those forms of dentistry are included and restricted in any form of health insurance legislation, I am quite sure that the dentistry of America—which is recognized as the best dentistry in the world, the best for the patient's health. I mean, as well as comfort, that if those types of dentistry are classified as non health insurance legislation, that it will teach the American people or even the American people into a type of dentistry that is prevalent throughout Europe today, which is highly unsatisfactory in my opinion from the health standpoint and from the standpoint of service. The number of dentists in England is about half of the number of dentists in America per capita. The kind of dentistry that is being done in England in my opinion is wholly unsatisfactory. The Englishman, as a matter of fact, will appreciate, are just as intelligent as the American, but there are not as intelligent regarding dentistry, and probably the reason is that the English dentist is taught what is properly termed blood and vulcanite dentistry, and I am sure that as a student in school, and having done that in the first few years of his practice, he visualizes every mouth that he sees, regardless of where he is doing the dentistry, in terms of plastic fillings, extractions, and vulcanite denture, which in my opinion is wholly unsatisfactory dentistry.

DR. SULLIVAN: Doctor, do you favor the measures advocated by Dr. McManey relating to dental hygiene in the schools?

DR. SLOMAN: You mean putting hygiene in all the public schools for the purpose of educating the children?

DR. SULLIVAN: Yes—at the expense of the taxpayers, but for the benefit of the children attending public schools.

DR. SLOMAN: Yes, sir.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Doctor, did I understand that the United States Government has some figures that dentistry per capita can be carried on for something under, I think it is, $4.72? Is that possible in your mind?

DR. SLOMAN: No, it isn't—not nearly possible, Senator.

SENATOR TICKLE: That was just for prophylactic treatment, wasn't it?

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Yes.

DR. SLOMAN: The Committee on Cost of Medical Care calculated the per capita expenditure in 1929 for medical and dental services at $9.66, and in the same report said that 25 per cent of the people had adequate dental care. I believe that they meant that 25 per cent of the people patronized dentists.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Doctor, what do you have in your dental organization that corresponds or synchronizes at all with the House of Delegates in the medical profession?

DR. SLOMAN: We have a House of Delegates.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: You have a House of Delegates?

DR. SLOMAN: Yes, in the American Dental Society.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: On the same principle?

DR. SLOMAN: Yes, there is the same plan of organization in the American Medical Association as in the American Dental Association, or vice versa.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Thank you very much, Doctor.

DR. SULLIVAN: May I ask another question?

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Certainly

DR. SULLIVAN: Among families that have an income of from $1,200 to $2,000, the average annual expenditure for dental care is $9.01. Do you think that is sufficient for dental care?

DR. SLOMAN: No, sir, I still think that is consistent with the per capita that I mentioned of $3.66. You are speaking of families.

DR. SULLIVAN: Do you think that the present system is unsatisfactory and inadequate?

DR. SLOMAN: The present system is wholly inadequate from the standpoint of taking care of the mouths of the people in the United States; the per capita expenditure is wholly inadequate.

DR. SULLIVAN: And something should be done to correct the present situation?

DR. SLOMAN: I think so. I think if anything can be done to correct the present situation, it will be entirely acceptable to the dental profession.

DR. SULLIVAN: You also believe, do you, that the average dentist in the State of California is very inadequately remunerated for his services?

DR. SLOMAN: I think the majority of the dental profession would subscribe to that viewpoint.

DR. SULLIVAN: Do you or do you not believe that dentists should be paid for taking care of the indigent?

DR. SLOMAN: I certainly believe that, sir.

DR. SULLIVAN: That they should be paid?

DR. SLOMAN: Yes, sir.

DR. SULLIVAN: That is all.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Thank you, Doctor.

SENATOR TICKLE: We see a face in the crowd at this meeting that is very familiar, I think, to every one here, and I think known to all of us, and that is Dr. Philip King Brown. I am glad to see that you are well and on your feet again, Doctor, and I am glad to know that you are here.

DR. SULLIVAN: Every one shares in that expression, Dr. Brown.

SENATOR TICKLE: I think if you would like to tell us anything about health problems in California, we are in a very receptive mood.

Won't you come up and sit down here at the table, Dr. Brown?

DR. BROWN: I came up from Southern California in order to be present at this meeting. I was hoping that I might have come yesterday, but it was impossible.

There are several things about the situation which it seems to me need a much better understanding. They have been referred to by various speakers, and I will discuss the things in a general way as they come to me.

We are an intellectual organization—the medical profession—so far as we are organized at all. We have had so much to do to keep pace with the rapid advances of medicine that the extraordinary changes which the rapid advances of industry have put upon us have not received the amount of attention that such economic problems should have received from the profession. There are in all professions people ready to take advantage, selfish advantage, of opportunity, and there has come up in the medical profession too much of that, to which we have not given adequate attention. I think that if we understood better, we would have corrected some of these abuses as they occurred. I am accused of having used the public press to call attention to some of these things. I did it only because I could have no hearing in any medical organization. There are on record at least two letters from me in the last year, to my own society, the first of which was never even answered, when, after a most depressing meeting of its economic section, I offered to tell them how other county societies had worked out this problem and make it the basis of what we might ourselves do. From my publications on various aspects of this standard of better distribution of medical care, I have had letters from laymen and doctors all over this country, and the one cry is, "Stop talking and do something." I have published in an address delivered at Long Beach a year and a half ago quotations from a recent president of the Los Angeles Society, in which he said:

"The white collar class is our responsibility, and we are going to do something for them."

You have all seen the plan that Dr. Graves proposed two or three years ago. Did anything come of it? No. Nothing has come of any of the things that have been proposed thus far; and yet to my certain knowledge Dr. Coffey, who represents the oldest and most successful private health insurance organization in the world, has offered to help with a plan. Perhaps the profession was not ready for it. Perhaps the individuality which we have developed through the overemphasis of specialism has prevented our getting together to deal with the economic problems. The misconceptions on the part of intelligent medical men, the misinterpretations which they put upon things, are really stupid, they are so illy founded.

I have in two of these books plenty of evidence, and I have probably twenty such volumes of the things that I have collected about this problem of better distribution of care. One of the things is a letter from this so-called Public Health League, its secretary, in which he makes four statements, no one of which can he possibly prove. It is said in a letter which the president of the league has written to an eastern organization that I am not capable of telling the truth, and yet I have never made a statement that I can not prove, and I have, for instance, here the proof, three or four times expressed on their own letterhead, and in their own writing, that they have advocated a militant attitude against what this Senate committee might do in the way of developing a system of health insurance.

Let me read to you one excerpt from the Los Angeles Times of October 7, 1934:

"To forestall legislative action, a state-wide 'Public Health League,' composed of doctors and dentists, has been organized with two sets of officers and headquarters in San Francisco and Los Angeles. The league has a magazine of its own, the Guardian, in which methods of opposition are hotly discussed. Politically and ethically speaking, the methods advocated are regarded by laymen as pathetic. Instead of relying upon the merits of their cause, lobbying is proposed.

'We must control the politics of the Assembly districts by organizing along military lines,' wrote Dr. Barry E. Coleman in the Guardian. 'We must maintain a strong lobby at Sacramento. We must be willing to work individually and collectively to sway political bodies and to educate the public. We must develop political strength for purposes of barter and trade.'

Besides making politicians smile, that kind of a campaign must be very embarrassing to men like Dr. Pattengill, Dr. Medary and Dr. John L. Pomerooy, county health officer, who believes medical men and medical agencies should find ways and means to remove the burden of State medicine without resorting to lobbying."

Now, we are afraid of our individual soul being dealt with in any way that would disturb what is our particular grasp of the situation. In other words, we are all in a sense specialists, and we do not want to be interfered with; but the fact is that it has been made plain to us by every survey that has ever been made in this country that the 20 per cent of the great population who can pay their bills are all right. The State has given us a license to do the particular job—to practice, provided we practice under the terms of the Medical Practice Act. Thirty per cent of the population can pay the bills that we ask; 11 per cent never can pay a cent, no matter what happens. That percentage has steadily gone up in the last five years, but between the 30 per cent who can pay, and the 11 to 20 per cent who can not pay, there is a large percentage, practically half the population, who can pay if you give them a decent business arrangement of payment. Two per cent of the population are sick all of the time. Under an insurance plan, 100 per cent are paying bills of that 2 per cent. It can be paid, and paid for well. If you dared to drive an automobile in this town without insurance on it, you would be a bigger and more foolish person than I think any of you are. You can not afford to take the chance of the sudden thing happening to you. I had a lesson at the time of the fire, with $2,000 insurance on my office, and no other insurance, and I lost probably a library worth $25,000, and a great many things that were of value to me—and I learned a lesson. I didn't need another lesson to sell to me the idea of spreading the cost of sudden disaster such as a sickness. You yourselves know that we tried to help this campaign by putting the physicians out of business, by legislation that would oblige the licensing and the standardization of anybody who presumed to do health insurance work in this State. The State law forbids the practice of medicine by corporations. We were defeated in that because it was said that we did not make it quite clear that corporations were excluded. That, however, I do not believe is still the case, because you can not, if you are a corporation, apply for a license and get it if the State forbids your being licensed as a corporation to do a thing which the State itself forbids.

Now, there is one thing which I want to say—I could talk to you for hours about the thing—and that is something about public health. Do you know, Doctors, that the State gives the medical profession no license whatsoever to practice preventive medicine and public health? The Medical Practice Act contains reference to that in only two places, and they are where it requires public health and preventive medicine to be taught in the several schools. It gives the medical profession the right to administer drugs, and to make certain incisions in the human body for the relief of things, but it gives them no right to practice preventive medicine or public health. Under the law that is a privilege given only to the State Board of Health. If you will refer back to your own bulletins that were published by the State Board of Health, you will find that the State Board of Health alone has the right to practice preventive medicine and public health, and to delegate it to such people as operate under their jurisdiction.

Now, that is my great contention, that the Public Health League was formed on a wrong basis. Perhaps the State Board of Health should give to every doctor in the State who lives up to a certain standard of practice the right to be its agent in practicing preventive medicine. I have no doubt in the world that all over the State the State health officers cooperate with the medical profession thoroughly, but I am not at all sure that the medical profession cooperates with the State Board of Health.

The man who controls the budget of Los Angeles County told me at the public health meeting there early in September that the racket of the Public Health League was going to cost the county of Los Angeles $100,000 in a year more than the plan under which they were operating until that time. Now, there were things that were wrong with the way it was operating before. I don't deny that. What Dr. Sloman said is true: The work done by dentists and doctors for the indigent should be paid for. Every other thing done for the indigents is paid for—the food that the State has to give them, the clothing that they wear, what covers their heads at night, the roof over their heads is paid for. Why shouldn't their medical care be paid for? Why should we be imposed upon to do an amount of work that never should have been put upon us? That is the thing that was wrong in Los Angeles County. If those 500 doctors contributing their time to those clinics had been backed by the medical profession of Los Angeles County in its board of supervisors, they could have done what was done to the Naturopathic Act and the Chiropractic Act, and they could have made that board of supervisors pay for the services rendered, in which case there would have been no Public Health League, and those 500 doctors, and 500 more if it was necessary in the emergency, would have received some compensation for the work that was done by them under the control of the public health officer of the county; and it would have been well done because the surroundings in which they were working were among the best in the United States, and have been so made a matter of record many times. But did they do that? No, they disrupted all they possibly could of the work that had been done, and sought, by issuing a coupon ticket to the poor under a charity arrangement, to give them a certain number of visits to doctors' offices, the 500 who had contributed their services, so that they should collect fifty cents apiece for administering to them in their own offices. Now, that they say has been a success. Gentlemen, it has not been a success. I have investigated that thing, and spent hours and hours of time over it, and it is not a success. It is no more a success than the Alameda County plan, or the San Diego plan is; and Dr. Nathan Sinai said in the presence of perhaps some of the doctors here, "All of these charity plans for the relief of the poor are glorified collection agencies."

I just came from discussing with the head of the Cottage Hospital, and some of his staff there, the plan that they have inaugurated in Santa Barbara. It is an absolute failure, top, bottom and sideways; and yet it represents the best ideas that they have collected from these other plans.

Now, we have got to have a better distribution of our service; we want to do more work. We can do it. I have seen it done in the Southern Pacific Hospital. Dr. Coffey has never asked me one question as to why I spent $200 on a poor man who had worked for the company only a few days, if he came in with tetanus, or threatened with tetanus, or with an epidemic disease that required any quantity of serum. We give him what he needs. Our business is to put him back on his feet as fast as possible, and we are paid for doing it; we are paid on a salary basis. There are other ways of paying for them, ways that can be worked out, that are just to the fund that would be collected under an insurance plan, and that are just to the doctors, and that would give them much more to do—much more stimulus to do good work, much better support, much better contact with each other, much better team work. In the meantime the sick person, instead of going to an uneducated practitioner to get his back rubbed, when he had the two dollars and a half to pay for it, or going to a drug store and getting a bottle of red medicine which says it will cure rheumatism—would seek qualified medical care. If he went to a regular doctor, he would be sent to have his teeth X-rayed, which he would promptly decide he couldn't pay for; then he would have to have a blood count, which he couldn't pay for; and then he would have to have half a dozen other things, which we of the profession need to know about that man, but which the man couldn't probably pay for under the present system. Now, we want him to get all those things; I want him to get the things I have seen for 30 years given to the working people of the Southern Pacific Hospital, where no questions are asked; but let us find out as promptly as possible what is wrong with this man, and let us do the things that the sick or injured person needs, that the company wants, and that the hospital wants—get him back on his feet at the earliest possible moment.

Now, I have talked too long.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Not at all, Doctor.

DR. SULLIVAN: No, Doctor.

DR. BROWN: I can prove what I have said, that the Public Health League has practically fought health insurance. I have the history of every single thing that they have ever put out in this book.

SENATOR TICKLE: Do you mean to say, Doctor, that the Public Health League has fought health insurance?

DR. BROWN: The purpose of the organization is:

"To maintain the proper relationship between the patient and his private physician, and to foresall all forms of socialized medicine."

That is one thing. Here's another:

"There is no question but that State medicine is coming, and coming fast, and unless the medical profession snaps out of it, and that mighty soon, they will wake up some fine morning, when it is too late, to find that they are lashed to the claspnet wheels of State madness."

In a publication there is a great deal to criticize. The real discrepancy of the proper work among the great mass of the poor is the chief thing by which he proposes to get rid of all clinics, and to have the profession handle the thing, he says here:

"Requiring low wage workers to be covered by insurance for major health calamities, probably subsidized by philanthropy or State, or by both."

A special committee of the California Senate is now studying plans for a State health insurance act to be presented at the next meeting of the Legislature. It appears certain at this time that some form of State medicine will be proposed. Whether it will be in a form compatible to the medical profession, or whether it will be something arbitrarily handled to us by the politicians, depends upon how well we master our political strength."

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Doctor, may we have that quotation—from what source it comes?

DR. BROWN: That is from a public letter written on the paper of the Public Health League of California, in San Francisco, and signed by Drs. Gilman, Caplan, and Delprat. It bears the date of October 30th, 1933.

Now, I could go on and bring to your attention a great many of these things. I don't think that I want to be known as a person who is opposed to the medical profession. I am not. I am trying to get them to clean their own house, and I am trying to get men of ability—loads of men in this room—on making these representations do their work for them, and not delegate it to anybody else whose motives are not always what one thinks they are. I know too much about some of the things that have gone on in this State by people who think they represent the medical profession, and I am sure that they do not.

DR. SULLIVAN: Mr. Chairman, may I ask Dr. Brown a question?

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Certainly.

DR. SULLIVAN: I judge from your remarks that you do not believe that the application of insurance to medical care tends to lower the standards of medical care, degrade the medical personnel, and make medical care a business rather than a profession?

DR. BROWN: Not if it is run by medical men. Insurance that is run by laymen or lay organizations or hospital associations has no place in this situation. However, because they hire the cheapest person that they can get, the medical profession is on trial in an insurance plan, and it can not stand to give poor service. It must protect the poor man in his own group, as they have done in some places, by forcing consultation upon men that they know to be incompetent, without criticizing the men; they really criticize that word as a punishment to the profession, and they are getting all the time better word out of the great body of medical men; and that is what we ought to do here.

DR. SULLIVAN: Do you endorse the Alameda County plan run by medical men, or the San Fernando plan run by medical men, or any of these other plans that are over the State?

DR. BROWN: I think that those plans up to a certain point are very interesting in ordinary times. If one takes the Alameda County plan, which is probably the best one, as an example: When a man is unable to provide for himself with medical care, the Alameda County Society almost to a man has agreed to give him that care at what he can afford to pay, and the arrangement between the patient and the doctor is a purely personal one. In other words, when John Smith, a non-unionist, telephones the central bureau that his wife is ill, and that unfortunately he can't pay a doctor's full price for attending her, this central bureau sends the nearest medical man to him. He has a little pink ticket. He makes his own careful investigation. He finds that John Smith has been a respectable entrepreneur in that community for ten years, and has a wife and four children, and that he has paid his bills. Now, that doctor, and every one in that society, undoubtedly is glad to take care of that man's family at whatever that man can pay at the time, or promises to pay. It is nobody's business but the doctor and that man what the arrangement is between them. That far, that is the best plan that has ever been proposed, but somebody immediately ruined it by doing—

DR. SULLIVAN: Do you know how they determine how much a man can pay?

DR. BROWN: Well, I can't say that I know all the detail of the thing; but I want to say this thing—

I know that he signs the willingness; and his status, and the facts about him, are distributed to every large charitable organization in Alameda County, and he is referred to a credit bureau in order that the medical profession may be protected against his being a liar about what he has said. Now, there the medical profession sold its birthright, because the relation between that man and his doctor was as sacred as any relation that ever existed between patient and doctor up to the time the man signed his name on the back of that thing, and he agreed that he should be branded a public charitable charge; and that is to the eternal discredit of whoever proposed that addition to the plan.

SENATOR TICKLE: That was one bad feature of it.

DR. SULLIVAN: What do you think of the San Fernando plan? You have been down in that district recently.

DR. BROWN: I know what is happening down there. Whenever a good service moves into any of those communities that can be bought in any way, everybody joins that service who can get into it, on any of the plans that they accept service on.

Now, the San Fernando plan is just about as bad as it can be, because it disrupted the public health held on that community first; because it is going to cost Los Angeles County $100,000 more in expenses to administer the San Fernando plan in a year than the other plan that they had. It still doesn't make it right that they don't pay the doctors. Perhaps if they paid the doctors $100,000, it would be paid to the medical profession. It is paid to them now under the San Fernando plan, but are they giving the service? In a few cases I think they are. I have seen one or two cases down toward Long Beach where I think much better service was given to the people than was under the inadequate central clinic plan in so large and poorly populated an area as held down there, where the mileage of the doctor was over 100 miles a day in making visits to people. Now, that is being paid for by the San Fernando plan at so much a mile. I have forgotten just now what the mileage rate was. One doctor told me that he got $200 a month out of it. He needed it to support a family. That was practically all the income that that doctor had. But that could have been provided for, and should have been provided for by the set-up which the Federal Government, and the State, and the municipal and the county, were trying to work out. A little brains put into that thing, backed by the medical profession, and demanded by the medical profession, would have put that whole thing on a different basis. And now, instead of in some places smelling to heaven,—why, people are complaining that they wait three or four hours to see a doctor—the thing would be a right and privilege that those people had, and they wouldn't be treated as the scum of the earth in so many of the doctors' offices.

DR. SULLIVAN: Are you familiar, Doctor, with the articles of Frederick J. Hoffman that are now being distributed by the Public Health League to the newspapers of California?

DR. BROWN: Yes.

DR. SULLIVAN (Continuing): Opposing health insurance?

DR. BROWN: I know his articles. I think he went outside of the facts.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Thank you very kindly, Doctor. (Applause.)

DR. SULLIVAN: Dr. Alson Kilgore, reference was made to your hospital insurance plan by Dr. Brown. The committee would like to hear what your plan on hospital insurance is, and what has been accomplished by it.

DR. KILGORE: Gentlemen, it was not my plan. What Dr. Brown has reference to I am sure is the work of the San Francisco County Medical Society in 1933, jointly with the hospital council of the Community Chest of San Francisco, in an effort to work out a plan for this community for the care on a monthly payment basis of hospitalization service. That plan was nearly completed by the end of 1933, after a very great deal of work on our part, and on the part of the hospital representatives; and work was stopped on it because early in 1933 we were apprised of an opinion handed down by the Attorney General of the State to the effect that such plans were to be regarded not as service plans, but as insurance plans, and would require, to be put into operation, the deposit with the Insurance Commissioner of a sum of money which was impracticable for the San Francisco County Medical Society, or for the hospitals to raise. And inasmuch as in 1934, the early part of 1934, the State Medical Society began its most active interest in this field by the appointment of its committee of five for the investigation of the whole field, the San Francisco County Medical Society has not carried on its plan. Does that answer the question?

DR. SULLIVAN: Well, that is your answer. Doctor, what is your attitude toward health insurance?

DR. KILGORE: I think perhaps I ought not to answer that question specifically, because I—

SENATOR TICKLE: This is a perfectly free country. You are not bound to answer or you can express any opinion you care to.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Give us your own personal opinion.

DR. KILGORE: No, I am bound by being a member of the Committee of Five of the California Medical Association.

DR. SULLIVAN: Are they pledged to secrecy on their attitude as to the question of health insurance?

DR. KILGORE: No, we are not pledged to secrecy, except on the deliberations and work of the committee.

DR. SULLIVAN: But you, personally, what is your position on social health insurance—are you for it, or against it?

DR. KILGORE: Well, if this is understood to be personal, I feel this: That there is a very serious social problem involved—a social problem of the necessity of making the medical care available to people who can not pay for it individually. Again as a personal reaction, I regret very much the existence of that problem. I feel that under any form of health insurance the relationship of the doctor to his patient, which is very highly prized by the medical profession, both for our own benefit and for the benefit of the patient, is bound to be disturbed more or less, but I feel this, and I have expressed this opinion before, that in view of the seriousness of the economic questions involved we shall have to sacrifice some of the fine qualities of that relationship in order to meet the economic conditions.

DR. SULLIVAN: And adopt some form of health insurance?

DR. KILGORE: Some form of distribution of the cost of medical care must be evolved.

DR. SULLIVAN: Nationally and internationally called health insurance?

DR. KILGORE: Yes.

SENATOR TICKLE: Doctor, what do you think is the value of the survey which is being conducted by your committee at this time? What is your candid opinion?

DR. KILGORE: I think it is a very valuable contribution to our knowledge of the situation in California.

DR. SULLIVAN: And you are convinced that it is going to be of very great benefit to the understanding of the problem by the community?

DR. KILGORE: I anticipate that by all means.

SENATOR TICKLE: What makes you think, Doctor, that the financial relationship between the doctor and his patient would be disturbed under a health service insurance plan? What makes you think so? I would like to know.

DR. KILGORE: For the reason, Senator, in any situation in which the finances are handled by a third party the relationship between the first two parties is bound to be complicated by that relationship; it just can't help it. Whoever holds the money is going to have some control of it.

DR. SULLIVAN: Is the confidential relationship between your patients and the Western Pacific in any way disturbed?

DR. KILGORE: Did I say confidential relationship?

DR. SULLIVAN: That is what I understood you to say.

DR. KILGORE: I did not mean quite what you have in mind. I meant the sense of personal responsibility to the patient, and the patient's sense of looking to the doctor for that entire responsibility.

DR. SULLIVAN: You give your patients in the Western Pacific just as fine scientific treatment, Dr. Kilgore, as we know you are capable of, and you are recognized as one of the great men in medicine.

DR. KILGORE: No. I will agree to the first part of that statement.

DR. SULLIVAN: Well, everybody else will agree to the second part of it. Dr. Kilgore, you would, no matter whether your patients were private or whether they were employees, and you the surgeon of the Western Pacific, you would give just as fine services as Dr. Coffey and your colleagues give in the Southern Pacific? Now isn't that a fact?

DR. KILGORE: We try our best, yes.

DR. SULLIVAN: Of course you do; and the relationship between the Western Pacific patients isn't disturbed in any way.

DR. KILGORE: Yes, it is.

DR. SULLIVAN: It is?

DR. KILGORE: Oh, yes. There is the feeling on the part of the patient that he is coming to a doctor whose associations are with the railroad. And it just can't be helped.

DR. SULLIVAN: He would rather go some place else?

DR. KILGORE: I haven't the slightest doubt that a good many of them would.

DR. SULLIVAN: The testimony yesterday was quite contrary to that from men representing the locomotive engineers, the firemen, the switchmen, and other groups of employees. They said they would like to have their families treated by the Southern Pacific doctors.

DR. KILGORE: Well, I can't be responsible for their opinions. I can only give you my own. I think it is a fine service, but I do think that that relationship between the private patient and the private physician is necessarily disturbed.

SENATOR TICKLE: Doctor, the plans that have been evolved so far—with which I presume you are familiar—

DR. KILGORE: Some of them.

SENATOR TICKLE (Continuing): We will take, if you wish, the Alameda plan. Wasn't that evolved by the men of the medical profession themselves?

DR. KILGORE: Yes.

SENATOR TICKLE: By the doctors themselves?

DR. KILGORE: Yes.

SENATOR TICKLE: And among other details they devised the system of investigation and those elaborate credit details, did they not?

DR. KILGORE: Yes.

SENATOR TICKLE: They worked out their own plan so that when the patient who was unable to secure service, for financial reasons, they developed forms which the man signed and which completely destroyed the confidential relationship?

DR. KILGORE: So far as I know, Senator, yes.

SENATOR TICKLE: Yes. It was all evolved by the doctors, and that plan necessitates the man practically making a pauper of himself. I had a great argument on that with Dr. George Reinle, who was president of the California Medical Association and the prime mover in that plan, and thoroughly familiar with it. I disagreed with him on the principle and on the details of that plan, and I still disagree with him because I believe that since the medical profession has insisted that the confidential relationship should not be disturbed, the doctors should not by their very acts disturb so seriously the very relationship that they were so apparently wishing to guard. It seems so inconsistent that I can not reconcile that in my mind.

DR. KILGORE: I do not think they regarded it as an ideal relationship. It was made to fit an economic situation.

SENATOR TICKLE: Well, was it, Doctor? Was it absolutely essential that that questionnaire be gotten out? Couldn't those parts of the plan have been dropped that revealed the most humiliating details about patients?

DR. KILGORE: Well, I have no doubt, Senator, that objection could be removed, and still accomplish the same purpose by other machinery. I haven't had anything to do with the people drawing the Alameda plan.

SENATOR TICKLE: I thought you were familiar with it, and inasmuch as that was one of the things you spoke about, I think that it is a very important thing, the confidential relationship between the doctor and his patient.

DR. KILGORE: Much more important than many of us realize.

SENATOR TICKLE: Yes, I think it is quite important, Doctor.

DR. SULLIVAN: Who is responsible, Dr. Kilgore, in the Western Pacific Railroad medical and hospital service for disturbing this confidential relationship? Is it the doctor, the patient, or the railroad?

DR. KILGORE: The system.

DR. SULLIVAN: The system?

DR. KILGORE: Yes. It is a very fundamental economic fact. It is a very fundamental fact which neither Dr. Coffey nor I could escape from, much as we would like to escape from it—the fact that the patient does not pay his bill directly to the doctor. Now, when you introduce that factor you just can't avoid objectionable features.

DR. SULLIVAN: You believe, Dr. Kilgore, that the patient is anxious to pay his bill to the doctor direct and that such payment has any therapeutic value?

DR. KILGORE: No, I didn't say that, but I say when that fact ceases to exist, and when the accounts and the bills are handled through any third agency whatever, no matter how benevolent it may be in its desires, ambitious and aims, it must disturb something of that relationship. Now, I don't know that in the railroad service—in fact, I do know in the railroad service, it doesn't prevent the giving of good medicine.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Well, that is the important thing.

DR. KILGORE: Now, the Southern Pacific Railroad gives its men most excellent service; we give our men excellent service, but I still maintain that there is not the same fine relationship between the patient and his doctor that there was under private practice of medicine.

DR. SULLIVAN: Where is the confidential relationship between a child, say an infant and its doctor. Infants don't know who are paying the bills. One of the many things that we really are deeply indebted to the medical profession for is the wonderful care which they give to children. It is that scientific care which is really extending the longevity tables. Lives of people up in the fifties and sixties are not being prolonged; they are dropping off just like autumn leaves. The child is not aware that it is being treated, infants don't know who is paying the bills; so we can not attribute the successful treatment of children to any confidential relationship.

DR. KILGORE: That, Dr. Sullivan, is one of the difficulties of practicing with children, the fact that you can not establish exactly that confidential relationship with the patient.

May I make one other comment?

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Surely.

DR. KILGORE: I trust in the deliberations of this committee that you will not base in your minds the need for a health insurance system upon the need of the medical profession to collect its bills. The need for a health insurance system, as we see it—some of us—is that the public, the people can not pay any reasonable bill no matter how the collection is carried out, unless some change in the present system is established. In other words, the public interest is the interest that we are mostly concerned in.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: We will now hear from Mr. Zion.

MR. ZION: My name is E. R. Zion. I did not come here to speak, gentlemen. I came here merely to see that nothing should be done inimical to groups that wanted to get their own group insurance.

About six months ago I organized a savings and loan society. We have now about 300 members, and a part of the program was as soon as we get 1000 members we would get health insurance, and that is what has led them on, I think, to grow rather rapidly. We have made no great effort to secure membership, but after the first of January, when we will pay 6 per cent dividends to those who put their money in, about $13,000, and then we will get a considerable membership, and when we get 1000 I am satisfied there are other groups in the city who will join with us, and give us as many as 5000, and with that number we will be able to start something like the Ross-Loss Group in Los Angeles. We are satisfied that it can be done, at least I am.

In my work with the civil service commission in the city hall I have seen so many of our own boys spend their last nickel, almost, and now coming to me for money to pay doctor bills and hospital bills, and at the same time I have seen doctors pay me to work for $5 a night from 7 o'clock to 11, and some of them are out on the Stock Boulevard working for that wage or less, for about three days a week. Now, then, we have a group that needs medical attention. We have a group of treated patients that could give them that attention, and I don't see why the outrageous fees that are at the present time charged by the doctors should still continue with so many doctors out of work.

My own experience has been rather sad financially. Until I was married I didn't pay a nickel for a doctor. Now, I have three children, a mother-in-law, and a wife. I am going to touch now on the present ethics of the medical profession. I have done as much as any monopoly in the State to change all the traffic would want, and apparently to adopt as much legislation as they could to force people to go to doctors.

One of my boys when about 16 months old got a bellyache. I took him to a doctor and tried to get 10 cents worth of paregoric. That is what my family has used for years. It was ten o'clock at night, and I couldn't get it. I had to have a doctor's prescription. I thought, "Well, I will give him blackberry cordial." I gave him that all night, but it did no good. I called the doctor in the morning, and he came and took the boy to the hospital—not for a bellyache, but for infant convulsions, dysentery, he was bleeding at the mouth, and I had to give him two hundred dollars. The total bill was $1,400, and all they gave him to start with was paregoric that would have stopped the contractions that were causing this bleeding, and that almost caused him to bleed to death. It was impossible to get paregoric without a doctor's prescription. Did anybody ever hear about anybody having a paregoric remedy? And my doctors tell us whether that is a real dope. Absolutely not. They wanted to get $2.50 for a prescription, and say here is a drugstore for filling it. That is what it cost me, $1,400, and it almost lost the boy's life.

Now, with our health insurance, we feel that we will be kept well. And what I hope is that there will be no bill introduced that will make it impossible for us to go ahead and organize our group here in San Francisco as they have done in Los Angeles. If we get groups of that kind, it won't be like a separate independent group and joining through high salesmanship—that is not our goal. But we know, and you know from the Ross-Loss Foundation or group down there, and Edward F. Filene, who is backing the credit union—we call it a savings union—it is a credit union, just like a labor union—a union, a family—so that we can go ahead with other groups and organize our own health insurance. I think it can be done without compulsion. And yet I do know that in the city hall we had to have compulsion to get a pension system; and also when we talked of a hospital group for the city hall it fell through once because it was attempted to be voluntary and the group that wanted it the most, which was the railroad group, said they couldn't get anywhere if it wasn't compulsory; that is, the average citizen wouldn't lay up money for sickness and death, and all those things.

Now, it may be that you can make some kind of an optional system for them to belong to—your own group, or the city group, and maybe that will work the best, but I am satisfied we will have a credit union. Dr. Rowan is here from the Southern Pacific, and they take care of their people in groups like that, and maybe to better satisfaction than if it was compulsory. But I hope that there will be two systems so that you won't interfere with the private groups, because we think we can go ahead.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: You would call that a voluntary or an optional system?

MR. ZION: I would call it optional. Let this Los Angeles group go ahead, and let us build up a group like that here, which we have. The large groups can work together and make a success of it, whereas if you trust a salesman or some solicitor, we know from experience in the past that it has been disastrous.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: You would be for compulsory insurance?

MR. ZION: It should be compulsory, either through a private group, or through a public group, we will assume.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Yes.

MR. ZION: It is like insurance of some kind. You don't have to go to one group, but run your own, if you like. I think it is essential. When doctors put out these health bulletins, they say, "Go to a doctor," and they don't give you a little simple remedy for sore throat, like hot water and salt; but, no, they tell you to "go to a doctor" if anything happens, and then they shut off 10 cents worth of paregoric which would have saved me $1,500.

DR. KELLY: I think that needs just a little bit of explanation, because I think Mr. Zion misunderstands the problem.

I do not attempt to tell a bridge engineer how to construct a bridge, or where he made his mistakes in constructing it unless the bridge falls in. And I can assure Mr. Zion if he wants to understand the effect of paregoric he had better go and spend four years in medical schools before he criticizes the doctors, because paregoric never cured the type of dysentery to which he referred, yet it killed many a child and many a grown person who was convinced of the fact that he had no more pain because he took his paregoric while his appendix blew up, and gave him general peritonitis.

I can assure you of the fact that hot water and salt won't cure almost any sore throat. I can assure you of the fact that I myself, with patients under the most careful regimes, with everything known to medicine, have seen heart disease developed that permanently disabled them, because of their little sore throats, that developed kidney disease which you would never know you had until it was too far gone to do anything about unless you did go to a doctor early with your sore throat. It is a very good thing to know the full picture before one generalizes about another fellow's profession that he has spent longer learning than any other profession in the world. There is no other profession in the United States of America that is required by law to have so long an education, or so complete an education.

And for your further information, the medical profession had nothing to do with the passage of the Harrison Antinarcotic Act. If they had anything to do with it, I think they probably opposed it, because it meant a lot of extra paper work in the office. Now, members of the Senate committee, I would just like that in the record after that attack on the medical profession. The other thing that I wanted to say is this: I have said that the California Medical Association is doing its best to finish the survey, and to formulate a plan based on the survey, recognizing the fact that some sort of insurance is probably the only way that the human race in the complexity of modern civilization can pay for adequate medical care.

A problem came up this morning in which the question of the personal relationship of the physician and the patient was discussed, and I think that a little further elucidation of Medicines' attitude toward that thing would be valuable, and an explanation of what Medicines' fear has always been in regard to the disturbance of that relationship.

When a sick man comes into my office, everything about that sick man under the present system lies between him and me. Anything that I have to say about his sickness, any symptoms that I find out, anything in his life that may have a bearing on his present illness, is locked in my office. And human nature is still subject to slips and slides, and sometimes a man's illness may depend upon indiscretions; it may depend upon very tense situations—business, social, domestic, or what not. All of that matter stays within the confines of my office, and rests entirely between that man and me. And when we have accomplished something in regard to his case, the obligation rests still between the man and me. He knows that my only interest is in him; I know that his only interest is in me, and a bond of loyalty and trust and confidence grows up in that relationship which in many, many instances is absolutely essential in order that anything really be done with that man. Now, the moment that any one begins to collect money, and pay the bill for that man, in justice to the other people who are putting money up, there has to be some control exercised over the amount of service that I give to that man, and the kind of service that I give to that man. That means that the agency which is collecting the money, and then paying me for the service to the individual patient, must have in its hands a record of what is the matter with that man; so that what is wrong with him is no longer a matter between him and me. It also can step in and say, "Here, we can't pay for this kind of treatment which you have said the man ought to have." Now, speaking as an individual, I want to say that I think that certainly that thing would lead probably in many instances to better medicine—that second control of the treatment—because with the proper agency, and proper medical control in the agency, certainly there would be some skilled supervision over that man, and if he had a doctor who was a little bit at sea, perhaps, or whose training had not been as good or as extensive as other men in the same community, the agency could say, "Here, we are going to have some other advice in order to protect the time that the man is going to be ill, and thereby protect the pool of funds that other people have paid in along with the patient." But it is the fear on the part of the profession that in any scheme of State medicine, as it loves to call it, that the mistake will be made, and some kind of an agency put in there which isn't medical enough to recognize the fact that the sick man's sickness fundamentally is his own business, and that he has a right to go into a doctor's office and take his troubles and his disease—and his disease may be a function of his troubles—to his doctor, and knowing that they are going to stop, that his secrets and so forth are going to stop right there. Now, we know that in any form of insurance, whether it be compulsory, or whether it be voluntary, that that old relationship has got to be sacrificed to the extent that a record of that man has got to go out of the doctor's office. But we hope that in any scheme that may be developed, whether it be voluntary under groups, or under the aegis of the medical profession as a whole, or whether it be compulsory, we hope that in sacrificing that relationship of confidence—confidential or privileged communication the law calls it, and protects it right down the line—that the hands that it may come into may be hands that will safeguard it, and it will never be subject to any kind of improper use or inspection, or anything else. I think that is one of the fears that the medical profession has had, and I think it explains a lot of the psychology about the fear of medicine—the profession of medicine—for any kind of compulsory insurance or any kind of voluntary insurance. It has been one of the stuporific blocks. The doctor has always felt, "The patient and I must be just together." The law also says that

DR. SULLIVAN: They also want qualified service, don't they?

DR. KELLY: Yes, certainly.

DR. SULLIVAN: They don't want any patient to fall into hands that are not qualified by education to treat them?

DR. KELLY: Now, that is the trouble with the doctor. I think that it could be arranged in either kind of a scheme so that the maximum amount of protection would be given to the individual patient. I can understand that in a big voluntary scheme, or in a big, compulsory scheme, even, where they put up their money, and have free choice of physicians, that that relationship might very easily be sacrificed out when they felt that it was really part of their own business.

DR. SULLIVAN: Dr. Ingber, do you wish to address the committee?

DR. INGBER: Thank you, Mr. Chairman, but some of the little points that I wished to speak on have just been covered.

SENATOR TICKLER: Have you anything to say, Dr. Loos?

DR. LOOS: I just wanted to make a short remark about personal relations. Professor Hugh Netter, of the California University, makes a very careful survey of medical insurance and health insurance, and he states that he is at a loss to understand what that personal relationship is that exists between doctor and patient. He states that the intelligent man of the present time seeks his medical help not as a faith healer, but as one expert to treat him when he is sick. However, I as a doctor feel that that relationship is most necessary in the proper conduct of a case of illness. In our institution I believe that we have retained that relationship between patient and doctor, perhaps in a better manner than prevail with the railroad systems. Ours is purely voluntary. Please physicians who come to take our services do so; those who do not care to take it in the working group with whom we have an agreement do not take this service. Therefore, those people who come to us voluntarily as subscribers soon come to look upon the doctor that is treating them a great deal as the patient in a small village looks to the village physician. I believe that that relationship is more necessary in an institution such as ours than it is in general practice where there is sort of a transient clientele coming to the doctor's office. In our institution it is a steady clientele; the same people are coming month after month, and year after year, and see the same doctor, and there is a close relationship existing between the doctor and the patient in our institution, and it seems to remain so. As to the confidential nature of these things, it is quite right that any act should protect the confidence of the patient's illness with a doctor—that is most essential, and the medical profession will demand that. In our institution no history or diagnosis of a patient is ever revealed to any one else. I have an instance of where the chief of police of Los Angeles made a demand upon me to reveal a diagnosis of one of the policemen, and I refused. He got very angry, and would have arrested me if he had any sort of a charge that he could make. It happened that the policeman involved was not available; he merely had a little cold; there was nothing to hide, except that it was a rule of our establishment that no history, no diagnosis, no information about the sickness of an individual should ever be given to another party. So that point must be a part of any act that is put into effect. There must be the confidential relationship retained. As to the personal relationship between the doctor and the patient, that to me is entirely up to the doctor to inspire that confidence in the doctor, so that the patient will feel that relationship exists.

I feel that, first, we should express great gratitude to this Senate Investigating Committee that has seen fit to call upon us and others in making this study. I do not know of any other contemplated legislation that has been transpiring in this State, where as much time and care has been taken as has been taken by this committee, and the tolerance in which they have done it, and the allowance of all of us to aid them; and I feel that it is the duty of all of us to help this committee all we can, so we can get proper legislation along this line.

I would like to state first that I believe that the medical profession has gotten the worst end of everything for a long, long time. We have given of our service to the indigent; we have been open to all sorts of unfair malpractice suits; we have given our services to patients who could not pay; and it is high time that the medical profession itself was helped a little bit, if any one is going to be helped. We realize that the patient has got to be helped; but what about the doctor? He has got to have some consideration also; and I hope that something can be done in the way of legislation to help the doctor. He must be helped. Do you think for a minute that the work such as we are doing in the Ross-Loos medical group has been one of our own choosing? It is the result of conditions which have forced us, and will probably force others, to engage in. I deplore the fact that it is necessary, perhaps, to have a compulsory act of this kind. I personally would prefer to have it a voluntary system.

I was quite surprised yesterday at some statements that were made at this public hearing, that 40 per cent of the fee was necessary for promotional work.

Our institution is in its sixth year, and we have yet to spend one cent for the obtaining of subscribers or for advertising, as can be seen by our books and by the thousands of people whom we are servicing. At the present time we are servicing in our institution about 28,000 people. This is a voluntary proposition entirely. With us it has been satisfactory. Our people seem to be satisfied. We are making a living. If this is to be a compulsory health act, which I believe the time is almost making necessary, there are some questions that have to be answered before we know whether we will accept it. We may have to accept it; but I mean whether we will do so in the right spirit. If this is to be a compulsory act, I quite agree with Dr. French that it must not be through the intermediary of a middleman. Now, if it is to be compulsory, these questions must be answered, and the Legislature must answer them.

Are only employed individuals to be covered, through their employers paying for it, or through pay roll deductions of the worker himself?

Are the employees' dependents to be covered by this compulsory act?

What about the individual who certainly is entitled to such a service, if there is to be such a service, who is not employed by someone else? In case those people are to be included, how are we to collect from those individuals? Shall it be like the old poll tax? How will those people pay their money?

Now, when this money is paid in to the State, or the commission that is authorized to accept it, how are the doctors to be paid who do the work? Is this to be on a fee basis schedule?

How are the hospitals to be paid? What class of people are to be included, as to be eligible to this service? What are going to be the brackets within which the income of an individual entitles him to this service?

We quite agree that there should be free choice of physicians. I am heartily in accord with that. But if that becomes allowable, how is the individual to select the particular specialist that he may require? Would that not almost mean that every doctor would have to qualify as a specialist, in order that adequate care could be given to those people who seek his aid?

Those are the questions that must be answered, I believe, before the medical profession will feel that this is going to be a safe act. We must have some legislation along this line; and I, for one, appreciate the fact that we have the sort of a committee that we have, that is willing to listen to us and hear our opinions.

Questions have been asked me as to the cost of such a service as we are delivering. Our service is not as complete as your law would contemplate. We, briefly, give full coverage to the employee—all medicines, all drugs, hospitalization, ambulance service, X-ray, laboratory, and everything. To the dependent, they merely get service; they must pay for their hospital, their drugs, their dressings, their X-rays, and so forth.

Now, our service is not complete. It is far from complete. If this service is to be made complete, to cover the entire family, giving the dependent the same thing that, for instance, we give the employee, it is going to be very costly, as our figures will show. We have accumulated a vast amount of statistical data over our six years of experience, which data we feel it is only right that we should give to you if you care to use it. It is experience data, and tells what the cost of all these things has been, and what amount of profit can be expected from the fee that we charge. And it is very small. It would be cumbersome to bore this large gathering with figures.

I have with me Mr. Ingram, who has compiled this data for us, and this is available to you if you care to use it; but I feel that it would probably be boring to put it before this large group here.

I think that is all I have to say.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: May I ask a couple of questions, Doctor?

DR. LOOS: Yes.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Do you include dentistry in your service?

DR. LOOS: No, we do not include dentistry.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: What brackets do you particularly deal in?

DR. LOOS: I think the average pay of our subscribers is around $139 a month, though we do include in our groups—we take an entire group, regardless of the pay in that group. We have as subscribers people who have an income sufficient to pay their private physician. I feel that whatever act is enacted in the way of making a compulsory health service for our people, that there will always be room for the private practitioner in medicine.

We have very excellent public schools; yet there seems to be room for the private school; and I feel that this is not going to take all the practice of medicine by a long ways.

DR. SULLIVAN: Dr. Loos, how many people do you service per month?

DR. LOOS: Mr. Ingram, have you those figures?

DR. SULLIVAN: I believe it is about 655, if my memory is correct.

DR. LOOS: Yes, we have one doctor to 655 subscribers.

DR. SULLIVAN: And what you call subscribers are patients?

DR. LOOS: Yes.

DR. SULLIVAN: On that basis, or if you had 1000 persons in a dollar, just if it is a fact that the State of California would have a vacancy for approximately 1100 to 1200 doctors?

DR. LOOS: I made a report, which I have just with me. Dr. Phillips, do you have that report that I made to that research body in Washington?

DR. PHILLIPS: I haven't that with me; no.

DR. SULLIVAN: I have a very good memory for such matters, Dr. Phillips. I shall it. Can you verify that, Dr. Loos?

DR. LOOS: It was estimated that if the entire State of California were being serviced in the same manner as our small group by the Ross-Loos medical group, there would be room for about 1050 more doctors in the State of California than we have, and that the average net income of each one of those doctors above all of his office and running expenses, would be $400. I have those figures, but I haven't them with me.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Doctor, do you differentiate in your charges at all—do you make any differentiation between a man needing $130 or $175? Does it make any difference to you?

DR. LOOS: No, it is the same.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: It wouldn't make any difference?

DR. LOOS: It is $2 a month for everybody.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Thank you.

SENATOR TICKLE: Do you consider yourself quite satisfied by your position?

DR. LOOS: That is an awfully hard question to put to me. I do, well, all of us in our group do, but, as you understand, we are under indictment at the present time for being unethical.

SENATOR TICKLE: I understand.

DR. LOOS: And I would much prefer if that were not brought up here.

SENATOR TICKLE: I was going to ask you to define the word "ethics," but I won't do it if it would embarrass you.

DR. LOOS: I would very much prefer not to have that brought up.

SENATOR TICKLE: All right, I won't do it, Doctor.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: You are excused. Thank you very much.

DR. WILSON: Mr. CHAIRMAN, as long as a transcript is being made of these proceedings, and since some of the men felt it was desirable to make the record, one of the men stated that by not reading it was an omission in the statement. And I am quite sure that Dr. Brown was not wish to have the county medical association, or the San Fernando plan on trial, but having been somewhat active in the San Fernando plan and the Los Angeles County Medical Association in their attempts to help the officials and representatives of the taxpayers in meeting the problem cases in the county, I would like to tell you that the change from the outpatient department of the health system was brought about by the fact that the county council ruled that it was illegal to expend money from the health department for curative work, and in response to that ruling we outlined a tentative program which became known as the San Fernando plan, which substituted office and domiciliary care for clinic care, and the workings of it have been so satisfactory that the board of supervisors, and the Superintendent of Welfare of Los Angeles County have asked the Los Angeles County Medical Association to take over the entire care of the problem cases in the county, and arrangements are almost completed at the request of the representatives of the Federal Government that we take over the entire indigent load in Los Angeles County on a somewhat similar basis. This I have told to Dr. Brown, and explained to him that there are differences of opinion, and that the profession have rather nobly come to the rescue of the taxpayer in the community; and we recognize that it is inadequate and experimental, but it has been as good as money was able to provide, and with the money that was available for the care of those people.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Thank you, Doctor.

DR. BROWN: May I ask Dr. Wilson if under this plan epidemic poliomyelitis would be taken care of by the Public Health Department, or—

DR. WILSON: The treatment is taken care of by private physicians of the city entirely.

DR. SULLIVAN: This is a relief measure, isn't it?

DR. WILSON: Entirely so.

DR. SULLIVAN: Similar to the ones going on in all States of the Union?

DR. WILSON: And yet they tell us if the medical profession can help them take care of the unusual load of the welfare department, the county will be solvent; and we are hoping that as a result of the extension of this plan whereby we may make physicians available in the homes of the needy, and in the offices of the physicians, we may be able to substitute a medical care which is adequate at a cost of a dollar or two dollars a week, instead of four dollars a day hospital cost, that is now necessary for some 20 to 40 per cent of hospital population in Los Angeles County because they are hospitalized through lack of adequate outside care, and it is to our discredit that chaotic conditions in relief agencies and governmental activities and medical societies, and so on, should make such relief delayed so long, but we are having similar economic difficulties applied to every other phase of life, and it isn't the failure of medical care, because we have, contrary to statements that have been made, instead of 1 to 650, we have nearly a physician for every 275 people available for care of sick people. It isn't a question of demand and supply. It is a question of money; the failure of the economic system to meet the conditions, because there are plenty physicians. And I wish to tell this group before we leave, it is much easier for a sick individual to receive medical care than it is for him to get clothing or shelter or food.

DR. SULLIVAN: I think it should be said, Dr. Wilson, that we recognize that the physicians—and are glad to announce it with a great deal of emphasis—the physicians are doing more than any other group to lighten the burdens of relief.

DR. WILSON: I would just like to make one more statement: Two years ago I had audited all relief agencies in Los Angeles County where medical care was given without any compensation to the profession—estimated it on a fee schedule basis, and the members of the Los Angeles County Medical Association are giving in excess of $10,000,000 worth of services to the needy in Los Angeles County, which is in excess of the amount that the community is expending for those same things.

SENATOR TICKLE: Then you think also, Doctor, if some plan were adopted that would enable the doctor to receive a better remuneration for his services, it would be only just?

DR. WILSON: Yes. I dislike very much, Senator Tickle, to express myself relative to the insurance, due to the fact that as a member of the committee I have attempted to the best of my ability to keep an absolutely open mind on the problem; but still reading, studying, and approaching it practically and theoretically and constantly, we must come to certain definite conclusions, and the failure of the individual to anticipate the necessary illness that is going to occur is at the root of this problem. We are too optimistic as individuals. We don't recognize the fact that some day we are going to be ill. Then, too, medicine has been debarred by its code of ethics from salesmanship and advertising, and the people have been encouraged to buy rides and automobiles, and various other things, which have become necessities, not luxuries, so that this problem is acute due to the necessary restraint that the profession imposed upon itself for the protection of the public. It is probable that an educational system to encourage people to save so that the aggregate accumulated savings might be pooled and used to meet the individual's incidence of illness would be a long drawn out, and very expensive procedure.

DR. BROWN: Mr. Chairman, may I just make one brief statement: There are 137,000 dependents in the city of Los Angeles—is that right? There are 137,000 units of dependency in Los Angeles. That represents about 400,000 people. There are about 2200 men in the county hospital. Two per cent of the 400,000, or about 8000, are sick all of the time. They don't require hospitalization, but they do require some medical consideration.

Now, let us help Los Angeles clean up its very difficult problem. It has a hospital second to none in the United States for its dependents. It has overdone the thing this way and that way, in every conceivable way. It has paid $16,000,000, has it not, for its hospital?

DR. WILSON: Pardon me, Doctor?

DR. BROWN: It paid about $16,000,000 for its hospital, did it not?

DR. WILSON: Well, there is a lot of dispute about that.

DR. BROWN: Well, it paid a lot—entirely too much for the hospital.

SENATOR TICKLE: Did it all go into the building?

DR. BROWN: No, I presume not. Every type of individual can walk into that hospital and be taken care of. The great problem in Los Angeles is to take care of the man in the lower income brackets. Under the present conditions the Government is hiring some persons. It is offering to pay to the Los Angeles County Medical Association for their care, and it will be Dr. Wilson's business, and those who are working with him, to do it well; it is going to be their responsibility to see that that experiment that we will look at from all over the United States is carried out as successfully as some private organizations have carried out their work.

People often say to me, "How long have you worked for the Southern Pacific?" "Thirty years." They say, "Why so long?" Well, I probably deliver the goods about as well as the average man would. If I didn't, I know that I would lose the job right away. As an engineer you can't make more than a certain number of mistakes, and you are out. I have no doubt in the world that Dr. Coffey, friendly as he has been to me for many years, would get rid of me if I made too many mistakes. Now, there must be supervision. There must be something that the Los Angeles County Medical Society can give to that scheme, if you or your leaders in the medical profession take hold of it and stand back of you, and make that experiment something that we can all learn from.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Is there any other person who wishes to address the committee? Maybe Dr. Coffey wants to answer Dr. Brown.

DR. COFFEY: I would not get rid of my own brother if his life's work is put into jeopardy. I will say, gentlemen, that I am delighted, as you mentioned yesterday, that I was one of the originators of the committee organized in the Senate that produced all this useful investigation. I am much delighted now I am here here before, because I have my profession. As I was in 1910, I got out of my profession. I saw the disagreement, the legitimacy thing, and so on. We have many different opinions and as we are individualists we express them as freely as at home. But always we try to do the best we can, trying our best. I was anxious to bring together my profession to discuss a problem, and say a thing. I am proud ahead of us, as I did in consequence. I want my profession to take part and help all they can with their experience in discussing social legislation.

SENATOR TIERCE: In answer to that, Doctor Coffey, I would like to see that your committee and its able constituents, Dr. Sullivan, has undertaken to do the duty to the State as a whole, to the people, the Legislature and the medical profession. We have always been struggling to get a better system as we have been in every other group, we are struggling to solve this problem, knowing it must appear that the greatest interest of the State is the health of the people. The work that I have done has brought me very close to Dr. Sullivan here, and I think you have a greater champion in the State of California than anywhere else. The public health and all the agencies of medical science have the doctors. He has at all times counseled with me, and he has the same knowledge and most sympathetic understanding of the problem in front of me. Now I have your society and you fought this battle, he has fought it honestly and bravely, and I know because I have worked with him for the past two years.

We are going to adjourn this meeting. It has brought a great many of us a little closer together and given us a closer understanding of our common interests.

It is not socially sound or safe for the State to stand idly by while the wealth of its present and future citizens is sacrificed to the medical profession, and a considerable percentage of children as well as adults have no resources. Those of you who are willing to face the facts know that a majority of physicians, dentists and nurses is receiving very inadequate incomes and that hospitals, clinics and other institutional agencies of medicine are everywhere bankrupt.

The health of the people is the wealth of the State, and the right to health is as far as an enlightened body of medical science can make that right should be the inalienable privilege of all citizens of a State as to property and education. And I am here to tell you that so far as possible within my power I am not going to resign to trail but to take the leadership and become the champion for whom Senate action by enacting during the fifty-four session of the Legislature an adequate and equitable health insurance program that will be administered by an independent board so that the medical profession will have just representation, and will not be handicapped or handicapped by and hope that will have the double value of giving patients medical care at reasonable rates to the people and adequate payment to the physicians and hospitals that furnish the care. (Applause.)

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Is there anyone else who would like to make a statement here for the record? If so, we would be very glad to hear them speak. If not, the future meetings of this committee will be held in Sacramento. The Senators will give you the information as to when these meetings will be held. I certainly thank all of you for the very considerable amount of information that you have given us.

If there is no other person who wishes to address the committee, we will stand adjourned.

DR. WILSON: May I thank you for the committee of two, and I speak for the council committee, and assure you again that our facilities and efforts will be at your disposal?

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: I was very much interested, Doctor, in your statement of the difficulties that you are trying to encompass and get over.

If there is any person who has anything further to say, we would like to hear them, and take all the time that is necessary.

MRS. GARDEN: I was sent here by the Los Angeles County Farm Bureau, but Mr. Ellsworth spoke yesterday for the farm bureau, but I would just like to say a word as an individual:

I want to thank you on behalf of the people of California who will be benefited by your investigation, and the way you are going about it, and the sympathetic interest you are taking in it.

MR. ALBERT E. LOMBARD (Christian Science Committee on Publication for South-eastern California): I move a rising vote of thanks to the committee.

(All persons in room arose in response to Mr. Lombard's motion.)

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS: Thank you on behalf of the committee.

The meeting will stand adjourned until further notice from Dr. Sullivan.

WHEREAS, The California Medical Economic Survey Committee has reported that the information thus far gathered indicates that all hospitals should cooperate in establishing adequate systems of health service insurance; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Western Hospital Association recommend its board assist in approving the development of adequate systems of health service insurance; be it further

Resolved, That the California Senate Committee be encouraged to sponsor the enactment of remedial legislation which will give the people of California a system of health service insurance which will provide adequate medical and hospital services on a monthly budgetable basis for the utilization of the insurance principle.

Unanimously adopted by delegates at final convention, Western Hospital Association, in San Francisco, February 22, 1935.

Resolution Adopted by California Medical Association, House of Delegates, March 3, 1935.

WHEREAS, The studies of the committee of five of the California Medical Association, have shown the inability of a certain percentage of our population to adequately finance the costs entailed by illness; and

WHEREAS, Because of this economic situation proper medical care is beyond the reach of this population group; and

WHEREAS, It has been established that this problem can be alleviated by the utilization of the insurance principle; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Delegates of the California Medical Association recommends that legislation be proposed seeking to establish a health insurance system mandatory as to certain population groups, and voluntary as to certain population groups which shall include the following principles:

1. The patient shall have absolutely free choice of physician and hospital.
2. The medical profession shall determine the scope, the extent, standards, quality, compensation paid for and all other matters and things related to the medical and medical auxiliary services rendered under this system.

3. There shall be no provision for cash benefit.

4. The patient shall receive adequate treatment and the physician shall receive adequate compensation.

5. The foregoing principles shall be maintained with such modifications thereof as may from time to time be recommended or approved by the profession; be it further

6. Resolved, That the California Medical Association offer its full aid and cooperation to the interim committee of the Senate of the State of California charged with the study of this problem to the end that any measure which shall be passed establishing a health insurance system at the 1935 session of the California Legislature shall contain the above principles; and be it further

Resolved, That there be formed a special committee authorized and empowered to act herein, constituted as follows: The legislative committee of the association and three members of the association to be appointed by the Speaker of the House of Delegates.

Resolution Unanimously Adopted by House of Delegates, California Medical Association.

Resolved, That the House of Delegates of the California Medical Association in special session assembled at Los Angeles, California, this third day of March, 1935 hereby expresses its thanks and appreciation to the interim committee of the Senate of the State of California, consisting of Hon. Dan E. Williams, chairman, Hon. Edward H. Tickle, and the Honorable Leonard Dufray and Dr. Christine J. Sullivan, coordinator-secretary of said Senate committee, for its cooperation with the committee of five and the council of this association in the study of problems of sickness costs and sickness insurance.

EDWARD M. PALLETTE, M.D., Speaker of House of Delegates

WHEREAS, The studies of the California medical economic survey have shown the inability of a certain percentage of our population to adequately finance the cost entailed by dental services; and

WHEREAS, Because of this economic situation it appears that proper dental care is beyond the reach of this population group; and

WHEREAS, It has been established that this problem can be alleviated by the utilization of the insurance principle; and

WHEREAS, A resolution of parallel intention has been adopted by the California Medical Association covering medical and hospital attention; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the councils of the California and Southern California State Dental associations recommend that legislation be proposed seeking to establish a health insurance system, mandatory as to certain population groups and voluntary as to certain population groups, which shall include the following principles:

No. 1—The patient shall have absolutely free choice of dentist and hospital.

No. 2—The dental professions shall through their representative organization determine the scope, extent, standards, quality, compensation paid for, and all other matters and things related to, dental, and dental auxiliary services rendered under the system.

No. 3—There shall be no provision for cash benefits.

No. 4—The patient shall receive adequate treatment and his dentist shall receive adequate compensation.

No. 5—The foregoing principles shall be maintained with such modifications thereof as may from time to time be recommended, or approved by the profession; and be it further

Resolved, That the California and Southern California State Dental associations immediately offer their full aid and cooperation to the interim committee of the Senate of the State of California charged with the study of this problem and the California Medical Association to the end that any measure which shall be passed establishing a health insurance system at the 1935 session of the California Legislature shall contain the above principles; and be it further

Resolved, That there be formed a special committee authorized and empowered to act herein, constituted as follows: The presidents of the California and Southern California State Dental associations, the chairmen of the legislative committees of the California and Southern California State Dental associations, J. Franklyn Cook, and Ernest G. Sloman.

Adopted March 10, 1935.

Resolution by the California State Nurses Association.

Resolved, That the board of directors of the California State Nurses' Association do on record as approving the principle of health insurance; and be it

Resolved, That any plan of health insurance adopted shall provide for adequate nursing service; and be it

Resolved, That such nursing service be supplied only by nurses registered in the State of California; and be it

Resolved, That machinery be set up for the direction and standardization of such nursing service.

APPENDIX D.

California Medical-Economic Survey.

When the staff of the California Medical-Economic Survey took up its duties in August, 1934, it announced among the purposes of the research work to be undertaken, the following:

1. To ascertain the amount paid by various classes of income receivers in California for medical and dental care.
2. To determine the ability of various income groups in California—
 - (a) To pay for health and dental services.
 - (b) To secure adequate medical and dental care.
3. To review methods of meeting the problem of medical care in various localities within the State, in other States, and in other countries.

Authorized by the State Department of Public Health, the California Medical Economic Survey has, among its staff, the following men whose character and ability give us assurance of reliable information:

Paul A. Dodd, Ph.D., Director of the Survey, Assistant Professor of Economics, University of California at Los Angeles.

Gordon S. Watkins, Ph.D., Consulting Economist, Professor of Economics, University of California at Los Angeles.

Advisory Council.

John B. Canning, Ph.D., Professor of Economics, Stanford University.

Arthur G. Coons, Ph.D., Dean of Men and Associate Professor of Economics, Occidental College.

Rockwell D. Hunt, Ph.D., Dean of the Graduate School, University of Southern California.

The Reverend James J. Lyons, S.J., President of the University of Santa Clara.

Samuel C. May, Ph.D., Professor of Political Science, Director of the Bureau of Public Administration, University of California.

California Medical Association Committee of Five for the Study of Medical Care.

William R. Molony, M.D., Chairman, Los Angeles.

Harry H. Wilson, M.D., Secretary, Los Angeles.

Alson R. Kilgore, M.D., San Francisco.

Robert A. Peers, M.D., Colfax.

Rodney A. Yoell, M.D., San Francisco.

The field survey phase of the staff's study has been limited to the State of California; but the broader economic aspects of the problem of medical and dental care involving a study of methods and procedures for their extension to large areas. These statistical data relating to the health and economic conditions of California, its diseases, dentists, hospitals, clinics, etc., have been carefully collected from the records of individuals and organizations within the State. But on the other hand, all the facts and information relating to conditions of economic status in various parts of the State have been secured wherever such information has been available. In other words, the statistical picture presented is one of conditions obtained within California, while the results of experience and experiment elsewhere have been studied wherever it has been possible to secure records of them.

The study is based upon four types of data. One is composed of individual returns for information from the public and from the various municipal, county and institutions related to the broad field of medicine and dentistry. The forms of general schedules have been used in receiving information from the members of medical and dental societies; the first for use by individuals in personal contact with the individual family, and the second for use by the family doctor or through the agent or through some representative organization. Upon these two forms information has been obtained concerning the economic and health conditions, such as income, principal ailments, treatment, expenditures, etc., of families throughout the State.

In addition to these general schedules for the public a specially prepared schedule was constructed for receiving data to be secured from the various medical societies, dentists, another for the hospitals of the State, and still another for clinics.

All of these schedules were drawn up with the greatest possible care. Each form was compared with those used previously in similar studies, such as suggested by its respective group of doctors, dentists, hospital officials, or other known organizations and suggestions. Furthermore, these forms were submitted also to a member of the advisory council, and to the numerous learned disinterested officials of the State and the Federal Government, Bureau of Census, etc. These forms were finally approved by these qualified individuals before being placed by the staff for general use. It might also be added that in the case of the general schedule special pre-test runs were made in the field before the final forms were printed so that in most of the indefinite questions as possible might be clarified, and changes that might be made before the forms were sent to final use. Careful review and revision of questions from the general schedule have been made with a view to minimize duplications and coordinate the information requested on the different schedules with that obtained by other studies of a somewhat general nature.

The objectives to which the staff was committed necessitated very extensive investigation and study. A mass of data has been gathered which is generally presented in tables and charts in this appendix. The field work for about half a year of 1934 workers was engaged for the field work throughout the State, and that 75 have been employed in the central office on relief work. Of the 600 individuals employed in these operations, 29 were supervisors, 43 were office stenographers, 100 doctors and clerks; and 610 were field visitors.

The following selected facts from the California Medical Economics Survey tend to emphasize facts discovered by other surveys and to demonstrate that a large percentage of the people of California is not receiving adequate medical care and that no matter how honorably the medical profession may endeavor to combat all the service required, changed conditions make impossible the economic situation. It is a reasonable and in fact to expect physicians to small incomes to carry increasing burdens. It seems entirely clear that legislative action is necessary for these conditions and can not safely be ignored.

Almost one-third of the doctors of medicine earned less than $1,000 in 1934. Half of them earned less than $3,000, and three-fourths less than $5,000.

Medical practice is not a trade or a business engaged in for profit. It is a profession, and medical service is more beneficent than any service rendered for profit. Business and society have accepted with too much complacency the free services of the medical profession for the indigent and parts of society and the underpaid and cast-offs of business. California had, in 1927, a higher percentage of physicians to population than any other State in the United States, or any nation in the world.

In California in 1934 there were 551 persons per doctor of medicine in six metropolitan counties, while for the State as a whole, there were 625 persons per doctor of medicine.

In 1934 doctors of medicine in the State were almost twice as numerous as dentists, three times as numerous as chiropractors, and seven times as numerous as doctors of osteopathy.

The proportion of practitioners in Los Angeles in 1934 was four times as great as in communities of less than 5,000.

Over 40 per cent of all practitioners in Los Angeles and San Francisco are doctors of medicine, and almost 25 per cent are dentists.

Rural areas including small urban centers have a greater hospital bed capacity in proportion to population than have urbanized communities.

Patients with ordinary illnesses, requiring the facilities of general, maternity and children's hospitals, have access to only half the hospital bed capacity of the State.

Three hundred ninety-nine hospitals reported a total bed capacity in 1933 of 61,053 beds, admitted 520,991 patients during the year, and had an average occupancy of 48,017 patients.

In 1933 all hospitals in California operated at about 79 per cent capacity. Government-owned hospitals operated at almost 90 per cent capacity, and nongovernment-owned operated at 53 per cent capacity.

The bed capacity of nongovernment-owned hospitals declined slightly from 17,362 in 1933 to 17,345 in 1934, while the bed capacity of government-owned hospitals increased from 43,691 in 1933 to 46,181 in 1934.

The number of patients admitted to nongovernment-owned hospitals in 1933 was almost as large as the number admitted to government-owned, while the bed capacity was less than half as large.

Approximately half the doctors of medicine reporting for both 1929 and 1933 earned less than $6,000 in 1929, while three-fourths earned less than $6,000 in 1933. Twenty-five per cent earned over $9,000 in 1929 and only 10 per cent in 1933.

In 1933 one-half of the osteopaths had incomes of less than $2,000. Eighty-six per cent of them earned less than $4,000.

Five per cent of the doctors of osteopathy earned over $10,000 in 1929. None were in this income class in 1933. Fifty-one per cent of the osteopaths in 1929, and 85 per cent in 1933, earned less than $4,000.

Dentists appear to have earned less than doctors of medicine but more than osteopaths, in both 1929 and 1933.

In 1933, 34 per cent of the dentists earned less than $2,000, 61 per cent earned less than $3,000, and 78 per cent earned less than $4,000.

Only 13 per cent of the dentists reporting incomes for both 1929 and 1933 earned less than $2,000 in 1929; but in 1933, the proportion was 30 per cent. Forty-four per cent earned less than $4,000 in 1929, as compared with 76 per cent in 1933.

The depression seems to have affected the incomes of dentists and osteopaths more than those of doctors of medicine.

Eighty-one per cent of the 4882 families upon which information has been tabulated reported annual incomes in 1933 of less than $2,000. Of these 26 per cent had incomes ranging from $2,000 to $1,200, and 55 per cent had incomes of less than $1,200.

Out of the 19 per cent of families found to have incomes of over $2,000 in 1933, 11 per cent had incomes ranging from $2,000 to $3,000, 5 per cent had from $3,000 to $5,000, and nearly 3 per cent had incomes of $5,000 and over.

Of all persons in the income class under $1,200, 17.3 per cent required medical attention in contrast to the 8.6 per cent of persons in the income class of $5,000 and over.

No significant differences in the need for medical care appear among the income classes between $1,200 and $5,000. The proportion of persons needing medical attention who received a diagnosis is smallest in the low income classes and greatest in the high income classes.

Twelve and three-tenths per cent of all persons in the income class under $1,200 were reported as requiring dental attention against 4.4 per cent in the class of $5,000 and over.

The proportion of persons needing dental attention who received a diagnosis varies with income, and relatively more sharply so than those reporting a need for medical attention who received a diagnosis.

Only 21.2 per cent of the income class under $1,200 needing dental attention were receiving it, while 60.3 per cent of those in the $3,000 to $5,000 class who reported the need for treatment were receiving it.

Twenty-five and seven-tenths per cent of all families studied reported no medical and dental charges had been incurred within the period September 1, 1933, to September 1, 1934. This does not necessarily mean, however, that they were receiving no medical care, for some may have received free clinical attention or free services from members of the professions.

The proportion of families reporting no charges incurred during a one year period varies from 33.4 per cent in the group under $1,200, to 10.4 per cent in the group of $5,000 and over.

Of the families receiving less than $1,200 in 1933, 15 per cent reported that charges ranged between $20 and $40; 8 per cent reported charges of $100 to $200; 3.8 per cent or 103 families reported charges of between $200 and $500; 23 families reported charges between $500 and $1,000, and 9 families reported charges of over $1,000.

Medical charges amounted to a proportion varying from half to all of the reported income of 32 of the families incurring charges of over $500. Of the families reporting incomes in 1933 ranging from $1,200 to $2,000, 15 per cent reported medical and dental charges from $100 to $200, while another 8 per cent reported charges of $200 to $500.

In the income group between $2,000 and $3,000, 16 per cent of the families incurred charges between $100 and $200, and 14 per cent incurred charges between $200 and $500.

The devotion and self-sacrifice of the medical profession in giving free services have received merited praise. The theory has been stated many times that the medical profession would and could render services to every citizen regardless of ability to pay. The facts developed by our Senate committee and by the several surveys make that theory untenable and impracticable.

Every civilized country in the world, except our own, has worked out at least a partial solution by distributing the costs of medical care through the medium of either of insurance. Why not have progressive California lead the way and other States will follow?

As pointed out elsewhere in this report, the United States stands in a position of unenviable isolation in its delay in giving official recognition to a principle which is almost axiomatic in the advanced countries of the world, namely, that, granted, the majority of the population is unable financially to meet the costs of illness as an individual liability. Since the incidence of illness, like the hazards of fire, theft, accident, or death is unpredictable for the individual, some collective liability must be established through insurance to meet the costs for a large group whose collective rates of illness and annual medical bills can be anticipated on an actuarial basis. The economic depression has intensified the need for action in the United States. Medical practitioners, and hospital officials—many of whom have for years been concerned with the problems of empty waiting rooms, overcrowded beds, mounting costs of maintaining equipment and facilities in readiness for service—have realized that action must be taken to coordinate supply and the urgent demand for needed medical services.

APPENDIX D.

Table I.

VARIATIONS IN COST OF MEDICAL CARE TO FAMILIES FOR THE YEAR SEPTEMBER 1, 1933, TO SEPTEMBER 1, 1934, BY 1933 FAMILY INCOME.
 Percentage Distributions of Families According to Charges Incurred for All Medical and Dental Care Between September 1, 1933, and September 1, 1934; Based on Records for 18,317 White Families of Known 1933 Income and Known Community Surveyed Once Between October 1 and December 31, 1934.

The above table contains evidence of the need for the application of the insurance principle in order to meet the unpredictable costs of illness. Note the large variations of charges that accompany illness in all income groups. Observe that illnesses incurred during the course of only one year cost certain families practically the entire annual income of the family! The disastrous consequences that flow from the present system are felt not only by the individuals and families that are victims of the uneven burdens of medical costs but also by the community at large.
